Niles, March 23.—The waters of the St. Joseph river are rapidly receding, and many business men assert that the reports of threatened damage have been greatly exaggerated. They say the water has been no higher than it has been nearly every spring, and that there has never been any fear of the dam being washed away. Mills and factories along the river which have suspended work will soon resume.

Fruit Buds in Danger.

St. Joseph, March 23.—A severe northwest storm struck this vicinity Tuesday night. The thermometer fell 20 degrees in three hours. The warm weather of the past three weeks has caused the fruit buds to swell, and fears are entertained by the fruit growers that the crop will be ruined. Two hundred thousand dollars is the conservative estimate of the loss to the fruit belt in case of a freeze.

Perished in a Blizzard.

Battle Creek, March 21.—A. C. Dunton, of this city, who went to West Branch, Ogemaw county, to take up homestead, disappeared in the blizzard of January 31. Nothing was heard of him until Friday, when his body was found in the woods. The Maccabees of this city sent two men to search for the body. The remains were brought here.

Clergyman Robbed.

Chicago, Ill., March 19.—Rev. A. J. Weatherwax, pastor of the First Methodist church of St. Joseph, Mich., was robbed of a gold watch worth $150 on a State street car. Central station detectives are searching pawnshops for a trace of the timepiece. The clergyman was unable to tell when or how the watch was taken.

Life Policies Unpaid.

Saginaw, March 21.—The Home Security Life association, an investment and insurance company that has been doing business here for six years, is in trouble. It has refused payment on six-year $1,000 certificates that are maturing from day to day and a damage suit has been started by Mrs. Martha Sewart for $2,500. More will follow.

Accused of Starving a Child.

Grand Rapids, March 18. — George Mitchell (colored) and his wife were arrested here, accused of killing their child by starvation.

EXTRA SESSION CONVENES

The State Legislature Assembles in Response to the Call of Governor Pingree.

PRINCIPAL POINTS IN HIS MESSAGE.

Reviews the Subject of Railway Taxation and Urges the Lawmakers to Act for Equal Justice—The Bill He Favors Introduced in Both Houses.

Lansing, March 23.—Both houses convened in special session at noon Tuesday, and after the usual organization committees were appointed and each house and the governor duly notified of the organization, a recess was taken until 2:30 p. m., when the governor read his message, which occupied nearly two hours.

Gov. Pingree's Message.

The message of Gov. Pingree was an exhaustive treatise on railway taxation or tax evasion. In part it follows:

"You are called upon to consider the question of taxing railroad companies, express companies, telephone companies and telegraph companies, and for no other purpose. I deem the occasion an extraordinary one. The inequality of our system of taxation is so great that it should not be permitted to continue for another year.

"The first essential of just taxation is that it shall be equal. To exempt one person from taxation is to rob another. To provide a low rate for one and a high rate for another is despotic.

The Situation in Brief.

"We are confronted with this situation: The ordinary taxpayers of the state are bearing an annual burden of three per cent. upon the value of their property. The railroad companies are paying less than one-quarter of one per cent. upon their properties and less than one-eleventh of the proportion borne by others. One set of taxpayers are bearing an excessive share of the public burdens. Another set of taxpayers are almost exempted from any share."

What Roads Have Received.

After citing, categorically, all the principal land grant and sumptuary enactments of the state in behalf of the railways, the governor continues:

"These acts are only samples of many to be found in our statute books during that period of plunder and spoliation. They followed each other in rapid succession until the generous gifts of the national government to the state had been absorbed by the railroad companies, and until the lands in the hands of the railroad companies had become exempt from all taxation. Under what pretense can the railroad companies of this state, after having received these generous gifts, ask to be exempted from their contract obligations? How can any honest man now object to making the companies thus richly endowed by the state pay at least their share of the public burdens? They have already reaped a golden harvest from these gifts. They have realized enormous sums from the sale of timber lands and its transportation to market, and from the sale of mineral lands and the transportation of ores.

"We have no right to tax the whole people for the benefit of a few. We have no right to relieve railroads of taxation, or, in other words, to make the other taxpayers pay the taxes which railroads should pay to benefit those who ship freight or ride on railroads. The rules of honesty require that every man should pay his share of the taxes and that every dollar's worth of property of every kind should bear its equal proportion.

Other Lines of Reform.

"The taxes paid by railroad companies, express companies, telegraph and telephone companies under the present system are devoted to the primary-school fund. I respectfully recommend to you that the taxes to be collected under any act which you may pass be devoted to the same purpose, and be paid direct to the school districts of the state in proportion to the number of school children. As I have already pointed out, the state has made great sacrifices to establish railroads. Many of the municipalities have made large donations for the same purpose. It is only just that those parts of the state which have no depots or other valuable railroad property should receive something in return for the sacrifices in which they have shared. The return can be made in no better way than by devoting the taxes collected to the primary-school fund, in which all the people of the state are intensely interested. In many parts of the state the people are unable to maintain schools except for a few months. If these corporations are made to bear their proper proportion of taxation and the money collected from them is devoted to the primary-school fund, it will enable districts where schools are now maintained only for a few months to maintain them for a longer period, and in all parts of the state will assist the taxpayer in defraying the expenses of education.

Recommendations.

"I recommend that you authorize the appointment of a state board of five, to be non-partisan if the constitution permits, which shall be empowered to make a just and equitable valuation of the franchises and other property of railroad companies, express companies, telegraph and telephone companies at their true cash value, and to ascertain the average rate of taxes paid by the other people of the state for state, county and municipal purposes, and to assess the property of these companies at that rate, the moneys collected to be paid directly to the state treasurer and by him distributed in the same manner as the moneys now collected from specific taxes.

"In conclusion I desire earnestly to urge this duty upon you in the name of equality and justice. I trust that prejudices for or against corporations will have no part in your deliberations. Michigan should be absolutely just. Natural and artificial persons, whether rich or poor, resident or non-resident, are entitled to the same treatment before the law."

Pingree's Bill Introduced.

Gov. Pingree's bill to tax the property of railroads, express, telephone and telegraph companies at its true cash value was introduced in both houses and the senate late in the afternoon. The house showed its friendliness to the measure by referring it by a nearly unanimous vote to a committee of which its author, Col. Atkinson, is chairman, while the motion to refer to a special committee was defeated by a vote of two to one in the senate, where it went to the joint committee on taxation, railroads and banks and corporations.

Every one concedes that the bill will pass the house just as it came from the governor. The situation is different in the senate, where the anti-Pingree sentiment is still strong. It is nevertheless believed that it will pass that body also if the power to appoint the board of assessors is taken from the governor, or the bill amended so as to give the senate the right to confirm.

GIRL'S SPRING COAT.

It Is Durable and Becoming and Can Be Worn to School as Well as at Play.

A spring coat for a small girl is made of tan broadcloth. The coat is very full around the foot, which is produced by the insertion of small gores at the side seams front and back. Should the coat be made seamless the gores can be set in in "V" shape.

There are broad revers covered with linen embroidery upon this coat.

The bonnet is of black tan straw lined with old rose silk. It is trimmed with bunches of mignonette. The combination of tan, old rose and mignonette is a very pretty one, and when the old rose ribbons are repeated under the chin the effect is indescribably becoming to the little maid. She can wear a little slip of green underneath, and her leggings can be made of the same material as her coat if desired, or they can match the green of the mignonette on her hat.

LITTLE GIRL'S SPRING COAT.

Throughout the costume the perfect harmony in tan, green and rose is preserved.

IN THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

Some Reasons Why Women Are Infinitely More Successful Teachers Than Men.

"The chief and underlying cause of 'The Decay of the Sunday-School,'" says Edward Bok in Ladies' Home Journal, "is the selection of incapable and incompetent men as superintendents. If men of broader views and keener perceptions were superintendents of our Sunday schools, the necessity for a few changes in the teachers would at once be apparent, and they would be promptly made," writes Mr. Bok. "One of these changes would be that the masculine element in the active conduct would begin and end with a superintendent, a competent assistant or two, and a systematic librarian. The sooner that our churches realize that women, and women alone, should be the teachers of the young in their schools, the nearer they will come to the ideal condition. The more a woman has to do with a child, the better for the child. And the more sympathetic, tender and well-bred women and the fewer men we have as teachers in our Sunday schools, the better it will be for the children and the schools. But no woman, occupied in business during the week, should, either of her own volition or under pressure, allow herself to be permitted to act as teacher in a Sunday school. When a woman is engaged in business for six days of a week her Sunday should be to her a day of rest. Her place in church or school on Sunday should be that of auditor; not of worker. . . . A little higher order of intelligence is vitally necessary in our Sunday school classes. We demand this of our teachers in our secular schools, and parents have a right to ask it of the Sunday school. It is not enough that the Sunday school-teacher should be spiritual; she must have intelligence wherewith to apply her spirituality to the very best advantage and by the most attractive methods. Young girls are to-day teachers who should be in classes. To bring home a spiritual lesson to the mind of a child is not play; it is an art, and calls for experience with children, a knowledge of human nature, an understanding of the very highest and deepest truths of life."

Don'ts for Dyspeptics.

Those who are suffering from indigestion cannot fail to be benefited if they don't eat: Boiled coffee, boiled tea, all sweets, fried foods, white bread, crackers, cakes, acid fruits, pork in all forms, veal, turkey, duck, cooked cabbage, beets, green corn, potatoes, pickles, spiced foods, gelatine desserts, red or dark fish, salt foods, all the crustacea, clams, raw or fried oysters; and refrain from drinking iced water, acid drinks, flavored soda water.—Mrs. S. T. Rorer, in Ladies' Home Journal.

How to Ventilate a Room.

Raise the lower sash of the window and place in front of the opening at the bottom a piece of wood of any desired width. This leaves a corresponding space between the meeting sashes in the middle of the window through which the current of air is directed toward the ceiling. This is especially recommended for an invalid's room.

BLACKBERRY PRUNING.

A Subject on Which Fruit Growers and Others Seem to Need a Little Information.

I think you will agree with me that this is a subject on which a large majority of those who have a few plants in their gardens and also some that claim to be professional gardeners seem to need a little information; the proof of this assertion we find in almost every family blackberry patch, and often in the fields of those growing them for market.

The mistake often made in pruning blackberry canes is to cut them too short. Our observation and experience is that we often prune too closely even when we think we are cutting them rather long. There are in most varieties several buds on each lateral branch nearest the main stem that very seldom produce any fruit, often those nearest the main stem remaining dormant when properly, not severely, pruned. There are also in many cases several buds on the main stem, just above the highest lateral branch, which has slightly started to grow in the fall, yet did not make lateral branches. These will not produce any fruit. The main stem above the lateral branches should therefore be left long enough to secure some good buds above the worthless ones above mentioned; if not it may as well be cut back to the upper lateral branch. This applies to canes that have been left to grow without summer pinching, which, by the way, we like best because the canes seem to be less liable to winter kill.

If the lateral branches are short and stout, with large plump buds clear to the tips, they need very little pruning, except when it is desirable to reduce the number of berries produced in order to have them grow larger and finer, as with such sorts as the Snyder, Taylor's Prolific and Wilson's Early, which are liable to overbear if not pruned enough, while Lawton, Kittatinny and many others of that class should be pruned long, in order to secure a full crop. In the drawing, which represents an old dead cane that bore fruit last summer, a is the main stem or cane, at b are several bad buds which have thrown out unproductive or blind shoots (e) from small buds at their base; c, c, c, show lateral branches that were pruned too short and having only blind shoots growing from them; d, d, are lateral branches that were not pruned, showing where the berries were produced last summer by the hulls still remaining on the short twigs; at c the main stem was cut, leaving a few (7) good buds on it.

The largest yield of very large and fine blackberries we had last summer was on a cluster of chance seedlings that had not been pruned; they grew in a thick mass, three or four varieties in one large clump; the clusters of berries were actually piled upon each other with the weight of fruits, making it difficult to gather them. If you want blackberries to yield large crops do not plant on rich soil; they are more hardy and productive on rather poor or elevated land. Give clean shallow culture, or thoroughly mulch, and last but not least, don't prune too closely.—Levi Bell, in American Gardening.

KEROSENE EMULSION.

How to Mix and Prepare the Standard Prescription and How to Apply It Properly.

The standard kerosene emulsion is prepared by dissolving one-half pound of common hard soap in one gallon of boiling water. Remove the soap solution from the fire while yet boiling and add two gallons of kerosene, emulsifying the mixture by passing it through a force pump with a spray nozzle back into the same vessel, until it assumes the appearance of thick cream and oil does not rise to the surface. For use against the common scale insects and others during the growing season, the standard emulsion, above given, is diluted, one part to ten of water—for some plant lice one part of the emulsion to 25 of water is sufficient. The degree of dilution may best be ascertained by experimenting on a small scale on the insects and the foliage to be sprayed. For use on animals one part of the emulsion to eight or ten parts of water is recommended. Kerosene emulsion is a contact insecticide, and in treating either infested plants or animals it must be borne in mind that only those insects hit by the preparation will be killed. The best method is to apply thoroughly to all infested parts with a spray pump, usually; the finer the spray, the more effective the treatment.—Country Gentleman.

THE WILD PERSIMMON.

A Native American Tree That Does Not Receive All of the Attention It Deserves.

The wild persimmon is widely distributed over the western and southern states, but up to the present time has signally failed to attract and receive the attention it really deserves; but this neglect does not detract one iota from its healthfulness and usefulness. From present indications it is slowly gaining favor with horticulturists; and at some time in the near future will be a staple product of the orchard and of considerable importance in the markets. A few enterprising fruit growers, Mr. Logan Martin among the number, have experimented by budding, and several years ago had 300 trees growing in his nursery.

In his report to the department of agriculture at Washington city, he says, the trees bear annually and the fruit finds a good market in Chicago and Indianapolis, at from one to two dollars per 12-pint case, shipped by express. To say the least, this is very encouraging, and should be sufficient incentive for further experimentation. There are several varieties, and much difference in their size and time of ripening. One variety is seedless. The tree is very tenacious of life, and lives to a good old age, wind storms and the extremes of heat and cold have but little influence upon them. From the above facts it appears there is a wide field for experimenting. Millions upon millions of the trees have been ruthlessly destroyed without a single thought of their usefulness and utility. On a farm owned by one of my neighbors there was a beautiful grove of them, consisting of at least 1,000 trees, where his children, his fowls, his cattle and hogs resorted in fruit time, and feasted, fattened and fared sumptuously every day, and now there is not one left. "Axman, spare that tree."—C. Glover, in Journal of Agriculture.

HINTS ABOUT PRUNING.

Correctly Trimmed Shrubs or Trees Start Into Healthy, Vigorous Growth at Once.

So well is the importance of pruning when transplanting understood by vegetable and fruit growers and nurserymen with their young seedling plants that it is common practice to shorten branches if trees and shrubs, or disleave if strawberries, cabbages, celery, etc. The same rule holds good with the flower gardener in growing young annual or other plants produced directly from the seed. With trees of considerable size, as shown by Fig. 1, this pruning may consist in thinning out all small brush and shoots crossing each other so as to leave the tree with a uniform top with one-half its original quantity. On the contrary, if the plant is an ordinary nursery shrub, as shown by Fig. 2, or a rose bush, Fig. 3, then shortening back all branches even to one-half or one-third of the entire growth is strongly recommended. We know with the bulk of amateurs after purchasing a bush two or three feet high, the cutting off of half the shoots is discouraging, but if they will experiment for themselves by leaving some unpruned and treat others as recommended, they will find the pruned shrubs or trees starting into vigorous growth at once.—Edgar Sanders, in Farm and Home.

PROPERLY PRUNED TREES AND SHRUBS.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Never pasture horses or cattle in a growing orchard.

Black cap raspberries do best when set out early in the spring.

Prune grape vines to two or three buds of last year's growth.

See that the young orchard trees are pruned into a proper shape now.

In setting out raspberries or blackberries give them plenty of room.

As a general rule it is better to plant young trees than to graft old ones.

A southerly or easterly sloping location is nearly always best for grapes.

One important step in renovating an old orchard is to secure proper drainage.

Put everything in the garden into rows; it will lessen the work of cultivation.

To grow the best quality of fruit, strawberries require plenty of moisture.

Grapes give an excellent return for the land and labor required to grow them.

Do not entirely forget the good old-fashioned sorts in setting out the apple orchard.

It is easier to plant out trees than to give them the necessary cultivation afterwards.

The currant and gooseberry are grown with the least trouble of any of the small fruits.

In the orchard scatter the manure under the trees as far out as the branches extend.

There is a good demand for currants as soon as they are big enough to pick, and on through the season.

In planting strawberries for market select the varieties that will give the longest season of ripening.

One of the cheapest and best remedies for plant lice is the kerosene and soap mixture.—St. Louis Republic.

MODERN SCIENCE.

Predictions for the Twentieth Century Are Broad.

It may be that we are, with respect to the coming century, in the same immature mental condition in which the people of the eighteenth century were with regard to the nineteenth, says the Popular Science Monthly. If some one in the preceding century had dared to predict the wonderful achievements of the nineteenth, he would probably have been declared a fool, and treated as was Robert Mayer, in Germany, in this century, who, after the discovery of the law of the conservation of force, was put into an insane asylum. A like fate might befall the man who should dare now to cast a horoscope for the twentieth century, and to predict the progress of the human mind in the various domains of scientific research. After all, those may be right who, in spite of all those acquisitions on which we so justly pride ourselves, are of opinion that we are still moving in only the initial steps, in the leading strings of evolution, and that we are yet very far from the goal of those material and ideal aims which the human race in its unremitting onward struggle is destined to attain, or to show its capacity of attaining. The great Sir Isaac Newton used, perhaps, the most appropriate simile when he compared men with children who on the seashore are picking up here and there a curious pebble or colored shell while the great sea of truth lies still unexplored before them. We can only conjecture as to the probable progress, as we cannot know which position we occupy in the course of human evolution, whether we are still in its beginnings or well advanced. This lies hidden in the bosom of the future.

DRAWING ON THE WALL.

A Rome Writer Says the Descriptions Have Been Exaggerated.

The Roman correspondent of the Berlin Tageblatt throws cold water on the exaggerated reports of the discovery by Prof. Marucchi of a drawing of the crucifixion on an ancient wall in the Eternal city. He says that the sketch is so faint that the outlines of the cross, as well as of the persons surrounding it, can be made out only with the aid of a magnifying glass, and then very imperfectly. To decipher the scene supposed to be represented, to say nothing of the inscription, requires a strong imagination. So far as the persons represented are concerned, it is quite possible to make out what they are doing. The hammer that Prof. Marucchi thought he saw in the hands of one of the soldiers climbing upon the cross might just as easily be a flag. Beneath this figure is to be read the name "Mistillus," or something like it. In the upper left-hand corner are to be seen the Roman numerals XI., IV. and V. A ladder is leaning against both crosses represented, and it is quite possible that the picture may be of a scene aboard ship. Of the supposed figure of Christ, the correspondent could see nothing at all. He could read plainly the name "Piletus." Plainly, also, appears through the confused mass of half-obliterated Latin and Greek inscriptions, though party injured by dilapidation of the wall, the name "Crestos" (Christus), behind which a large picture of a hammer plainly appears. The entrance to the room where this wall-drawing is found is under the so-called "Bridge of Caligula."

FINDS IN FIJI.

Exploration Party Discovers New Wonders on the Island.

A scientific exploration party in charge of Prof. Agassiz recently paid a visit to the Fiji islands, making some discoveries of much general interest, reports the Japan Gazette. At Marambo they located an extinct volcano, open on the north side. Dotted over the surface of the water in the crater were numerous mushroom-shaped rocks, and the water itself in the light of a burning sun revealed to the visitors hitherto unknown beauties of color. At Toloya a crater of an extinct volcano was found, into which the steamer could enter and sail around. Here, as in other places, the visitors were entertained with a "miki, miki," which seems to be something in the nature of a corroboree.

In the various lagoons visited dredging was resorted to for the purpose of securing specimens of coral and marine animalcule. On the rocks at the base of the Solos lighthouse, near the North Astrolabe reefs, at Kandava island, two sea snakes were caught by Capt. Thompson, who saw no less than ten of them in as many minutes.

The capture of several live specimens of bulolo, or coral worms, appeared to have caused much gratification to the searchers, who, aided by the natives in canoes, discovered them in thousands. The worm is said to dissolve after being about two hours on the surface. When the results of Prof. Agassiz's investigations are made public they will, doubtless, provide much interesting and valuable information.

Boston Men Kick Anyway.

The discipline of the older section of the country is not much more severe than that of the newly settled regions, where they think the easterners are absurdly finical and only a shade less fussy than the English. A hotel clerk beyond the Missouri once advised a Bostonian in a friendly spirit never to register from Boston. "Why?" the innocent Bostonian inquired. "Because," answered the clerk, "out here we always give a man from Boston the poorest room in the house. We know he is going to kick anyhow, and so we give him something to kick about."

SURE CURE FOR RHEUMATISM.

The statement that there is a cure for Rheumatism will be read with incredulity by the majority of people. However, it is a fact which we can prove. Rheumatism is a disease of the blood, and until that is thoroughly cleansed no one once affected with the disease can hope for relief. The remedy we offer is not a new discovery, but it has never been placed on the market in medicinal form. We know from personal observation that it has effected a permanent cure whenever tried and this is what suggested the idea of offering it to sufferers from rheumatism. The Sure Cure Rheumatic Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. They are warranted to cure the worst cases of rheumatism. Price, 50 cents a box. For sale by druggists or sent by mail on receipt of price. Send for free sample.

There never was a bait sprung on the public but some "fish" was ready to swallow it, hook and all. Suckers never will learn by experience that it is always the fellow who bites that gets worked, and some newspapers are no exception to the usual run of shad. What possible use can the average rambling thespian or shifting peddler have for a newspaper unless it is to work it for space? The cheaper it comes the better. When the young man who writes the Britton stuff for the Tecumseh HERALD reaches the age of maturity it is possible that he may learn that the less space he gives away the more he will have to sell; and also that if he will get off his hands and knees and stop licking people's heels, he will command more of the respect of the community at large.—Britton Citizen.

Neighbor, Editor Kellogg seems to have enjoyed several bad spells lately. First he pitches into about half of the residents of his own village, waxes mad over an innocent joke some of Britton's young ladies played on him and now winds up by attempting to pick a row with the innocent young man the HERALD sends to his village after news. Editor Kellogg may regard all Britton news as "stuff" but the HERALD regards items concerning the residents of our neighboring village as good news which is no doubt the reason why this paper visits so many homes in that vicinity each week. With all regard for the Britton editor's superior knowledge and an apology for the youthfulness and inexperience of the HERALD's representative, it is wrong for one of so much brain power to ruthlessly "jump on" the weak and we trust that the HERALD's Britton friends will put up with young Mr. Bowen until such time as a "Solomon" like our neighbor editor can be found to take his place.

A Card German.

Tecumseh has been especially lively in society circles during the last winter and the Card German given by Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Richmond Wednesday evening was a fitting end to the season's festivities. Double pedro was the game played, half the company engaging in cards and half in conversation all the time, and changing from one entertainment to the other by use of favors. During the entire evening music was furnished by the Lima Madolin Orchestra, Messrs. Will Foltz, J. A. Beall, Chas. Dornbaugh, Chas. DeVoe and Finley brothers, of Lima, all friends of Mr. Richmond. The home was decorated with potted plants, myrtle and cut flowers. The music was fine, favors novel, lunch superb, in all an evening's entertainment supremely enjoyable to everyone present. Present from out of town were Misses Frances Richmond, of Lima, O., and Daisy Griswold, of Spencerville, O.; Mrs. I. N. Pangle, of Lima; and Harry Richmond, of Tiffin.

RAILROAD NEWS.

Notes and Condensations Concerning the Railroads.

If the steam motors which are being built for the C. H. & D. and the Lima Northern prove to be the success that it is anticipated, there will be a decided reaction from electric power on suburban and street car lines. The new motors have many advantages over the trolley cars. It will not be necessary to maintain an expensive plant, and the deadly overhead wires will not be necessary. It only requires one man to operate the motors and they are equipped with a firing coal box which requires very little attention. With one firing these motors are guaranteed to run 40 miles and can easily attain a speed of 30 or 40 miles an hour.—Blade.

Jno. H. Seaman and L. M. Studevant, of New York, are registered at the Lilley house since yesterday. Reduced Freight Rates for Settlers

In order to encourage the movement of settlers and land buyers from Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa and the eastern states to Western Minnesota, South Dakota, and North Dakota, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Ry. Co. has very materially reduced its carload rates for emigrant movables, so that farmers who have purchased lands in Western Minnesota, South Dakota and North Dakota can take all of their belongings with them to their new homes at small expense, which inducement upon the part of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Ry, will no doubt be greatly appreciated by those who are thus benefited.

Deafness cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed. Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

The New Woman.

When the Lord sixty came
And a rib sole from Adam,
Giving even and me
And the first man a madam,

All beauty had birth,
And most that was human
And gladdening to earth
Came with the new woman.

New joy filled the land;
Single blessedness doubled;
Then the Lord stayed His hand

But now, with a man,
Man is asking, impassioned,
From what funny bone
Is THIS New Woman fashioned?

With physiology law
Her every nerve screams so,
If not man of her maw,
It really would seem so.

Does the New Woman, then,
In her singular rabies,
Find nothing in men—
Next to nothing in babies?

Alas and alack!
Oh Moses, and murther!
I'd see her old back,
And the New Woman further.

See, sisters, I kneel,
Though I don't often meddle,
And I pray, ease the wheel;
O woman, back pedal!

Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer is not propped up by fictitious or anonymous testimonials, but is demonstrating its curative powers every day in stubborn cases of chronic and acute dyspepsia among reputable citizens of your own county. Persons who have tried nearly all of the highly advertised preparations for stomach disorders, without relief, are now rejoicing over the speedy and permanent results of this new combined method treatment. If you are troubled with any form of stomach or nerve troubles a trial with Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer will substantiate all we claim for it. For sale by John J. Orr, leading druggist, Tecumseh, Mich. Read the following testimonial:

To all whom it may concern:

For the benefit of those suffering from stomach and nerve troubles I wish to give a brief statement of my own case. I have suffered from dyspepsia more or less for twelve years. My troubles were indigestion, sour stomach, and acid fermentation, associated with severe nervous difficulties, rendering sleep at times impossible. I tried many preparations recommended for my troubles, without relief. Recently I procured a package of Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer. I had taken the treatment only three days, when, to my surprise, I began to feel better in every way. I have used only one package, and can now eat and retain any kind of food with perfect comfort. I sleep undisturbed and feel refreshed in the morning, something I had not done before for years. I advise any person troubled with dyspepsia to try this treatment. Yours,

A MERCHANTS LETTER

To Dr. Hartman, President of the Surgical Hotel.

Marshall is a neat little city of 7,000 population in the State of Texas. Among its many enterprising merchants is Mr. V. E. Wyatt. In a recent letter to Dr. Hartman, Mr. Wyatt says: "I have been afflicted with la grippe four times and the last time was worse than the first. I began to think, after trying several remedies without any relief, that the disease could not be cured. I decided to try Pe-ru-na and got six bottles. The first bottle I took did me more good than all the medicines I had taken before. I recommend Pe-ru-na to all who are suffering with any disease it is advertised to cure. I am well and stout now. I want everybody afflicted as I was to know of the wonderful merits of Pe-ru-na." Unless treated by Pe-ru-na, la grippe leaves the system in a deplorable condition. It completely demoralizes the nervous system, deranges digestion and disturbs nearly every function of the body. Pe-ru-na is a perfect specific remedy for the after effects of la grippe.

For further testimonials, see book entitled "Facts and Faces," sent free by The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio.

$3,000,000 GONE IN A FLASH.

Klondike Telegraph Line Which Was Wrecked by the Atlantic Cable.

Long ago—in 1863-64—there was no cable between Europe and America. Transatlantic news—even during the exciting episodes of the civil war—was always about a fortnight old, says the London Mail. The attempt to make a cable connection had ended disastrously, and in this juncture of affairs was organized a gigantic enterprise, looking to the connection of the United States with Europe via Klondike and Behring sea. Most electricians and telegraph experts had made up their minds that 40 miles—which was the distance across the strait—represented the longest a submarine cable could be successfully worked.

A company was formed, and what was known in those days as Russian extension stock went off at a premium of 60 per cent. In 1865 the line between New Westminster and the Yukon river was surveyed, found to be practicable, and traversed completely the present Klondike region.

The line was expected to be finished in 1867. Even the tariff for messages was fixed at £5 ($25) per message. The receipts were estimated to yield about $9,000,000 per annum. The line was actually constructed from New Westminster along the present route of the Canadian Pacific railway to Ashcroft, where it was continued north toward Behring sea to Fort Stager, 300 or 400 miles beyond Quesnelle. This line is at this present moment in operation in a portion of the Cariboo country.

Then, in the midst of the whole business, after three years of hard work, came like a thunderclap the news that the Atlantic cable was a success. Three million dollars had been expended, yet the next day Russian extension stock was not worth the printer's ink on its surface.

MOUNT VERNON'S GUARD.

Little Old Colored Man Hasn't Missed a Day in Years.

Edward Parker, the little old colored man who occupies the sentry box at the tomb of Washington at Mount Vernon, lives in Washington, says the Washington Star. That is, his family lives here, and he comes over by special permit of the organization which has control of the old home of the first president of the United States.

For years the tomb of Washington has been constantly before this old colored man's vision. He has never missed a day from that dingy sentry box since Mount Vernon passed into the charge of the ladies, and before that, dating from 1841, he had lived on the place. He was a slave of John Washington, and is the last of the old servants now living.

Every other Saturday Parker comes over to Washington, always carrying with him an old-fashioned carpet bag, so common in the days of reconstruction. The following Monday morning he may always be seen a half hour at least before the first train starts for Mount Vernon waiting around the corner of Pennsylvania avenue and Thirteenth street. He has never missed the first train since the electric cars began running to Mount Vernon. Before that the first boat to Mount Vernon, on alternating Monday mornings, always found him a passenger.

Parker is, indeed a character. He assisted in burying the last person consigned to the vault in the Washington tomb. After that the key to the vault was thrown into the Potomac. This was in the early 50's.

ONE MAN'S CHURCH.

Colored Zealot Building a House of Worship Entirely Unaided.

A Georgia colored man, Andrew Bonner by name, is manifesting his religious enthusiasm in a substantial, though unusual way. Bonner is a simple-minded negro, filled to overflowing with what his admiring wife terms "de ol' time religion." He resides with her in College Park, a village a few miles from Atlanta. His ambition for years has been to build a church for the benefit of some of his own race, the material used to be procured with his own earnings and no workman to assist him in the rearing of the edifice, says the Chicago Chronicle.

With utter disregard of legal measures, Andrew selected two years ago a site for the church of his dreams, which he expects to be a monument to his memory long after he has returned to dust. The fact that he does not own the ground has never disturbed him. When far-sighted white friends urged him to wait until the ground could be bought for the purpose he paid no heed to the proposition, but kept to his original purpose. Every spare penny was spent by him for lumber and nails. The work has necessarily been slow, but now, after 24 months of patient labor, Andrew gazes with pride upon the building, which is almost covered.

The old man is said to have sometimes denied his family bread that he might save money for this pet project.

The First Water Plant.

The Quakertown (Pa.) Times awards to Bethlehem the distinction of having erected the first waterworks in the United States. Near the banks of the Monocney creek (the Indian name for creek of many bends), it says, there is a never-failing spring of pure cold water, which has formed the supply of Bethlehem from its founding up to the present time. In the spring of 1754 Hans Christopher Christiansen began the erection of the first waterworks in the old mill. The water was forced through wooden pipes up the hill into a wooden reservoir, situated where the Moravian church now stands.

Manitoba Soil.

In Manitoba you can turn a furrow many miles long and not encounter a stone as large as your fist. The earth, for a distance down from three to five feet is a rich, black loam, made by centuries and centuries of decaying vegetation.

Farmer Hopkins' Evidence.

HE TELLS ABOUT THE SUFFERING OF HIS DAUGHTER.

A Victim of Nervous Prostration and Neuralgia, Saved After Her Physician Abandoned Hope.

From the Republican, Columbus, Ind.

While in the neighborhood of Rugby, Indiana, recently, a reporter was told that Miss Clara Hopkins, daughter of Mr. Dennis Hopkins, a prominent farmer of Bartholomew County, had been the subject of a remarkable transformation. The reporter decided to investigate and learn the particulars. He was driven to Mr. Hopkins' splendid country home, where he had an interesting conversation with that gentleman regarding the illness of his only daughter.

"You have been correctly informed," said Mr. Hopkins, "for Clara has indeed had a severe siege. She tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and they did her more good than all other medicines together that she ever took. A few boxes of that medicine accomplished the cure of a case in a few months which had baffled physicians for years.

"About three years ago her health began to fail. The doctor who attended her said this was caused by weak digestion. This produced nervousness, which was accompanied by neuralgic troubles, which at first was located in the nerves about the heart. Of course this was a dangerous location for any such trouble, and she rapidly grew worse, notwithstanding that the physician was treating her. This continued till a year ago last November, at which time she was almost constantly confined to her bed.

"The neuralgia became gradually worse, and finally she was a confirmed victim to it.

"Nervous prostration set in, and she was soon all run down. Her blood was impure and watery, and her complexion became sallow and colorless. She had no strength, and the least noise irritated her, she was so nervous. We had another physician, and he treated her steadily for a year without doing her any good. In fact, it seemed that she was continually becoming worse. He finally gave up the case as hopeless, and advised us to get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People for her, as he said that they were the only thing that would benefit her.

"I procured a couple of boxes of the pills, and found that their use helped her considerably. She kept on taking them till she used about a dozen boxes, with the result that she was entirely well, and since then there has been no symptoms whatever of her old trouble. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are certainly a wonderful medicine, which did a wonderful good in Clara's case, doing what several physicians failed to accomplish."

All the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves are contained, in a condensed form, in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

The man who has a business for which he cannot pray has no business to say very much in church.

Ten thousand demons gnawing away at one's vitals couldn't be much worse than the tortures of itching piles. Yet there's a cure. Doan's Ointment never fails.

Trials never make us weak. They only show us that we are weak.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup seems especially adapted to the needs of the children. Pleasant to take; soothing in its influence. It is the remedy of all remedies for every form of throat and lung disease.

Before a man can tell a lie he will make some kind of an excuse to himself for doing it.

Scoff and Cough.

The man who scoffs at the friendly advice to "take something for that cough," will keep on coughing until he changes his mind or change his earthly residence. A great many scoffers have been converted by the use of the standard remedy, Carter's Cough Cure. But some are scoffing yet, they wheeze with asthma, bark with bronchitis or groan with the grippe. Singular, isn't it? the number of stubborn people, who persist in gambling with health and perhaps life as the stake, when they might be effectually cured of cough, cold or lung trouble, by a few doses of Carter's Cough Cure. Price 25c. S. E. PARRISH.

ST. PATRICK.

Sketch as Prepared and Read by Mrs. E. M. Lewis at the Supper of the Ladies Aid Society, M. E. Church, on St. Patrick's Day.

When the March committee of this society decided to mark the recurrence of St. Patrick's day by giving this supper on that day, the question very naturally arose, "Why should we as Methodists notice this day, a day devoted to the memory of a saint popularly supposed to belong only to the Roman calendar of saints?" and to me has been assigned the task of presenting a reason therefor and of offering an explanation for this seeming innovation on Methodist usage. And I have thought that I could not do this better than by presenting to you a very brief sketch of the life and work of this honored saint.

From a seemingly impenetrable mist of legend and tradition a few facts stand out clear and undeniable, and though dates are uncertain and places not clearly located, it is a matter of history that early in the fifth century, in one of the warlike incursions of the Picts and Scots into Britton, a certain youth of about fifteen years, the son of a nobleman and grandson of a priest, was captured and sold as a slave to the chief of one of the tribes of Ireland. This youth, Succat or Patrick by name, was the future apostle of Ireland.

During six years of captivity he was obliged to keep cattle on the mountains and in the forests, with hunger, cold and nakedness as close companions, and when at length an opportunity for escape came, he had mastered the language of the country and become intimately acquainted with its customs and its needs. In such severe schools of training are men sometimes fitted for their future work, and in no other way could the elements of success in the work undertaken by this Christian hero have been obtained. So strong had his sympathy become for this people who were living in the darkness of paganism that he resolved to make their conversion to Christianity his life work and, after some years spent in preparation, he returned to Ireland as a missionary.

Of Patrick and his work much has been related that is fabulous and mystical, much that is improbable and even impossible. The details of his work are little known but it is authentic history that he traveled over the whole island, teaching and preaching, that he maintained and educated many children, established schools, instructed the natives in the use of the Roman letters, and that the introduction of the Latin language into Ireland was due to the efforts of St. Patrick. His work was, however, by no means the easy conquest indicated by tradition, for we read of him that danger and opposition were courageously met, sufferings and indignities were patiently endured, that he preached Christ to assembled kings and chiefs, and that after more than forty years of unremitting toil, he left Ireland not only Christianized but full of religious schools which sent out many learned men and missionaries. Having thus formed the church of Ireland, he died about the year 469. Curiously enough it is the day of his death rather than that of his birth which we celebrate.

Of the writings attributed to St. Patrick his autobiographical confessions and the Epistle to Coroticus are unquestionably genuine. The confession is found in the book of Armagle, an Irish manuscript of about the year 800, and is largely a justification of his life and work. From this confession we learn that he formed the plan of preaching to the Irish himself and that he persisted in it in spite of the opposition of friends and that he attributed his mission to no pope, bishop or church. It is a curious fact in the writings of St. Patrick we find no mention of the pope, no trace of Purgatory, auricular confession, transubstantiation or worship of the Virgin. This confession also reveals to us a devout, simple minded man and a most discreet and energetic missionary who preached salvation by faith. The learned Gillemont, judging St. Patrick by his writings, says of him, "He had much of the character of St. Paul and was well read in the Scriptures." Undoubtedly he was a great missionary, richly deserving the name of "apostle," and as such is worthy of honor and reverence from all who love the Master.

A Wedding.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cadwell on last Wednesday evening in the presence of about sixty relatives and friends occurred the marriage of Miss Carrie Smalledge, eldest daughter of our townsman, Wm. Smalledge, to Mr. Alonza Ballou, of Britton, Rev. J. M. Getchell, of Marshall officiating. The bride was tastefully dressed in navy blue with dainty white trimming. Miss Mary Lehn was bridesmaid and Mr. Ed. Smalledge acted as best man.

After the ceremony refreshments which always play a prominent part on such occasions, were served and heartily enjoyed by all. The presents were many, fine and useful. Present from abroad were, the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Ballou, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Cheever and Miss Nellie Ballou, of Britton, Mrs. Geo. Packard and Mrs. Vesta Brewer, of Dundee, and Miss Emma Shepard, of Adrian. The serious illness of Mr. Smalledge's sister, Mrs. Ream of Detroit, prevented the attendance of relatives from there. Mr. and Mrs. Ballou will make their home in our neighboring town Britton, whence a host of congratulations and best wishes follow them.

ANOTHER VERY SAD TALE.

Misery in Cuba as Seen by Senator Thurston, of Nebraska, Told to the Senate.

HE INSISTS UPON IMMEDIATE ACTION.

The Senator's Address Is Made in Response to the Dying Request of His Wife—Liberty Before Peace Is His Motto—Places Himself on the Altar.

Washington, March 25.—A scene dramatic in the intensity of its interest was presented in the senate yesterday during the delivery by Senator Thurston (Neb.) of a speech on the Cuban situation. His first sentence, in which he said he spoke by command of silent lips—a delicate and touching reference to the loss of his wife on his memorable trip to Cuba—commanded instant attention. Some surprise has been expressed that Senator Thurston should appear in public prominently so soon after the demise of Mrs. Thurston, but the first sentence of his speech furnishes the key to his action. Mrs. Thurston's dying request to her husband was that he should lose no time on account of her death to do his utmost to save and free Cuba and her people. In accordance with this request, therefore, Senator Thurston sacrificed his personal feeling. As he neared the end of his speech his voice, which had been clear and ringing, noticeably broke. He was almost overcome by emotion, but rallied with an effort and closed in a manner that thrilled his auditors. Staid and dignified senators turned away and wept, and in the galleries tears welled to hundreds of eyes. It was a remarkable scene. A synopsis of Senator Thurston's speech follows:

Speech of Senator Thurston.

Senator Thurston said that he had gone to Cuba firmly believing that the condition of affairs on the island had been greatly exaggerated, and that he had directed his efforts in the first instance to the exposure of the supposed exaggerations. He had concluded, however, that an overstatement of the horrors of the situation was impossible. He was prepared, he stated, not only to adopt every word of the careful, concise and specific statement of the senator from Vermont (Senator Proctor), but he was even convinced that he had understated the facts.

Senator Thurston then tersely summarized his observations and conclusions as follows:

"After three years of warfare and the use of 225,000 Spanish troops, Spain has lost control of every foot of Cuba not surrounded by an actual intrenchment and protected by a fortified picket line.

"She holds possession with her armies of the fortified seaboard towns, because they are under the virtual protection of Spanish warships, with which the revolutionists cannot cope.

"The revolutionists are in absolute and almost peaceful possession of nearly one-half of the island, including the eastern provinces of Santiago De Cuba and Puerto Principe.

Inhuman Policy of Weyler.

"Under the inhuman policy of Weyler not less than 400,000 self-supporting, simple, peaceful, defenseless country people were driven from their homes in the agricultural portions of the Spanish provinces to the cities and imprisoned upon the barren waste outside the residence portions of these cities and within the lines of intrenchment established a little way beyond. Their humble homes were burned, their fields laid waste, their implements of husbandry destroyed, their live stock and food supplies for the most part confiscated. Most of these people were old men, women and children. Slow starvation was their inevitable fate. A conservative estimate indicates that 210,000 of these people have already perished from starvation.

Pictures Are True.

"The pictures in the American newspapers of the starving reconcentrados are true. They can all be duplicated by the thousands. I never saw, and please God I may never again see, so deplorable a sight as the reconcentradoes in the suburbs of Matanzas. I can never forget to my dying day the hopeless anguish in their despairing eyes. Huddled about their little bark huts, they raised no voice of appeal to us for alms as we went among them.

"Men, women and children stand silent, famishing. Their only appeal comes from their sad eyes, through which one looks as through an open window into their agonizing souls.

Butchers Under Shadow of Cross.

"I shall refer to these horrible things no further. They are there. God pity me; I have seen them; they will remain in mind for ever—and this is almost the twentieth century. Christ died 1900 years ago and Spain is a Christian nation; she has set up more crosses in more lands, beneath more skies, and under them has butchered more people than all the nations of the earth combined.

"Europe may tolerate her existence as long as the people of the Old World wish. God grant that before another Christmas morning the last visage of Spanish tyranny and oppression will have vanished from the western hemisphere."

Remedy Suggested.

Discussing the remedy which should be applied to the evils he found, Senator Thurston said:

"I counseled silence and moderation from this floor when the passion of this nation seemed at white heat over the destruction of the Maine, but it seems to me the time for action has now come. Not action in the Maine case. I hope and trust that this government will take action on the Cuban situation entirely outside of the Maine case. When the Maine report is received, if it be found that our ship and sailors were blown up by some outside explosion, we will have ample reparation without quibble or delay, and if the explosion can be traced to Spanish official sources, there will be such swift and terrible punishment administered as will remain a warning to the world forever.

The Time for Action.

"The time for action has then come. No greater reason for it can be expected tomorrow than to-day. Every hour's delay only adds another chapter to the awful story of misery and death. Only one power can intervene—the United States of America.

"What shall our action be?"

Senator Thurston briefly referred to the propositions of recognizing the belligerency or the independence of the Cubans, only to say that it was too late for either. As to annexation he said:

"God forbid. I would oppose annexation with my latest breath.

Only One Action Possible.

"Mr. President, there is only one action possible, if any is taken; that is, intervention for the independence of the island; intervention that means the landing of an American army on Cuban soil, the deploying of an American fleet off the harbor of Havana; intervention which says to Spain: 'Leave the island, withdraw your soldiers, leave the Cubans, these brothers of ours in the New World, to form and carry on government for themselves.' Such intervention on our part would not of itself be war. It would undoubtedly lead to war.

valuation of all railroad, express, telegraph and telephone property was introduced by Shephard, of Cheboygan. These corporations are to be taxed direct on such valuation at the rate of three-fourths of one per cent. The bill exempts all roads operating and to be built north of the forty-fourth degree of latitude, the object being to encourage the development of the northern part of the state.

State Senator John L. Preston Friday afternoon notified Gov. Pingree that he had resigned his government position of special deputy collector of the Port Huron district. Senator Covell, who is United States district attorney for the western Michigan district, will probably take similar action. It is said that both resignations may be recalled after the present special session of the legislature.

Notwithstanding the fact that Senator Preston will resume his seat in the senate, Gov. Pingree does not propose to withdraw his order for a special election in Preston's district. He contends that the acceptance of the deputyship vacated the state office. The same course will be followed with regard to United States District Attorney Covell. The fight has intensified the feeling between the Pingree and federal factions of the republican party, and it is stated that the governor proposes to have an understanding with President McKinley, who will be informed that unless he suppresses the activity of federal officials in Michigan, some one else will get the vote of this state in 1900.

In view of the crusade against the Michigan Central railroad by Gov. Pingree and members of the legislature, who assert that it is making enormous earnings for its stockholders and is escaping taxation, a bill may be introduced in the legislature this week providing for its purchase by the state and the creation of a commission, of which the governor shall be a member, to appraise the value of the property.

The governor intimates that he may keep the legislators in session until next January if a taxation bill such as he has drafted is not passed.

Chairman G. M. Ferry, of the republican state committee, in reply to a letter from Gov. Pingree asking his opinion regarding the extra session of the legislature and the measures for the taxation of railroads now before it, has written a scathing letter, in which he declares the extra session was called on the governor's own responsibility and refuses to give it his approval. The letter caused a sensation in Lansing.

The governor has issued calls for special elections at the spring election in the Second representative district of Berrien to fill the vacancy vice Williams, postmaster; First representative district of Macomb vice Rowley, deceased; Second, Lenawee, vice Edgar, moved from state; Lapeer, vice Lee, deceased.

The executive committee of the state grange met in special session and adopted resolutions demanding the immediate passage of a law to assess every kind of property at its actual market value.

Gov. Pingree has succeeded in his plan to put all the legislators on record. He has induced a corps of stenographers to volunteer their services, and each house voted to have the stenographic reports of the proceedings printed in the official journal, copies of which will be sent to every part of the state.

Land to the Amount of About 1,000,000 Acres in Upper Peninsula to Be Placed on the Rolls.

Marquette, March 25.—About 1,000,000 acres of land, which has never been on the tax rolls, will be spread for the first time this year, and the burden of taxation in the counties in the eastern half of the upper peninsula will be materially lessened. This land was given under two grants to the Detroit, Mackinaw & Marquette railroad to induce capitalists to build a line from the straits of Mackinaw to the bay of Marquette. It was shown on the government surveys as swamp land, but in fact most of it was valuable as agricultural, timber and mineral land.

Detroit, March 25.—Leon Cady, aged 30, living in Ecors township, went out to shoot a muskrat. Thursday morning his dead body was found in the shallow water of the Ecors creek, with three bullet holes behind his right ear. The neighbors suspect murder. Indications point to an accident. It is suggested that some other hunter shot him unintentionally.

"Saved Her Life."

MRS. JOHN WALLET, of Jefferson, Wis., than whom none is more highly esteemed or widely known, writes. "In 1890 I had a severe attack of LaGrippe and at the end of four months, in spite of all physicians, friends and good nursing could do, my lungs heart and nervous system were so completely wrecked, my life was despaired of, my friends giving me up. I could only sleep by the use of opiates. My lungs and heart pained me terribly and my cough was most aggravating. I could not lie in one position but a short time and not on my left side at all. My husband brought me Dr. Miles' Nervine and Heart Cure and I began taking them. When I had taken a half bottle of each I was much better and continuing persistently I took about a dozen bottles and was completely restored to health to the surprise of all."

Dr. Miles' Remedies are sold by all druggists under a positive guarantee, first bottle benefits or money refunded. Book on diseases of the heart and nerves free. Address,

Men Who Travel.

Hustling and hasty meals often play havoc with the traveling man's digestion. An experienced commercial man, who spends most of his time on the road, states that he never allows himself to be without a bottle of Carter's Cascara Pills. He always takes one pill after a hearty or hurried meal, and finds them a mighty good thing. For all those ails that come from indigestion, dyspepsia and a torpid liver, there is no remedy so certain as Carter's Cascara Pills. Price 25c. S. E. PARRISH.

The Time of Renewal.

All nature is renewed in the springtime. The sky takes on a fresher color, the trees don their Easter garments, everything seems glad and happy. It seems a pity that at such a beautiful season so disagreeable a malady as the so-called "spring fever" should unfit a great many people to enjoy the unaccustomed sunshine and freshness that prevails. What is spring fever? It is that sluggishness and irritability which everyone takes a spring tonic for. "Bad blood" some people call it. A great deal of "blood medicine" is sold in the spring of the year. The blood, the vigor, the health must be renewed, with the trees and flowers and grass. The principal difficulty is, which of the numerous spring tonics is the best? Which will cure permanently and remove quickly all the disagreeable symptoms? Read what Mrs. Adiin Adams, Crafton, Ky., says of Peruna: "I was about to give up all hopes when I concluded to take Peruna. I believe it is the best medicine in the world. I can't speak too highly of it."

A book containing several hundred letters similar to the one from which this is an extract, will be sent free to any address by the Peruna Drug Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio.

Indigestion---Dyspepsia.

The Results of the New Cure for Indigestion and Nervous Dyspepsia.

Drake's Dyspepsia Cure & Nerve Restorer, a wellspring of life, is pouring into thousands of homes to day; stubborn cases that have baffled all other remedies yield to the efficacy of this marvelous treatment, and permanent cures are the inevitable results from its use. For sale by John J. Orr, leading druggist, Tecumseh Mich. A book on Stomach and Nerve troubles, their symptoms and cure, will be given free for the asking at above mentioned drug store. Read following statement:

To Whom It May Concern: To those suffering from stomach and nerve troubles I wish to recommend Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer. About 20 years ago I began to be troubled with my stomach. It gradually grew worse, even under treatment, until it became difficult for me to eat any kind of food with comfort. For the past five years I have been able to retain very little food of the simplest nature long enough to digest it. Seldom during this time have I enjoyed sleep throughout the entire night, and usually have been obliged to leave my bed in consequence of my stomach and nerve troubles. My bowels were very much relaxed, said to be due to inflammation of the membrane of the intestines. I was treated by physicians, and tried nearly every known remedy recommended for my troubles with no lasting benefit, and usually not even temporary relief. On the 5th day of January, '98, I purchased a package of Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer, and I wish every dyspeptic knew how much I have improved from its use. My food does not distress me as it did, and I have no trouble in retaining it. I sleep well and feel refreshed therefrom, and, although I have used only one package of the medicine, I can safely say that I am 75 per cent. better than I have been during the past 20 years. Yours respectfully, MRS. GIDEON STODDARD, Litchfield, Mich., Jan. 24, 1898.

THE FARM CORN CROP.

To Do Its Best It Requires a Rich Soil, Either Naturally or Artificially Underdrained.

Having had years of experience I am convinced there is no other grain crop grown by the average farmer that will produce so much good, nutritious food from a given amount of seed and land as corn. The yield per acre can be greatly increased and more acres be left in clover and grass. To do its best, corn requires a rich soil, either naturally or artificially underdrained. The ideal preparation is to plow under a clover sod and treat thin spots to a coat of stable or barnyard manure, so as to secure an even growth all over the field. Next to a clover sod I prefer a timothy sod, next wheat stubble, and last of all, corn stubble. Ground well plowed is half harrowed. Use a good plow, supplied with wheel and jointer. The wheel makes the plow run steadier and regulates the depth. The jointer throws all the rubbish and sod into the bottom of the furrow, where it will not bother in cultivation and more readily decay. By not making furrows too wide and turning them at an angle of 30 or 40 degrees, we shall have an ideal place for the seed. Plow as soon as the soil is dry enough to crumble nicely from the mold board.

Before planting, the ground must be worked down into a fine, mellow seed bed. The spring tooth harrow is a splendid implement to cut the ground up with, and if it happens to be cloddy I prefer a plank drag to a roller. Just before planting use a fine tooth smoothing harrow which will leave the surface fine and level. In planting I use the wire check rower and plant in hills three and one-half feet each way. It is easier to cultivate, the ground can be kept more level, it is much easier to harvest and I get just as large yields when it is planted in hills as in drills. As soon as corn is planted, begin cultivating by using a light, fine-toothed harrow, and again in three or four days use the same implement and go crosswise of the previous harrowing. As soon as we can see the corn along the row replant missing hills and start the two-horse cultivator. I use a cultivator with three small shovels on a side; the first plowing I plow very close to the corn, and after this plowing if the ground is inclined to be dry, use the roller and follow this again with the cultivator. After this cultivate each week, each time crosswise of the preceding time, shallower and farther from the corn. Continue this cultivating until grain and hay harvest begins. After this I do nothing more to it, except go through with a hoe in July and August and remove stray weeds.—M. C. Thomas to Ohio Farmers' Institute.

DEVICE FOR PRUNING.

Although Simple, It Will Prove Very Effective for Use on All Small Limbs.

If one could stand upon the ground and reach all parts of the tree that need pruning, much more of this necessary work would be done. If pruning is attended to yearly, there will be very few large limbs to cut off. For all small limbs the device shown in the illustration will prove very effective. A sharp broad chisel is firmly fixed to the end of a pole, long enough to reach all parts of the tree, but light enough not to prove cumbersome to carry and handle. A simple push with the hands will cut off all small branches, but as for those a little larger, a blow on the lower end of the pole with a light mallet that is hung over the shoulder will sever them from the trunk. Another excellent device is a similar pole, to the end of which a narrow saw has been fitted, a saw no wider than the blade of the chisel. With this one can reach the highest limbs from the ground and saw them off.—Orange Judd Farmer.

PRUNING DEVICE.

Polish for Old Leather.

Take two parts of good glue and soak in tepid water until it is thoroughly softened, then add five gills of water and two gills of brandy or common spirits, rubbing it until it becomes smooth; stir this into the mass, and afterward stir in two parts of wheat flour mixed in cold water. The mixture is then put over a moderate fire and allowed to steam off a little, but not to boil, stirring it well while over the fire. It can be used immediately, or made up into small cakes which can be dissolved at any time in a little water or beer. It can be put on with a brush, a thin coat only being required, and afterward rubbing it with a linen or silk cloth. It will restore old dash boards of leather, or leather tops, where the enamel is not off.—Western Plowman.

Gates in Place of Bars.

A gate that easily swings on its hinges is not much more expensive in first cost than a set of bars. If all the time required to let down the bars and put them up again is reckoned, the bars must be seen to be much the most expensive. When stock are driven through bars let down on one side only, stock driven through will often jump over the part of the bar in the middle and will thus learn the habit of jumping. When a gate swings open it leaves a clear passage, and the contraction of bad habits is impossible.

SLEPT LIKE A CHILD.

Gained Twenty-Seven Pounds in Four Weeks
The Story of a Soldier.

From the Transcript, Peoria, Ill.

No man is better known and liked in that rich tier of Illinois counties, of which Peoria is the centre, than genial Chester S. Harrington, of Princeville, Ill. For many years Mr. Harrington has traveled through the country on profitable journeys as an itinerant merchant, and everywhere he goes he is given a hearty welcome by the people who depend upon his visits for the purchase of the necessaries, and some of the luxuries, of life.

Mr. Harrington is a veteran of the war, and from this fact is made the remarkable experience which he related at the Transcript office recently. His story, telling of the evils of which the Civil War was but the beginning in his own, and in thousands of other cases, was as follows:

"I served three years in the 124th Illinois, enlisting at Kewanee, Ill. I was in Libby Prison, and suffered, like many another Northern soldier. Until recently I was a member of the Princeville Post, of the G.A.R.

"The strain of army life did its work in undermining my health, although the collapse did not come for years. For some time I suffered from general debility and nervousness, so badly that I could not sleep. For fifteen years my sleep was completely broken up. Indigestion, resulted and my misery increased. My eyes began to fail, and as my body lost vitality my mind seemed to give way also. I could scarcely remember events that happened but a few weeks before.

"For two years I was unfitted for business. I was just able to creep around during the greater part of this time, and there were times when I could not get up at all. My brother is a doctor, but all his efforts to help me failed to give me any relief.

I tried a number of remedies, without avail. Finally, having read articles regarding cures that had been effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, I decided to try them. That was in 1896. I bought a box and took the pills according to instructions. Just four days later I had the happiest hours I had known for years. That night I went to sleep easily and slept soundly as a child, and awoke refreshed. Three four weeks after beginning the treatment, which I had taken four boxes of the pills, I found had increased in weight, from 119 pounds 146 pounds. This greatly surprised my friends who thought my case was a hopeless one. began my work on the road again, and has continued it right along ever since in excellent health.

"Let me tell you a remarkable thing that was a side issue, but a valuable gain to me. I found that while I was taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I had been cured of the smoking habit, which had been formed when I was a boy, six years old, and which had clung to me all these years. The craving for tobacco left me, and I have never experienced it since. I have recommended the pills to many.

(Signed) CHESTER S. HARRINGTON.

Chester S. Harrington, being duly sworn, deposes and says, that the matters contained in the above statement by him signed are true. CHESTER S. HARRINGTON.

It is no doubt true that some of our water mains are too small for effectual service. The one in use Friday night is only four inches in diameter and with one hundred pounds pressure failed to have sufficient power to supply the big nozzles with any great velocity. It would seem that except in some short spurs, no main should be laid less than 6 inches in diameter and then it would not take so heavy a pressure to do better work.

RAILROAD NEWS.

Notes and Condensations Concerning the Railroads.

The members of the Manhattan Mandolin Club who, went to Tecumseh, Mich., Wednesday to attend a reception held last night at the home of Auditor A. L. Richmond, of the D. & L. N., formerly of this city, returned home today. The event was one of the most elaborate of the season in the pretty little Michigan city, and none enjoyed it more than did the Manhattan boys. Mr. and Mrs. Richmond entertained, in addition to the Lima party, about fifty other guests, members of a Tecumseh society club. Their handsome home was beautifully decorated for the occasion with carnations, smilax and stately palms. They proved themselves to their new friends in Tecumseh, as well as to their old ones from Lima, royal entertainers. The evening was devoted to music and progressive pedro and at midnight an elegant supper was served in six courses. After the guests had dispersed from the Richmond residence, the Manhattan club was entertained at the rooms of the Tecumseh Club, a social organization of twenty-five of the leading young business men of the city, whose ability to entertain ranks very high, and such was the verdict of the young men who were their guests last night. Among the guests at Mr. and Mrs. Richmond's reception were Mr. Richmond's sister, Mrs. I. N. Fangle, of this city; Harry Richmond, who is attending Heidelberg college at Tiffin; D. C. Richmond, Jr., of the D. & L. N. auditor's office; Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hathaway, and Chief Engineer and Purchasing Agent C. H. Roser, of the D. & L. N.—Lima Times-Democrat.

Auditor A. L. Richmond and his force of assistants in the D. T. & M. office and Supt. Elliott and his force move to Toledo to-day and will have office rooms in the Gardner block. This leaves the D. & L. N. force still in Tecumseh with the exception of Asst. Treas. Roser, who is now located at No. 120 Griswold street Detroit. The D. & L. N. office force will probally remain in Tecumseh only long enough to construct a wire over the new piece of road from Lundee to Detroit when they will all go to Detroit except Supt. Haskell and the train dispatchers, who will remain in Tecumseh permanently. Already enough men have been hired to fill up all the room in the office building made vacant by the removal. These men are to be of the book-keeping force of the shops and Tecumseh will not in the end lose a man or family by the change. The work on the shops is progressing as fast as possible and the machinery and equipment for the third shop are purchased.

A peculiar thing happened at the D. & L. N. depot yesterday. The passenger train backed up on the sidetrack to take on the special car Ottawa and when about half of the train was over the switch, the brakeman turned it and the engine and baggage car continued up the main track and the remainder started up the switch. Luckily the train was stopped before the couplings parted and no damage was done.

C. H. Roser is the first one of the D. & L. N. office force to move to Detroit. Although Tecumseh has never been his home, he has scores of friends here who are sincerely sorry at his change of headquarters, but are glad to know that until the shops are completed, he will return often.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Richmond leave for their new home in Toledo today. All their acquaintances in Tecumseh are their friends and every friend is to the full extent sorry that they must seek another home. May health and wealth and happiness ever pursue them.

C. C. Ruppel, of Marshall, is new chief shop accountant of the D. & L. N. with headquarters at Tecumseh. His family will soon move here.

The foundation for the machine shop is nearing completion, the building will be about 80x220 feet when completed.

Harry Richmond who has been the guest of his brother, A. L., for several days, returned to Tiffin, O., today.

S. A. Baker spent Sunday in Lima, O.

It is very evident from the experience of Friday night that the corporation fire team have outlived their era of rapid transit if they ever possessed any. Many excuses have been made in favor of the old team, but on this last occasion with good roads and a down hill pull and everything in their favor, they most ably demonstrated that they were no good. Of course they are getting old and have done good service but when it comes to making people believe they can haul the hose wagon to a fire faster than a dog trot, one has to have considerable patience not to feel "in scraping" mood.

Goethe Day.

The Monday Club gave their last meeting of the year at the home of their president, Mrs. Geo. N. Stacy, on Monday, March 28th, in a "Goethe afternoon." The house was decorated with Dutch tulips and hyacinths. In the hall were the club photographs illustrating the year's work on Germany, Holland and Polland, and conspicuously on a table a pair of immense wooden shoes, bearing a card inscribed,

"The German heart is stout and true,
The German arm is strong;
The German foot goes seldom back
When armed foemen throng."

And lined up in a picturesque looking row were the committee of ladies who entertained, all dressed in German peasant costume with wooden shoes, braided hair, Holland caps and white aprons. These were Mesdames Tribou, Moore, Samsen, Sisson, North, Bramble and Misses Whittier, Hialey, Haight and Stacy. Other members of the committee assisting were Miss Titus and Mesdames McCann, Garlinghouse, Weller, Temple, Lee and Howland.

A literary program was listened to by the club and their guests which consisted of Paper, "Goethe"—Mrs. Lee.

Poem from Eugene Field—Mrs. Shull.
Paper, "Literary Women contemporary with Goethe"—Mrs. Smith.
Original poem—Mrs. Howland.
Paper, "Tapestries"—Mrs. Corey.

After the program the dining room was opened for a German lunch. The room was darkened and hung with blue and white drapery. A wood fire crackled in the old fireplace where some polished brass andirons, which had not seen service for fifty years, held their accustomed place before the fire while two old spinning wheels stood idle on either side. Blue delft ware, old and new, reposed on the mantles and in cabinets. A platter and soup tureen over a hundred years old and some plates of seventy-five and a hundred and fifty years were displayed conspicuously. The whole ancient scene was lighted with candles which gleamed through ferns and palms and pots of tulips and beamed kindly on the blue dinner service and the handsome wooden shood peasant girls who were serving. Coffee, pretzels, Dutch cheese served on lettuce leaves, weinerwursts taken steaming hot from the chaffing dishes, Polish cakes the recipe for which is a hundred and fifty years old, rye bread and coffee bread, apricot ice and crullers furnished a unique menu.

While the diners were discussing the black coffee and hot sausage, an "Art Contest" was going on in the parlors. Mrs. Stacy had prepared a photograph of some celebrated picture for each of the club and the guests. The pictures each bore a number, and were accompanied by a card bearing all the numbers, and each person tried to fill out their blank card with the name and artist of each picture. Prizes were awarded to Miss May DeWolf for first and Mrs. C. A. Wright for second highest number, the prizes being two beautiful large photographs, one of "The Sistine Cherubs" by Raphael and the other "Spring and Love" by Bouguercan. And all went away voting this the best of four delightful social afternoons given this winter by The Monday Club. MRS. HOWLAND, Sec'y.

President's Message to Congress Does Not Mention Possibility of War.

Transmits the Report to Congress with No Startling Statement as to His Intention—Asks for Deliberate Consideration.

Washington, March 29.—The president Monday sent the following message to congress:

To the Congress of the United States:

For some time prior to the visit of the Maine to Havana harbor our consular representatives pointed out the advantages to flow from the visit of national ships to the Cuban waters, in accustoming the people to the presence of our flag as the symbol of good will and of our ships in the fulfillment of the mission of protection to American interests, even though no immediate need therefor might exist.

Accordingly, on the 24th of January last, after conference with the Spanish minister in which the renewal of visits of our war vessels to Spanish waters was discussed and accepted, the peninsular authorities at Madrid and Havana were advised of the purpose of this government to resume friendly naval visits at Cuban ports, and that in that view the Maine would forthwith call at the port of Havana.

The Maine at Havana.

This announcement was received by the Spanish government with appreciation of the friendly character of the visit of the Maine and with notification of intention to return the courtesy by sending Spanish ships to the principal ports of the United States. Meanwhile the Maine entered the port of Havana on the 25th of January, her arrival being marked with no special incident besides the exchange of customary salutes and ceremonial visits.

The Maine continued in the harbor of Havana during the three weeks following her arrival. No appreciable excitement attended her stay; on the contrary, a feeling of relief and confidence followed the resumption of the long interrupted friendly intercourse. So noticeable was this immediate effect of her visit that the consul-general strongly urged that the presence of our ships in Cuban waters should be kept up by retaining the Maine at Havana, or in the event of her recall by sending there a vessel to take her place.

The Fatal Evening.

At 40 minutes past nine on the evening of the 15th of February the Maine was destroyed by an explosion, by which the entire forward part of the ship was utterly wrecked. In this catastrophe two officers and 260 of her crew perished, those who were not killed outright by her explosion being penned between decks by the tangle of wreckage and drowned by the immediate sinking of the hull. Prompt assistance was rendered by the neighboring vessels anchored in the harbor, said being especially given by the boats of the Spanish cruiser Alphonso XII. and the Ward line steamer City of Washington, which lay not far distant. The wounded were generously cared for by the authorities of Havana, the hospitals being freely opened to them, while the earliest recovered bodies of the dead were interred by the municipality in a public cemetery in the city. Tributes of grief and sympathy were offered from all official quarters of the island.

Caused Intense Excitement.

The appalling calamity fell upon the people of our country with crushing force and for a brief time an intense excitement prevailed, which in a community less just and self-controlled than ours might have led to hasty acts of blind resentment. This spirit, however, soon gave way to the calmer processes of reason and to the resolve to investigate the facts and await the material proof before forming a judgment as to the cause, the responsibility and, if the facts warranted, the remedy due. This course necessarily recommended itself from the outset to the executive, for only in the light of a dispassionately ascertained certainty could it determine the nature and measure of its full duty in the matter.

The usual procedure was followed, as in all cases of casualty or disaster to national vessels of any maritime state. A naval court of inquiry was at once organized, composed of officers well qualified by rank and practical experience to discharge the onerous duty imposed upon them.

Aided by a strong force of wreckers and divers the court proceeded to make a thorough investigation on the spot, employing every available means for the impartial and exact determination of the causes of the explosion. Its operations have been conducted with the utmost deliberation and judgment, and while independently pursued no source of information was neglected and the fullest opportunity was allowed for a simultaneous investigation by the Spanish authorities.

The Finding of the Court.

The finding of the court of inquiry was reached, after 23 days of continuous labor, on the 21st of March inst., and having been approved on the 22d by the commander in chief of the United States naval force of the North Atlantic station, was transmitted to the executive.

It is herewith laid before congress, together with the voluminous testimony taken before the court. Its purport is, in brief, as follows:

When the Maine arrived at Havana she was conducted by the regular government pilot to buoy No. 4, to which she was moored in from 5½ to 6 fathoms of water.

The state of discipline on board, and the condition of her magazines, boilers, coal bunkers and storage compartments, are passed in review, with the conclusion that excellent order prevailed and that no indication of any cause for an internal explosion existed in any quarter.

At eight o'clock in the evening of February 15, everything had been reported secure and all was quiet.

At 40 minutes past nine o'clock the vessel was suddenly destroyed.

Two Explosions.

There were two distinct explosions, with a brief interval between them. The first lifted the forward part of the ship very perceptibly; the second, which was more prolonged, is attributed by the court to the partial explosion of two or more of the forward magazines; and,

That no evidence has been obtainable fixing the responsibility for the destruction of the Maine upon any person or persons.

I have directed that the finding of the court of inquiry and the views of this government thereon be communicated to the government of her majesty, the queen, and I do not permit myself to doubt that the sense of justice of the Spanish nation will dictate a course of action suggested by honor and the friendly relations of the two governments.

It was the duty of the executive to advise the congress of the result, and in the meantime deliberate consideration is invoked.

(Signed) WILLIAM M'KINLEY.

Executive Mansion, March 28, 1898.

THE COURT'S REPORT.

Statements of Capt. Sampson and His Associates Based on Testimony Taken.

The following is the full text of the report of the court of inquiry:

United States Steamship Iowa, First Rate.—Key West, Fla., Monday, March 21, 1898.—After full and mature consideration of all the testimony before it, the court finds as follows:

1. That the United States battleship Maine arrived in the harbor of Havana, Cuba, on the 25th day of January, 1898, and was taken to buoy No. 4, in from five and a half to six fathoms of water by the regular government pilot. The United States consul general at Havana had notified the authorities at that place the previous evening of the intended arrival of the Maine.

Discipline Was Excellent.

2. The state of discipline on board the Maine was excellent, and all orders and regulations in regard to the care and safety of the ship were strictly carried out.

All ammunition was stowed away in accordance with instructions, and proper care was taken whenever ammunition was handled.

Nothing was stowed in any one of the magazines or shell rooms which was not permitted to be stowed there.

The magazines and shell rooms were always locked after having been opened; and after the destruction of the Maine the keys were found in their proper place in the captain's cabin, everything having been reported secure that evening at eight p. m.

Temperature Was Normal.

The temperatures of the magazines and shellrooms were taken daily and reported. The only magazine which had an undue amount of heat was the after ten-inch magazine, and that did not explode at the time the Maine was destroyed.

The torpedo war heads were all stowed in the after part of the ship under the wardroom, and neither caused nor participated in the destruction of the Maine.

The dry gun cotton primers and detonators were stowed in the cabin aft and remote from the scene of the explosion.

The waste was carefully looked after on board the Maine to obviate danger. Special orders in regard to this had been given by the commanding officer.

Varnishes, dryers, alcohol and other combustibles of this nature were stowed on or above the Maine deck and could not have had anything to do with the destruction of the Maine.

The medical stores were stowed aft under the ward room and remote from the scene of the explosion.

No dangerous stores of any kind were stowed below in any of the other store rooms.

Coal Bunkers Inspected.

The coal bunkers were inspected. Of those bunkers adjoining the forward magazine and shell rooms four were empty, namely B 3, B 4, B 5 and B 6. A 15 had been in use that day, and A 16 was full of New River coal. This coal had been carefully inspected before receiving it on board. The bunker in which it was stowed was accessible on three sides at all times, and the fourth side at this time on account of bunkers B 4 and B 6 being empty. This bunker, A 16, had been inspected that day by the engineer officer on duty.

The fire alarms in the bunkers were in working order, and there had never been a case of spontaneous combustion of coal on board the Maine.

After Boilers Only in Use.

The two after boilers of the ship were in use at the time of the disaster, but for auxiliary purposes only with a comparatively low pressure of steam, and being tended by a reliable watch. These boilers could not have caused the explosion of the ship. The four forward boilers have since been found by the divers, and are in a fair condition.

On the night of the destruction of the Maine everything had been reported secure for the night at eight p. m. by responsible persons, through the proper authorities, to the commanding officer. At the time the Maine was destroyed the ship was quiet, and therefore least liable to accident caused by movements from those on board.

Were Two Explosions.

3. The destruction of the Maine occurred at 9:40 p. m. on the 15th day of February, 1898, in the harbor of Havana, Cuba, being at the time moored on the same buoy to which she had been taken upon her arrival.

There were two explosions of a distinctly different character with a very short but distinct interval between them, and the forward part of the ship was lifted to a marked degree at the time of the first explosion.

The first explosion was more in the nature of a report, like that of a gun, while the second explosion was more open, prolonged and of greater volume. This second explosion was, in the opinion of the court, caused by the partial explosion of two or more of the forward magazines of the Maine.

Condition of the Wreck.

4. The evidence bearing on this, being principally obtained from divers, did not enable the court to form a definite conclusion as to the condition of the wreck, although it was established that the after part of the ship was practically intact, and sank in that condition a very few minutes after the destruction of the forward part.

The following facts in regard to the forward part of the ship are, however, established by the testimony:

That portion of the port side of the protective deck which extends from about frame 30 to about frame 41 was blown up aft and over to port. The main deck from about frame 30 to about frame 41 was blown up aft and slightly over to starboard, folding the forward part of the middle superstructure over and on top of the after part.

This was, in the opinion of the court, caused by the partial explosion of two or more of the forward magazines of the Maine.

Plates Forced Up.

5. At frame 17, the outer shell of the ship, from a point 11½ feet from the middle line of the ship and six feet above the keel when in its normal position, has been forced up so as to be now about four feet above the surface of the water, therefore about 34 feet above where it would be had the ship sunk uninjured. The outside bottom plating is bent into a reversed V shape, the after wing of which, about 15 feet broad and 32 feet in length (from frame 17 to frame 25), is doubled back upon itself against the continuation of the same plating extending forward.

At frame 18 the vertical keel is broken in two, and the flat keel bent into an angle similar to the angle formed by the outside bottom plating. This break is now about six feet below the surface of the water, and about 30 feet above its normal position.

Caused by a Mine.

In the opinion of the court, this effect could have been produced only by the explosion of a mine situated under the bottom of the ship at about frame 18, and somewhat on the port side of the ship.

6. The court finds that the loss of the Maine, on the occasion named, was not in any respect due to fault or negligence on the part of any of the officers or members of the crew of said vessel.

7. In the opinion of the court the Maine was destroyed by the explosion of a submarine mine, which caused the partial explosion of two or more of her forward magazines.

8. The court has been unable to obtain evidence fixing the responsibility for the destruction of the Maine upon any person or persons.

TOLD BY WITNESSES.

Extract of Important Testimony Taken by the Court.

Lieut. Powelson's Story Told on the Third Day of the Session—Important Discoveries Made Up to That Time.

Washington, March 28.—The following are portions of the testimony:

Ensign W. V. N. Powelson was called the third day of the court. He testified that he had been present on the Maine every day from the arrival of the boat Fern and during a great deal of the diving.

In reply to a question to tell the court all about the condition of the wreck, he said the forward part of the ship forward of the after smokestack had been to all appearances completely destroyed. The conning tower lay in a position opposite the door leading to the superstructure aft and to starboard, inclined at about 110 degrees to the vertical with the top of the conning tower in board. Continuing, he described with close detail the condition under the main deck on the port side. The fixtures were completely wrecked, while fixtures in the same position on the starboard side were in some cases almost intact. The port bulkhead between the main and berth decks at the conning tower support had been blown aft on both sides, but a great deal more on the port than on the starboard side. The fireroom hatch immediately abaft of the conning tower had been blown in three directions—aft, to starboard and to port. The protective deck under the conning tower supports was bent in two directions, the plates on the starboard side being bent up and on the larboard side bent down.

In reply to an inquiry as to whether he meant with reference to their original positions Ensign Powelson replied affirmatively. The beam supporting the protective deck a few inches abaft of the armored tube, to port of the midship line, was bent up to starboard of the midship line. Just forward of the conning tower, underneath the deck, two beams met at right angles; one beam was broken and pushed from port to starboard. A grating was found on the poop awning just forward of the after searchlight.

A piece of the side plating just abaft of the starboard turret was visible. This plate was bent outward and then the forward end bent upward and folded backward upon itself. "This plate was sheared from the rest of the plating below the water line. This plating below the water line has been pushed out to starboard."

The armored gratings of the engine room hatch were blown off. A composition strainer was picked up from the bottom on the starboard quarter at a point about opposite the poop capstan and about 70 feet from it. The chief engineer thought the strainer was from the firemen's washroom. It was not a strainer in the ship's side.

Near the piece of outside plating to which witness referred above he said there were pieces of red shellaced planks. On these planks was bolted a composition track two inches wide and an inch thick.

Ensign Powelson then asked if the court meant for him to say anything about what the divers reported or just what he saw.

The judge advocate replied that he would like to have him state any important discoveries which might lead the court to draw some conclusion as to the cause, and if a diver gave such information to state the diver's name. Before doing so the judge advocate asked witness to state if the forward and after part of the ship were in line. Ensign Powelson replied that as far as he could judge they were not. The end where the explosion occurred seemed to be pushed from port to starboard from five to ten degrees, he should judge, with the apex to the starboard. The divers reported to witness that at a point where the ten-inch shell room should be they discovered ten-inch shells regularly arranged, but the ship had sunk down so much that some of the shells were in the mud.

Gunner Morgan reported that in walking on the bottom he fell into a hole on the port side and went down in the mud. He also reported that as far as he could judge everything seemed to be bent upward in the vicinity of this hole. He also reported that the plates seemed to have been pushed over to the starboard and then bent down.

Ensign Powelson then said that a six-inch powder tank that he saw appeared to be an empty tank broken by the explosion, as it was not badly dented and merely ripped the length of the seam. A ten-inch tank was badly battered out of any conceivable shape.

Continuing, the witness said the divers up to the night before he was then on the stand had not been on the outside of the ship. The mud was too deep for them to walk on the bottom.

"What is the condition of the starboard turret?" witness was asked.

"To my knowledge it has not been fired, sir," was the reply.

He understood something had been found under the place where the turret formerly was, but its exact character had not been determined.

Impressions of Ensign Powelson.

"What impression is produced upon your mind by the reports, as far as you have quoted them?" Ensign Powelson was asked.

"From reports alone or from the appearance of the wreck?"

"Either from such reports or the conditions which you believe to exist."

"The impression produced upon me," replied the witness, "is that an explosion took place well to port of the midship line, but at a point in the length about opposite the conning tower."

Witness in reply to further questions said his opinion was based upon the observation of things above water. He gave no weight to Mr. Morgan's statement about falling into a hole on the port side because Morgan might have been mistaken about it. Referring to his notes made of things on the Maine, Ensign Powelson said that the arc of the engine room telegraph and the shaft of the steering gear coming down through the armored tube (turret) was from port to starboard. The port side of the protected deck was covered with a greasy deposit, the starboard side being comparatively free from it.

The forward smoke pipe, between the main and superstructure decks, did not show signs of the internal pressure of gases. On the main deck forward of the conning tower where the fore and aft angle bulb beam was located the plating was blown off on the only remaining piece of the main deck on the port side while wood was still attached to that part on the starboard side between the conning tower base and the turrets. What witness would indicate that the pressure lifted the protective deck up on the port side and the protective deck on the starboard held fast and bent that deck down. Witness here exhibited two sketches to the court showing diagram of various parts of the sunken ship and explained them to the court.

The witness's evidence about the bottom on the starboard side of the outside plating of the ship which was folded back, was recalled to him, and Powelson said he could see plate underneath was bent outward, as he could see it was only two feet under water where the shear occurred.

Witness had taken soundings and found five fathoms of water on both sides of the Maine down to the mud. Taking a 14-pound lead line and dragging with a wherry for obstructions on the port side, dragging close to where he thought the better ways would be found, he found no obstructions whatever. On the starboard side he found obstructions for 20 feet where he had reason to believe the water was originally been.

In answer to questions he said there was nothing left of the port plating at all. He dragged along the outside to see if any had fallen out and found nothing. Witness thought the ship on the port side was entirely gone opposite a point indicated on a diagram handed the court. It was entirely blown out.

This concluded Ensign Powelson's testimony on the third day.

A Diver's Story.

Chief Gunner's Mate Olsen, of the United States steamer Iowa, told how he had been sent to Havana for the purpose of making diving duty on the wreck. He had descended four times, making about eight or nine hours of total examination.

Olsen told how on his first descent he went over the forward part of the ship. To use his own expression, he said he found the wreck all blowed up. There was a lot of grate bars down there." The next time he went down further forward and there located a lot of ten-inch shells forward of these the plates were bent over them.

Asked if he imagined himself looking forward he stated that he did. Being over the plates he struck into a lot of six-inch shells with the slings on them. Going to the bottom witness stated he found a lot of wreckage. It seemed to have been blown over the starboard. Olsen stated that he put his hand into the cranks and brought out some six-pounder shells.

The next time he went down, Olsen testified he went outside the ship. Going to the crane on the port side. He followed the bottom along and found that the port side was blown outboard and also the crane. It could be walked on.

"At the part where she is blown completely," witness said, "part of her bottom plates are turned up. Then you follow the bottom from there up, and the side is blown outboard. At the top and under the bottom they are blown inboard and bent in. About three feet forward of this spot there is a piece of iron laid across the double bulkhead. The skin of the inside bottoms is curled like a shaving, the upper inboard from stem to stern.

"Amidships on the same plate there is armor plate, one plate complete, the edge of the plate standing up. The plates are bent over the starboard completely. It is up with the thick part of the plate. It is inclined forward, and over board."

A CITY SWEPT BY WATER.

Scores of Lives Lost by the Breaking of a Levee in the City of Shawneetown, Ill.

FLOOD EXTENDS FOUR MILES INLAND.

Enormous Damage to Property Results—The Stricken Community Cut Off from Communication with the Outer World—Survivors Seek Safety on House Tops.

Shawneetown, Ill., April 4.—The north levee broke at 4:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon and the Ohio river flowed over the town many feet deep. Scores of houses are floating about and many persons are clinging to the wreckage in the hope that rescuers will soon appear with boats to take them to places of safety. At least 100 lives have been lost.

Caught Unawares.

The disaster came when the great majority of the people were in their homes eating supper. The break in the levee occurred a mile above the town and was within ten minutes more than half a mile wide. A stream of water 12 to 20 feet deep, carrying half of the current of the flood-raised Ohio, descended on the unsuspecting people. It came down in a great rush, like a tidal wave. There was no slow rising of the waters to give warning. The houses on the outskirts were lifted up and rolled over and over.

Houses Torn to Splinters.

Most of them were torn into splinters. Their inhabitants were drowned in them. Nearer the center of the town some brick structures stopped the onrush of the water for a few minutes, but about two-thirds of the dwellings were lifted from their foundations and floated careening out into the black current of the river. Lights were instantly extinguished and the townspeople climbed on the slippery roofs or sought to keep alive on floating objects.

The property loss is enormous. Merchants will lose their goods which had not been moved to upper stories of buildings, as no danger was apprehended.

[Shawneetown, Ill., has a population of about 2,000 inhabitants, and is situated on the west bank of the Ohio river. The streets were parallel with the river, the principal business street being but two blocks distant from the water. The level of the river is about 15 feet above the city, and the levee bank is about 20 feet thick. Situated on this bank and level with the river is the Riverside hotel, a large, four-story building built by Henry Docher When the river is at its normal stage it is 1,000 feet wide at this point, and the citizens have long feared a catastrophe such as occurred Sunday night, as a tremendous pressure is brought to bear on the levee during freshets. Several years ago during a flood the water flowed over the levee and the streets were under two feet of water. The levee was strengthened and built up afterward, and the town has since considered there was no danger.]

FURTHER DETAILS.

The List of Dead Will Probably Reach One Hundred—A Call for Aid.

Shawneetown, Ill., April 5.—The number of lives lost by the break in the Ohio river levee Sunday afternoon will not be known for several days, perhaps weeks. The impression seems to be that the total will be 100 or perhaps a little more than that figure. The real systematic work of recovering the bodies has not commenced, consequently it is impossible to make a fair estimate of the number of fatalities. Scores of families were at table when the disaster occurred, and in the fingers of one corpse rescued from the flood was a tightly clutched teaspoon.

Some of the Victims.

The names of those known to have perished are as follows:

Mrs. C. R. Galloway, Mary Galloway, Dora Galloway, Mrs. Charles Clayton, Charles Clayton, Milton Clayton, Jessie Clayton, Myrtle Clayton, Gertie Clayton, Brownie Clayton, Mrs. Paul Phelan and five children, Mary Phelan, Washington Callicott, Mrs. Washington Callicott, Col. John Callicott, Mary McCallister, Ellen McCallister, Noah Welch, Mrs. Noah Welch, Mrs. McLean, Tillie McLean, Frank Morrison, Ida Rineholt, Jennie Rineholt, Mrs. John Holly, Mrs. Edward Fletck and adopted daughter, John Fletck, Caroline Spaulding, Richard Fletcher, Jane Fletcher (colored), Mrs. Tany, Cora Sherwood, Mrs. Charles Kopf and five children, Mrs. A. A. Hathaway, Miss Florence Evans, M. Sainsbly and wife, Mrs. Webb, Fred Rineholt, Mrs. Fred Rineholt and three children, Henry King and four children, six colored children.

Wide Extent of the Flood.

The extent of the flood is best shown by the fact that from Shawneetown inward to Ridgway, fully 12 miles back of the hills, and south an equal distance, the entire country is submerged. In Shawneetown itself the flood seems to have selected one course along which to vent its fury. Striking the town at the head of Courthouse street, it swept down that thoroughfare, tearing up everything that came in its way. Of course, the waves spread over the whole town, but the heaviest damage was done and most lives lost along a line parallel with Courthouse street.

Rescuers who have traversed the water-bound city in skiffs agree that fully 200 houses were swept away. This number includes only structures of substantial architecture, chiefly dwellings. The situation is almost hopeless for the people of the city, as they must wait until the river falls before the water can be driven out, and the river is still rising.

ON A WAR FOOTING.

Iowa Legislature Before Adjournment Voted an Appropriation of $500,000—Work of the Session.

Des Moines, Ia., April 2.—The Twenty-seventh general assembly adjourned Friday night at six o'clock. Before adjournment both houses by unanimous vote appropriated $500,000 and placed it at the disposal of the governor for use in case of war with Spain. A resolution was passed commending President McKinley and Consul-General Lee.

Des Moines, Ia. April 4.—The general assembly passed 97 bills, not including all of the appropriation bills; five joint resolutions, the support-fund bills and the legalization acts. The assembly appropriated $317,035 for state institutions extraordinary expenses, $121,428.95 for general purposes and additional bills for support of state institutions amounting to $77,500. The sum of $140,751.87 is what the session cost the taxpayers of Iowa.

Miners on Strike.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 6.—In direct opposition to the instructions of President Dolan before he left for Ohio coal miners in the Pittsburgh district to the number of 4,500 are now on strike and to-day's mass meeting at West Elizabeth may result in a large addition to this number. President Dolan wanted the diggers to work in all mines where the operators evidenced a desire to comply with the conditions of the interstate agreement. The diggers, however, have refused to return to work until the new screens are in place.

Forbids the Divorced to Wed.

New York, April 2.—After nearly six years of labor the joint commission appointed by the general convention of the Episcopal church in 1892 for the purpose of revising the constitution and canons of the church has completed its task. One of the subjects which is sure to stir up strife in the church at large is the revision of the canon on marriage so as to forbid the marriage of either of a divorced pair during the lifetime of the other.

Indians Willing to Fight.

Sioux Falls, S. D., April 2.—Six hundred Sioux Indians, under the leadership of six fighting braves from Pine Ridge agency, have tendered their services to Gov. Lee to reinforce the state militia. They say they are only too willing to go to war if permitted to fight Spain. Most of these Indians were with Sitting Bull at the massacre of Gen. Custer and the Seventh cavalry.

Dreyfuss Reported Dead.

Paris, April 6.—A rumor was current here Tuesday that Alfred Dreyfus, the former captain of artillery who was sentenced to imprisonment for life for betraying important military secrets to a foreign power, is dead. He was undergoing imprisonment on Devil's island, off the coast of French Guiana. The colonial office, however, has no information on the subject.

Spain Bought Mines.

London, April 5.—Investigation here shows that Havana harbor was mined, and that Spain purchased the terrible engines of destruction in this city. The patentee says that it was one of his contrivances that wrecked the Maine; that an accidental explosion of the mine was impossible, and that the manipulation of three keys was necessary to fire the terrible destroyer.

Appeal for Peace.

Washington, April 5. — The home rule government of Cuba, through the Cuban cabinet, of which Premier Galves is the head, Monday issued a manifesto appealing to all those bearing arms in Cuba, insurgents as well as Spaniards, by mutual consent and understanding, to cease hostilities and consider a reestablishment of peace on a strong and firm basis.

To Help Americans in Havana.

Key West, Fla., April 5.—Acting under orders from Washington, Capt. Sampson, commander of the United States fleet in these waters, sent the survey boat Bache Monday from the Tortugas to Havana. It is assumed here that she goes to afford a mode of safe egress for American citizens should a riot occur in Havana or war be declared.

Gets Another Donation.

Chicago, April 2.—An Easter gift of $320,000 has been handed to the University of Chicago. The donor of almost one-half of the amount is unknown save to President Harper and the board of trustees. The friends of the university know that it came from a woman. John D. Rockefeller will duplicate the gifts, said Dr. Harper.

Will Explore Alaska.

Seattle, Wash., April 6.—The United States gunboat Wheeling left here for Alaska. She has on board the members of the government geological survey parties bound for Haines Mission and Cook's Inlet, for the purpose of making a thorough exploration of Alaska.

Vote to Avert Hostilities.

Savannah, Ga., April 6. — The Savannah cotton exchange, by a vote of 31 to 12, voted in favor of averting a conflict with Spain or any other country so far as it can be done honorably.

Five Persons Drowned.

Spottsville, Ky., April 4. — John Harris and his wife and child and two man named Hicks were drowned near here by the capsizing of a boat.

WAR NOW SEEMS CERTAIN

Spain's Answer to the Latest Note from Washington Is Considered Very Unsatisfactory.

GEN. LEE INSTRUCTED TO LEAVE CUBA.

A Fleet of Vessels Sent to Havana—The President's Message to Congress Is Ready—Capt. Sigsbee, of the Maine, Says Treachery Caused the Maine Explosion.

Washington, April 2.—The following official statement of the contents of the cablegram received from Minister Woodford Thursday night is made public:

That the Spanish government has placed at the disposal of the governor general the credit of 3,000,000 pesetas ($600,000) to the end that the country people may return at once and with success to their labors.

The Spanish government will accept whatever assistance to feed and succor the necessitous may be sent from the United States, in accordance with the plan now in operation.

Spain proposes to confide the preparation for an honorable and stable peace to the insular parliament, without whose concurrence the Spanish government would not be able to arrive at the final result, it being understood that the powers reserved by the constitution to the central government are not lessened or diminished.

As the Cuban chambers will not meet until the 4th day of May, the Spanish government will not, on its part, object to a suspension of hostilities, if asked for by the insurgents from the general in chief, to whom it will belong to determine the duration and the condition of the suspension.

The Flotilla Halted.

Madrid, April 4.—The Spanish cabinet has decided that the torpedo flotilla shall remain at Cape Verde island until further orders. The flotilla will be joined by a squadron composed of the Charles V., the Alphonse XIII., the Infanta Teresa and the Cristopher Colon, which will accompany it to Cuba. It has also been decided that the Vizcaya and Oquendo, as soon as they are sighted at Porto Rico, shall be ordered to return to Havana.

Consul General Lee Recalled.

Washington, April 6.—How close Spain and the United States have now come to war may be judged from the fact that Consul-General Lee has been recalled from Havana as a percautionary measure for his personal safety. The other consular representatives in Cuba will also be directed to return to this country, and it is expected that Minister Woodford and the American diplomatic and consular representatives in Spain will be ordered home within the next 24 hours.

The administration confesses anxiety as to the situation in Havana and constant communication is kept up with Gen. Lee in fear of a possible outbreak. It is thought over 1,000 Americans will be eager to leave Havana to-day. To care for this crowd there are the Fern, the Bache and the Mangrove, all government vessels, and the passenger steamers Olivette and Mascotte.

Message Will Not Be Delayed.

The message is ready, makes about 7,000 words and has been approved by the cabinet. It recommends armed intervention (but so far as known without stating that this should be immediate) by the United States to prevent hostilities and succor for the starving people. It makes an argument against recognition of independence at this time and leaves it clear that in the opinion of the administration it is the duty of this government to supervise the affairs of the island until, in the light of fuller and later knowledge, a stable government can establish. The attitude of congress on this policy cannot be foretold in advance of its official promulgation in the president's message.

Can't Agree on Mediation.

The day was prolific of reports of mediation on the part of the European powers, but a summary of all the news on this point is that the powers of Europe cannot agree, and that their interference would be unacceptable to the government of the United States.

Blown Up by Treachery.

Capt. Sigsbee, in the course of his examination before the house committee on foreign affairs, stated it to be his opinion that his vessel, the Maine, was blown up by a submarine mine located by the Spanish authorities. As to whether it was fired by the Spanish authorities or not, he declined to express an opinion. He told the committee what he had testified to before the board of inquiry about the buoy to which the Maine was anchored being the most unfrequented buoy in the harbor.

The position in which the ship was placed, he said, was such that he could have fired upon both forts at the same time.

Fatal Explosion.

Bellaire, O., April 5.—At the Wheeling iron works in Benwood a boiler explosion killed David Gearry, of Old Hundred, W. Va., fatally injured Owen Tates, of Bellaire, O., and badly scalded four others.

Ives Defeats Schaefer.

Chicago, April 4.—Frank Ives defeated Jacob Schaefer Saturday night in a match for the championship at 18-inch balk-line billiards, by a score of [illegible]

"Two years ago an attack of LaGrippe left me with a weak heart. I had run down in flesh to mere skin and bone. I could not sleep lying down for smothering spells; frequent sharp darting pains and palpitation caused a constant fear of sudden death, nothing could induce me to remain away from home over night. My local physician prescribed Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and in a few days I was able to sleep well and the pains gradually lessened, and finally ceased. I reduced the the doses, having gained fifteen pounds, and am now feeling better in every way than I have for years."

Indigestion---Dyspepsia.

The Results of the New Cure for Indigestion and Nervous Dyspepsia.

Drake's Dyspepsia Cure & Nerve Restorer, a wellspring of life, is pouring into thousands of homes to day; stubborn cases that have baffled all other remedies yield to the efficacy of this marvelous treatment, and permanent cures are the inevitable results from its use. For sale by John J. Orr, leading druggist, Tecumseh Mich. A book on Stomach and Nerve troubles, their symptoms and cure, will be given free for the asking at above mentioned drug store. Read following statement:

To Whom It May Concern: To those suffering from stomach and nerve troubles I wish to recommend Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer. About 20 years ago I began to be troubled with my stomach. It gradually grew worse, even under treatment, until it became difficult for me to eat any kind of food with comfort. For the past five years I have been able to retain very little food of the simplest nature long enough to digest it. Seldom during this time have I enjoyed sleep throughout the entire night, and usually have been obliged to leave my bed in consequence of my stomach and nerve troubles. My bowels were very much relaxed, said to be due to inflammation of the membrane of the intestines. I was treated by physicians, and tried nearly every known remedy recommended for my troubles with no lasting benefit, and usually not even temporary relief. On the 5th day of January, '98, I purchased a package of Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer, and I wish every dyspeptic knew how much I have improved from its use. My food does not distress me as it did, and I have no trouble in retaining it. I sleep well and feel refreshed therefrom, and, although I have used only one package of the medicine, I can safely say that I am 75 per cent. better than I have been during the past 20 years. Yours respectfully, MRS. GIDEON STODDARD, Litchfield, Mich., Jan. 24, 1898.

CATARRH SIX YEARS.

Grew Rapidly Worse---Doctors Did No Good.

Mrs. Adam Staats, Mequon, Wis., in a recent letter to Dr. Hartman, writes:

"I write this letter because of my sympathy for the suffering people. For six years I suffered with chronic catarrh. When ever I caught a little cold I would have a severe spell of sickness. I used different catarrh medicines and the doctors did all they could, but the relief was only temporary. In December, 1897, my condition became very bad. I could not speak aloud; I had a terrible cough, profuse expectoration and frequently spit blood; night sweats and extreme emaciation. I was sure I must die of consumption. The catarrh seemed to have spread all over my body; my head, nose, throat, bladder and womb. At this time I received a book concerning Pe-ru-na. I immediately wrote to Dr. Hartman, who prescribed Pe-ru-na and Man-a-lin. I followed his directions strictly. I began to improve with the first bottle, and during the time that I took the medicines I gained twenty pounds. I feel as well now as anyone could possibly feel. I am sure I would have been dead long ago had it not been for Dr. Hartman's advice and medicine."

Every woman should have a copy of Dr. Hartman's latest book entitled "Health and Beauty." Sent free by The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio.

THE ELECTIONS.

Republicans Carry the Day in Small Towns—In Larger Cities the Democrats Are Winners.

Detroit, Mich., April 5.—Municipal elections were held Monday in all Michigan cities excepting Detroit and Port Huron. Democrats showed decided gains in most of the larger cities, but republicans retained control in a majority of the smaller ones. In Grand Rapids republican majorities were entirely overthrown. George R. Perry (dem.) was elected mayor on the issue of "personal liberty" against rigid enforcement of Sunday and liquor laws. All the new city officers are democrats. The latter elected all the ward supervisors and most of the aldermen. Saginaw democrats swept the city ticket and elected 13 out of 15 aldermen. In Bay City the democrats elected the recorder and a minority of the aldermen. Republicans elected the entire West Bay City ticket. Jackson reelected a democratic mayor and a majority of republican aldermen. The council, however, remains democratic. Benton Harbor elected a democratic mayor for the first time, with a republican council. Kalamazoo democrats elected their mayor and a majority of aldermen. At Marquette the citizens' mayoralty candidate defeated his silver-democrat opponent. Muskegon republicans elected mayor and five out of eight aldermen. Democratic or fusionist mayors won in Manistee, Ypsilanti, St. Ignace, Marshall, Albion, Sturgis, Ionia and Owosso. Republican mayors were elected in Traverse City, Adrian, Coldwater, Stanton, Eaton Rapids, Battle Creek, Big Rapids, Sault Ste Marie, Hillsdale, Alpena, Holland, Cadillac and Menominee. Negaunee elected labor candidates. J. W. Milliken (rep.) was elected state senator in the Traverse district to succeed Covell, resigned.

PINGREE GETS ORDERS.

Michigan Reserves Are Being Provided with the Equipments Necessary for Active Service.

Detroit, April 4.—Gov. Pingree Sunday night received a dispatch from Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt requesting that the Michigan naval reserve be fully equipped and made ready for instant service in case of a call from the government. Gov. Pingree at once wired Adjt. Gen. Irish directing him to procure such uniforms and equipments as are necessary to fill out the requirements of the reserve in preparing it for active duty. The state has no money appropriated for such purposes, but Gov. Pingree will send a message to the legislature recommending appropriating it this week. The Detroit and Saginaw divisions of the Michigan naval reserve include 200 officers and men, their full quota being 250. Their armament consists of four three-inch breech-loading rifles and a Gatling gun. The reserve's officers say they could be ready to move in two hours' time, and that their command is qualified to take charge of a ship from boiler room to pilot house.

A School Girl's Nerves.

From the "New Era," Greensburg, Ind.

Mothers who have young daughters of school age should watch their health more carefully than their studies. The proper development of their body is of the first importance. After the confinement of the school room, plenty of out-of-door exercise should be taken. It is better that their children never learn their a, b, c's, than that by learning them they lose their health.

But all this is self-evident. Everyone admits it—everyone knows it, but everyone does not know how to build them up when once they are broken down. The following method of one mother, if rightly applied, may save your daughter:

The young lady was Miss Lucy Barnes, the fifteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Barnes, who lives near Burney, Ind. She is a bright young lady, is fond of books, although her progress in this line has been considerably retarded by the considerable amount of sickness she has experienced. She has missed two years of school on account of her bad health, but now she will be able to pursue her studies, since her health has been restored.

Her father was talking of her case to a newspaper man one day recently. "My daughter has had a very serious time of it," said Mr. Barnes, "but now we are all happy to know that she is getting along all right and is stronger than ever." Asked to relate the story of his daughter, Mr. Barnes continued: "About three years ago, when she was twelve years old, she began to grow weak and nervous. It was, of course, a delicate age for her. She gradually grew weaker and her nerves were at such a tension that the least little noise would irritate her very much, and she was very miserable. There was a continual twitching in the arms and lower limbs, and we were afraid that she was going to develop St. Vitus' dance.

"She kept getting worse and finally we had to take her from her school and her studies. She was strong and healthy before, weighing eighty-five pounds, and in three months she had dwindled to sixty-three pounds. She was thin and pale, and was almost lifeless. We did everything we could for her, and tried all the doctors who we thought could do her any good, but without result.

"There was an old family friend near Milford who had a daughter afflicted the same way, and she was cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They came here one day to spend Sunday, and they told us about their daughter's case. It was very much like Lucy's, and they advised us to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for her. We had no faith in them, but were finally persuaded to try the pills. We have never been sorry for it. They helped her at once, and by the time she had taken eight boxes of the medicine she was entirely cured. She took the last dose in April, and has not been bothered since. She is now stronger than ever, weighs ten pounds more than ever before, and her cheeks are full of color. She can now gratify her ambition to study and become an educated woman."

Those who are in a position to know, state that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People is not a patent medicine but a prescription used for many years by an eminent practitioner who produced the most wonderful results with them, curing all forms of weakness arising from a watery condition of the blood or shattered nerves, two fruitful causes of almost every ill to which flesh is heir. The pills are also a specific for the troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, all forms of weakness, chronic constipation, bearing down pains, etc., and in the case of men will give speedy relief and effect a permanent cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of whatever nature. They are entirely harmless and can be given to weak and sickly children with the greatest good and without the slightest danger. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 (they are never sold in bulk or by the 100), by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

The coolness which has arisen between the D. & L. N. and D. T. & M. railway, seems to have taken effect on the employes. Notes and Condensations Concerning the Railroads.

General Superintendent Elliott arrived in the city to-day, and established his headquarters in the Gardner. Since Mr. Elliott has taken charge of the property he has made an excellent showing in the reorganization of its forces. He is a practical railroader of ripe experience, and in his hands the road will be run in an economical manner. His chief clerk is Don Garwood, formerly city passenger agent for the C. H. & D., one of the most popular railroad men in the city. Don has a host of friends who will be pleased to hear of his return to the city. He is an expert stenographer and operator and railroad man of experience. The change looks much like moving the old C. J. & M. back to Toledo. Among those who were formerly located here with the C. J. & M. are General Freight and Passenger Agent Whipple and his chief clerk, Fred Franks, and O. A. Wilson, F. M. Bauer, Harry Hall and W. M. Edison, of the auditing department.—Toledo Blade.

A Michigan Central special, consisting of two coaches and a buffet car, carrying the Knights of Columbus, of Detroit, made record breaking time between Detroit and Chicago Sunday morning at 6:40 o'clock, and arrived in Chicago a few minutes before the noon hour, having made the run in a little over five hours, breaking all records. Conductor M. Beam was in charge of the train and Engineer Al. Austin was at the throttle. The engineer was not in the habit of making fast runs. Between some stations the train attained a velocity of 75 miles an hour. The 48 miles between Kalamazoo and Niles, up grade, was made exactly in 48 minutes. —Ann Arbor Democrat.

Supt. Bradley, of the Ann Anbor road, has notified employes that on and after May 1, all ticket agents, telegraph operators, freight and passenger conductors, passenger brakemen and the first, second and third officers of the company's steamers shall wear, while on duty, such uniforms as the management designates. The uniforms are to be of dark blue material, those of the conductors and steamboat officers being provided with gilt or gold buttons, and those of the other employes with silver buttons. The lady ticket agents will wear a uniform consisting of dark blue blouse and skirt.—Ann Arbor Democrat.

Ticket Accountant Baldwin will remain with the D. & L. N. instead of going with the Standard Oil Co.

Master of Transportation Allen is back in Tecumseh and his family will come next week.

Theo. A. Mette is the new cashier for the D. & L. N. He comes from the Grand Trunk.

Enroute to Alaska—Letter No. 2.

Seattle, Wash., Mar. 10, 1898.

You will see by this that I have finally arrived at Seattle. We just got here this evening about 5 o'clock, and are all well and have enjoyed our trip immensely; I think I wrote you last from Winnepeg, well, after leaving that city, there was not much to see to interest a person for it was such a sameness; hundreds of miles of level country as level as a floor, the famous Manitoba wheat belt. There was lots of snow through there, drifts that half buried the houses.

When we struck the foot hills of the Rockies, it was in the morning and was snowing quite hard, and the boys felt badly because they could not get a good view, but before we got into the mountains it cleared up and we were happy. There was some fine scenery in the Rockies during the afternoon, and about sundown we reached the Selkirk mountains and the scenery was finer than the Rockies. There was a full moon, and it was the finest sight I ever saw, almost as light as day, and we sat up till about midnight watching the ever changing views, fairly enchanted with it. Sometimes we would go out on the platform and watch it till we were about frozen and then we would go in and view it from the car window. We had two engines to take us to the top and it made them puff pretty hard some of the time, as we had seven coaches and two baggage cars. Some of the time we would be half way up the side of the mountain and could not see the top or the bottom, just a track blasted out of the rock. Taking the combination of mountain, snow, timber and moon, it was the finest sight I ever saw and one I shall remember many a day.

The next day we were in the Cascades and I think they are the finest of all; lots of tunnels, trestles and wild places. When we got part way down they changed engines and cars and that engineer was a reckless "kuss," for the way we went down, around curves, through tunnels, over trestles, etc., for about three hours would have made my hair stand on end if I had not jammed my hat down harder. Then I would go out on the platform, but it was generally several thousand feet down to the bottom, and they would be going so fast I did not dare to jump off, so I stayed on and took my chances. The engineer didn't seem to be in so much of a hurry after he got down to the bottom where it was all straight, level and smooth going. Then we went through the Coast Range, but they are tame compared with the others.

We reached Vancouver Tuesday night and stayed all night, took a steamer for Victoria yesterday at 3 p. m. and it was a very nice little trip of about seventy miles. We held our last concert on the boat which was a fine, one and well furnished. There was a piano in the parlor and we had quite a concert. We were not dressed quite as fine as most of the passengers, but that didn't interfere with the program or our playing in the least. We had a pretty large audience and they seemed to enjoy it for they encored us a plenty and didn't throw any bricks—or gold nuggets—at us.

We reached Victoria at about 10 p. m. and stayed till 11 a. m. today, when we took the steamer, City of Kingston, for Seattle. This steamer, by the way, used to run on the Hudson river and was brought around the Horn and put into service here on the Sound. There were only two others of our party who came on with us as the rest intend to outfit in Victoria and go to the Klondyke. We had a very fine trip down the sound today. It was as still and smooth as I ever saw Sand lake, and the day was clear and warm and it was nice to sit out on deck and see the sights. We could see old Mt. Baker with its snow clad top, about 100 miles away, also Mt. Ranier, said to be 125 miles away. There are mountains in any direction you look. No snow here except on the mountains; in fact there was no snow after we left the Cascade Mts. Grass and shrubbery are green and nice and flowers in bloom out in the yards here. There was any amount of ducks on the sound; they would wait till the boat was almost on them and swim to one side, hardly ever fly away. I wished for my shot gun several times.

Well this has been a great trip, and a very pleasant one so far, although it was very long. If you look on the map you will see that we went a long distance out of our way. The C. P. R'y got into trouble with the Grand Trunk, so they took us away around by Toronto. We figured it out the other day and it was a little over 3000 miles by rail and by the boats about 160 miles. We had our choice of rail or boats from Vancouver, but thought we would take the latter as we had been on the cars about long enough for awhile. We laid over in Toronto half a day and one day in Winnepeg, besides other places where we made quite long stops. Our tickets would run out tonight or I don't know but we would have been longer about it. It was limited to ten days but guess the C. P. R. would have extended it if we had asked them as they are very accommodating.

Send me a HERALD or two just to the general delivery here and perhaps I will get them before I leave here, as we have not made any arrangements yet and don't know how long we may be here. If we left I could have them forwarded on perhaps. Give my regards to all. I will write you again as soon as we decide what we will do.

GEO. W. KNAPP.

The latest electrical invention is called the fernseher, and owes its existence to a German electrician. With this instrument form and color are transmitted over the wires, so that a person at any distance can call up a friend and not only converse with, but actually see him, though many miles away. This invention is the connecting link between the telephone and biograph, and it is believed by scientists, that by this same transformation of light waves into electric waves the apparatus may be adapted to printing manuscript and even newspapers on photographic plates at any distance.

GRANGE INSTITUTE

Lenawee County, held at Sutton's Opera House, Thursday, April 7.

Early in the forenoon yesterday farmer's teams began to arrive and every vehicle was loaded full of people to attend the Grange meeting. Trains from every direction brought more delegates and by the time of opening the meeting about 500 guests were ready to participate. First came a picnic dinner, after which the meeting was opened by Master Williams, of Fruit Ridge.

The Hon. Geo. B. Horton, of Fruit Ridge, then addressed the meeting stating as its object, "That several new orders had been organized in the county and this institute would give them encouragement and help." The program, in charge of Lecturer Geo. D. Moore, of Medina, was as follows:

Address of Welcome, Dr. Geo. Howell.

Response, on behalf of the Grange Hollis Taylor.

Response, for citizens of Tecumseh, D. T. Hall.

"The Origin of the Grange," Mrs. Mary Mayo, Battle Creek.

"The Future of the Grange," Ex-Gov. Cyrus G. Luce, Coldwater.

Recitation—Little Miss Furgeson.

"The Grange in Legislation," Hon. Horace Holdridge.

"The Grange as an Educator," Mrs. Mary Beal.

"The Farmer under a Co-operative System," L. C. Chase.

"The Grange Woman," Mrs. Campbell.

The program was interspersed with selections by the Wolf Creek orchestra and the Grange choir and numerous recitations.

In the evening the secret work of the order was attended to and a number of new members initiated. In all the institute was very successful and the HERALD unites with the citizens of Tecumseh in inviting our farmer friends to visit the village again.

To Whom This May Concern:

I have been nearly blind in my right eye for years, and have had pain in the right side of my head, which I supposed was neuralgia, and finally my sight began to fail in my left eye. I consulted Mr. E. F. Kirchgessner, who fitted me with glasses, and after making two changes of lenses, I now have perfect vision in both eyes. I do fine cabinet work, and find my glasses are a great help towards doing good work. Mr. Kirchgessner also fitted my wife with glasses, which have releived her entirely of headache, from which she was a sufferer for years. G. V. STANTON.

The Township Election.

A very light vote was polled at the township election Monday, less than 600 of the 850 electors exercising the right of franchise. The voters do not seem to improve materially in voting the blanket ticket correctly as eight ballots were thrown out, most of which had no mark whatever upon them, but seemed to have been dropped in with the idea that the election boards were mind readers. From the candidates elected it may be seen that party lines had very little to do with the contest and therefore the political strength of either party is hard to estimate. Taking for instance the first two names on the ticket, the democratic candidate for supervisor and the republican candidate for clerk 212 votes apart and both elected. Following is the tabulated result, the name of the republican nominee appearing first in each case:

	Whole No.	Each.	Maj.
Supervisor—	592
Robert S Moore,		241
Wm. H. Hayden,		351	110
Clerk—	590
Milton E. Jenkins,		346	102
Albert N. Conger,		244

Cost over $100,000 to publish. Contains nearly 200 full-page engravings of our Saviour, by the great masters. Every picture is reproduced from some famous painting. Agents are taking from three to twenty orders per day. The book is so beautiful that when people see it they want it. The Hermitalge, Prado, Uffizi, Pitti, Louvre, Vatican, National of London, National of Berlin, Belvidere and other celebrated European galleries have placed their greatest and rarest treasures at our disposal that they might be engraved for this superb work. "Some high grade man or woman should secure the agency here at once," says every editor, "as $500 can soon be made taking orders for it." Nearly $10,000 expended on new plates for edition coming from press. Also a man or woman of good church standing can secure position of Manager and Correspondent of this territory, to devote all his time to employing and drilling agents and corresponding with them. PINGREE'S TAX MEASURE.

Lower House of the Legislature Quickly Passes the Amended Bill by a Vote of 90 to 3.

GOVERNOR TO SEND ANOTHER MESSAGE.

It Will Propose the Taxation of All Other Corporations—War Appropriation to Be Brought Before the Legislature Soon—General Gossip from the Capital.

[Special Correspondence.]

Lansing, April 4.—The Pingree railroad tax bill passed the house Friday by the surprising vote of 90 to 3. It is very doubtful of passage in the senate without radical amendments. As passed, it simply provides for a commission to appraise railroad property for taxation. The auditor general of the state is chairman, and the two others are to be elected on the general ticket, although the auditor general, secretary of state, land commissioner and state treasurer constitute the commission until January 1, 1899. Its opponents believe that it is unconstitutional. The senate will consider the bill next Wednesday, and further amendments are probable. The bill received 90 votes, but three being recorded against it. The latter were cast by Harris, of Cheboygan; Rulinson, of Marquette, and Smith, of Houghton.

Gov. Pingree is greatly pleased, but confessed his disappointment, as he expected the vote would be unanimous. He expressed his willingness to submit a message taking up the question of taxation of all other corporations when the senate shall have passed the present bill.

By a unanimous vote the house has requested Gov. Pingree to advise by special message the enactment of laws made necessary by the recent decision of the supreme court declaring void thousands of tax titles. The resolution declares that the state will be unable to collect taxes on at least 100,000 descriptions of land, that the money consideration involved is between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 and that thousands of homesteaders on state-tax lands are in danger of losing both their lands and improvements thereon. By a similar vote the house requested the governor for a message recommending the enactment of laws requiring other corporations than those mentioned in the message already submitted to pay their full share of taxes. The corporations aimed at are electric railways, street railways, gaslight companies, plank road companies, and fire and life insurance companies.

Two bills are now being prepared in the office of the adjutant general which will be introduced in the state legislature as soon as the governor by special message brings it within the scope of that body to legislate upon subjects other than those which were named in his call for a special session. The first bill will provide for an appropriation of $500,000 to place the state on a war footing, and will be similar in terms to the law of 1861 by which an appropriation of $1,000,000 was made for war purposes. The bill will provide for the issue of bonds for a term not exceeding 20 years, probably at five per cent. interest, to be issued as the money is required. The second bill provides for increasing the membership of the Michigan national guard to 150 men per company, the present law limiting the membership to 80 men and three commissioned officers.

Capt. Gardner, U. S. A., has been in consultation with Adjt. Gen. Irish and several communications have been received from the governor bearing upon the subject under consideration. Arrangements were made for the equipment for the state naval reserves, the number to be increased to 300.

The 20 days for which the legislators may draw pay for services at an extra session will expire this week. As it took a friendly house two weeks to dispose of the railway tax bill, it is considered altogether improbable that a hostile senate will complete its discussion in four days. The best informed observers believe that the senate will not reach a vote, and that the governor will call another session the moment this one is adjourned.

A very satisfactory hearing on the subject of taxation was had by the senate committee Thursday morning. Railroad Commissioner Wesselius was present and told why he wanted a change in the system of taxing railroads. Taxation of gross earnings is not constitutional, he said, and is unsatisfactory. By that system railroads escape taxation in proportion to the value of their property, when the times are hard and business poor.

Gov. Pingree has appointed the following agents of the state board of corrections and charities: Albert H. Rolph, of Escanaba, for Delta county to succeed J. C. Van Duer, deceased; Joseph R. Edwards, of Dowagiac, for Cass county. He has also appointed the following circuit court commissioners: Winfield S. Hanson, of Hart, for Oceana county; C. E. Densmore, of Bellaire, for Antrim county. EMMETT.

Lansing, April 6.—The supreme court has sustained the constitutionality of the act of 1897 for the incorporation of all religious and ecclesiastical bodies. The opinion holds that this law repeals all special acts for the incorporation of church societies of various denominations.

Grand Rapids, April 1.—Eliza Mitchell (colored) was bound over to the superior court for trial on the charge of manslaughter. She is accused of starving a six-months'-old child to death and the death of another child was ascribed to starvation and ill treatment.

WILL DO THEIR PART.

Men from the North and South Want to Fight for the Union.

President McKinley's War Record—Ex-Confederates and Veterans in Blue Offer Their Services to Secretary Alger.

[Special Washington Letter.]

"I WAS only 18 years of age when I enlisted in the Twenty-third Ohio infantry, June 11, 1861," said President McKinley to Senator Allison, in the white house, in the presence of an old acquaintance, who is a newspaper man and a correspondent of a number of weekly papers. "I was full of enthusiasm then, for I did not realize what war was. I soon found out its horrors. Because of my personal recollections of the suffering of men on the field of battle, I have deprecated war, and besides, as I have grown older, I have come to understand what it means to our entire people. It means empty houses, empty hearts and empty futures for our young men and women; for our little children who know nothing of the causes which deprive them of fathers, and of the comforts of their homes."

There you have the words of the president of the United States; a man who went into the war for the defense of the union when he was not yet a full-grown man; one who saw the carnage of battle, and who witnessed the sufferings of those who went to hospital and died of diseases contracted by exposure to wind and weather in various climates and under all sorts of conditions. It is no wonder that he has done all within his power to avert war. He is primarily responsible for the present and future welfare of our country, and he has been heroically doing his duty, as he has seen it.

"I was a young man, full of enthusiasm and determined to do my part," says Secretary of War Alger, "when I entered the service in the Second Michigan cavalry. But now, in my later years, I am thrilled as I was 37 years ago. Then it was my own patriotism which thrilled me. Now it is the thrill of the patriotism of the country which renews my youth. In my official capacity I have been receiving letters from all parts of the country, from veterans of our own war, tendering their services in the event of war. The greatest of all the surviving confederate generals, James Longstreet, writes that he is ready for military duty. He is about 80 years of age, but is a graduate of West Point, and served in the Mexican war, and also, under Lee, in the war of the rebellion. He might not be able to go into the field, but his military knowledge and experience would be of great service to the country.

"Then again Joseph Wheeler, of Alabama, who was graduated from West Point military academy in 1859, and who was a lieutenant general of cavalry when only 24 years of age, tenders his services. His military ability is conceded, and his energy in all things would make him a splendid soldier for the republic in the field or in the advisory councils of the war department.

COL. FREDERICK D. GRANT.
(Willing to Serve Wherever He May Be Ordered to Go.)

"But one of the letters received deeply touched my heart. It came from Frederick Dent Grant, son of Ulysses S. Grant. He writes that when a young man he served under his distinguished father in the siege of Vicksburg, at Chattanooga, Missionary Ridge, in the Wilderness, Spottsylvania and Petersburg campaigns; that he afterwards entered West Point military academy, and was graduated in 1871; that he served in Indian campaigns under Gen. Miles; that he was an officer on the staff of Gen. Sherman, and also served in the same capacity on the staff of Lieut. Gen. Sheridan; and he concludes by saying that the record of the war department will show in what capacity he is best fitted to serve his country, and that he will respond to any order that may be issued, and will do his duty, to the best of his ability, wherever he may be directed to serve.

"Is it any wonder that my blood should be thrilled with the enthusiasm of my younger days when the son of my old federal commander comes thus to the front, and when the old confederate soldiers come right along requesting a chance to serve this united country of ours? People have wondered why I have recovered from my protracted illness. I tell you, if it had not been for this marvelous manifestation of universal patriotism I would have been unable to attend to my duties as I have done."

The reader will better understand this enthusiastic talk of the secretary of war when informed of the fact that during the months of December and January last Gen. Alger was confined to his bed, and, for a time, was not expected to live. He had just recovered enough strength to go to the war department, in a lassitudinous sort of way, to look after routine business, when the battleship Maine was destroyed and our sailors were murdered in Havana harbor. He is a rich man, and was talking to his friends about resigning from the cabinet, to ask

BRYAN AT DETROIT.

The Distinguished Nebraskan Delivers an Address at Banquet of the Mohawk Club.

Detroit, April 6.—A thousand radical advocates of bimetallism listened to their distinguished national leader in the Auditorium Tuesday night and enjoyed a love feast of partisanship and of patriotism. As many more watched the scene from the galleries. The occasion was the second annual banquet of the Mohawk club, and the presence of William Jennings Bryan coupled with the intensity of public patriotism in the present war crisis made the event one of unusual interest.

Mr. Bryan's address was preceded by those of a half dozen Michigan free silver orators, all of whom referred to the war crisis, but Mr. Bryan himself made no detailed allusion to the threatened conflict, although his address was extremely patriotic in tone. His subject, "Democracy," was handled rather from the broad standpoint of free and equal rights than in the line of a more narrow partisanship.

A letter was read from George Fred Williams, of Boston, who wrote: "The capitalistic forces of the republican party have permitted more than 200,000 innocent women and children to be starved to death in Cuba, when the American people have almost unanimously demanded their rescue. This horror could not have been continued a month under the administration of William J. Bryan."

SCATTERED TO THE WINDS.

Ashes of Robert Reitzel, the Detroit Anarchist, Disposed Of According to His Wish.

Detroit, April 3.—Robert Reitzel, editor and publisher of Der Arme Teufel, a German paper well known both in this country and in Germany, died at his home here Friday. His writings were of an anarchistic character and among anarchistic circles he was a power. He is best remembered, perhaps, through his delivering the principal address at the funeral of the Chicago anarchists who were hanged for complicity in the Haymarket riots. On Sunday his body was destroyed according to a programme mapped out by himself. The corpse was cremated, and in the presence of his relatives the ashes, still warm, were scattered to the four winds. There was no religious service.

Big Lumber Cut.

Grand Marias, April 2.—Navigation at this place is open and tugs have been fitted out and are running night and day. It is estimated that the log cut at this place this year will be more than 60,000,000 feet, the largest since the town was incorporated. The usual large fields of floating ice are not to be seen on Lake Superior this spring, and navigation is open all along the south shore.

Pioneer Dead.

Niles, April 1. — Clarkson S. Bradbury, a pioneer of this city, is dead, aged 78 years. Mr. Bradbury went to California in 1849 and amassed a fortune by mining and running a pack train from Seattle to Idaho. He was at one time considered one of the wealthiest men in the west, but he lost his fortune in a disastrous bank failure.

Peaches Nipped at St. Joseph.

St. Joseph, April 6.—Severe freezing weather has been experienced here. Great damage has been done to fruit that is back from the lake. The damage in the interior townships near here cannot be estimated. There is not so much damage along the lake shore.

Bay City, April 1. — Levi Rose was caught by a falling safe in the new factory of the Michigan Sugar company and his right leg was so badly crushed that amputation may be necessary.

Holly, April 6.—Heavy frosts have blasted all fruit buds in this section, ruining crops and causing the loss of many thousand dollars.

IN OLDEN TIMES.

Many Things were different—now-a days the public profit by experience.

When the striped pole or sign which now indicates a barber shop was employed to let the public know where cupping or blood letting was professionally performed, close shaves were of daily occurrence, not the easy removal of the hirsute or hairy adornment of the head and face, but close shaven from entering eternity. More than one unfortunate entered the barber surgeon's doorway to leave it a corpse or so weak that weeks were required to get the victim of malpractice on his feet. Bloodletting was used for everything from a heartache to a corn, and a pain in the loins was invariably treated with two incisions, one on each side of the spine. Like plasters and liniments, these helped from the counter irritation they created and we may presume that had Mr. Calvin Wilson, proprietor of the leading shaving parlor of Niles, Mich., lived in the time of George III, of England, in place of taking the course he did a short time ago with his back, blood letting would have been resorted to.

Read how he treated his trouble:

Mr. Wilson says: "My occupation has very likely much to do with the cause of my backache from which I have suffered considerably for a number of years. Standing on one's feet some days 18 hours, is hard on the best of backs, but when you have pain across the loins, with lameness and soreness, every time you move the muscles of the arm, long before your daily task is over you often wish you could go to sleep. I tried everything to better my condition but was unsuccessful until I used three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills. The relief they brought to a man who has worked hard all his life and is now past the three score and ten is much easier to appreciate than to describe in words. Doan's Kidney Pills perform what they promise." Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sole agents for the U. S. The English Language as an Aid to Insanity.

Imagine yourself a foreigner striving to master the construction of the English language. Perhaps you may be gazing at a number of vessels on the water and exclaim, "See what a flock of ships!" You are at once told that a flock of ships is called a FLEET, and that a fleet of sheep is called a flock. It might also be added for your future guidance that a flock of girls is called a BEVY, while a bevy of wolves is called a PACK; yet a pack of thieves is called a GANG, and a gang of angels is called a HOST; but a host of porpoises is called a SHOAL, and a shoal of buffaloes is called a HERD. Still a herd of children is called a TROOP, but a troop of partridges is called a COVEY; a covey of beauties is called a GALAXY, while a galaxy of ruffians is called a HORDE, further a horde of rubbish is called a HEAP, yet a heap of oxen is called a DROVE; a drove of blackguards is called a MOB, but a mob of whales is called a SCHOOL; a school of worshippers is called a CONGREGATION, while a congregation of engineers is called a CORPS; a corps of robbers is called a BAND, though a band of locusts is called a SWARM, and a swarm of people is called a CROWD; a crowd of pictures is called a COLLECTION, but a collection of money is called a HOARD, and a hoard of people is called a COMPANY; a company of ministers, however, is called an ASSEMBLY and an assembly of soldiers is called a MUSTER. "Stop, stop!" methinks I hear you cry, "I cannot remember half of it."—From "The English Language," in Demorest's Family Magazine for April.

SURE CURE FOR RHEUMATISM.

The statement that there is a cure for Rheumatism will be read with incredulity by the majority of people. However, it is a fact which we can prove. Rheumatism is a disease of the blood, and until that is thoroughly cleansed no one once affected with the disease can hope for relief. The remedy we offer is not a new discovery, but it has never been placed on the market in medicinal form. We know from personal observation that it has effected a permanent cure whenever tried and this is what suggested the idea of offering it to sufferers from rheumatism. The Sure Cure Rheumatic Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. They are warranted to cure the worst cases of rheumatism. Price, 50 cents a box. For sale by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price. Send for free sample.

HORTICULTURE

MAKING A HOTBED.

It Should Be Located Where It Will Be Easy of Access and Sheltered from Winds.

The ordinary hotbed consists of a pile of fermenting stable manure, covered with a frame and glazed sashes, in which is a layer of fertile soil. The bed should be located where it will be easy of access, but it should be on dry ground, and not where water could flow over the ground and about its base, even in wet weather. It should also be sheltered from heavy winds, and with a full exposure to the sun. In preparation for a bed the fresh manure and long litter are collected from the stables and drawn together to the location of the bed, where they are placed in a conical pile. As the manure is thus thrown together it is packed down by treading on it, the treading being repeated as the bed is raised a few inches at a time until the pile is finished off to a point at the top. After a few days it may be noticed that the pile is heating by seeing the steam rise from it. If it then customary to handle over the manure, shaking it out and again making it into a pile and tramping it down as before. In two or three days the signs of heating will again be evident, and it is then ready to be made into a bed.

The bed should be made large enough to extend at least a foot outside of the frame at sides and ends. In throwing the manure into shape, as the pile rises in height every few inches, it should be beaten down with the back of the fork so that the material will be of uniform density. The bed should be two feet or two and a half feet in depth; the deeper it is the steadier and longer continued will be the heat. When the bed is finished evenly on top the frame can be set on and covered with the sashes. In a few days a strong heat will rise, and when this abates somewhat, so that the thermometer thrust into the manure indicates only 85 or 90 degrees, a layer of rich mellow soil that has been previously prepared should be placed in the frame and spread evenly over the bed, to a depth of about six inches. The bed is now ready for use, and seed sowing in it can commence. In the management of a hotbed constant reference must be made to a shaded thermometer kept inside, and air must be given sufficiently to keep the temperature down to about 70 degrees, and there should be mats provided for sheltering the bed on cold nights and in severe storms.—Vick's Magazine.

ASHES IN THE ORCHARD.

Their Value as a Fertilizer Is Not as Generally Understood by Farmers as It Should Be.

I do not think we place as high a value upon ashes as we should. I have been testing their value as fertilizer, and I am convinced that on many kinds of soil nothing is as good. Three years ago I plowed up an old orchard. When I seeded it down I spread unslaked ashes liberally under the trees. Last fall when most of my neighbors complained of having no fruit I had a fairly good crop. The grass was also heavy under the trees.

Last spring I put in two acres of corn with a horse planter. The ground had been quite well fertilized with barnyard manure. When I planted I put ashes into the fertilizer box and let it run out as fast as it would when set for 400 pounds of phosphate. I had a splendid crop of corn.

A friend told me yesterday that he tried an experiment in fertilizers last year. On one strip he sowed ashes broadcast on meadow land. On a strip alongside he put on a top dressing of lime, and on still another a broad band of phosphate was used. This rotation was kept up right along until he had covered five acres. The result was very favorable for the ashes. It was easy to see just where the ashes left off every lime, and on still another a good brand plowing under rye and using ashes liberally. He keeps little stock and sells his hay. Having followed this plan for a good many years he is sure that he makes more money than by keeping stock and still keeps up the fertility of his soil.

A number of years ago I used to mix ashes with hen manure for corn; but a little reflection taught me that this was poor policy. There is no doubt that the two will not mix without loss. The chemical union weakens the strength of the combination.—E. L. Vincent, in National Stockman.

The orchard is benefited in several ways by a wind-break, chiefly by preventing windfalls. Thousands of dollars are annually lost by apples falling prematurely. To be sure, many apples fall on account of worms, but there are many sound ones also that are blown off. As the fruit approaches maturity it naturally parts more readily from the tree, and it is no uncommon thing to see, a few weeks before gathering time, the crop reduced by a strong wind one-half or more. There is no doubt that much loss from this source might be avoided by a good wind-break.—Dakota Field and Farm.

BERRY SEEDLINGS.

Some Facts Which Illustrate the Wonderful Workings of Nature in Her Relations to Man.

Each little strawberry seed contains the elements to produce a plant that will bear fruit peculiar to itself, when it is grown without restrictions. The artist in preparing his paint for a certain color, puts together a little of one shade and a little of some other and mixes them together, each new addition changes the color. So in like manner, the Great Artist employs the insects to mix together the pollen from the blossoms of the various qualities of the strawberry and to deposit it in the receptacles or seed tubes of other blossoms. The mixing of each addition changes the quality of the product from that seed.

Watch the busy bee as he flies from blossom to blossom till he has visited hundreds of flowers. Some of these plants produce fruit that is very acid, some fruit which is very sweet, some of a medium quality, and so on through all the various flavors and from all of these he has made a collection and a deposit to this mixture. The deposit may not have been intentional on the part of the bee, but it has been done. The next bee may visit other varieties, and some of the same, each adding to the variety collected, and it is not strange that each seed should produce a product peculiar to itself.

If we take a staminate variety and remove it from all the other varieties and exclude it from insects so there shall be no mixture from the other varieties when in bloom, the product of that seed should be like its parent. For an example, we will take the Sharpless plant. The combination, the make-up, of that seed from which the first Sharpless plant grew gave it its distinct character; every root and fiber in that plant is distinct from all other plants, although that may not be visible to the eye. We know it by its blossom, color, or shade of its leaf, manner of growth of plant, the general shape of its fruit, color and flavor of same, and its texture. Remove the plant to any part of the world, and its general characteristics will be the same and the seed from this Sharpless plant will produce plants and fruit like itself, if we carry out the principle from which we started.—S. H. Warren, in American Gardening.

THINNING OUT FRUIT.

Wherever It Is Done the Trees Are Almost Sure to Bear Good Crops Every Season.

The method employed in some important fruit growing districts to secure a crop of fruit, such as peaches, apples, plums, pears, etc., with uniformity every year (providing the flowers are not rendered sterile by freezing) is to systematically thin out the young fruit after danger from frost in the spring, and before the fruit gets large enough to become a tax on the tree. Fruit is seldom produced on the same spur every year; therefore, in thinning, they remove all of the fruits from one spur without injuring it, so it may produce fruit buds for the next year, allowing the next spur to bear—of course, discriminating between promising and poor fruit. Various contrivances have been invented for this work, but they have proved impracticable, for they do not discriminate between the good and poor fruit, and, besides, often injure or break off spurs. So thinning has to be done by hand, and, aside from the great advantage of insuring a crop for the following year, it pays the same season on account of a far larger proportion of the fruit being of superior quality and of higher market value.—Prairie Farmer.

GOOD TOMATO TRELLIS.

It Is of Splendid Design and Can Easily Be Extended to Any Length of Row Desired.

Many allow the tomato plants to rest upon the ground when fruiting. This results in much decayed fruit and in added labor when picking the tomatoes. A very excellent trellis is shown in the accompanying illustration—which can be extended to any length of row desired. A few green poles are cut and bent into a bow over the rows. To these are nailed light strips, with open spaces through which the growing plants can send up their branches. Set the trellis low enough so that the body of the plant will be above the slats. This will give a roundish surface for the tomatoes to lie upon, which tends to open the plants in a way to let in plenty of sunshine.—Orange Judd Farmer.

Financial Letter.

Chicago, April 6, 1898.

A determined effort was made today by the bears to break wheat, but it was not successful, and at the close the quotation showed that the May and July options were still controlled by the bull contingent.

May sold as high as 106 today and any attempt to buy a large line would have put the price several cents above that figure. In July there was at one time a good deal of realizing for profit-taking purposes, and for the moment this caused a recession to 84 3-4-1-2, the top price of the day having been 86 1-2. Later in the session prices were moved up around 85 cents.

Corn holds very strong, and there is talk among the bulls that 30 cents will soon be passed by the May option. The bears, on the other hand, argue that the May liquidation will depress the price, but for the last week they have certainly been at fault. Another bull argument is that, having had big corn crops three years in succession, we are not likely to repeat the operation in 1898, and they are to some extent operating on this theory, a number of long lines having recently been doubled. A good deal will depend on the state of the weather when seeding time arrives. Thus far, according to reports made to Schwartz, Dupee & Co., the condition of the ground for all sorts of agricultural operations could not be better.

Provisions rule fairly strong, and on the ultimate outcome the bulls are very confident of their position but they admit that sharp slumps may come.

The price range today was as follows:

	High	Low	Close
May wheat	106	105	105 1-4
July wheat	86 1-2	84 3-8	84 7-8

'ROUND ABOUT US.

Clippings and Condensations From our County Contemporaries.

The state military board has received a request from the war department that each company of Michigan troops be divided into squads of eight men each, in charge of a corporal, and that complete lists of these divisions be reported at once to the secretary of war, thus insuring getting the troops out in the shortest possible order.

An exchange gives warning that a stranger is canvassing the neighboring counties selling a powder which he claims, if put in ordinary lamps, will give twice as bright a light from the same amount of oil consumed. One purchaser had the stuff examined and found it to be nothing except saltpeter, which did not and cannot cause any more light. This is one more trick for our readers to look out for.—Hudson News.

It shocks us that some newspaper men are such terrible liars. In writing of a cyclone out west, one of them said it turned a well inside out, a cellar upside down, moved a township line, blew all the stars out of a whiskey barrel, and left nothing but a bunghole, hanged the day of the week, blew the hair off a bald headed man, blew mortgages off the farms, blew all the cracks out of a fence and took all the wind out of a politician.

Fred Weissinger thought his time had come Friday. About ten o'clock in the forenoon a team belonging to young Dieble, of Lodi, came dashing on the sidewalk in front of Fred's place where they were stopped and the damage repaired and the team taken away by its owner. Less than an hour the same team came back at a dashing speed and this time plunged through Fred's alley and into the back yard when they were compelled to stop.—Saline Observer.

If all the spring chickens were as tender as the feelings of some people concerning what is said in the newspapers, or on the public platform, there would be less fault found with the cook, and more pleasure expended during the process of digestion. A newspaper's duty is to make a record of the news. If you don't like the record, don't make that kind of news. An act that isn't fit to be recorded in a newspaper is not fit to be performed upon the streets or in public places.—Plymouth Mail.

A breach of promise suit is the latest sensation in Cambridge township, Bessie Mahar laying damages at $10,000, the defendent being Thomas Bridge, who is a bachelor 42 years old, while the lady is about 22, intelligent and good looking. Bridge is a well-to-do farmer, and the two are neighbors. They commenced keeping company some years ago, and it is alleged become engaged. Since he declined to marry her she has offered to settle for $500, but he paid no attention to her demand. Hence the suit.—Hudson Post.

Clayton McFall met with quite a serious accident which might have proved fatal but for the presence of mind of Frank Dalrymple. He with other boys were returning from the Friburg Sunday school, and as the river was unusually high they stopped on the bridge to watch the water. The railing of the bridge suddenly gave away letting Clayton into the river. The current was so strong that he was unable to reach the bank Frank Dalrymple seized the broken railing, put it against a tree and held it there until Clayton could get hold of it and then the boys pulled him out.—Milan Leader.

When the sap begins to raise and the geese begin to mate, we hear the gentle carol of the local candidate. O, he's a jolly fellow and is full of vain conceits, and sees a bosom friend in every man he meets.—Kalamazoo Gazette.

Capt. C. R. Miller went to Tecumseh to-day, to start the sale of sixty-five lots, which he has platted there. These lots are on the south side of the town, east of the Jackson branch, and comprise twenty acres running east to the old track.—Adrian Times.

Last week a man with a club killed a muskrat in the streets of Hillsdale. Slowly but surely are wild animals regaining possession of the county seat city, where business is so quiet that clerks sleep by day, and wander in the moonlight for exercise.—Hudson Post.

There has been a general raise in box rents, under the new postmaster, Shull, of Tecumseh, and a general kick on the new appointee was the result, and the firing into the old soldier was so hot that the old soldier felt compelled to flee for safety to the newspaper offices with the explanation that he was not responsible for the rise, nor did he receive a cent of it, the government ordering the increase and pocketing all the profits. All that poor Shull got can be expressed in the remark of an Ypsilanti alderman, who caused the excavation of a cellar or a new Odd Fellows Hall free of charge, for the sake of the gravel for street leveling. The gravel proved to be very sticky clay and saith the alderman, "The Odd Fellows got their cellar dug, the streets got the clay and I got h—l."—Adrian Press.

Women the World Over Long to Possess This Royal Fur.

Ten thousand dollars seems a big price to pay for a secondhand garment, but the members of the royal houses of Europe do not hesitate to spend this amount frequently to obtain one for winter wear. The first owners of the costly dress, says the Philadelphia Times, are endowed by nature with a precedence in the matter of wearing that no amount of money can overcome, and the millionaire or titled representative of a European monarchy must be content to purchase the garments after they have been worn for years. But the Russian sable is not a human being, and, no matter how much the animal may drag the fur through the mire and dirt, no one will consider it a dishonor to wear it. In Russia and many of the northern countries a sable coat or cloak is worn as a mark of distinction, and Svengali, in his expressed ambition to wear "ze big fur coat," undoubtedly referred to the fine Russian sable that is seen so commonly at the courts of Europe.

While the fashion in most furs changes year by year, sable invariably holds its own, and the possessor of a rich garment of this material can well feel the pride that comes from owning something not commonly worn. The demand for sable has never been so extensive here as in Europe, and very few understand the difference between the relative value of the American and Russian furs. At the court of Russia every member must have his sable furs for state occasions, and it is estimated that this equipment must cost each one not far from $25,000. In Germany the maids of honor are compelled to have their garments trimmed with sable tails and clippings, while in the court dresses of several other European nations the sable figures in various ways.

AN AVALANCHE OF SNOW.

It Sweeps Down on a Party of Gold Seekers Camping in the Famous Chilkat Pass.

SCORES OF VICTIMS ARE BURIED ALIVE.

Fifty to One Hundred Lives Are Lost —Thirty-One Bodies Have Been Recovered—The Disaster Came Without Any Warning—Story of One of the Survivors.

Seattle, Wash., April 9.—A dispatch from Skaguay, Alaska, dated April 3, says that about noon on that day a disastrous snowslide overwhelmed Chilkat pass while it was crowded with miners. It is thought that there are no less than 100 victims, representing nearly every state in the union.

The accident occurred in the afternoon, after a heavy chinook wind had softened the snow and ice. The point of the disaster was about midway between Stonehouse and the Scales.

The latest report says 31 bodies have already been recovered.

One Hundred Were Overtaken.

Fully 100 people were overtaken by the slide and are either buried in the snow or scattered along the borders of the avalanche in a more or less injured condition. A blinding snowstorm raged all day upon the summit, and as a consequence many of those in the vicinity made no attempt to travel. Thousands of people were encamped in the vicinity of the accident at the time and were soon upon the scene rendering such assistance as possible.

Thousands of Tons of Snow.

All day Saturday and Sunday a southerly storm, with rain, wind and snow, prevailed in this vicinity, and it is believed the softening of the snow on the mountain side by those agencies was the cause of the avalanche. The quantity of snow and ice that came down in the slide is estimated at thousands of tons. It swept directly across the trail, which, notwithstanding the fact that the weather was unsuitable for travel, was thronged with wayfarers. The last vestige of the trail in the vicinity was wiped out of existence, and where it led is now a mountain of snow and ice, under which are many dead bodies that cannot be recovered for days to come.

Story of a Survivor.

J. A. Raines, of Maine, who was fortunate enough to be dug out alive, says:

"All of a sudden I heard a loud report and instantly felt myself going swiftly down the hill. Looking around I saw many others buried, some with their feet out and heads buried out of sight, and others vice versa. When I struck the bottom I tried to run, but the snow caught me, and I was instantly buried beneath 30 feet of snow and rock, being on the very verge of death by suffocation when I was reached by the rescuers. Many, I presume, were saved by taking hold of a rope used for hauling freight up to the summit. By this means 40 or 50 were pulled out, battered and bruised more or less."

May Number One Hundred.

Seattle, Wash., April 11.—Later details received here Sunday from Alaska increase the horror of the avalanche in the Chilkat pass instead of lessening it. Sixty-nine dead bodies have thus far been recovered and the names of 150 missing have been reported as unaccounted for. It is barely possible that some of these had succeeded in crossing the pass before the avalanche occurred. A conservative estimate is that between 75 and 100 persons were killed.

Gov. Tanner Ready to Fight.

Washington, April 11.—Representatives Lorimer and Mann, of Chicago, received a telegram from Gov. Tanner asking them on his behalf to tender to the war department the services of the entire state guard of Illinois, consisting of about 9,000 men. They were also authorized to tender the services of the governor as commander of these forces.

Quits the Church.

New York, April 12. — It is believed that the last chapter in the famous Dr. Briggs case has now been concluded. At a meeting of the New York presbytery Monday a letter from Dr. Briggs was read, withdrawing from the Presbyterian church. The resignation was accepted.

FIFTY-FIFTH CONGRESS.

Summary of the Daily Proceedings of Our Lawmakers in the Senate and House.

Washington, April 7.—After the announcement in the senate yesterday that the president's message on Cuban affairs would not be sent in until Monday the time was occupied in considering the sundry civil bill, and an amendment appropriating $15,000 to restore the banks of the Ohio river at Shawneetown, Ill., recently swept away by floods, was adopted.

Washington, April 8. — The sundry civil appropriation bill occupied the time in the senate yesterday, and during the discussion some sharp war talk was indulged in. Adjourned to Monday.

Washington, April 12. — The president's message on the Cuban question was read in the senate yesterday, after which Senator Butler (N. C.) offered a resolution declaring the destruction of the Maine to be an act of war on the part of Spain against the United States; recognizing the independence of the Cuban republic; demanding that Spain at once withdraw her land and naval forces from Cuba, and directing and empowering the president to use, if necessary, the entire land and naval force of the United States to carry these resolutions into effect. The message was referred to the committee on foreign affairs.

Washington, April 13.—For nearly three hours yesterday the senate had the Cuban question under discussion. Three resolutions were introduced, one by Senator Lindsay (Ky.), directing that the contemplated operations against the Spanish army in Cuba be in concert with Gen. Gomez, the supreme command to be vested in the United States forces, to the end that the independence of the Cubans be secured; the second by Senator Wilson (Wash.), directing the president at once to take such steps as will secure to the Cuban people an independent republican form of government, and the third by Senator Allen (Neb.), declaring the existence of war in Cuba, and directing the president to take steps to stop it and secure to the people of the island a stable and independent government.

House.

Washington, April 7.—In the house yesterday delay in the president's message was concurred in. Bills recognizing the independence of Cuba and authorizing the use of the army and navy to accomplish that end were introduced, as was also a joint resolution directing the president to immediately order all vessels of war of the United States in the vicinity of Cuba to proceed to Havana without delay to protect all American citizens there and to bring away in safety all who desire to come.

Washington, April 8. — In the house yesterday Gen. Grosvenor's speech declaring that war was inevitable and defending the president against the charges of suspicion and double dealing was the feature of the session. It followed an attack upon the president by Mr. Lentz, of Ohio. The army appropriation bill was considered. Adjourned to Monday.

Washington, April 12. — In the house yesterday the president's message was read and referred to the committee on foreign affairs without debate.

Washington, April 13.—Mr. Grosvenor (O.), replying in the house yesterday to criticisms of the president's message, declared that Mr. McKinley wanted the Spanish flag removed from Cuba and favored the independence of the island.

Victims of a Feud.

Middlesboro, Ky., April 9.—A special to the Herald from Manchester says: A. B. Howard, ex-sheriff of Clay county, and his son Will were waylaid and killed. Howard is very prominent. A terrible feud has been raging between the Philpots, Bakers, Campbells and Howards for the past year. Twenty men have been killed during that time, mostly from ambush. A reign of terror exists in many parts of Clay county.

Ordered to Stop Fighting.

Havana, April 12.—The Official Gazette publishes a decree signed by Capt. Gen. Blanco, announcing that the Spanish government, yielding to the reiterated wishes of the pope, has decreed a suspension of hostilities in Cuba in order to facilitate the restoration of peace in the island. No time is fixed for the expiration of the decree.

Forty Thousand Orphans.

Constantinople, April 11. — The Armenia patriarch has sent to the Turkish relief committee a list of 40 churches wholly or partly destroyed during the recent massacres in Anatolia. He fixes the number of orphans whose parents were killed at 40,000.

Minstrel Firm Dissolved.

Kansas City, Mo., April 13.—George H. Primrose and William H. West, the minstrels who joined interests as clog dancers 27 years ago, will at the end of this month dissolve partnership. Mr. Primrose has formed a partnership with Lew Dockstader.

Heavy Loss by Fire.

Sacramento, Cal., April 9.—The pattern storehouse of the Southern Pacific company was entirely gutted by fire and the loss is practically incalculable, being estimated anywhere from $200,000 to $1,000,000. It is estimated it will take 20 men 25 years to duplicate the patterns destroyed.

CUBAN WAR MUST STOP.

President McKinley Asks Authority to Intervene to Put an End to the Hostilities.

SUMMARY OF A MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Informs the Lawmakers That Diplomacy Has Failed, and That They Must Act in the Interests of Humanity and the Country—He Awaits Their Action.

Washington, April 12.—President McKinley sent to congress yesterday his message on the Cuban question. The following summary covers all the important features:

The message fully recognizes "the grave crisis that has arisen in the relations of the United States to Spain by reason of the warfare that for more than three years has been waged in the neighboring island of Cuba." The history of that warfare is told concisely and clearly by the president. All its phases are passed in review—the the ravaging of Cuba with fire and sword, our efforts to observe neutrality, the suffering of American trade, the losses of American capital, and the strain upon the temper and forbearance of the American people.

War of Extermination.

The president refers to the failure of the effort of his predecessor to secure peace, which was followed by fresh horrors on the part of Spain and the infamous concentration order of Weyler, with its awful results. In the significant language of the president: "It was not civilized warfare; it was extermination. The only peace it could beget was that of the wilderness and the grave."

Spain's Home Rule Policy.

He next passes to the change of administration in Spain, the overtures of the new government submitting assurances of "home rule in an advanced phase," and of more humane methods in the conduct of the war and its revocation of the Weyler order. Notwithstanding the change of policy, the president sees no possibility of an ultimate victory for either side short of subjugation or extermination, "a contingency hardly to be contemplated with equanimity by the civilized world, and least of all by the United States, affected and injured, as we are, deeply and intimately by its existence."

Tries to Stop the War.

Regarding the situation from this point of view the president sought to bring about an immediate termination of the war. On the 27th ult. propositions were made to Spain for an armistice until October 1 for the negotiation of peace with the good offices of this government, the immediate revocation of the order of concentration, and the cooperation of Spain with the United States in supplying relief.

On the 31st ult. an answer was received from the Spanish authorities offering to confide the preparation of arrangements for peace to the insular department of the government, subject to the action of the central government. It was also stated that there would be no objection to a suspension of hostilities "if asked for by the insurgents from the general in chief, to whom it would pertain in such case to determine the duration and conditions of the armistice. With the last overture in the direction of immediate peace and its disappointing reception by Spain the executive was brought to the end of his effort."

Untried Measures.

The president thereupon discusses the "untried measures." He takes strong ground against recognition of belligerency and likewise disfavors a recognition of independence until Cuba has a stable form of government which can insure peace and order and fulfill international obligations. Taking the position that the war must stop for the sake of civilization, humanity, and endangered American interests, he asks authority from congress to secure the termination of hostilities and the establishment of a firm government in the island by the use of the military and naval forces of the United States, as may be necessary, and meanwhile recommends the continuation of the distribution of food and supplies.

The Maine Disaster.

A part of President McKinley's message refers to the destruction of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor. After reciting briefly the history of that horrible affair and the grief and suffering it has entailed upon the families of its victims, he alludes to the unanimous conclusion of the naval court of inquiry that "the destruction of the Maine was caused by an exterior explosion, that of a submarine mine," as commanding "the unqualified confidence of the government." The president then significantly adds:

"In any event, the destruction of the Maine, by whatever exterior cause, is a patent and impressive proof of a state of things in Cuba that is intolerable. That condition is thus shown to be such that the Spanish government cannot assure safety and security to a vessel of the American navy in the harbor of Havana on a mission of peace and rightfully there."

Spain's Position.

As to the last offer of the Spanish government, just submitted, to leave the determination of responsibility for the disaster to an international commission of experts, the president has had no opportunity as yet to make a reply which could be incorporated in his message, though he does not omit to mention the fact. While the Spanish government pledges itself in advance to accept the result of such an investigation, no intimation is given whether this goes to the extent of promising indemnity or merely to accepting responsibility, leaving the question of indemnity for future negotiations.

Spain's Last Note.

Spain's decree for a suspension of hostilities is submitted to congress for just and careful attention, with the observation that if the measure attains a successful result "then our aspirations as a peace-loving people will be realized. If it fails it will be only another justification for our contemplated action."

Now with Congress.

The message closes: "The issue is now with congress. It is a solemn responsibility. I have exhausted every effort to relieve the intolerable condition of affairs which is at our doors. Prepared to execute every obligation imposed upon me by the constitution and the laws, I await your action."

"Saved Her Life."

MRS. JOHN WALLET, of Jefferson, Wis., than whom none is more highly esteemed or widely known, writes. "In 1890 I had a severe attack of LaGrippe and at the end of four months, in spite of all physicians, friends and good nursing could do, my lungs heart and nervous system were so completely wrecked, my life was despaired of, my friends giving me up. I could only sleep by the use of opiates. My lungs and heart pained me terribly and my cough was most aggravating. I could not lie in one position but a short time and not on my left side at all. My husband brought me Dr. Miles' Nervine and Heart Cure and I began taking them. When I had taken a half bottle of each I was much better and continuing persistently I took about a dozen bottles and was completely restored to health to the surprise of all."

The Results of the New Cure for Indigestion and Nervous Dyspepsia.

Drake's Dyspepsia Cure & Nerve Restorer, a wellspring of life, is pouring into thousands of homes to day; stubborn cases that have baffled all other remedies yield to the efficacy of this marvelous treatment, and permanent cures are the inevitable results from its use. For sale by John J. Orr, leading druggist, Tecumseh Mich. A book on Stomach and Nerve troubles, their symptoms and cure, will be given free for the asking at above mentioned drug store. Read following statement:

To Whom It May Concern: To those suffering from stomach and nerve troubles I wish to recommend Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer. About 20 years ago I began to be troubled with my stomach. It gradually grew worse, even under treatment, until it became difficult for me to eat any kind of food with comfort. For the past five years I have been able to retain very little food of the simplest nature long enough to digest it. Seldom during this time have I enjoyed sleep throughout the entire night, and usually have been obliged to leave my bed in consequence of my stomach and nerve troubles. My bowels were very much relaxed, said to be due to inflammation of the membrane of the intestines. I was treated by physicians, and tried nearly every known remedy recommended for my troubles with no lasting benefit, and usually not even temporary relief. On the 5th day of January, '98, I purchased a package of Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer, and I wish every dyspeptic knew how much I have improved from its use. My food does not distress me as it did, and I have no trouble in retaining it. I sleep well and feel refreshed therefrom, and, although I have used only one package of the medicine, I can safely say that I am 75 per cent better than I have been during the past 20 years. Yours respectfully, MRS. GIDEON STODDARD, Litchfield, Mich., Jan. 24, 1898.

SIXTEEN YEARS

His Wife Had Been a Chronic Invalid—Cured at Last.

Mr. J. T. Scott, Cherokee, Texas, in writing to Dr. Hartman, stated: "I had kidney disease for about fifteen years and had got so bad that I could hardly get about and could not perform any kind of labor. I had tried quite a number of doctors and had taken nearly a wagon load of patent and proprietary medicines, but continued to gradually grow worse. Also, my wife had been an invalid for about sixteen years, and you doubtless remember when I wrote you about her, there was hardly ever a day that she could sit up all day. We tried a great many remedies, but neither of us was ever benefited, only temporarily, till we began taking your Peruna and Man-a-lin, as instructed in your letters to us. It has made a healthy man of me; I never felt better in my life and my wife is almost like a different person, she is so much better. The Pe-ru-na is the most wonderful medicine I ever saw; for la grippe it is a sure cure. I know this and have had my neighbor try it." DEATH OF MARGARET MATHER

The Noted Actress Dies at Charleston, W. Va.—Her Youth Was Spent in Detroit.

Detroit, April 8.—Miss Margaret Mather died Thursday afternoon at five o'clock in Charleston, W. Va. She played at the local theater the evening before in "Cymbeline," and near the close of the fourth act she fainted and was carried to her dressing room. Later she was taken to her hotel, but she never recovered consciousness. She died from convulsions caused by acute Bright's disease.

Detroit, April 11.—The remains of Margaret Mather were laid at rest Sunday in Elmwood cemetery beside those of the dead actress' mother. The funeral services were of brief and simple character. They were conducted by Rev. Mr. C. A. Fulton, of the First Baptist church. A quartette of male voices from "The Geisha" company sang hymns, and members of the Otis Skinner company acted as pallbearers. Four thousand persons were present in the cemetery, and during the earlier portion of the day crowds of people viewed the body as it lay in her father's humble dwelling.

Miss Mather came originally from Detroit, where her parents still reside. Her real name is Margaret Finlayson, and she was born in 18[illegible]. Her father, John Finlayson, is still living in Detroit. Margaret passed her childhood among squalid surroundings not in any way tending to direct her attention toward the stage. After she left home, a half-grown girl, she engaged as a dishwasher in the Russell house. Having a chance some time later to join a barnstorming troupe, she availed herself of it with the result that in 1880 while in New York she attracted the attention of Manager James Hill, who persuaded her to take a course in a training school. After two years of study on the part of Juliet she made her debut in that character at McVicker's theater, Chicago, in 1882.

PARTED BY DEATH.

Mrs. Hiller, Aged 107 Years, Dies at Elkton—Her Husband, 109 Years Old, Dying.

Niles, April 10. — Death Saturday night separated the oldest married couple in the world. Mrs. Hiller, wife of Jacob Hiller, passed away at Elkton, Mich., after a short illness, and the doctors said her death was due to old age, she having seen 107 years of life. Her husband, who is 109 years old, is very low and his death is expected at any moment. Mr. and Mrs. Hiller were undoubtedly married longer than any other couple yet known, having been joined in wedlock at Eamestown, Can., on April 23, 1809. They came to the United States shortly after the war of 1812, settling at Marine City and from there went to Elkton. Many a time they have told and retold the story of the war of 1812, which was fought three years after their marriage. Not long ago Mr. Hiller cut two teeth and said he had given up looking for death. He had been very vigorous until recently, but his wife had been an invalid for years. His devotion and thoughtfulness for her were touching.

BROKE THE RECORD.

John Babcock, of Galien, After a Fast Lasting for Six Months, Passes Away.

Niles, April 7.—John Babcock, an old resident of Galien, is dead, after a fast which probably breaks all records. He had not tasted food since October last. Mr. Babcock was in a runaway accident a year ago and received injuries which affected his head. In October he became worse, and for some reason which the doctors cannot explain he could not eat a mouthful of food. Every effort was made to give him nourishment, but in vain, and finally the medical men gave up his case as hopeless and left him to die. He continued to live, however, week after week, without food, until death came after he had gone 180 days without a morsel of food having passed his lips. About two months ago Mr. Babcock's skin began to harden and to all appearances it was turning to bone. At his death his body was hard and did not seem ever to have had a drop of blood in it.

Effect of War Talk.

Grand Rapids, April 9.—The furniture manufacturers are complaining of the dullness that prevails in trade circles as a result of the war talk. The January opening of the season was one of the most promising on record, but since March 1 there has been nothing doing, and business is especially dull in the east. Most of the factories have reduced their working forces and some have suspended in some departments.

Struck It Rich.

Niles, April 12.—It has just been learned here from letters received that Scott Heywood, who went to Dawson City, Alaska, last summer, has struck it rich, and that he has taken out about $75,000 worth of gold. Mr. Heywood reached Dawson City last December and acquired a lay on Berry's claim. It is supposed that he took advantage of one of the strikes on the American side and acquired a rich claim.

Killed Himself.

Chicago, Ill., April 7.—While temporarily deranged and suffering from acute alcoholism, Thomas L. Baxter, a wealthy and prominent business man of Manistique, Mich., shot himself at the Tremont house. The tragedy was the culmination of a week of heavy drinking. Death was instantaneous.

Will of the Late John W. Moon.

Muskegon, April 12.—The will of the late John W. Moon, filed for probate Monday, shows the ex-congressman left an estate of over $125,000, to be divided among the widow and four children. Mrs. T. J. Dixon, of Chicago, is one of the latter. To Albion college he bequeathed the sum of $10,000.

Lansing, April 13.—The earnings in Michigan of railroad companies during January aggregated $2,214,701, as compared with $1,926,393 for January, 1897. The per cent. of increase is 13.02.

A SUCCESSFUL EVANGELIST

Rev. W. A. Dunnett, a Man Whose Good Work is Widely Known—He Relates Events in His Career of General Interest.

From the Smith's Falls Record.

Throughout Canada, from the western boundary of Ontario to the Atlantic Ocean, there is no name more widely known in temperance and evangelistic work than that of the Rev. W. A. Dunnett. Mr. Dunnett has been the Grand Vice-Councillor of Ontario and Quebec in the Royal Templars, and so popular is he among the members of the order that in Montreal there is a Royal Templars council named "Dunnett Council" in his honor. For more than ten years Mr. Dunnett has been going from place to place pursuing his good work, sometimes assisting resident ministers, sometimes conducting a series of gospel temperance meetings independently, but always laboring for the good of his fellows. While in Smith's Falls a few months ago in connection with his work he dropped into the Record office for a little visit with the editor. During the conversation the Record ventured to remark that his duties entailed an enormous amount of hard work. To this Mr. Dunnett assented, but added that in his present physical condition he was equal to any amount of hard work. But it was not always so, he said, and then he gave the writer the following little personal history, with permission to make it public. He said that for the past thirteen years he had been greatly troubled with a pain in the region of his heart, from which he was unable to get any relief. At times it was a dull, heavy pain, at others sharp and severe. Oftentimes it rendered him unfit for his engagements, and at all times it made it difficult to move. His trouble was always visible to the public and frequently when conducting service he would give out and doctors had to be called in to attend him. This occurred to him in the Yonge Street Church, Toronto; the Baptist Church, Woodstock, N. B.; the Methodist Church, Carleton Place, Ont. On another occasion while preaching to an audience of 2,500 people in the Franklin Street Congregational Church, at Manchester, N. H. five doctors had arrived and were in attendance before he regained consciousness. In all these places and towns the newspapers freely mentioned his affliction at the time. Mr. Dunnett says he had consulted many physicians, though, he said, to be entirely fair, he had never been under great length of time under treatment by any one doctor because of his itinerant mode of life. In the early part of the summer of 1896 while in Brockville assisting the pastor of the Wall Street Methodist Church in evangelistic services, he was speaking of his trouble to a friend who urged him to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and next day presented him with a dozen boxes. "I took the pills," said Mr. Dunnett, "and I declare to you I am a well man to-day. I used to worry a great deal over the pain about my heart, but that is all gone now, and I feel like a new man." All this the reverend gentleman told in a simple conversational way, and when it was suggested that he let it be known, he rather demurred, because, as he put it, "I am almost afraid to say I am cured, and yet there is no man enjoying better health to-day than I do."

At that time, at Mr. Dunnett's request, his statement was only published locally, but now writing under the date of Jan. 24, from Fitchburg, Mass., where he has been conducting a very successful series of evangelistic meetings, he says: "I had held back from writing in regard to my health, not because I had forgotten, but because it seemed too good to be true that the old time pain had gone. I cannot say whether it will ever return, but I can certainly say it has not troubled me for months, and I am in better health than I have been for years. I have gained in flesh, hence in weight. I would prefer not to say anything about my appetite; like the poor, it is ever with me. You I attribute my good health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and you have my consent to use the fact."

For several weeks the country has been agitated from coast to coast on the subject of war, but now all anxiety is over. A resolution is before the senate, the senators have commenced to talk and every Cuban will be dead before they get through. What a pity Speaker Reed could not be let loose in that senate for a few minutes.

RAILROAD NEWS.

Notes and Condensations Concerning the Railroads.

Chicago, April 13.—An important suit, involving the mileage books used by nearly every railroad in the country, was decided to-day by Judge Showalter, of the United States Circuit Court, when he enjoined Poole Bros., railway printers, from manufacturing the continuous strip mileage ticket, said to be the invention of William Thrall. The decision, unless reversed by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, practically gives the complainant a monopoly in the sale of the tickets in question. The suit has been fiercely contested in the courts, and has attracted the attention of railroad officials all over the country. The invention of Thrall, which permitted every mile of the ticket to be pulled out and torn straight off was considered an improvement on the old style ticket and soon came into use among the railroads. The bill against Poole Bros., which was filed by Attorneys Mundy, Evarts and Adock, in behalf of Thrall, maintained that the defendants were infringing on the rights of the plaintiffs by manufacturing the strip ticket.—Blade.

A false report has been going the rounds of the daily press to the effect that trackmen on the Wabash railroad unable to write had been given one month to learn to sign the pay roll. It was reported that all who should fail to comply with the order should be dismissed from the service. As a matter of fact, in response to an official order, a list of the section men who could not write, their age, length of service, etc., was recently made out and sent to the superintendent. It was then officially suggested to the men that they try to learn to sign their names to the pay roll. There was no threat or intention of discharging any employe for non-compliance therewith.—Morenci Observer.

Superintendent Bradley, of the Ann Arbor road, has notified employes that on and after May 4, all ticket agents, telegraph operators, freight and passenger conductors, passenger brakemen and the first, second and third officers of the company's steamers shall wear, while on duty, such uniforms as the management designates. The uniforms are to be of dark blue material, those of the conductors and steamboat officers being provided with gilt or gold buttons, and those of the other employes with silver buttons. The lady ticket agents will wear a uniform consisting of dark blue blouse and skirt—Ann Arbor Argus.

At the village election in Tecumseh there were 125 new registers, coming from the Detroit & Milwaukee road laborers. All but one were silver advocates and the charter election went "whooping" for the silver forces. Two days before election in April the entire force was taken to Toledo, owing to change of office headquarters. Otherwise, the Tecumseh republicans would not have saved a man on the ticket.—Adrian Press.

A change in time went into effect Sunday on the D., T. & M. road. The east-bound passenger heretofore going at 2:30 p. m. now leaves here at 4:30 p. m. and the west bound passenger due here at 7 p. m. has been changed into a mixed train due here at 8:50 p. m.

The Lima Northern switch at Dundee has been torn up and there is talk of securing and re-ironing the strip of road from Dundee to Deerfield vacated by the Lake Shore, this strip to connect with the Lima Northern somewhere south of Adrian.—Adrian Press.

The Ann Arbor Railroad Co. will build its new hotel at Frankfort during the coming summer, but it will not be ready for occupancy before the season of 1899.—Ann Arbor Argus.

Hillsdale, Mich., April 13.—M. C. Dey, of this city, was struck and fatally injured by the fast mail going east on the Lake Shore railroad, at a crossing this afternoon.—Blade.

Frank Allen and family have moved into Jas. Heck house on Maiden Lane, which has just been vacated by James Heck and R. S. Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Nichols, who have been visiting their daughter Mrs. Geo. Haskell, returned to their home in Liepsic Monday.

The last of the season's Hogan Alley parties was given by Mrs. O. P. Bills, Mrs. W. W. Whiting and Mrs. M. E. Corey at the residence of the first-named lady Wednesday evening and in point of interest and entertainment was fully up to the average. The novelty of the affair took the form of an Easter entertainment. Material was given each guest who made a paper flower. Prizes for best results were given Mrs. C. F. A letter received by Rev. Pope from California contains the fact that all the fruit in southern California had been killed by frost except oranges. The letter states that this will make very close times for the fruit farmers of that section.

As we go to press the report comes that Wm. Brown, Sr., a resident of Brownville, was found dead in his bed. Coroner Frasier was summoned but deemed it unnecessary to impanel a jury as the old gentleman, who was 87 years old and ill, undoubtedly died a natural death although no one happened in the room at the time.

A movement is on foot to manufacture the Taylor automatic car coupler here. This is undoubtedly the best car coupler in existence. If the deal goes as is confidently expected, the company will build a plant for the manufacture of a general line of malleable iron castings and employ between five and six hundred employees. We will be able to give more definite news in regard to the scheme next week.

A meeting of citizens was held at F. B. Wood's office Wednesday to consider the matter of rebuilding the Hayden flouring mills. A. W. Mills was selected as chairman and F. B. Wood secretary. Not only Tecumseh but many neighboring towns are interesting themselves in the plan to rebuild the plant. The benefit of such a mill, not only to the village but to the entire farming community is patent to all and the committees which were appointed to solicit money, material or labor will no doubt meet with good success. S. P. Hosmer was elected general chairman and the following soliciting committee was appointed: For the village of Tecumseh, Frank Davidson, Chas. Bidwell, S. P. Hosmer; Tecumseh township, A. P. Coddington; Franklin, Jno. Q. Osborne, Jos. Marsh; Raisin, Aaron Taylor, L. C. Chase; Macon, Joe Sage, Granville Mills, B. F. DePuy, Wm. Swick; Ridgeway, Geo. W. Smith, Geo. Exelby; Clinton, W. B. Keyser, R. B. Gillespie; Adrian, E. G. Wilson. It was made discretionary with the chairman to make any necessary changes in the committees so as to furthor the work in each section.

The Junior class organized last night with an enrollment of 21 members.

Miss May Jones, of Ridgeway, visited friends in the High school Thursday and Friday.

The Senior class are debating as to whether they will or will not have a speaker and class day exercises this year.

Last Thursday evening, Miss Mabel Mills entertained the class of 1901 at her home. A good program was given, the T. H. S. Review was read and all voted thanks to Mabel for a pleasant time. This class is right up to date in every respect. They have their class pins, motto and even their own nickname "The naughty ones," which Miss Gallatin declares is very appropriate.

Mrs. Wm. Bresie.

Mary A. Johnson-Bresie was born at Groveland, Livingston county, N. Y., on September 22, 1816, and spent her girlhood days in that place. On March 20, 1839, she was married to William Bresie. She united with the Howellsville, N. Y., Baptist church in 1853. Mr. and Mrs. Bresie moved to Tecumseh twenty-five years ago, living in Brownville until the death of Mr. Bresie which occurred April 23, 1893. Mrs. Bresie then went to live with her daughter, Mrs. John Crowell, in Cleveland at whose home she died April 9, 1898, aged 81 years and 6 months.

About two weeks previous to her death she suffered a stroke of paralysis from which she never rallied.

Deceased was the mother of four children, three daughters and one son. Two children survive her, Mrs. John Crowell, of Cleveland, O., and W. R. Bresie, of Decatur, Ill.

The remains were brought here Monday evening and on Tuesday were laid to rest beside her husband in the Tecumseh cemetery. Services were conducted by Rev. B. S. Hudson at the old home in Brownville, the deacons of the Baptist church here acting as pall bearers. Mrs. Bresie had made all preparations for spending the summer here and the news of her death came as a shock to the many friends who had looked forward to her visit with hope and pleasure.

STANDARD OF SPAIN.

At Last It Must Leave the Western Hemisphere Forever.

After Centuries of Savagery and Barbarity the Cruel Spaniards Are About to Receive Their Just Deserts.

[Special Washington Letter.]

FROM the day of the declaration of President Cleveland that the United States had a right to interfere with the brutal conduct of the war in Cuba it was inevitable that the crisis between Spain and the United States should some day culminate.

The report of the senate committee on foreign relations on the resolution recognizing the independence of the Cuban republic gave to the American people and to the world statements of facts which had not been developed by investigation or by the public press. That report showed to the world that the warfare of the Spaniards was reduced to the savagery of murdering little children and torturing innocent women in a manner too horrible to be described in polite language.

The fiendishness of the Spanish race has no parallel in the history of the civilized world. Those people have had their churches, their priests, bishops, their cathedrals and all of the developed paraphernalia for the dissemination of the Christian religion—a religion of love. And yet, as the centuries passed and intelligence of right was disseminated, the Spaniards became worse and apparently less capable of refinement of feeling.

The crusaders buckled sword in a cause no more holy than the cause of humanity which has led the United States into armed conflict with the assassins of our sailors, the torturers of the Cubans and the murderers of the Aztecs and Peruvians.

The people of this country have been impatient and their representatives have received scores and hundreds of

TWO SAMPLES OF SPANISH BARBARITY.
(How Political Offenders and Heretics Were Punished in Spain Not so Very Long Ago.)

telegrams and letters manifesting the impatience of the people; and for a time the president himself was assailed in public prints, on the street corners and throughout the entire country because he did not take speedy action to avenge the destruction of the battleship Maine and the villainous murder of our sailors.

We in Washington, who understand the situation, have not been impatient with the president at all. We understand that this great country, like a giant as compared with Spain, had been bound and manacled by penuriousness. Congressional appropriations had been so small and niggardly that our sea coast defenses were practically dismantled; while our war vessels were without shot, shell or powder with which to make the great guns effective. President McKinley understood this matter thoroughly. Although he was as anxious as any citizen of the country to drive from this peaceful continent the savages of Spain, he maintained a dignified silence, resorted to the delays of diplomacy, and held congress in check until the army and navy were well equipped and ready to strike the blow.

Only as late as April 2 the defenses of the national capital were completed. On that Saturday afternoon the secretary of war, with leading army officers, went down the river to make final tests of the disappearing guns near Fort Washington and Sheridan's point. The guns were found to be in position, ready for business, and several shots were fired.

These great guns are situated on slightly rising knolls, in solid masonry, 200 feet from the river's brink. No rifled cannon on earth could penetrate the heavy clay soil to that depth. Within the masonry are built disappearing gun carriages, which work perfectly. By turning a lever the gun and carriage, weighing a total of about 200,000 pounds, gradually rise to the surface, a button is pressed, the gun is fired, and the recoil causes it to settle gently back into its place.

Each gun is loaded and sighted down in that masonry cavern. The river is platted, and the aim is taken to strike any object entering a certain plat. It is marvelous to see the gunners down there, sighting their great guns by mathematics.

Three shots were fired, at distances of three miles, five miles and seven miles, and the points indicated in the river were struck with absolute precision. The guns belch forth 600 pounds of solid metal, and hurl them that distance with as much accuracy as an experienced rifleman would pick off an enemy at a distance of 100 yards.

There are seven of these guns. Their exact location has never been given, and will not be given for publication. They are on the Virginia and Maryland shores of the Potomac; and no fleet of war vessels could pass up the channel after coming within their range. They have a clear sweep of the Potomac for ten miles, and the guns have power to throw their masses of metal a distance of 14 miles.

The scenery about them is beautiful, picturesque and peaceful. Smooth sloping swards of grass greet the eye. There are trees, shrubbery and hedge fences in sight; but no sign of cannons or fortifications. The enemy could take no aim, unless at the cannons while they are for a second on the surface, in the act of firing. It takes 19 seconds for a shot to go seven miles. The guns are perfectly safe from the enemy.

And in addition to these batteries the submarine mines which have been laid in the channel of the Potomac would prove to be powerful enough to destroy any ships of war in the world. At last the national capital is safe from attack by water.

During the past two months of hasty preparation defenses for our larger cities have been completed. Because of the necessity of this work the president has sought delay. He has also prayed and hoped for peace. Our people have been too anxious for war, too anxious to rush into hostilities. As a matter of fact, if this country had undertaken to at once avenge the crime which was committed in Havana harbor we would have been humiliated by temporary defeat at the hands of the perpetrators of that crime.

Everyone vividly remembers the shock which filled our land when news came of the explosion of the Maine; and the president was advised by many men of prominence to at once send our fleet to bombard Havana, and arbitrate afterwards. But he wisely forebore and resisted such counselors.

Every day of delay made this country stronger and made Spain weaker. Our resources were being developed; and all the while the financially and morally rotten government at Madrid was growing weaker. The president sought to quiet our people by diplomatically overlooking the Maine disaster. But he and all of us realized that the starvation of the Cubans was set aside in the public mind, and the Maine disaster was foremost. Over all, sternly searching for the truth, was the piercing eye of the American eagle.

Finally the senate committee on foreign relations held an investigation which demonstrated and fixed the responsibility for that awful crime. From the moment of the publication of that report there was but one sentiment among our people, and that was for revenge. They called not for reparation. The Spaniards might have given us back our battleship, in effect, by paying indemnity; but the criminals could not give us back our sailors. Poor fellows! They died in the service of their country, without having an opportunity to fire a shot in defense of themselves, in defense of the flag, or in defense of the national honor.

One of the most effective utterances in congress concerning the Maine disaster was delivered by a young congressman from the Mississippi valley, who dramatically quoted these lines of Kipling:

"Lord, God of Hosts, be with us yet;
Lest we forget; lest we forget."

That sentiment pervaded the land. It permeated the atmosphere of the capital city. It was on the lips and in the hearts of all as we calmly awaited the long delayed report of the naval court of inquiry. It was repeated to the president and to the members of the cabinet. It was recited in our public schools; and all public men prayed for patience on the part of the people and for patriotic determination to remember the crime, and punish it.

After many centuries of misrule, savagery, barbarity, there came a time when "Vengeance is Mine, I will repay, saith the Lord," was quoted; and the human instrumentality for the divine vengeance upon a people that thrived upon crime was the republic which grew upon the soil of the hemisphere which had been discovered by Columbus. This vengeance is for the brutal ingratitude of Spain to the discoverer; for the crimes committed by the freebooters Cortez, Pixarro and other eminent criminals sent here by Spain to spread devastation throughout the land; criminals who marked and blazed their pathways with the blood of innocent aborigines. The original inhabitants of America were uncivilized; but it was Spain that made them savages. And now the flag of that country must leave this hemisphere forever. Thank God!

When Cuba is free and independent let us all take a day together and sing the long-meter doxology, with unction: "Praise God, from Whom All Blessings Flow."

SPECIAL SESSION ENDS.

Adjournment Sine Die Is Taken by the Lawmakers at Midnight on Tuesday.

BUSINESS OF SENATE'S LAST HOURS.

Bill to Appropriate $500,000 for a War Fund Is Passed—Measure Enacted Increasing the Tax on Earnings of Express Companies—Other Capital Gossip.

Lansing, April 13.—The extra session of the state legislature called by Gov. Pingree to consider his measures for the direct taxation of railroad property came to an end Tuesday night. The bill to which the governor had pinned all his hopes was killed in the senate late week, and to his friends the other measures were of minor consequence. Interest in the closing hours of the extra session centered upon the senate. The house had passed several bills Saturday, and one Tuesday upon which the senate had not acted, and when the body, which had not been in session since Saturday, convened Tuesday night there remained to be acted upon the war emergency appropriation bill, the bill increasing the membership of the military companies of the state to 150, the joint resolution providing for the submission to the people of the question of revising the constitution, the bill increasing the tax on express companies from one to five per cent. of their earnings, the Bemis bill, doubling the specific taxes of railroads, the bill repealing the charter of the Michigan Central Railroad company, the bills correcting certain defects in the tax and homestead laws and several other measures of lesser consequence.

The anti-Pingree element endeavored to shirk action upon the railroad taxation bills by the adoption of the concurrent resolution of the house providing for an adjournment at 12 o'clock Tuesday night, and cutting short all business with the passage of the war measures. The consent of the senate to the adjournment resolution was secured after a long parliamentary battle, the Pingree forces endeavoring to force a vote upon the railroad taxation bill and the measure to repeal the Michigan Central railroad charter, and the anti-Pingree forces trying to dodge the vote.

The vote was very close on all the propositions which grew out of this strife between the two factions. A long argument resulted upon the bill increasing the tax upon express companies' earnings from one to five per cent., which amounts to an increase from $2,500 to $12,000 per year. This bill is passed as it came from the house. It lacked half an hour of the time fixed for adjournment when the consideration of the war measure was reached. The bills making a war appropriation of $500,000 and the bill relating to the reorganization of the national guard and naval reserves were passed at 12 o'clock.

Gov. Pingree Saturday morning presented his war message to the house, the senate having adjourned until Tuesday night, and the bills which accompanied it were unanimously passed. "Deeply as the fact must be deplored by all citizens who have the welfare of the country at heart," said the message, "the United States may be on the verge of a foreign war. If war is to come beyond doubt the state of Michigan will lay aside for a moment all differences of opinion upon political and domestic questions and will acquit itself in a manner worthy of its old-time loyalty and patriotism." The governor then proceeded to recommend the passage of an act authorizing a war loan of $500,000 with which to equip the naval and military forces of the state, a law authorizing the recruiting of the national guard and volunteer militia companies to a strength of 150 men to each company, and an appropriation for furnishing all old soldiers with certificates of service and army records.

The house at once passed the bills authorizing the war loan, which will be secured by an issue of four per cent. bonds, and increasing the per capita tax for the support of the naval militia from one-eighth to one-half a cent per year. The message of the governor touching upon a patriotic subject was received with applause from the floor and galleries.

FAD MADE HIM RICH.

Wealth of the Man Who Originated the Trading Stamp Scheme Estimated at $1,000,000.

Detroit, April 11. — The wealth of Shelley B. Hutchinson, who originated the "trading stamp" scheme, is estimated at nearly $1,000,000 — the accumulations practically of two years from a successful fad. Hutchinson was born in Ypsilanti, Mich., became a dancing master at five dollars per term, and five years ago opened a shoe store at Battle Creek, Mich. He introduced a local stamp scheme, which became so popular that he organized the Trading Stamp company and opened prize stores at Jackson, Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti. T. A. Speary, of New York, recognized the possibilities of the scheme, and entered into partnership with Hutchinson, and the trading stamp fad soon fastened upon almost every American city.

The Best Novels of 1897.

At a recent meeting of The New York Library Club a committee was appointed to go carefully over the works of fiction published in 1897, and make a list of those deemed worthy of permanent shelf room in public libraries. The books published were many, but those that came up to the committee's standard were few enough. They were only seven, and were the following: On the Face of the Waters, by Mrs. F. A. Steel; St. Ives, by Robert Louis Stevenson; The Gladfly, E. L. Voynich; School for Saints, by John Oliver Hobbes; Captains Courageous, by Rudyard Kipling; Hugh Wynne, Free Quaker, by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell; and The Choir Invisible, by James Lane Allen. Of these seven first-rate novels, three were first published serially, and of the three, two—and they much the most notable ones in the entire list, being Kiplings Captains Courageous and and Stevenson's St Ives—were published in McCLURE'S MAGAZINE.

IN OLDEN TIMES.

Many Things were different---now-a days the public profit by experience.

When the stripped pole or sign which now indicates a barber shop was employed to let the public know where cupping or blood letting was professionally performed, close shaves were of daily occurrence, not the easy removal of the hirsute or hairy adornment of the head and face, but close shaven from entering eternity. More than one unfortunate entered the barber surgeon's doorway to leave it a corpse or so weak that weeks were required to get the victim of malpractice on his feet. Blood-letting was used for everything from a heartache to a corn, and a pain in the loins was invariably treated with two incisions, one on each side of the spine. Like plasters and liniments, these helped from the counter irritation they created and we may presume that had Mr. Calvin Wilson, proprietor of the leading shaving parlor of Niles, Mich., lived in the time of George III, of England, in place of taking the course he did a short time ago with his back, blood letting would have been resorted to.

Read how he treated his trouble:

Mr. Wilson says: "My occupation has very likely much to do with the cause of my backache from which I have suffered considerably for a number of years. Standing on one's feet some days 18 hours, is hard on the best of backs, but when you have pain across the loins, with lameness and soreness, every time you move the muscles of the arm, long before your daily task is over you often wish you could go to sleep. I tried everything to better my condition but was unsuccessful until I used three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills. The relief they brought to a man who has worked hard all his life and is now past the three score and ten is much easier to appreciate than to describe in words. Doan's Kidney Pills perform what they promise." Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sole agents for the U. S. FARM & GARDEN.

THE OX WARBLE FLY,

Best and Most Efficient Way to Get Rid of the Pest Is to Destroy the Maggot.

The warble or swelling on the back of cattle is caused by the larva of a fly which attaches its eggs to the hair on the legs, flanks and neck of the animal. These hatch and the larvae establish themselves under the skin, usually on either side of the backbone. Here they feed upon the animal juices until ready to pupate, causing the swelling or warble. When growth is completed the grub leaves the warble, drops to the ground, crawls under the most convenient shelter, such as a piece of board, log, etc, and here transforms into the fly or adult stage. There is a difference of opinion as to how the grub gets under the skin. Some entomologists claim that the egg is taken into the stomach by the animals licking themselves, hatch there, adhering to the walls, then the grubs gradually work their way toward the surface, where they remain until fully grown. Others hold that the eggs hatch where they are laid and the young larvae bury themselves at once under the skin. Whatever method is employed the results are the same.

SECTION OF WARBLE.

The best way to get rid of the pest is to kill the maggot. This may be done by squeezing them out. Place the thumbs near the base of the swelling and press firmly until the grub is forced out. To prevent the attacks of the fly in summer, a mixture of four ounces flowers of sulphur, one gill of spirits of tar with a quart of train oil rubbed along the spine, loins and ribs is useful. Train oil can be used alone. As the fly does not move about from place to place freely, its eradication on individual farms depends almost completely upon the owner.—Orange Judd Farmer.

DIFFERENT STAGES OF PUPA AND ADULT FLY.

EARLY CULTIVATION.

It Means Much Hard Work, But It Is Work That Pays for Itself More Than Twice Over.

With all cultivated crops it is the early cultivation that is the most important. The weeds are easiest killed when they first make their appearance above ground, and if the weeds can be kept down and the soil in good tilth until the plants get well started to growing it is much easier to maintain a good growth. One decided advantage in having the soil well prepared when the seed is planted is that it will be possible to begin the cultivation earlier.

In most cases when the cultivation is commenced in good season in the garden a sharp steel rake or prong hoe, and, in the field, a good smoothing harrow will be found the best and most economical implements. Properly used, they will destroy the weeds that may have started up and at the same time will fine the soil and keep it in a good tilth. With all crops the cost of cultivating is quite an item, and when the condition of the soil will admit using them in no way can the weeds be killed out so effectually and the soil be so thoroughly fined as when these implements are used.

Then the cultivator can be used, taking pains to work as close to the plants as possible. There is no advantage in working the soil deep. Thoroughly stir the surface, and a better growth can be secured than by stirring deep, while shallow cultivation is easier on man and team.

Under ordinary conditions one good harrowing and three good cultivations should be given within the first six weeks of plant growth. Once the plants get well started to growing, it is comparatively easy to keep them growing.—St. Louis Republic.

FACTS FOR FARMERS.

Situate your buildings on an eminence, and never in a hollow.

The man who lets his work drive him, if he can help it, is a slave.

Have the courage to thin your fruit. You will lose nothing, but will gain.

Do you know where things needed in spring work are? It will save you time to find out now.

A smoking manure pile means loss of ammonia. Open up the pile, or better cart it to the land.

Don't cultivate any more land than you absolutely have to, which means better cultivation and less land.

Make a study of what will be best for the road before you try to improve it. Sometimes one of the worst things is to build a road up in the center.

In tests with Irish potatoes, deep planting with level culture yielded 254 bushels per acre, and shallow planting with hill culture gave a yield of 224 bushels.

So long as sawdust remains on top of the ground it is all right as a mulch for strawberries, but if it gets into the ground it may sour and be injurious.—Western Plowman.

SOMETHIN' IS LACKIN'.

Let me introduce a gentleman you may have met 'ere now;
He's a dwelling on a fertile farm, 'n' keeps a horse and cow;
'Nd eleven dogs, a cat or two, ten fighting cocks—but say,
He will swear by all th' stars, thet farmin' doesn't pay!

He hez acres uv good plantin' land—th' finest ever seen,
Whar th' weeds is wavin' o'er th' soil in tranquilness serene;
Yit by diligence he manages t' raise his winter's hay,
But he swears with great vehemence, thet farmin' doesn't pay.

Oh, th' daisies grow luxurious whar 'taters ought ter be,
'Nd th' pizen-ivy climbs around each shade 'n' apple tree,
So he spends his time in fishin' (jes' t' drive his cares away),
'Nd cussin' all creation 'cause his farmin' doesn't pay.

'Nd the cracks betwixt th' shingles on his roof lets in the rain,
'Nd a cardboard er a piece uv tin replace each broken pane
In th' window uv his house, because it ain't no use, no way,
T' expend a cent in fixin' up while farmin' doesn't pay.

Oh, th' troubles an' th' trials of old "Farmer Sykes" is great;
An' it would set th' world a-weepin', ef th' hull I should relate,
'Nd I know he's perseverin', f'r I've seen 'im sit an' fish
F'r a day, 'n' never ketch enough t' fill a sarcer dish.

'Nd th' laws uv this creation isn't what they oughter be,
'Nd thar's somethin' sadly lackin' in this country, great 'n' free,
When a perseverin' tiller uv th' soil's obliged t' say,
Thet with all his perseverence, he hez never made it pay!

SIZE OF SUGAR BEETS.

The Small Kinds Are Richest in Saccharine Matter and the Most Profitable for the Grower.

At a discussion upon sugar beets recently among the members of a Wisconsin farmers' institute Prof. W. A. Henry, dean of the Wisconsin agricultural college, said, concerning the size of beets: "The best sugar beets weigh about two pounds each. Do not try to grow great, large beets, thinking they are the best. Years ago when I was looking up the beet sugar question in California I had a conversation with some of the officials of the Southern Pacific Railroad company in their office in San Francisco. I was urging upon them the importance of beet sugar production in California. Col. Crocker, the leader, showed much indifference, saying that he had lost $50,000 in trying to promote this very enterprise. I told him that that was not necessarily a reason why beet sugar production could not yet be profitable. Later on in our conversation, when talking about California's wonderful productions, he said that in his experiments he had grown beets that weighed 20 or 30 pounds each. As soon as he told me this I replied: 'There, Col. Crocker, is one of the reasons your factory failed. You thought large beets were good beets, when in truth they are poor beets, and helped wreck your factory. You should have tried to produce small beets, but many to the acre; and such, if grown properly, would have been rich in sugar, and these would have brought you success instead of failure.'"

FENCE-WIRE WINDER.

With This Tool One Man Can Do Lots of Work Without Tearing His Hands or Clothes.

Last fall I made the device for winding up fence wire, shown in the accompanying illustration. It is a troublesome job to move a wire fence, but with this tool one man can wind up barb wire smoothly and quickly, and without tearing his clothes or hands. The wheels for the front end are some old pulleys picked up at an implement warehouse. None are placed on the rear end, so that the sled will drag a little harder to increase the tension. Fasten the end of the wire to an empty spool, and place the spool on a crowbar, run through holes in the standards. Stand behind, between the runners, and turn the spool, which will wind up the wire and draw the sled along.—Sebastian Meyer, Jr., in Farm and Fireside.

FOR WINDING FENCE WIRE.

Locate the Underdrains.

Wherever an underdrain has been laid, either a map of the ground should be drawn, or such other memorandum as will enable the owner of the land to always know where it may be found. There is nothing more provoking to the buyer of a farm that is only partly underdrained than his inability to decide just where the old drains are located and what size conduit they have. Of course the drain, if in working order, will show within two or three rods where tile or stone may be found. But to reach it then requires much needless digging, which could all have been avoided if the man who laid the drain had been careful to make a record of its location.

Good plowing lies very close to the foundation of successful farming, being the foundation stone upon which nearly all thorough and successful soil culture must rest. It is an operation which should never be performed carelessly, for, while it often is expensive to plow the ground thoroughly, it is even more so to permit of the work being done in a hurried and superficial manner.—Agricultural Epitomist.

Men Who Travel.

Hustling and hasty meals often play havoc with the traveling man's digestion. An experienced commercial man, who spends most of his time on the road, states that he never allows himself to be without a bottle of Carter's Cascara Pills. One of Sharon's farmers left a row of potatoes in his garden undug last fall, and a few days ago he dug them and had some cooked, which he found all right, and is preparing the ground to plant the balance.—Enterprise.

A drunken farmer caused quite a stir just north of the M. C. depot Monday by falling out of his wagon and losing consciousness for a longer time than usual. An ambulance and a physician were sent for but the man recovered shortly, so that their services were not needed.—A. A. Democrat.

Addison Gardener, of Milan, is one of the most lucky of all lucky men, a few days since while digging a trench back of his yard he found a tin can filled with $20 gold pieces ranging in dates from 1805 to 1811. The can was nearly destroyed from rust and is supposed to have been placed there by some one in the time of the 1812 war.—Saline Observer.

People who have dogs that run out and bark and snap at passers by, whether they may be on foot, awheel, or driving, should either teach their canines better manners, or amputate their tails just back of their ears. Juries are not lenient with the owners of savage dogs when they (the dogs) bite people. Most jurymen have had unpleasant experiences in that line.

The street sprinkler is again doing duty and these who ride wheels will feel the need as usual for paddles and a steering apparatus. Wheel riders are constantly abused by a certain class of the public, and yet the mud in the streets is not fully dried up from winter before the sprinkling season commences and they have to swim summer and winter or walk.—Adrian Telegram.

Soon from the bonds of winter the old world will be freed, and soon will come the bloomer girl upon her noiseless steed; the bumble bee will bumble, in the meadow wet with dew, and the feelings of spring fever will come creeping over you. Niles, Mich., April 7.—For several years, members of the local school board have been in search of an expedient whereby they could banish the numerous courting couples that frequent the spacious porches of the central building until late hours in the summer. Burglars again invaded the Reynolds clothing store Wednesday night, gaining admittance through rear window by removing a pane of glass. The invaders did not carry away many goods, but packed into satchels such as they desired and left them without taking, evidently being frightened away, it is thought by occupants of the barn at rear of store, who drove in between two and three o'clock from a trip to Milan. The burglars wore away new hats, leaving two old ones. Some express packages were opened but nothing taken.—Dundee Reporter.

During the call of the afternoon roll, one day recently, Prof. Gahagan, of the Clayton schools, was led to believe that a troup of Spanish guerillas had got into the school house, as the doors suddenly opened and in tramped the lower grades and teachers. It was a present of a beautiful book case, which Charles Gage on behalf of the whole presented as a good will offering.—Adrian Press.

The marshall of the village of Reading comes out in a notice in the papers of that place warning the young men and boys that unless they quit congregating on the street corners telling vulger stories and making indecent remarks to the annoyance of ladies and gentlemen passing by, especially on Sundays, something more than kindly asking will be done. Reading must have some pretty tough young men, and we think they need schooling in manners all the days of the week as well as Sundays, according to the marshal's proclamation.—Hudson News.

Lady compositors in Kansas do not always show proper respect for the editor, judging from the following advertisement which recently appeared in the Robinson (Kan.) The newspaper field is wide and full of thorns and roses. If you roast the ungodly, the preacher smiles, and if you roast the preacher, the ungodly smile. If you roast the saloon man, the teetotaler smiles, and when you roast the teetotaler, the saloon man smiles—and sets'm up. If you swear you are a wicked man, if you pray, you are a hypocrite. One editor thinks the man who brings in dry wood is the best friend, while another thinks the man who finds no fault with the paper is the best man. There are people we know, however, who have such a prejudice against telling a newspaper person anything that if they died they wouldn't say anything about it. If a baby is born to you, give it in for publication that is, the item not the baby. If you have visitors, send in their names and address. If you have made a successful business speculation and have money in your pocket; give it to us—the item not the money.—Onsted News.

The Abbott voting machines were used in different parts of the state this spring, and from each place comes the verdict that they are perfect and satisfactory. In Kalamazoo from twelve precints the returns were all in fifteen minutes after the polls closed, and not a vote lost in the city. The machine is the only perfect manner of voting, and while the fact has long been known in this city, there is satisfaction in having a practical demonstration in other places, and knowing that in no case has there been any different experience than in Hudson, where the voting machine has often been proven to be absolutely correct.—Hudson Post.

The time for the voting machine is undoubtedly with us, as returns from all over the state show that mechanical voting is one of the greatest improvements over the old tally sheet and all night board session and then the chance of a contest. Let's have a voting machine or two!

Financial Letter.

Chicago, April 6, 1898.

There was the biggest sort of a boom in July wheat to-day, the price advancing from an opening at 85 3-4 to 88 3-8 with but few halts on the way up, and at the close the feeling was fully as bullish as at any time during the day.

The reason of the bulge was the situation here and abroad, which, in the opinion of the trade, warrants all advance. In the event of war, which now seems probable, there is little question that all grains will rise sharply, and then again so much wheat has been shipped out of this country that the supply for milling demand is nothing like what it should be. There has been considerable of short interest in July wheat since the trading was transferred from May to that option, and the bears are now covering such contracts at a smart loss. Between these influences it is difficult to account for the bull feeling and rise of the last few days.

Corn was very strong in sympathy with wheat, and those who are friendly to that cereal do not think that the top of the bulge has been seen. Provisions were in better demand, but do not bull readily. The price range was as follows:

	High.	Low.	Close.
May wheat,	109 1-2	107 1-2	108 1-4
July wheat,	88 3-8	85 3-4	87 7-8

SAYS CUBA MUST BE FREE

Congress Declares That the Foreign Yoke on the Island Shall Be Removed.

SPAIN MUST WITHDRAW IMMEDIATELY.

Resolutions Direct President McKinley to Use Land and Naval Forces to Bring About This Result—Independence of the Cuban People Is Recognized.

Washington, April 19.—After one of the hardest-fought battles betweeen the two houses known in many years, congress, at an early hour Tuesday morning, came to an agreement upon the most momentous question it has dealt with in a third of a century. The Cuban resolution was passed, and will be sent to the president this morning. Its provisions mean the expulsion of Spain from the island of Cuba by the armed forces of the United States. There were many roll calls in both houses, and each body held tenaciously for its own resolution. The conferees had great difficulty in agreeing. The first conference showed a determination on the part of the house not to yield a single point, and it was only after long consultations with the house leaders that they agreed to allow the little words "are and" in the first section of the senate resolution, which declares that the people of Cuba are, and of right ought to be free and independent. The resolution, as finally adopted, is that reported from the senate committee on foreign relations, with the addition of the fourth section, known as the Teller amendment, disclaiming any intention on the part of the United States to acquire Cuba.

THE RESOLUTIONS.

Their Full Text as Adopted by the Senate and House.

Following is the full text of the resolutions as agreed upon by the conferees and adopted by the senate and house:

"Joint resolution for the recognition of the independence of the people of Cuba, demanding that the government of Spain relinquish its authority and government in the island of Cuba, and withdraw its land and naval forces from Cuba and Cuban waters, and directing the president of the United States to use the land and naval forces of the United States to carry these resolutions into effect.

"Whereas, The abhorrent conditions which have existed for more than three years in the island of Cuba, so near our own borders, have shocked the moral sense of the people of the United States, have been a disgrace to Christian civilization, culminating, as they have, in the destruction of a United States battleship, with 266 of its officers and crew, while on a friendly visit in the harbor of Havana, and cannot longer be endured, as has been set forth by the president of the United States in his message to congress of April 11, 1898, upon which the action of congress was invited; therefore,

"Resolved, By the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America, in congress assembled:

"First, That the people of the island of Cuba are, and of right ought to be, free and independent.

"Second, That it is the duty of the United States to demand, and the government of the United States does hereby demand, that the government of Spain at once relinquish its authority and government in the island of Cuba and withdraw its land and naval forces from Cuba and Cuban waters.

"Third, That the president of the United States be, and he hereby is, directed and empowered to use the entire land and naval forces of the United States and to call into the actual service of the United States the militia of the several states, to such extent as may be necessary to carry these resolutions into effect.

"Fourth, That the United States hereby disclaims any disposition or intention to exercise sovereignty, jurisdiction or control over said island except for the pacification thereof, and asserts its determination when that is accomplished to leave the government and control of the island to its people."

Incidents of the Memorable Struggle Over the Cuban Question.

Washington, April 19.—The house, after one of the hardest and most desperate fights in its history, succeeded in forcing the senate to yield the main contention in the war resolutions—the independence of the existing government in Cuba. With that exception the house accepted the senate resolutions. The republicans who joined with the democrats in an attempt to concur in the senate amendments entire rallied 16 votes at one time, and on every vote thereafter the vote dwindled. When the final vote was taken, 310 votes were cast for the declaration upon which we are to go to war, if war it is to be. Six votes only were cast against it. They included five republicans and one democrat.

The vote was announced at 2:43 a. m., and immediately thereafter the house adjourned.

IN THE SENATE.

Difference Over the Cuban Resolution Prolongs the Session.

Washington, April 19.—The tocsin of war has been sounded by the American congress. At 1:15 o'clock this morning the senate received the report of the conference committee of the two branches of the congress, and 12 minutes afterward had adopted it. There was a fight to the last minute, however, the advocates of recognition of the independence of the island republic standing their ground until they were fairly knocked down by a vote of 42 to 35. The minority vote was cast by those who wanted radical action and insisted that the resolution should carry with it recognition of the independence of the Cuban republic. Upon this a split developed which very nearly proved fatal to any action at all.

A Remarkable Session.

The adoption of the conference report brought to a close one of the most interesting and tumultuous sessions of the senate held in years. Such scenes of confusion and excitement have rarely been witnessed in the ordinarily staid and dignified body as characterized its proceedings from noon Monday until nearly two o'clock this morning. Interest in all other questions was dwarfed into insignificance by the one overwhelming question of war—war which all now regard to be absolutely inevitable. Efforts were made to transact the regular business of the senate, but it was with the utmost diffidence that senators performed the work. Among those who remained upon the floor while the sundry civil bill was under consideration the confusion was so great that business could scarcely proceed. Nothwithstanding the vice president's earnest and constant effort to preserve order, the members gathered in groups about the chamber, excitedly discussing the various phases of the question of the hour.

Means War.

The scene in the senate, even up to the minute of adjournment, was one of wonderful beauty and impressiveness. Hundreds of brilliantly-attired women and men in evening dress filled the galleries. On the floor were the makers of the country's history, awaiting the verdict from the conference committee. When, finally, it came there was a hush in the great chamber which a few seconds before had been thrilling with animation. When the verdict had been returned and accepted by the senate the great audience dispersed — dispersed quietly, almost solemnly. All realized that the verdict meant war, and the action taken was too momentous to inspire anything less than awe.

At 1:50 a. m. the senate adjourned.

Dr. Miles' Nervine

A REMEDY FOR THE

Effects of Tobacco.

THE excessive use of tobacco, especially by young men is always injurious and undoubtedly shortens life materially. Mr. Ed. C. Ebsen, compositor on the Contra-Costa News, Martinez, Cal., writes; "I have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and received much benefit from it. I was troubled with nervousness, dizzy spells and sleeplessness, caused by the use of tobacco and stimulants. I took Dr. Miles' Nervine with marvelously good results, allaying the dizziness, quieting the nerves, and enabling me to sleep and rest, proving in my case a very beneficial remedy." Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is especially adapted to restoring the nervous system to its normal condition under such circumstances. It soothes, heals and strengthens.

Dr. Miles' Remedies are sold by all druggists under a positive guarantee, first bottle benefits or money refunded. Book on diseases of the heart and nerves free. Address,

A Wish.

I wish that I might truly be
A Christian Scientist,
Of all the Sciences 'tis first—
The best upon the list—
Because if you believe in it,
All trouble you have missed.

For instance, if your pocket is
As empty as can be,
Make up your mind that it is full,
You'll own the treasury,
For when you can imagine funds,
Of Pauperdom you're free.

And should you hunger as you walk
Amid the city's din,
Make up your mind you're dining,
With your kith and with your kin,
On ruddy ducks and Burgundy
And toothsome terrapin.

And if you have no clothing that
Will warm you when you freeze,
If so it be you're shivering from
Your bald spot to your knees,
Pray summon up an ulster—in your mind—
And be at ease.

Oh yes, it is a lovely thing
To be a Scientist,
Who suffers not from trials or
From any present twist,
And just by fancy can remove
All trouble from his list.

Harper's Bazar.

An Anglo-American Alliance.

There is a patriotism of race as well as of country—and the Anglo-American is as little likely to be indifferent to the one as to the other, says Hon. Richard Olney in the May Atlantic. Family quarrels there have been heretofore and doubtless will be again, and the two peoples, at the safe distance which the broad Atlantic interposes, take with each other liberties of speech which only the fondest and dearest relatives indulge in. Nevertheless, that they would be found standing together against any alien foe by whom either was menaced with destruction or irreparable calamity, it is not permissible to doubt. Nothing less could be expected of the close community between them in origin, speech, thought, literature, institutions, ideals—in the kind and degree of the civilization enjoyed by both. In that same community, and in that cooperation in good works which should result from it, it is not too much to say, lies the best hope for the future, not only of the two kindred peoples, but of the human race itself. To be assured of it, we need not resort to a prior reasoning, convincing as it would be found, nor exhaust historical examples, numerous and cogent as they are. It is enough to point out that, of all obstacles to the onward march of civilization, none approaches in magnitude and obduracy "the scourge of war" and that the English and American peoples, both by precept and example, have done more during the last century to do away with war and to substitute peaceful and civilized methods of settling international controversies, than all the other nations of the world's history. It is not too much to hope, let us trust, that the near future will show them making even more advances in the same direction, and, while thus consulting their own best interests, also setting an example sure to have the most important and beneficent influence upon the destinies of mankind.

The May number of Harper's Round Table will contain the first instalment of Kirk Munroe's six-part serial story, "The Copper Princess." The scene is laid in the mining country of Lake Superior, and the story hinges on the mystery of a deserted copper mine. In the course of the story, as we are informed, Mr. Munroe will make his readers thoroughly acquainted with the workings of those copper mines, some of which are as much as a mile underground. Another feature of special interest in the May number will be the announcement of the Three Prize Stories in the Original Short Story Competition, as well as the result of the Photographic Competition.

A big error sinks into nonentity when placed beside a small truth.

Indigestion---Dyspepsia.

The Results of the New Cure for Indigestion and Nervous Dyspepsia.

Drake's Dyspepsia Cure & Nerve Restorer, a wellspring of life, is pouring into thousands of homes to day; stubborn cases that have baffled all other remedies yield to the efficacy of this marvelous treatment, and permanent cures are the inevitable results from its use. For sale by John J. Orr, leading druggist, Tecumseh Mich. A book on Stomach and Nerve troubles, their symptoms and cure, will be given free for the asking at above mentioned drug store. Read following statement:

To Whom It May Concern: To those suffering from stomach and nerve troubles I wish to recommend Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer. About 20 years ago I began to be troubled with my stomach. It gradually grew worse, even under treatment, until it became difficult for me to eat any kind of food with comfort. For the past five years I have been able to retain very little food of the simplest nature long enough to digest it. Seldom during this time have I enjoyed sleep throughout the entire night, and usually have been obliged to leave my bed in consequence of my stomach and nerve troubles. My bowels were very much relaxed, said to be due to inflammation of the membrane of the intestines. I was treated by physicians, and tried nearly every known remedy recommended for my troubles with no lasting benefit, and usually not even temporary relief. On the 5th day of January, '98, I purchased a package of Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer, and I wish every dyspeptic knew how much I have improved from its use. My food does not distress me as it did, and I have no trouble in retaining it. I sleep well and feel refreshed therefrom, and, although I have used only one package of the medicine, I can safely say that I am 75 per cent. better than I have been during the past 20 years. Yours respectfully, M[illegible]ON STODDARD, Litchfield, M[illegible] '98.

Spain's Naval Strength.

In order that timid souls may not be unduly perturbed by the stories that are printed in the daily papers concerning the very powerful ships of the Spanish navy is not more than one-third as powerful as our own, and is probably not more than one-tenth as effective. The power of navies cannot be judged accurately by comparing lists of ships and armaments. The condition of the ships and guns must be reckoned with; and while the American ships are always in first-class order, Spanish ships rarely are. There is the Alfonso XII., for instance, counted among the Spanish fleet of effective vessels. As a matter of fact, her boilers are in such condition that she cannot move. The relative effectiveness of navies depends upon officers and crews—upon the human equation—and in that respect the American navy is as good as any in the world, and the Spanish navy is one of the weakest.—Harper's Weekly.

A School Girl's Nerves.

This record is of especial value to parents. It's a message from a loving mother dedicated to the mothers of growing girls. A truthful narrative of the utmost interest and import.

It is important that the nerves are carefully guarded. Mothers who have young daughters of school age should watch their health more carefully than their studies.

The proper development of their bodies is of first importance.

After the confinement of the school room, plenty of out-door exercise should be taken. It is better that children never learn their a, b, c's, than that by overstudy they lose their health.

All this is self-evident. Everyone admits it—everyone knows it, but everyone does not know how to build the health up when once broken down, even the best physicians failing at times.

The following method of Mrs. Stephen Barnes, whose post office address is Burney, Ind., if rightly applied, may save your daughter.

When her daughter Lucy was at that critical girlhood age of twelve years she grew weak and nervous.

"Previously she had been a bright, healthy young girl," says Mrs. Barnes, "She was diligent and progressive in her studies.

"It became necessary, however, for her to leave school.

"She was overtaxed mentally and physically.

"Her nerves were at such a tension that the least noise irritated her.

"She had continual twitching in the arms and lower limbs and symptoms of St. Vitus' dance.

"Her blood was out of order she was thin and pale, almost lifeless. In three months she lost twenty-three pounds.

"We did everything possible for her, and she had the best of medical treatment.

"Several skilled physicians attended her, but no benefit was apparent.

"A family friend visiting us, told how her daughter had been similarly affected, but cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

"She urged us to try the pills, and we finally consented.

"We have always rejoiced that we did.

"The pills helped Lucy at once, and after taking eight boxes she was entirely cured.

"She is now in perfect health, strong, weighs ten pounds more than ever before, and her cheeks are full of color.

"Two years of schooling were missed on account of ill health, but now she can gratify her ambition to study and become an educated woman."

The reason that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People were helpful in the above case, is that they are composed of vegetable remedies which act directly on the impure blood, the foundation of disease.

As the blood rushes through all parts of the body, the conveyer of good or bad health, it is necessary that it should be pure, rich and red.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood by supplying its life giving elements which nourishes the various organs, stimulating them to activity in the performance of their functions and thus drives disease from the system.

The pills are in universal demand and sold by all druggists.

MOTHER! There is no word so full of meaning and about which such tender and holy recollections cluster as that of "MOTHER"—she who watched over our helpless infancy and guided our first tottering step. Yet the life of every Expectant Mother is beset with danger and all effort should be made to avoid it.

Mother's Friend so assists nature in the change taking place that the Expectant Mother is enabled to look forward without dread, suffering or gloomy forebodings, to the hour when she experiences the joy of Motherhood. Its use insures safety to the lives of both Mother and Child, and she is found stronger after than before confinement—in short, it "makes Childbirth natural and easy," as so many have said. Best Papers the Best Mediums.

There is much good solid sense for every advertiser in the following paragraph from a thoughtful eastern advertiser: The daily paper is by far the safest and most certain method of reaching the public. It should not be difficult for any intelligent man who has lived for any time in a community to know just what papers will serve him as advertising mediums. It isn't at all necessary to examine the books in the newspaper's counting room or to get their affidavits of circulation. A paper that you read yourself and that your neighbors read and respect and that you know to be widely read and respected, you can safely rely on as a satisfactory medium for reaching people of your own kind.

YOU HAVE BEEN GETTING BETTER RESULTS FROM The Detroit Journal WE'RE GIVING YOU MORE CIRCULATION.

Did You Ever Notice?

The best business houses in Detroit use THE DETROIT JOURNAL largely—more largely every year.

Nearly every successful general advertiser uses THE DETROIT JOURNAL.

Some advertisers are not allowed in THE DETROIT JOURNAL.

The Most Favorable Season

To cure catarrh is in the spring. During the winter the patient is likely to take fresh cold and have a set-back. But if treatment is begun in the spring and continued into the summer, nothing need be feared for the succeeding winter. Of course, it all depends on the medicine. There are a great many catarrh medicines which relieve the most disagreeable symptoms temporarily. Pe-ru-na cures more slowly but also more permanently than this class of medicines. A course of Pe-ru-na during the spring will cure catarrh more quickly than at any other season. Mr. Walter H. Tucker, Concord, N. H., writes Dr. Hartman as follows: "When I began taking your medicines four years ago I was suffering with chronic catarrh. I had taken nearly two dozen bottles of a so-called catarrh cure without much relief. Pe-ru-na cured the night sweats and dizziness; it cured the cough I have had from my cradle; I can say it saved my life."

Dr. Hartman has published in book form a series of lectures on various phases of chronic catarrh, which he calls "Winter Catarrh." This book will be sent free to any address by The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio.

The Cincinnati Times Star gives the following table showing the exact rank in 1897 of the great naval powers of the world. Cut it out and preserve it. 1, Great Britain. 2, France. 3, Russia. 4, Italy. 5, United States. 6, Germany. 7, Spain. 8, Japan. 9, Austria. 10, Netherlands. At the rate of increase indicated by the number of vessels authorized by the several nations in '98 Japan would in '99 become fifth and the United States sixth, but owing to present events the rank of the navies will probably be materially changed.

RAILROAD NEWS.

Notes and Condensations Concerning the Railroads.

The Chicago Tribune says:

"The news telegraphed from New York that William K. Vanderbilt had selected W. H. Newman for the presidency of the Lake Shore road, in place of S. R. Callaway, proved quite a surprise, as his name had not previously been mentioned for the position. It is generally admitted, however, that a better man for the position could not well have been chosen. He is not an operating man, but is generally considered one of of the best traffic officials in the country. The opinion is that Mr. Newman will devote his principal attention to the traffic affairs of the road, while General Manager Caniff will conduct the operation of trains. "Mr. Newman for a number of years was vice president and general traffic manager of the Northwestern. About two years ago he left this road to become second vice president of the Great Northern St. Paul, the position which he now holds."

That the electric railway is the coming thing in Michigan, there is no gainsaying. The Monroe and Toledo railroad filed a map with the railroad commissioner to day. It crosses both the Lake Shore and the Michigan Central tracks at Monroe. Yesterday a meeting of the directors of the Lansing St. Johns & St. Louis electric line was held at Ithaca. Tomorrow night a public meeting to raise money for the Lansing, Dexter & Ann Arbor, will be held at Dexter, one of the important points on the line.—Lansing Cor. A. Times.

The Lake Shore suffered an exceedingly severe (?) loss Friday afternoon week through the destruction, by fire, of the "palatial" depot at Grosvenor. Sparks from an engine, it is thought, caused the conflagration (better word than fire), and the lively agent, with truly loyal devotion to the poor corporation, managed to save most of the valuable contents of the magnificent structure. Loss,——; insuiance,——. A passenger coach now serves as depot at Grosvenor.—Morenci Observer.

Lima O., April 18.—Five of the tramps arrested for taking possession of Geigers's saloon here, and who gave the police a desperate fight, were identified to-day as being members of the notorious Lake Shore gang which has been operating along that line of road and in the vicinity of Toledo for some time and are badly wanted.—Blade.

Aaron Canine has been arrested on complaint of Motorman Vail, of Ypsilanti, on the charge of placing obstructions on the track of the Ann Arbor & Ypsilanti electric railway last week Wednesday night; nearly causing a wreck. The hearing has been set for today before Justice Duffy in Ann Arbor.—Milan Leader.

On Wednesday, while the station agent was at dinner, a thief scaled a partition which separates the waiting room from the ticket office in the Lima Northern depot in Adrian, and robbed the till of over $15.

Conductor Jno. Porter has moved into Mrs. Robt. Stretch's house, corner of Maiden Lane and Shawnee.

Engineer E. J. Smith has moved into the Lawrence house on Potawatamie street.

'ROUND ABOUT US.

The bicycle path between Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti which was commenced last fall, is being pushed forward to completion. Contractor John Weston is now engaged in putting the top dressing of gravel on it.—Ann Arbor Argus.

A little white bantam hen, owned by H. Elliott, of Manitou Beach, with true motherly instinct, is caring for a lot of young puppies. She hovers as many as she can cover, clucks to them, and calls for them to eat corn with her. The mother dog seems to be satisfied with the arrangement.—Ex.

Gov. Pingree did not come to the military reception and ball Monday given by Company A, although elaborate decorations and extensive preparations were made to greet His Excellency. That's twice the governor has disappointed his Ann Arbor friends. Three times and out. They may turn the tables one of these days and disappoint him if he don't watch out.—Ann Arbor Courier.

In the appointment of Geo. H. Pond, of the Ann Arbor Courier, as postmaster at Ann Arbor, Washtenaw editors feel as though a personal favor had been conferred upon each of them, and the act further shows an appreciation and a recognition of the services and power of the newspaper fraternity. Ann Arbor, which has been thus favored during the last few years, is to be congratulated upon the continuance of that kind of postoffice administration.—Milan Leader.

With the incoming of spring, the cowardly whelp with the dog poisoning propensity, blossoms forth from a winter's seclusion and gets in some brainless operations. For the past month or more, dog fanciers about town have been losing their favorite canines by the strychnine and bacon route, and are guessing pretty closely at the perpetrators. These people should learn that it is dangerous to kill the other fellow's dog and that the distribution of poisoned meat in any place whatever, even if it is your own dooryard, is punishable by a fine of $100, three months in the county jail or both fine and imprisonment. If you have really got to kill a dog, make it convenient to break your own neck and merit the commendation of people in general.

Being allowed to depart, he put his star in his pocket and took a tie pass over the Lima for home sweet home, and when next he plays private detective, he will doubtless seek other fields for his nocturnal raids.

NEW LAWS FOR MICHIGAN

Work Done by the Legislature in the Extra Session Recently Held in Lansing.

EIGHT MEASURES ONLY ARE PASSED.

Four Were Presented by the Military Committee in View of a Conflict with Spain—A War Loan Authorized—Concurrent Resolutions That Were Adopted.

At the recent extra session of the Michigan legislature eight bills were passed and have since been signed by Gov. Pingree and are now laws. Three concurrent resolutions were also adopted, and below will be found the resolutions and bills:

CONCURRENT RESOLUTIONS.

One Expresses Sympathy for Cuba in the Struggle for Freedom.

Whereas, The Michigan legislature in regular biennial session assembled, one ydar ago, expressed its sympathy for the Cuban patriots in their struggle for independence; and

Whereas, War still continues on the island of Cuba, presenting the most horrible, pitiable and revolting conditions, and calling forth expressions of sympathy from all mankind;

Resolved (the senate concurring), That our sympathy for these afflicted people is hereby again renewed and our hope reaffirmed that war, desolation and death will speedily end on that unfortunate island and the boon of independence be again an established fact;

Resolved, further, That we express our highest appreciation of the policy pursued by President McKinley; assert our confidence in his calm, prudent, patriotic leadership; congratulate the congress of the United States on the unanimity of their courageous action taken on the emergency war measure, and hereby assure the national administration that should war come, Michigan will quickly respond as in "Sixty-one" and furnish her quota of brave and loyal sons to keep step to the music of the Union.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded by the secretary of state to President McKinley and the president of the national senate and the speaker of the house for communication to those respective bodies.

Approved April 13, 1898.

Printing and Binding.

Resolved by the house (the senate concurring), That there shall be printed and bound in the usual form and style 3,000 copies of the official journal of this extraordinary session of the legislature; and

Resolved, That such number of copies of said journals as shall remain, after the distribution provided by the law shall have been made, shall be disposed of as the board of state auditors shall determine.

Approved April 13, 1898.

To Adjust Military Claims.

Whereas, It appears that a large part of the work of the adjutant general's office consists in investigating bounty claims, furnishing certificates of service and statements of war records to the soldiers of the last war, and none of the military funds at the disposal of the military department are available for such work; and

Whereas, The said work has been conducted for the current year and the year 1897 at the expense of the National guard fund;

Resolved, by the house (the senate concurring), That the board of state auditors be and is hereby authorized and directed to investigate and examine into the expense of such work, and determine as to what amount of the same should rightfully be paid from the general fund for the years 1897 and 1898. And if upon examination of the facts, it is found that the National guard or other military funds of the state ought to be credited with an allowance for such work, the board of state auditors is authorized, empowered and directed to draw their warrant for such sum upon the general fund, the amount of the same to be placed to the credit of the proper military fund.

Approved April 15, 1898.

For a War Loan.

An act authorizing a war loan and providing for the disbursement of the proceeds therefrom, and for a war loan sinking fund for the purpose of liquidating the loan.

Whereas, It has become necessary for the several states to be prepared for all calls of a military nature made by the general government; therefore

The people of the state of Michigan enact:

Section 1. That the governor and state treasurer be and they are hereby authorized and directed, in the name and on behalf of the people, and upon the faith and credit of this state, for the purpose of organizing a national guard, a naval militia and the volunteer militia for the purpose of repelling invasion or defending the state and nation in time of war against all enemies and opposers whatever, to purchase and contract for a loan or loans for such sum or sums of money as may be necessary for the purposes herein specified, not exceeding $500,000 in all, on the most favorable terms that, in their judgment, can be obtained, redeemable at the pleasure of the state at any time not less than five, nor more than ten years from the first day of May, 1898, at a rate of interest not to exceed four per cent. (4) per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of May and November in each year. Such loans shall be known as the Michigan war loan of 1898. The proceeds of such bonds shall be credited to the war fund and shall be paid out in no other manner and for no other purpose than in this act specified. The principal, as well as the interest accruing upon the bonds issued under this act, shall be payable from the war loan sinking fund hereinafter provided for.

Section 2. For the purpose of effecting the loan or loans by this act authorized, the governor and state treasurer are hereby empowered and directed to cause to be issued bonds of the state of Michigan from time to time as they may deem necessary in sums not less than one hundred dollars ($100) each to be signed by the governor and countersigned by the secretary of state and state treasurer, with the seal of state affixed thereto, and the coupons for interest thereto attached. Both principal and interest of all bonds under five hundred dollars ($500) shall be payable in the city of Detroit, and for principal and interest of amounts over five hundred dollars ($500) in the city of New York. The bonds shall be drawn in favor of the auditor general, and when indorsed by him, become negotiable in such manner as the governor and state treasurer may deem expedient.

Section 3. The moneys arising from the sale of the bonds, by this act authorized to be issued, shall be paid into the treasury of the state to the credit of the war fund, and shall be drawn therefrom upon the warrants of the auditor general, which warrants, payable to the quartermaster general, shall be issued upon proper requisitions of the quartermaster general of the state, after the governor shall have certified that the amount stated in the requisition is needed for the purposes specified in this act. The moneys provided by this act may be used for the purpose of recruiting, enlisting, organizing, arming and equipping the military forces herein mentioned, and for the purchase and distribution of all necessary military and naval stores, whether of subsistence, clothing, pay, medicines, field, camp and vessel equipage, arms, munitions, and equipments for such organizations of the National guard, naval militia and volunteer militia of this state as may be mustered into the service of this state, or of the United States, under the provisions of any law of this state, or under any call from the president of the United States: Provided, That no moneys authorized by this act shall in any way be construed as applicable for the ordinary expenses of the naval militia or National guard, as contemplated by the laws of the state making direct appropriations for the general expenses of these organizations. Warrants payable to the quartermaster general may be issued by the auditor general upon proper requisitions of the quartermaster general, certified by the governor as hereinbefore provided, for such amounts as they shall deem necessary from time to time, and the expenditures of the money thus drawn by the quartermaster general, shall be accounted for under the provisions of the general accounting laws applicable to such cases. Provided further, Warrants may be issued by the auditor general upon proper vouchers certified by the governor for advances made by the quartermaster general of the state for expenditures already incurred for the purposes herein specified.

Section 4. All claims and accounts accruing against this state for expenses and disbursements authorized by this act, shall be audited and allowed by the state military board, in the same manner that other military accounts are now audited and allowed, but they shall be kept in the accounts of the quartermaster general, as a distinct fund, separate and apart from the other accounts kept by him.

Section 5. The bonds issued under this act shall be numbered consecutively and registered in a book provided for this purpose, which shall be kept in the auditor general's office. This register shall contain the date of the bonds, the number, to whom issued, and the amount of each bond; also the date of redemption, number of bond, of whom received and amount of each bond. There shall also be kept in the auditor general's office a register showing the date of the bond, the number, amount, date each coupon is due and the cancellation of such coupons as are paid, with reference to the number of the voucher paying the same. Whenever any such bonds shall be paid, the same shall be immediately cancelled by the treasurer and the auditor general shall also keep a full record of all bonds taken up and paid, as provided above. And immediately after the record shall have been made as aforesaid, the bonds so paid shall also be cancelled by writing across the face of each bond, which cancellation shall be signed by the auditor general and state treasurer, and such bonds thus cancelled shall be filed with the voucher as the basis of the auditor general's warrant for their payment.

Section 6. For the purpose of providing for the payment of the bonds issued under this act, and the interest thereon, there shall be assessed on the taxable property of the state as fixed by the state board of equalization in the year 1896, and in each year thereafter until the several amounts levied under this act shall become sufficient to extinguish the debt created herein, the sum of ½ of a mill on each dollar of said taxable property to be assessed and paid into the treasury of the state in like manner as other state taxes are by law levied, assessed and paid, which amount thus levied shall be credited each year to the war loan sinking fund as herein directed: Provided, That should the last levy necessary under this act produce a credit to the said war loan sinking fund in excess of the amount required to pay all bonds and interest thereon, such excessive credit if any shall when all bonds issued under this act and all interest accrued thereon have been paid, be transferred to the general fund upon the books of the state.

Section 7. The faith of the state is hereby pledged for the payment of principal and interest of the bonds which may be assessed under the provisions of this act.

Section 8. It shall be the duty of the governor, by and with the advice and recommendations of the state military board, to expend such part of the above fund as may be necessary to recruit, enlist, discipline, organize, instruct and thoroughly arm and equip the military bodies in this act mentioned for such active service as may be required of them.

Section 9. Not less than three months before the maturity of the option of the state to redeem any or all of the bonds issued hereunder, the treasurer shall give notice by advertisement for one week in two daily papers and for four weeks in the weekly edition of the same paper published in the city of Detroit designating the time when, and the number of said bonds which will be redeemed and the interest on such bonds as are described in such advertisement shall cease from the date specified for the redemption of such bonds: Provided, That should the condition of the war loan sinking fund at the date aforesaid be such as to permit the redemption of only a portion of the loan, the bonds to be redeemed shall be determined by the state treasurer in the following manner, viz: The treasurer shall cause numbers corresponding with the numbers of all bonds issued under this act to be placed in a box to be provided for that purpose and shall, in the presence of the governor and auditor general, proceed to draw therefrom numbers of bonds equal in amount as nearly as may be to the money in the state treasury applicable to the redemption of said bonds. The numbers thus determined shall be the ones used in the advertisement herein provided: Provided further, That in case the treasurer shall at any time before the state is authorized to redeem any of the bonds issued hereunder, have an opportunity to purchase any of said bonds at par with accrued interest thereon, he is hereby authorized to use any funds in the treasury available for this purpose.

This act is ordered to take immediate effect.

Approved April 13, 1898.

The National Guard.

An act to promote the efficiency of the Michigan national guard and naval militia of the state, and to provide for the organization of the volunteer militia, in case of emergency.

The people of the state of Michigan enact:

Section 1. That in case of threatened war or invasion of this state, or of the United States, the governor of this state is authorized by the issuance of the proper orders to cause any or all the companies of the Michigan national guard to be increased to a strength of not exceeding 150 enlisted men for each company.

Section 2. Whenever a company is increased in accordance with the preceding section to a strength of 100 men or more, such company shall be officered by a captain, one first lieutenant, and one senior and one junior second lieutenant. The non-commissioned officers of a company shall consist of five sergeants of the line, and one commissary sergeant and eight corporals. When a company shall consist of over 100 men, there shall be eight sergeants of the line, and twelve corporals. In such case there shall be three musicians.

Section 3. In case troops of the state of Michigan are called into the field, for the purpose of recruiting them originally and of keeping the organizations up to maximum strength, the governor may appoint and commission recruiting officers and paymasters, and assign them to duty at such points in the state as he may designate. Such officers may be of any rank not higher than major, and shall be paid the pay proper of officers of like grade in the United States army or navy.

Section 4. It shall be the duty of such officers to enlist and muster recruits for the organizations from this state that may be in the military and naval service under any order of the president of the United States, and for those which are being prepared for such service. Such officers shall organize, instruct, drill and discipline the troops and naval forces enlisted in such manner as they shall from time to time be ordered to do by the governor in accordance with military and naval laws, regulations and customs of service.

Section 5. In case the recruits so enlisted for the infantry arm of the service shall not be needed to fill the regiments in active service, or in case it shall be advisable to organize volunteer regiments, the governor by and with the advice and recommendation of the state military board may organize regiments of eight companies each, each company to consist of not less than 100 men nor more than 150 enlisted men, with the same number of non-commissioned officers and musicians, and the same number of company officers of the same rank as are provided for in section two of this act.

Each regiment shall consist of two battalions of four companies each. The field officers of a regiment shall consist of one colonel, one lieutenant colonel and two majors. The staff shall consist of one surgeon with the rank of major, one assistant surgeon with the rank of captain, one chaplain with the rank of captain, one adjutant and one regimental quartermaster, each with the rank of first lieutenant. Skeleton regiments may be formed and recruited.

The non-commissioned staff shall be the same as that of an infantry regiment of the United States army.

The commissioned officers of regiments so organized shall be appointed and commissioned by the governor.

Regimental bands may be enlisted and mustered and shall consist of the like number of musicians as the band of an infantry regiment in the United States army at the present time.

Officers and enlisted men shall be paid from the time they are placed on duty with the pay of like grades in the United States army.

Artillery and cavalry and naval organizations may be enlisted and, in case they shall be, these arms of the service shall be organized in the same manner as the regular establishment of the United States army and navy are organized in time of war, and the foregoing provisions as to recruiting and recruiting officers shall apply to their organization. Camps of instruction may be ordered.

Section 6. Wherever the organization of troops or naval forces, under this act, is not herein specially provided for, such organization shall, as nearly as may be, conform to the laws, regulations and customs of service of the United States army or navy.

Section 7. Whenever, in the discretion of the governor, the necessity for an increased strength of the companies of the Michigan national guard then within the state of Michigan shall no longer exist he shall reduce such companies to the maximum strength provided for under the laws in force prior to the passage of this act. Such reduction shall be accomplished by mustering out all men unfit for service, and in the discretion of the governor all who shall apply for discharges. If these cases fail to reduce any company to its maximum strength under laws in force before the passage of this act, then such enlisted men as shall be recommended by their company commanders for muster out, shall be discharged.

If four company officers still remain to the companies, the junior second lieutenant shall be mustered out.

All such musters out and discharges shall be honorable, unless reasons exist under military laws for musters out and discharges of a different nature in individual cases.

Section 8. In case of a tie vote on an election for officers in any organization of the Michigan national guard, the proceedings at the election shall be at once returned to the adjutant general, and the commander in chief shall appoint and commission officers to fill the positions for which such election was held; such appointments shall be for the same term as if such officers had been elected, and the appointees shall take rank from the date of appointment.

Section 9. In case the congress of the United States shall pass laws applying to the military or naval forces of all the states, or the president shall call for different organization of troops from that herein provided, this law shall be in force only so far as it is not in conflict with the laws of the United States, or with the call of the president. In either case above mentioned, troops shall be organized in accordance with the laws of the United States or the president's call as the case may be.

Section 10. Officers of the line, staff and general staff not on duty outside the state may be assigned to active duty in connection with the organization of troops under the provisions of this act in accordance with their rank, and when so assigned shall receive the same pay as officers of like grade in the United States army.

Section 11. All acts and parts of acts heretofore passed by the legislature of the state of Michigan in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

This act is ordered to take immediate effect.

Approved April 13, 1898.

Death of Daniel Striker.

Hon. Daniel Striker, ex-secretary of state, died suddenly at his home in Hastings of diabetes. He was attending to business a few minutes before death. He was 63 years old. Mr. Striker was one of the leading business men of western Michigan, and was largely engaged in manufacturing and banking. He was also an energetic, useful and prominent worker in the republican party, and he served two terms, 1871-74, as secretary of state.

Brother Against Brother.

Weslie M. Bouttell, of Thetford, begun suit in the circuit court at Flint against Horace Bouttell, his brother, for $3,000. Plaintiff alleges that Horace has alienated the affection of the former's wife and that she is living at Horace's place part of the time. Horace is about 20 years old and unmarried. Bouttell's wife sued him for a divorce some time ago, but was unsuccessful.

A LONG FELT WANT.

It is Supplied in this vicinity at Last.

It is hard to always be pleasant. Good natured people are often irritable. If you knew the reason you would not be surprised. Ever have itching Piles? Not sick enough to go to bed or not well enough to be content. Nothing will annoy you so. The constant itching sensation. Hard to bear, harder to get relief. Keeps you awake nights. Spoils your temper, nearly drives you crazy. Isn't relief and cure a long felt want? It is to be had for everyone in Doan's Ointment. Doan's Ointment never fails to cure Itching Piles, eczema, or any itching of the skin. Here is proof of it at the testimony of an Ann Arbor citizen:

Mr. C. C. Church, of 520 South 7th street, Ann Arbor, now retired from the active duties of life, says: "I have no hesitation in recommending Doan's Ointment. To anyone requiring a healing and soothing preparation it will prove invaluable. I suffered for years from itching hemorrhoids and though I tried everything I could hear of and used remedies prescribed by scores of friends, I was unable to obtain permanent relief until my attention was called to Doan's Ointment. I was somewhat surprised after the second application to notice what a different effect it had from anything I had hitherto used. Encouraged I used it strickly according to directions and in a surprisingly short length of time when you take into account the number of years I was afflicted, the irritation ceased and the inflammation was allayed. When Doan's Ointment cured me it will cure others." Doan's Ointment for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster—Milburn Co. Buffalo, N. Y. Sole agents for the U. S. WORK OF THE LAWMAKERS

A Resume of the Principal Bits of Legislation Enacted at the Recent Extra Session.

A TOTAL OF EIGHT MEASURES PASSED.

Three Concurrent Resolutions Also Adopted—The War Appropriation and the Bill Taxing Express Companies Take the Lead in Importance.

Lansing, April 18.—A total of eight bills and three concurrent resolutions were enacted into law by the extra session of the legislature, as follows:

An act authorizing a war loan of $500,000 and providing for the disbursements of the proceeds therefrom and providing for a war loan sinking fund for the purpose of liquidating the loan.

An act to promote the efficiency of the Michigan national guard and the naval militia of the state and to provide for the organization of the volunteer militia in case of emergency.

An act to amend section two of act 140 of the session laws of 1887, the same being chapter 103 of Howell's Annotated Statutes relative to the licensing and taxing of express companies incorporated in other states.

An act providing for submitting to the qualified electors of this state the question of a general revision of the constitution of the state of Michigan.

An act to amend section No. 36 of act No. 184 of the public acts of 1893, entitled "An act to provide for the enrollment, organization, equipment, maintenance and discipline of the naval militia of the state," approved May 31, 1893, as amended by act No. 211 of the public acts of 1895.

An act to protect members of the state militia and all citizens of the state of Michigan in the service of the United States and their property from execution, seizure and levy and to provide for the continuance of pending suits in law and chancery in the event of war.

An act to suspend the refunding by the auditor general of moneys to purchasers of certain tax titles held invalid and to prohibit proceedings for the recovery of the same.

An act for the protection of homesteaders.

The concurrent resolutions provided for the settlement and adjustment of the claims of the military department for 1897 and 1898 for clerical services and expenses incidental to investigating bounty claims, issuing certificates and furnishing data and records of service to the soldiers of the last war; for the printing and binding of the official journals of the legislative session of 1898, and an expression of sympathy for the Cuban patriots in their struggle for independence.

Tax Law Interpreted.

Lansing, April 16.—Railroad Commissioner Wessellus interprets the Merriam railroad tax bill, passed by the last legislature, as repealing that provision of the general railroad law exempting railroads north of the forty-fourth parallel from payment of a specific tax. The assessment this year will consequently include ten companies not heretofore taxed. The matter will undoubtedly be referred to the supreme court for a legal interpretation.

Students in Naval Reserve.

Ann Arbor, April 15.—War interest is rife among the students at the University of Michigan, and a huge mass meeting was held in the city courthouse. Through the efforts of H. G. Holipan, a graduate and at present in charge of the Naval Academy of the Great Lakes, located at Toledo, O., steps were taken to organize a naval reserve company among the students here. Over 300 students enrolled themselves as ready to enlist.

Near to Death.

St. Joseph, April 14.—Simon Pokagon, once chief of the powerful tribe of Pottawatomie Indians, is dangerously ill, and it is thought cannot recover. He is suffering from blood poison, caused by a rusty nail which penetrated his hand. After several years of hard labor the aged warrior recently received $108,000 from the government for land in this section which he sold to the United States over half a century ago.

Railways Must Pay Taxes.

Lansing, April 16.—Ten companies which have built railroads north of 44 degrees of latitude since 1891 will be required to pay taxes this year, the railroad commissioner having decided that the act of that year exempting them from taxation for ten years after completion was repealed by the last legislature.

Six Stood the Test.

Lansing, April 16.—The state board of law examiners Friday completed the examination of the 16 applicants for admission to the bar. Six of the number were successful, and the remaining ten will have to try it again. The examination is said to have been the most rigid ever conducted by the board.

Found Dead.

Saginaw, April 16.—Will F. Goldie was found dead late Friday afternoon in the township of Buenavista, near the farm of John Campbell. He left home Tuesday afternoon and was not again seen until found as stated. He had been in poor health for some months.

Murderer Goes Insane.

Marquette, April 19.—Peter Bona, who murdered Pearl Morrison at Crystal Falls in October last, and was sentenced to life imprisonment, was taken to the asylum for the criminal insane at Ionia Monday. He has been a raving maniac for the past three weeks.

Many Have Enlisted.

Lansing, April 19.—Less than a week ago Assistant Adjt. Gen. Pond sent to posts in the Michigan department, Grand Army of the Republic, instructions to arrange for enlisting men for the national volunteer reserve. He has already had fully 1,000 enlistments.

Fire at Bay City.

Bay City, April 16.—The E. J. Vance Box company was destroyed by fire early Friday morning. Fifty hands were thrown out of work. Loss, $12,000 on mill and $5,000 on lumber; insurance, $[illegible] on mill and $12,600 on lumber, the fire is unknown.

EAGER FOR WAR.

Armories at Detroit Filled with Militiamen Discussing Prospects for a Call.

Detroit, April 20.—The war spirit dominates Detroit. The armories are filled with militiamen discussing the possibility of a call for troops. Most of the veteran members of the militia companies have applied for reenlistment as soon as the scheme for recruiting all companies to 150 goes into effect. The retired officers of the now disbanded Fourth regiment had all asked for commissions. As yet the adjutant general has not designated what regiment will be given the first call. A number of Detroit manufacturers announce that employes can enlist and return to work at the close of the war. The National Express company offers half pay to its men while serving in the army. Two hundred applications for enlistment were received by Gov. Pingree Tuesday. Fully 20 volunteer companies have been recruiting in Michigan since Monday morning. The state papers unanimously indorse congress in declaring war, and President McKinley is praised by many business men who have chafed under the delayed action.

NO CLAIM ON THE ESTATE.

Famous Suit to Recover $1,200,000 from the Estate of the Dead Packer Is Dismissed in Detroit.

Detroit, April 18.—After having been in court for seven years, the case of Marcus M. Towle, of Hammond, Ind., against the estate of the late George H. Hammond was dismissed Friday by Judge Swan, who filed a long opinion. The suit is of considerable importance, involving the sum of $1,200,000, and for that reason it may be taken for granted that it will be taken to the circuit court of appeals. The case was commenced by Towle, who was a business partner of the late George H. Hammond and lived in Hammond, Ind., in 1892 and involved money which Towle claimed the late Mr. Hammond secured by fraudulent means and interest upon it. Judge Swan's decision is in favor of the Hammond estate, he several times expressing the opinion that the fraudulent charges brought against the late George H. Hammond are utterly unfounded by evidence.

FIRE AT BAYVIEW.

Several Cottages Burn and the Northern Chautauqua Has a Narrow Escape from Destruction.

Petoskey, April 14.—Bayview, the northern Chautauqua, had a narrow escape from destruction Wednesday. Fire from burning leaves caught in the cottages, and it required the utmost efforts of 100 volunteers from the city to check the flames, after seven cottages were destroyed. The resort is supplied with waterworks, but they are not in operation during the winter season. The owners are not residents and the names are as follows: Rev. Dr. Edwards, editor Northwestern Advocate; A. G. Hill and Horace Hitchcock, Detroit; Mr. M. L. Watt, Lima, O.; H. Burton, Cleveland, O.; E. J. McNaughton, Cooperville; C. E. Blakeley, Mancelona.

Burned in Effigy.

Niles, April 20.—The news of the adoption of the Cuban resolutions by the house and senate threw the citizens of Marcellus into a great state of excitement Tuesday morning. Effigies of Gen. Weyler and the boy king of Spain were rigged up, dragged through the streets by a large crowd, and then hanged to a telegraph pole. Afterwards they were cut down and thrown upon a bonfire.

Sad Suicide of a Mother.

Grand Rapids, April 18.—The body of Mrs. Johanna Rischow, aged 60 years, was found Sunday morning on the grave in the Granville village cemetery of her favorite son, who died six years ago. She had committed suicide by taking poison. On her person was found $900 in certificates of deposit and cash.

To Manufacture Cement.

Coldwater, April 16.—A company has been organized with a capital of $300,000 to operate what has commonly been called the Cole marl beds, situated south of the city cemetery. It is proposed to erect the cement factory on the Stepper property and use the Stepper residence for offices.

Hotel Burned.

Alpena, April 16.—The Central hotel and two other buildings at Atlanta burned Friday morning. The Central was the finest hotel in Montmorency, and is a serious loss to the county. Loss, $8,000; no insurance. The fire was the work of an incendiary.

The Michigan Naval Reserve.

Detroit, April 16.—Lieut. Commander Gilbert Wilkes, of the Michigan naval reserves, has been notified that in the event of hostilities the Michigan men would be assigned as a whole to the auxiliary cruiser Yosemite, formerly El Sud, of the Morgan line.

Chosen Superintendent.

Ann Arbor, April 19.—Superintendent H. M. Slosson, for seven years at the head of the Moline (Ill.) schools, has been chosen superintendent of Ann Arbor schools, to take the place left vacant by the death of Superintendent Walter S. Perry.

Great Rivalry.

Pontiac, April 16.—The Bell Telephone company is waging the last battle of its war upon the State Telephone company. The Bell company is offering free residence 'phones to all its customers who use the Bell in their places of business.

Acquitted.

Niles, April 16.—After a trial lasting nine days the jury in the case of Mrs. Emma Raum, charged with the murder of Mrs. John Hartman at Laingsburg, brought in a verdict of acquittal.

Enroute to Alaska.—Letter No. 3

On board Steamer Alliance,
March 25, '98.

We did not get away last night as we expected to; it was 6 o'clock this morning before the inspector came down and inspected the boat, counted noses, and gave us permission to leave. There are 206 passengers on board, and a crew of 23. Among the passengers are four ladies. Two of the ladies are married and are going into Alaska with their husbands to make a fortune if possible; the other two ladies are not married, but I presume they would like to be, and so they two are going to Alaska to better their chances. It snowed very hard this morning but cleared up about 10 o'clock and was clear and pleasant but quite cool the balance of the day.

From Seattle we take what is called the inland route. This route takes us up through the Straits of Georgia, which separates Vancouver Island from British Columbia. Vancouver Island is 280 miles long and with an average width of 150 miles. The Straits of Georgia varies in width from 10 to 100 miles and is full of islands, varying in size from a mere rock sticking out of the water to those 15 or 20 miles long and half as wide, all of them very mountainous and covered with timber.

About sundown we passed though a quiet sheltered little stretch of water and it was fairly covered with sea gulls and ducks. There were millions of them, and when the steamer would get almost onto them, they would fly up by the thousands with a mighty roar.

The sunset tonight was something very grand. I have often seen oil paintings of mountains with crimson colored snow peaks, and always thought that the artist was off in his coloring, but now I know that he was all right, for I have seen it in nature. I think I will write a little every day and mail it when I get to Dyea.

Saturday, March 26.

This morning found us still steaming up the Straits of Georgia and the weather fair till about noon, when the wind came up and it commenced to snow and a regular blizzard set in, and at 2 p. m. when we came out into Queen Charlotte's Sound and received the full benefit of the Pacific Ocean, it made everything jingle. The wind blew a perfect gale and the waves ran very high, tossing us about like an egg shell in a washtub. Everything not fastened down solid was thrown around at a great rate. No one could walk about without hanging onto something solid. It was both grand and terrible: a grand sight to see the storm and big waves that pitched us about, and terrible on the most of the passengers stomaches. You would see a man begin to look pale and act uneasy, and when asked how he felt would say, "Oh, I am all right, but I guess I will go outside." He would make his way out the best he could and generally fed the fishes about as soon as he got to the rail. Some of them expected the fishes to come on board for their feed, I think, or at least meet them half way for they did not take the trouble to go to the rail; perhaps it was because they didn't have the time to spare. Even the pilot got sea sick and they put another man in his place. I am glad to say that I was not sick at all. I did not eat any supper though; I thought it would be safer with the steward than with me, for I didn't know how long I could keep it in my possession with the sights of woe and trouble about me. Among our first-class passengers is one man who seems to be a chronic kicker. He kicks if anyone gets in his way or crowds him at the table and complains if things cooked or served don't suit him, and that the boat runs too slow, etc., etc. He tried real hard to throw up his boot heels, and for a wonder he didn't kick because he couldn't do it. I put on my overcoat and stayed outside a good share of the time, part of the time on the hurricane deck and by hanging onto the railings. I could stand it all right. I think it kept me from being sick for it kept me from thinking about it—had my mind occupied in hanging on.

The weather got so bad and it snowed so hard that the captain gave orders to run into what is called "Peace Harbor," soon after dark for he considered it dangerous to go on in that storm. I think this suited most of the passengers; I know it pleased me, and even the kicker didn't kick on this.

Peace Harbor is rightly named for, after going through a narrow channel a short way, we came out into a little bay that was almost as peaceful and quiet as the Globe Mill pond on a calm day. We found we had some company in there for there were two other boats who like ours had put in for shelter from the storm, and their lights shining out though the darkness and storm looked very cheerful. This harbor is very small, but very deep with high mountains around. We anchored in 15 fathoms of water and within a stone's throw of shore.

Everybody seemed to feel better after we got safely anchored in there; their stomach troubles soon leaving them, and everything was all lovely. As some of the passengers wanted us to give them some music, we did so. There is a young fellow aboard who plays the banjo very nicely and we give free concerts two or three times a day. Tonight we played awhile for the steerage passengers as this young man is with them. Then the ladies asked me to play for them and, of course, I couldn't refuse them, for you know I am very weak on that point. So we went up in the cabin passengers' dining room and gave a special concert for their benefit. We received many encores but no flowers.

Sunday, March 27.

We pulled out of Peace Harbor at 5 o'clock this morning and continued on up the coast. The storm has passed over and it is a very fine morning. About 9:30 we passed a small sailboat with four men aboard. Our captain says he has passed them several times this spring on his trips up and down; says they left San Francisco four months ago in this same little boat for the Klondike and their wives were with them till a short time ago, when they got a chance to take a steamer back to civilization and they jumped their job and left for they were tired of the trip. The boat had a sign out which read, "Klondike or bust." They were already busted for the time of day for they hailed us and asked what time it was. We passed two other small boats soon after with two or three men in each. I suppose they are bound for the Klondike also. We passed the Hoite Indian village of Bella Bella at 10:30 a. m. It is situated on an inland inl, although we were quite a way out from it, we could distinguish the church and could plainly hear the bell ringing for morning service. We met several steamers during the day coming back from the north.

Monday, March 28.

I awoke this morning standing on my head nearly, for we were passing what is called "Dixon's Entrance." It is a large entrance out to sea and was quite rough. It has snowed more or less most all day, sometimes so hard that the pilot could see but a few boat lengths ahead. Then we would slow up and merely creep along for fear of running aground or into a rock, as there are plenty of them and the passage is quite narrow in some places.

We passed into Alask. territory at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Mary's Island. Here is a custom officer and we were obliged to stop and report. We stopped about one-half mile from shore and the captain, purser and two sailors went ashore in a row boat. The lowering of the boat and getting away was enjoyed by all of us. The boat was lowered from the hurricane deck and the captain and two sailors went down the ropes like monkeys and reached the boat all right although it was quite rough and kept it dancing about. I think the purser is a land man, for he did not dare to go down the rope, so a ladder was put out for him and he had a lively time getting from that into the boat, and when he did finally make it he was just in time to sit down in a big wave that came into the boat. A large school of porpoises followed us for a long time this afternoon and played around the boat. It was very amusing to watch their antics.

We arrived at Wrangell at 8 o'clock this evening and tied up to the dock for the night, as the narrow passage on beyond is considered dangerous for large boats in the night and when the tide is out on account of rocks. I guess all the passengers went ashore and took in the town by "gaslight." It is a typical mining town like we read of: log huts, saloons, dance halls and all—except the mining. The miners are here though, three or four thousand of them, waiting to go to the Klondike by the way of the Stickeen river. The mouth of the river is about six miles from town.

Wrangell is situated on Wrangell Island. It is quite an old place but only contained a few hundred people, mostly Indians, till a few months ago when the people rushed in there to get to the Klondike by that route and, failing to get in, they have been waiting there till the ice gets out of the river, and consequently it has been a great thing for the town. There is a company putting in electric lights and street cars. One large new dock has just been finished, making two good docks, and there are many buildings going up. A good carpenter gets $5.00 per day. It certainly has a great boom on at present. Lots that sold for two or three hundred dollars a few months ago now bring that many thousand dollars, and the lots are half under water at that when the tide is in. The sights I saw there were very novel to me, especially the big dug-out Indian canoes along the beach and the totem poles. There is a tide of about fifteen feet here and I heard of a tenderfoot who came to the town a day or so ago with some Angora goats, and he tied nine of them in a string on the beach when the tide was out. When he went after them they were all dead; the tide was in and they had taken in too much water.

Tuesday, March 29.

We left Wrangell at 6 a. m. on our way up the coast. It has been a very fine day and I have enjoyed the sights very much. We met the steamer, Hermosa, anchored in a narrow channel and disabled with a broken shaft. She is waiting for a tug to tow her down. We saw several whales today, or at least fifteen or twenty feet of their backs as they came up to blow or spout. We passed several ice bergs also, the first I have seen on our trip.

Just after sundown we passed the famous Treadwell gold mine, situated on Douglass Island. This mill has 400 stamps going night and day and is now adding 400 more. It is a very low grade ore, only about $2.90 per ton, but so easy to get at that it pays well to work at that. The mills are situated right at the edge of deep water and all they have to do is blast the rock off the side of the mountain right at their back door, no tunneling in or down.

About two miles farther up and across on the main land is Juman, where we stopped for two hours to unload some passengers and freight, and take on a supply of fresh water. I think the whole population of the town was out on the dock to meet us by the size of the crowd. The first man to ask for news from the States as the boat touched the dock was evidently a sport, and perhaps had some money up, for he asked how the recent fistic contest came out, and when told, I think by his actions must have bet on Jackson. The next man who asked for news was more patriotic. He asked how the Maine investigation came out and if we hadn't whipped Spain yet. A young enterprising Klondiker purchased a large bundle of daily papers at Seattle the day we left at two cents each and brought them along. He readily sold them here in Juneau at two bits (25c) each. Juneau is a very interesting town of about 3000 inhabitants and I wish we might have had more time there.

Wednesday, March 30.

We reached Dyea at nine o'clock this morning, all well and without any accident. I am told that a mail boat is going down the coast in a short time so I will close this lengthy letter and get it on this boat. I don't know when we will leave here, but will write you again before we go on. I presume it will be impossible to write you very often but will do so as often as I get a chance to send it out. Give my regards to all my friends. GEO. W. KNAPP.

TROOPS CALLED TO ARMS

President McKinley Issues a Proclamation for Soldiers to Defend the Flag.

ASKS THE ENLISTMENT OF 125,000 MEN

The Quota of States—Prompt Response to the Request—Congress Adopts a Joint Resolution Declaring War with Spain—Other Important Events.

Washington, April 25.—The president Saturday issued a proclamation calling for 125,000 troops, to serve two years, unless sooner discharged.

From all over the country comes the answer to the call for 125,000 volunteers. Governors of several states telegraphed to the war department that their quota could be easily doubled or trebled. All want to know if they cannot be permitted to furnish an extra regiment or so. These messages were very cheering to the officials of the war department, but since there are so many who desire to fight it will be necessary to hold each state strictly to its own quota. Answers to this effect were sent out.

Quota by States.

While it is the purpose of the war department to secure only national guardsmen as far as possible under this first call for volunteers, yet in states where there are no national guards or where the number falls below the quota stated in the call, the states will be expected to supply the volunteers regardless of their lack of organization. In fact, this must be done under the law. On the basis of Saturday's call for 125,000 men the various states and territories, including the District of Columbia, will be called upon to supply each the following number of volunteers:

Alabama	2,500	New Hampshire	753
Arkansas	2,025	New Jersey	2,962
California	2,228	New York	12,513
Colorado	1,298	North Carolina	2,584

Indiana	4,402	Rhode Island	710
Iowa	3,772	Tennessee	3,060

Instructions Not for an Attack.

Washington, April 25.—Rear Admiral Sampson's orders respecting the reduction of Havana contemplate no immediate bombardment of that city. The guns which comprise the batteries protecting the city may shoot as much as they please at the ships hovering at the entrance of the harbor, but there will be no return fire at present. It is by means of the blockade now in progress that the department proposes to pave the way toward procuring the capitulation of Havana. How long the blockade will be maintained and when the combined land and naval forces will make their attack upon the city is a matter of pure speculation at this time.

Gomes to Cooperate.

New York, April 25.—A letter from Gen. Gomez says he will be in front of Havana before April 29 with 30,000 men.

Will Respect Blockade.

Washington, April 25.—Members of the diplomatic corps say that no question can be raised as to the right of the United States to declare a blockade. This being conceded, foreign powers will accept it as binding.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

Asks Congress to Adopt a Joint Resolution Declaring War with Spain.

Washington, April 26.—The president yesterday sent to congress the following message recommending a declaration of war against Spain:

"To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America: I transmit to the congress for its consideration and appropriate action copies of correspondence recently had with the representative of Spain in the United States with the United States minister at Madrid, and through the latter with the government of Spain, showing the action taken under the joint resolution approved April 20, 1898, 'for the recognition of the independence of the people of Cuba, demanding that the government of Spain relinquish its authority and government in the island of Cuba, and to withdraw its land and naval forces from Cuba and Cuban waters, and directing the president of the United States to use the land and naval forces of the United States to carry these resolutions into effect.'

"Upon communicating with the Spanish minister in Washington the demand which it became the duty of the executive to address to the government of Spain in obedience to said resolution, the said minister asked for his passports and withdrew. The United States minister at Madrid was in turn notified by the Spanish minister for foreign affairs that the withdrawal of the Spanish representative from the United States had terminated diplomatic relations between the two countries, and that all official communications between their respective representatives ceased therewith.

"I recommend to your especial attention the note addressed to the United States minister at Madrid by the Spanish minister for foreign affairs on the 21st instant, whereby the foregoing notification was conveyed. It will be perceived therefrom that the government of Spain, having cognisance of the joint resolution of the United States congress and in view of things which the president is thereby required and authorized to do, responds by treating the representative demands of this government as measures of hostility, following with that instant and complete severance of relations by its action, whereby the usage of nations accompanies an existent state of war between sovereign powers.

"The position of Spain being thus made known and the demands of the United States being denied with a complete rupture of intercourse by the act of Spain, I have been constrained in exercise of the power and authority conferred upon me by the joint resolution aforesaid, to proclaim under date of April 22, 1898, a blockade of certain ports of the north coast of Cuba, lying between Cardenas and Bahia Honda, and of the Port Cienfuegos on the south coast of Cuba; and further, in exercise of my constitutional powers and using the authority conferred upon me by the act of congress, approved April 22, 1898, to issue my proclamation dated April 23, 1898, calling for volunteers in order to carry into effect the said resolution of April 20, 1898. Copies of these proclamations are hereto appended.

"In view of the measures so taken, and with a view to the adoption of such other measures as may be necessary to enable me to carry out the expressed will of the congress of the United States in the premises, I now recommend to your honorable body the adoption of a joint resolution declaring that a state of war exists between the United States of America and the kingdom of Spain, and I urge speedy action thereon to the end that the definition of the international status of the United States as a belligerent power may be made known, and the assertion of all its rights and the maintenance of all its duties in the conduct of a public war may be assured.

"(Signed) WILLIAM M'KINLEY.

"Executive Mansion, Washington, April 25, 1898."

The war bill was promptly passed in both houses and at 6:18 the president signed the measure and it is now a law.

War News Scarce.

Washington, April 26.—There was a dearth of news yesterday from the seat of hostilities off the Cuban coast, so far as the department was concerned or if it was in possession of information it was so carefully guarded that nothing leaked out. Nothing could be obtained as to the intentions of Commodore Schley in hastily rushing away the flyers Columbia and Minneapolis from Hampton Roads, but it is believed that their purpose is to shelter the Paris or some of the other liners from attack at the hands of some Spanish cruiser.

To Arm Insurgents.

Washington, April 26.—Arrangements have been completed by the government to supply the Cuban insurgents with arms and ammunition. The government is preparing now to land in Cuba from 25,000 to 30,000 stands of improved Springfield rifles, a number of artillery batteries, rapid-fire Maxim guns and an abundance of ammunition for the effective use of them. Gen. Miles believes that if the insurgents are properly armed and supplied with the artillery they have so long needed they can do more effective work and render the American troops invaluable aid in driving the Spaniards from the island.

Roosevelt Resigns.

Washington, April 26.—Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt has resigned and has been appointed lieutenant colonel of a regiment of mounted riflemen to be raised in the Rocky mountains.

Food Scarce in Havana.

Key West, Fla., April 26.—Food is becoming scarce in Havana and the prices are constantly advancing. There is much destitution and beggars fill the streets. This news was brought by Capt. Milburn, of the British ship Myrtledene, which arrived in port from Cuba yesterday.

SPANISH CRUISER TAKEN.

The Panama Captured Off Havana by the Mangrove.

Key West, Fla., April 27.—The light house tender Mangrove puffed proudly into Key West harbor yesterday morning with the richest prize of the war thus far. The captive was the Panama, Capt. Quevedo, a big trans-Atlantic liner, and an auxiliary cruiser of the Spanish navy, which has been plying of late between New York and Havana. She had 29 passengers and a valuable cargo of general merchandise. This makes five steamers thus far captured, in addition to a number of schooners and small craft.

Movements of the Fleet.

New York, April 27.—In spite of persistent rumors, there has been no important movement of Spanish vessels since the beginning of the war. The first squadron remains at St. Vincent, Cape Verde islands; the second squadron is believed to be still at Cadiz, and the torpedo boat Temerario has not left the River Platte.

The United States North Atlantic squadron continues to blockade Cuba and the flying squadron remains at Hampton Roads watching the Spanish fleet at St. Vincent.

No Firing as Yet.

Key West, Fla., April 27.—The torpedo boat Porter has arrived off the Cuban coast, and reports that the condition of the blockade remains unchanged. There has been no firing on either side.

Answer the Call.

Adjt. Gen. Corbin has received dispatches from the governor of nearly every state and territory in response to Secretary Alger's call for information as to the troops the states and territories will be expected to furnish under the president's call for 125,000. The tenor of these replies shows there is no mistaking the patriotism of the people of this country in the present emergency.

New York, April 27.—Commander Horace Elmer, until recently commander of the mosquito fleet, and who was recently retired because of ill health, relieved by Admiral Erben, died at the Mansion house in Brooklyn at 5:30 Tuesday afternoon.

H. G. Conklin, formerly a missionary to India, who with his wife have been at Allen Dillingham's for several weeks, died from cancers Monday afternoon. The funeral was held at the house Tuesday at 1:30 p. m., interment here. Mrs. Conklin and Mrs. Wilber Billingham are sisters. Quite a number from abroad attended the funeral.

B. F. THOMPSON.

B. F. Thompson, "Frank" as he was always called, who for the past year has been a great sufferer from cancer in the mouth, passed quietly away Saturday evening at 10:30. During all these months he was never known to murmur or complain but was ever patient and cheerful. Such an exemplification of Christian fortitude is seldom seen. He was truly a good man, one whom every one loved and respected. His funeral occurred at the house Tuesday at 1:30 p. m., Rev. W. R. Blachford officiating, and was attended by a large company of friends. He was born at Groveland, N. Y., Dec. 24th, 1836, came to Tecumseh when a young man where he resided a number of years, during which time he learned the blacksmith's trade. He was married to Caroline Rowland April 30th, 1862. August 15th, 1865, a son was born to them. In 1867 they came to Clinton. With the exception of two years he has been connected in business with Albert G. Burton, until failing health compelled him to lay down the hammer one year ago. As a mechanic in his line he had no superiors and but few equals. He was bereft of his companion Feb. 19, 1892, to whom he had been a most devoted husband, and since then he and son have been all in all to each other.

The following from abroad attended the obsequies: Berkley A. Griffin and wife, Clayton; C. A. Rowland, wife and sons, Toledo; Mrs. Juliet Rowland, Miss Etta Rowland, Mrs. Elsie Rowland, M. E. Conklin and wife, Geo. Swartz and wife, Frank Davidson and son Guy, Robert Codling, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wallinger, Tecumseh.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Restores Health

UNCLE EZEKIEL OBEAR, assessor and tax collector, Beverly, Mass., who has passed the 80th life mile stone, says: "Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine has done a great deal of good. I suffered for years from sleeplessness and nervous heart trouble. Would feel weary and used up in the morning, had no ambition and my work seemed a burden. A friend recommended Dr. Miles' Nervine, and I purchased a bottle under protest as I had tried so many remedies unsuccessfully, I thought it no use. But it gave me restful sleep, a good appetite and restored me to energetic health. It is a grand good medicine, and I will gladly write anyone inquiring, full particulars of my satisfactory experience."

Dr. Miles' Remedies are sold by all druggists under a positive guarantee, first bottle benefits or money refunded. Book on diseases of the heart and nerves free. Address,

DR. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

The complete novel in the May issue of Lippincott's is "The Uncalled," by the colored poet, Paul Laurence Dunbar. Though understood to be his first essay in extended fiction, it is an extremely strong and thoroughly readable story. The scene is laid mainly in a small Ohio town; the hero is a youth of the humblest origin, who is forced into the ministry and works his way out of it. "No. 87,317 Cole," by George Kerdyes Rodsey, recounts the experience of a small party of Americans in Cuba during a former insurrection. "Woman's Work and Wages" are discussed by Eleanor Whiting, who claims that matrimony is the most appropriate and profitable business for women in general, and that they had better not attempt direct wage-earning. This highly conservative position she defends by an array of facts and arguments.

Julian Ralph, who has traveled pretty well over the face of the globe in the interests of Harper's Magazine, has lately been to Russia and Siberia. In the May Harper's he has the first of a series of articles treating Russia as a militant power in the forefront of modern political and territorial movements. His main topics are "Russian Dominance in China," "The Russo-Chinese Railroad," "The Construction of the New Siberian Railway," "Coal and Warfare in Russia," and Russia's Perils and Ambitions." In addition Mr. Ralph gives an excellent idea of life in Russia. The article is richly illustrated.

In Her Bathing-Suit.

"Nothing in this world is prettier than a woman in a becoming bathing-dress as she plunges in the surf, and perverted must be that man or woman who sees aught but beauty therein," writes Edward W. Bok in the May Ladies' Home Journal. "But with the bath over, the picture presented is of an entirely different character. Then for a woman to parade herself on the beach in her dripping-wet garments, or to spend hours lying on the beach in unseemly attitudes, certainly does not raise her in the estimation of people, nor impress men that she is a woman meant to uplift mankind. A woman's bathing-dress was never intended to be used as a lounging-robe on a public beach. It is a singular fact how needlessly women unsex themselves in these things. Then when men, in speech or action, show a familiarity with them they are quick to resent it. But a woman should not forget that a man never offends a woman who behaves herself as a woman should. A woman who merits respect never has to command it; nor does the necessity come to her to resent a careless speech or action. Men know the women with whom they can be careless of speech; they know, too, the women with whom such freedom of speech is impossible. An insult to a woman is generally invited."

STOMACH TROUBLES.

Indigestion---Dyspepsia.

The Results of the New Cure for Indigestion and Nervous Dyspepsia.

Drake's Dyspepsia Cure & Nerve Restorer, a wellspring of life, is pouring into thousands of homes to day! stubborn cases that have baffled all other remedies yield to the efficacy of this marvelous treatment, and permanent cures are the inevitable results from its use. For sale by John J. Orr, leading druggist, Tecumseh Mich. A book on Stomach and Nerve troubles, their symptoms and cure, will be given free for the asking at above mentioned drug store. Read following statement:

To Whom It May Concern: To those suffering from stomach and nerve troubles I wish to recommend Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer. About 20 years ago I began to be troubled with my stomach. It gradually grew worse, even under treatment, until it became difficult for me to eat any kind of food with comfort. For the past five years I have been able to retain very little food of the simplest nature long enough to digest it. Seldom during this time have I enjoyed sleep throughout the entire night, and usually have been obliged to leave my bed in consequence of my stomach and nerve troubles. My bowels were very much relaxed, said to be due to inflammation of the membrane of the intestines. I was treated by physicians, and tried nearly every known remedy recommended for my troubles with no lasting benefit, and usually not even temporary relief. On the 5th day of January, '98, I purchased a package of Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer, and I wish every dyspeptic knew how much I have improved from its use. My food does not distress me as it did, and I have no trouble in retaining it. I sleep well and feel refreshed therefrom, and, although I have used only one package of the medicine, I can safely say that I am 75 per cent. better than I have been during the past 20 years. Yours respectfully, MRS. GIDEON STODDARD, Litchfield, Mich., Jan. 24, 1898.

DOMESTIC ECONOMY.

How an Old Bureau Can Be Utilized to Good Advantage for Sideboard Purposes.

The cut shows the utilization for sideboard purposes of an old bureau. The woodwork is thoroughly sandpapered, then painted in a color to harmonize with the room's other furnishings. The upper drawer is left for the holding of knives, forks, spoons, napkins in use, etc. The other drawers are removed, leaving shelves for the holding of table linen. A pretty draw curtain covers this space. The same kind of a curtain on the same kind of a rod is hung behind the sideboard to make a dainty background for the water pitcher, glasses and the other articles that may be placed on the sideboard at meal time. There are odd bureaus about almost every home that may thus be treated, affording a most serviceable and withal attractive article of furniture for the dining-room. No one knows until she has made use of it how very convenient a sideboard is, and how much the presence of one helps out the usually rather scant furnishings of the dining-room.—Farm and Home.

CHILD'S DAILY DIET.

Mrs. Rorer Describes the Best and Most Wholesome Foods for Breakfast, Dinner and Supper.

Mrs. S. T. Rorer, writing on "The Best Food for a Growing Child" in the Ladies' Home Journal, says: "A child must have in its active life at least two-thirds carbonaceous foods and one-third nitrogenous or flesh-building foods. For breakfast he may have first a well-baked or steamed apple, a little apple sauce, a ripe peach or some grapes, followed by a well-cooked cereal with milk, after which a soft-boiled egg, a small bit of broiled white-fish, a little broiled sweetbread, a piece of broiled chicken, or he may take simply a bowl of oatmeal or wheat preparation, and a slice of well-toasted whole wheat bread.

"For dinner a clear soup, followed by a red meat, either beef or mutton, broiled, boiled or roasted, or any of the wild meats, with one starchy vegetable, such as rice, potato or stewed macaroni, and one green vegetable simply cooked, such as spinach, cauliflower, asparagus, lettuce, cress, celery, well-cooked cucumber, carefully stewed turnip or well-boiled radish, over which is poured a little cream sauce, giving the required fatty matter. Next comes the dessert. Such things as rice pudding, cup custard, caramel custard, mock charlotte, floating island, rice dumplings and boiled rice and milk, or moulded wheatlet with whipped cream, and moulded rice with whipped cream may be used. Water not iced should be the accompanying beverage.

"Supper may consist of bread, thoroughly baked, with either butter or milk, or cornmeal mush and milk, mush bread, bread sticks and chicken broth. Milk is, however, the better liquid food for the child's night meal. A child who is fed properly, and is well bathed and comfortably clothed, will eat well, sleep well and be happy and good."

Pink Sugar for Pink Tea.

At a pink tea the other day, in addition to the candle shades and flowers of that tint, lumps of pink and white candy were served with the beverages that cheer. To sweeten tea with rock candy is an English notion, and in its behalf the claim is made that it is a much purer form of saccharine than sugar. At the same tea, plates of small round cakes covered with a thick, soft icing held, each of them, mounted on a pointed wooden toothpick, a tiny pink silk flag. Four large plates piled evenly with tiers of these small cakes, each fluttering its tiny pennant, contributed a very pretty effect to the polished oak table upon which the light refreshments were set out.

The Most Beautiful Foot.

The slender foot is the most beautiful, and the smart girl is not slow to recognize this fact. Her shoes are always a little longer than her foot, but the slender appearance is preserved, and a long, narrow foot always looks better than a short wide one. A girl who wears a long shoe can dance all night without rest; not so the maiden with the short one—her feet soon begin to feel cramped and stiff, and she is either obliged to sit out or retire. A girl who wears a proper shoe will have a foot as pretty and delicate as a baby's. The instep should be high, the heel delicately formed and the skin as white as alabaster, with the blue veins showing through.

How to Drape a Piano.

If there is an upright piano in the room do not jam it stiffly against the wall. Put it crosswise, almost in the middle of the floor. Hang a piece of tapestry or a portiere over the back, place a box on the floor behind it, put some cushions on the box, and you have the very latest thing, the "piano seat."

Young Girls Fading Away.

Symptoms that seem like consumption; a lack of blood; friends feared one girl would fall dead on the street; restored to health by a sensible woman's suggestion.

Many girls of sixteen years seem to have consumption, although they have it not.

Their anxious parents and friends watch them slowly fade away.

A death-like pallor, transparent complexion and listlessness are signs of this condition.

The body lacks blood.

Mrs. John Tansey knows the meaning of these symptoms, and the cure.

She lives at 130 Baker Street, Detroit, Mich.

Her advice to mothers has been of great value to her neighbors. She tells the story to help others who are at a distance.

She said:

"When my daughter was sixteen years old she began to waste away.

"Had I not known there was no taint of consumption in the family I would have believed her lungs were affected.

"She grew thinner and thinner every day. She lacked only the hacking cough to show all the outward signs of consumption.

"Our doctor called the disease by an odd name, which I learned meant simply weak blood.

"No treatment seemed to do her any good.

"She was fading away before our eyes.

"I was induced to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and the change they made was almost magical.

"Before she had taken half a box there was a great improvement in her looks, appetite and weight.

"She gained strength rapidly. Soon she was in perfect health.

"Since then I have kept Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in the house always and have done much good with them.

"One example:

"There is a young girl friend of my daughter who seemed almost transparent.

"She was white and very thin. We were afraid she would fall dead in the street when she went out.

"I begged her to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and finally induced her to try them. They helped her wonderfully, probably saved her life and restored her to perfect health. Now she is recommending them to other young women.

"I earnestly advise mothers with growing daughters to keep Dr. Williams' Pink Pills always on hand as a household remedy.

Many women's lives are miserable because such symptoms as Mrs. Tansey's daughter showed were neglected while they were developing into womanhood. During that period of rapid development the blood needs the highest degree of strength to repair the tissues that are rapidly wasted.

These needed elements are supplied by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. The vegetable ingredients of these pills act like magic in restoring strength to the muscles and roses to the cheeks of growing girls or adults weakened by overwork.

I desire to extend my heartfelt thanks to my friends and neighbors for their sympathy and assistance in my bereavement also for the beautiful floral offerings. THOS. BUTLER, JR.

On Sunday at the Reformed church Rev. N. F. Nickerson will preach at 10:30 a. m. about "The Cleansing Wave" and at 7:30 his theme will be "Is War reconcilable with the Teachings of Christ?" Christian Endeavor service at 6:30 p. m.

The Wabash section men have been putting the track through this burg in excellent condition and have shown artistic tastes in the neatness of the work done. The citizens of Britton are not unmindful of the favors the Wabash magnates are showing the corporation in improvements.

On Monday evening a few ladies held a hurried consultation and concluded to show their good will toward the state troops by presenting each member of Co. C with a button hole bouquet as they passed through the village Tuesday morning. Flowers were hastily collected and the ladies met at the home of Mrs. W. J. Clark. As the result a hundred handsome bouquets were made and when the train stopped on Tuesday morning, John Britton, on behalf of the ladies, presented Captain Hayden with a box containing a buttonier for each member of his company.

Patriotism arose to a high pitch here Tuesday morning when it became known that our "boys in blue" were to pass through on the morning trains from Tecumseh and Adrian. The old cannon was brought from retirement and loaded to the muzzle, flags were mounted on the Wabash water tower and in other places, the depot was draped with bunting and many of the citizens assembled on the platforms. When the boys arrived from each way the cannon boomed and the air was rent with hurrahs and cheers for the men who go forth in their country's cause.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Thomas Butler was held in the Reformed church Monday forenoon. A large concourse of relatives and friends attended, filling the entire space in the audience and lecture rooms. The remains lay on a couch-casket in full view of the mourners during the service which was conducted by the pastor of the church, Rev. Nickerson. Rev. Humphrey, of Palmyra, who performed the marriage ceremony for Mr. and Mrs. Butler nearly two years ago, by request of Mrs. Butler before her decease, made a touchingly sympathetic address. There were several very beautiful floral pieces, one especially bearing the initials of K. O. T. M. Deceased was born in Milan, Monroe county, Mich., August 25, 1872. She was married to Thomas Butler, Jr., Aug. 26, 1896, and died at her home here April 22, 1898.

The Most Favorable Season

To cure catarrh is in the spring. During the winter the patient is likely to take fresh cold and have a set-back. But if treatment is begun in the spring and continued into the summer, nothing need be feared for the succeeding winter. Of course, it all depends on the medicine. There are a great many catarrh medicines which relieve the most disagreeable symptoms temporarily. Pe-ru-na cures more slowly but also more permanently than this class of medicines. A course of Pe-ru-na during the spring will cure catarrh more quickly than at any other season. Mr. Walter H. Tucker, Concord, N. H., writes Dr. Hartman as follows: "When I began taking your medicines four years ago I was suffering with chronic catarrh. I had taken nearly two dozen bottles of so called catarrh cure without much relief. Pe-ru-na cured the night sweats and dizziness; it cured the cough I have had from my cradle; I can say it saved my life."

Dr. Hartman has published in book form a series of lectures on various phases of chronic catarrh, which he calls "Winter Catarrh." This book will be sent free to any address by The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio.

Men Who Travel.

Hustling and hasty meals often play havoc with the traveling man's digestion. An experienced commercial man, who spends most of his time on the road, states that he never allows himself to be without a bottle of Carter's Cascara Pills. He always takes one pill after a hearty or hurried meal, and finds them a mighty good thing. For all those ails that come from indigestion, dyspepsia and a torpid liver, there is no remedy so certain as Carter's Cascara Pills. Price 25c. S. E. PARRISH.

Caste in Cuba.

The Spaniards are the intelligent, educated class of Cuba, and usually are people of means. About seventy per cent of the Cubans and negroes are illiterate, and will continue to be until free schools are established by the government. The education of the masses has never been encouraged—only tolerated. The Spaniards live in the cities or before the revolution occupied beautiful estates throughout the island. They occupy the learned professions, until recently filled the offices, and owned the big manufacturing establishments. The Spaniards are the aristocracy and the Cubans work for them. To appreciate the situation one must understand a curious distinction and antipathy between the Cubans and the Spaniards.

A Spaniard was born in Spain. His son, who was born in Cuba, is not a Spaniard, but a Cuban. If a Cuban should go to Madrid when he is two weeks old, and spend all his life in the palace, he would still be a Cuban, and not quite as good as a Spaniard. If a Spaniard should go to Havana when he is two weeks old, and spend all his life in that city or upon a plantation, he would still be a Spaniard, and enjoy a distinction and social position which a Cuban can never attain. The sons and daughters of a Spaniard are Cubans if they are born in Cuba; but the sons and grandsons and great-grandsons of a Cuban must always be Cubans, no matter if they were born in Madrid and spend their whole lives in that city. No Cuban can ever become a Spaniard, no matter what happens to him, and from the Spanish point of view he is a degenerate.—"Cuba and her People," by William Eleroy Curtis, in The Chautauquan for May.

Since the days of the greatest missionary, Savonarola, the church has sent forth to the remotest part of the world, people to do good in every way, people to heal the sick, people to reach words of truth and people to help the needy. Two thousand of our village people were present last Tuesday morning to say "good bye" to the soldier boys. No one seemed ready to cheer and every face was sad. Every boy who goes forth to fight in this war is a missionary. Our country is not fighting for glory, nor for territory, nor revenge, simply to stop the cruel Cuban butcheries, the same as the Armenian outrages at the hands of the Turks should have been stopped by the European countries. Let us not feel sad as these boys go away but rather spend our energy remembering them, yes, and let them know they are remembered. Camp life is none too "rosy." The boys need reading matter, a box of edibles to mix in with the beans would not hurt their stomachs, even a box of cigars and some pipes and tobacco would not hurt their feelings or morals. We who stay at home must do our share. Prove to the boys that we appreciate their going and have not forgotten them.

Forward Co. C.

Amid Cheers and Tears Our Soldier Boys Start for Island Lake.

None of the business places opened Tuesday morning and the population turned out 2,000 strong to bid Company C. farewell and God speed, as they shouldered their muskets and tramped away to the train which was to carry them from the peaceful avocations of citizen life to the sterner phases of soldiery and war. The band played patriotic airs, the people cheered and wept by turns, there were touching partings between loved ones; men clasped each other's hands and turned away unable to utter a word, all hoping that the boys would soon be back again, yet dreading that some might never return.

It was just seven o'clock when the boys started from the armory, headed by the city band and followed by a throng of people, which was added to every minute as they marched to the D. & L. N. depot where the train awaited them. The business men had prepared and presented to the company two long banners, which were stretched along the outside of one of the coaches. On one end of the banners was the United States flag, on the other that of the Republic of Cuba and between the two the significent inscription which tends to awaken the American spirit, "Remember the Maine."

The time of departure arrived, one last hasty farewell was spoken, the command "fall in" given and the "boys in blue," nearly one hundred strong, stepped aboard the cars with the firm tread of veterans. One parting air from the band, one last hurrah and Co. C. was away for the front leaving behind a sorrowing but patriotic people, who are with them what ere befall and who wait patiently for any message however brief from those who have gone at the nation's call.

At every station on the route an ovation was tendered the militia and bouquets of flowers, words of praise and commendation, the booming of cannon and the cheers of citizens greeted them on every side.

Knowing the desire on the part of our people to hear from camp, the HERALD talked with Captain Hayden over the telephone yesterday. "We have 85 men in Co. C. but, of course, a number of them will come back. Yes, I am rested and feeling well. All the boys are enjoying good health except Bert Brazee, who has been indisposed since we arrived but is improving now. Gen. Wood will doubtless return in a few days. He is on guard tonight. Yes, we will no doubt stay here for some time." From this it will be seen that various reports which are constantly in circulation in regard to the health and welfare of our boys are purely myths and should be given no credence whatever, although the fact that bad colds have been contracted is no doubt true.

A complete muster roll of the company was promised this paper by Capt. Hayden, but a message from him states that every man has been so busy that it was impossible to prepare it. The one made here was incomplete and old. We will have it up to date next week.

Today at 11 o'clock a. m. we talked with Capt. Hayden by 'phone. "The boys are now settling down to camp life and seem to like it. I am on guard today, 'Officer of the Day.' Tell the folks I am feeling much better than when I left home, finer than silk. No we have had no examination yet, although we expect it to begin tomorrow. Suppose the boys who left here yesterday have got home. All the boys are in excellent health now. No special news this morning.

Letter from Camp Eaton.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Camp Eaton, Island Lake,
Apr. 27, '98

Co. C, 1st Inf., M. N. G., arrived in camp yesterday about 3 p. m., being among the first companies to arrive. To use a much quoted expression the route to camp was a continual ovation. The daily papers have, of course, given such lengthy and varied descriptions of the departure of the troops from their different stations, that it would be superfluous for me to say anything more on that line.

The first night in camp was quite cold, but no one suffered much on that account, as we are well supplied with blankets and the men are crowded in so close they have to lie spoon fashion and consequently can't get very cold.

Every man in Co. C is well, excepting a few who have colds. Private Bert Brazee fainted away while the company was being mustered in yesterday afternoon. He received prompt medical attendance and is feeling all right this morning.

We have one of the largest companies in the brigade nearly 100 men. Sergt. Geo. Tiffany has been detailed post sergeant and fulfils his arduous duties in a highly commendable manner. The ex-generals of the M. N. G. entertained the officers of Co. C last evening. At dress parade last night Co. C had the best line in the battalion and were complimented by Major Howell on their soldierly appearance.

We have two former regular army men with us: Frank Covell, who joined us at Dundee, late of Co. H, 16th Inf., U. S. A., and Frank Ney, formerly with Co. C, 4th Cavalry, U. S. A. Ney has been promoted to the rank of corporal to fill vacancy caused by the resignation of M. L. Gillen. Olin Hodges is expected shortly from Racine, Wis., to join Co. C here. Lieut. Kies entertained Capt. Jones and Lieut. McCoy, former Orchard Lake classmates, last evening. Corporal Stevenson is 1st sergeant's clerk. Geo. Waldron, an old Tecumseh boy and former member of Co. C, is here with Co. B, 3d Reg't, Alpena.

Owing to the sudden call and necessity of packing chests in a hurry, some of the boys overlooked several important articles. Sergt. Hughes sighs for his manicure set as he leans against a tent pole and cuts his finger nails with a broken bladed jack-knife. Sergt. Gray thought far enough to bring a smoking jacket, but failed to put his night gown in. Not one of the boys has a dressing gown here, but in spite of all these little annoyances the boys are enjoying life as well as could be expected, and when taps sound at 10 o'clock, the "Happy Family" wind the clock, fill the coal stove and drop prayerfully to sleep.

RIGHTEOUS WARFARE.

A Sermon of Great Interest and Moment.

The Baptist church was filled to its utmost capacity Sunday evening and many people turned away disappointed in not being able to even find standing room in or near the building.

The interest manifested was directed toward the sermon of Rev. B. S. Hudson to the members of Co. C. on practically the eve of their departure for Island Lake and possibly to the south land.

The choir sang all patriotic songs in which the immense congregation joined with a will. The pastor took as his text the words "I Come not to Bring Peace, but a Sword," and in his talk defended the action of the United States in instituting a war for that which is right; that we had ever been on the side of right and ever been successful, as we must certainly be in the present case.

Over the entire audience a spell seemed to have been thrown as each individual strained to catch every word spoken showing the intense interest which the subject of national honor and integrity ever awakens in the American mind and heart.

Spain boasts of her glorious history yet a history with no honor, smeared and bespattered with the blood of Christian people and its flaunted magnificence acting only as a shield for debauchery, infamy and crime, the crushing of patriot and destruction of human independence. The United States ever on the side of right, a history more glorious and unsullied than that of any nation, fighting for freedom of speech, thought and religion, the elevation of mankind and the preservation of national integrity.

Such were the words given in farewell to the boys in blue, who go forth as their ancestors did before them to fight the good fight and were for the side of freedom and right. A sermon long to be remembered by all and more especially by those who may be called to other lands in the present conflict, assuring them that we at home are ever with them in spirit and if needed we will be by their sides in the heart of battle.

One of the ladies had just previous to the service manufactured from a pocket handkerchief and some colored cloth a Cuban flag, the design being borrowed from one of the Sabbath school pupils badge. With the words, "Cuba is and of right ought to be free and independent," the pastor unfurled this little emblem of liberty and added "This is the flag which we must raise on the turrets of proud Morro castle and cast out the banner of Spain forever." A murmur of approval swept over the house which at any other time and place would have burst into resounding cheers.

The church was beautifully decorated with the national colors while from the pulpit swung the tiny Cuban flag seemingly imploring the protection of Old Glory's strength.

After a solo by Will Elliott and several national hymns by the choir, the pastor invoked a benediction and dismissed what was doubtless the largest single congregation ever assembled here.

A romantic short story of the Arctic regions by a new writer, Mr. John A. Hill, will appear in McClure's Magazine for May.

Detroit, April 25.—Fifty patriotic men, representing the wealth and influential element of Detroit, assembled at the city hall Sunday to discuss the war situation. Resolutions were passed encouraging Detroit men to go to the front, regardless of their social, business or family ties, and pledging the citiens of Detroit to support and care for the families and dependents of all who volunteer. War spirit has been extremely manifest here this week. Nearly every business firm is displaying the national colors as are also numerous residences. The bulletin boards are surrounded by an eager crowd every hour in the day and a general feeling of fight pervades everything. Already two independent military companies are forming and although we have already furnished more than our quota of soldiers, there is a prevalent idea that it is not so bad a plan to be prepared for emergencies and have plenty of well drilled and available war timber ready for the next call of the nation should one be found necessary.

There was a very enthusiastic meet- at the Armory last evening the object in view being the organization of a volunteer military company. A class of men of exceptionally good soldier qualifications were present and a line of men reaching across the big hall were fallen in and given their first lesson in military education. Several ex-officers of Co. C. were present and acted as drill masters of the evening and the new soldiers showed a proficiency and desire to learn seldom if ever seen in an awkward squad. After an hours drill, the new company were dismissed to meet again at the Armory next Tuesday evening. On the list of this company's roster is 120 names and more applications every day. Only a company of 86 men can be mustered so that some applicants must be disappointed. In 1861 when the call for troops came, the volunteers responded slowly for it was brother against brother. In 1898 with hatred for the agressions and atrocities of the Spanish nation there are ten volunteers waiting for every vacancy, willing and impatient to be off for the front and get a dig at the enemy. Still another company is expected to be organized here in a few days. While we admire the boys' enterprise, we sincerely hope they may never be needed at the front. We understand the new company will be in command of Capt. A. D. Lawrence until the return of Gen. F. B. Wood which is expected in a few days. Those wishing to volunteer may leave their names with A. E. Karner or T. A. Lowry.

Notes and Condensations Concerning the Railroads.

The large machine shop, the third building, is now well under way and will be completed before many weeks. Puachasing Agent Roser has bought for use in this building, of the Buckeye Iron Works at Salem, Ohio, a one hundred and fifty horse power Buckeye engine and two 6x16 feet tubular boilers. The machinery for this shop is all purchased and is of the best makes obtainable. The two first buildings are now done and will soon be occupied. In speaking of the buildings, the HERALD has ascertained that the combined ground floor area of the three buildings is 3700 square feet more than the contract calls for and the end is not yet. At least three more large buildings will have to be constructed before the plant will be complete. Certainly the D. & L. N. people have thus far done better than they agreed.

It is unofficially reported that Supt. George Haskell, of the D. & L. Haskell, the president of the road, and who is a railroad man of much ability, and has done much toward making the new railroad a success. It is also announced that Mr. E. B. Hathaway, the assistant superintendent, has also resigned. These announcements have been received with much surprise by those connected with the D. & L. N., and no one seems to be able to assign any reason why the resignations should have been made.—Lima Times Dem.

Michigan Central officials in Toledo have been advised by President Ledyard that all employes of the company who may belong to any military organization, whether naval reserve or other military companies, who may be called upon by the government to serve will, upon their release from military duty and retutn to this company, find the places they now occupy, or equivalent ones, ready for them. No doubt other railroads will follow with notices of the same character. Railway employes will not lose any right by going to war. —Toledo Blade.

The Michigan Central Railroad Co. has issued an order stating that any employe of the company who desires to go to the front in case of hostilities and does go, will find his position, or a better one, awaiting him at the close of the war. The order is made general, covering employes in all branches of the road's service.

Work has been commenced by the D., T. & M. to fill in the big trestle just east of town. The steam shovel has been busy all the week a short distance east of the bridge. When the work is completed passengers will feel more at ease than they do at present some 40 feet above the river flat below.

CALL MADE ON MICHIGAN

Gov. Pingree Notified of Number of Men Allotted to the State Under President's Call.

TROOPS ARE GATHERING AT ISLAND PARK

A Great Demonstration of Patriotic Feeling—Militia Makes Preparations to Go to the Front—Michigan Naval Reserve Already Ordered South.

Lansing, April 26.—Secretary of War Alger wired Gov. Pingree Monday night that Michigan's quota of troops under the president's call for volunteers will be four regiments of infantry and that the national guard will be used as far as their number will permit.

Gov. Pingree has informed Secretary Alger, in response to the latter's request, that the national guard of this state will be ready for mustering into the United States service at once. This formality need not, so far as Michigan is concerned, be delayed beyond Wednesday, for at that time every man in the brigade will be at Island Lake ready for examination. It was expected that the troops would be kept at the latter place for 30 days or more at state expense, but present indications are that they will be sent south at an early day.

Nearly every company has been recruited up to the limit of 83 enlisted men and three officers, and it is estimated that 3,400 will be in camp.

At the recent special session of the legislature the governor was authorized to increase the membership of each company to a war footing of 150 men, exclusive of officers. This increase has not yet been ordered, but, anticipating it, most of the companies have, since war was a fact, established a reserve list from which the increase can be made when the order is issued.

Gov. Pingree has not yet issued any call for volunteers, and in all probability there will be no necessity for doing so. The National Volunteer reserve movement had an early start in Michigan, and recruiting stations were established by the 384 grand army posts. The responses have been prompt, and reports show that the enlistments are increasing daily. Monday 425 enlistments, representing 30 cities and villages, were received at grand army headquarters here. Thus far 2,000 enlistments have been forwarded to national headquarters, and it is estimated that there are enough in the hands of the various recruiting officers to swell the total to 3,500.

In addition to these enlistments fully 500 citizens have written the governor and adjutant general tendering their services. Many of these offer to raise companies and several report companies already raised. A score of women have offered to go out as nurses, and no less than 75 surgeons have offered their services.

The military authorities are of the opinion that several times any quota that is likely to be demanded of Michigan can be secured without any call from the governor for volunteers.

Reserves Called to Duty.

Detroit, April 25.—The anxiety of the Michigan naval reserves was relieved Saturday afternoon when Gov. Pingree received the following telegram from Assistant Sectretary of the Navy Roosevelt:

"Send complement naval militia, officers and men for Yosemite, to navy yard, Norfolk, immediately. Transportation by Pennsylvania railway. Consult agent at Detroit. Telegraph commandant at navy yard, Norfolk, time of arrival."

An additional telegram was received by Adjt. Gen. Irish from Capt. Crowninshield, in charge of the information bureau in the navy department. It was as follows:

"Before serving on naval vessels enlisted men or naval militia must be discharged from militia and enlisted in navy for one year, unless sooner discharged. Officers will receive acting appointments. Assignments to duty will be made by organizations and men of same militia will not be separated unless imperatively necessary. Please inform officers and men accordingly and take steps preparatory to discharging men on their arrival at navy yard."

The Detroit division of the naval reserves numbers 240 officers and men, and they are in first-class condition. Some of the officers, though, do not like the fact that they will have to enlist for a year, as they feel they ought to be allowed to return home at the end of six months, many of them having large business interests in this city. An order has been expected for some days past, and it therefore caused little surprise.

Michigan Can Send 250,000.

Lansing, April 25.—"Michigan has 250,000 men capable of doing military duty," said Assistant Quartermaster General Smith Sunday. Five hundred thousand dollars has been placed at the disposal of the governor to put men in the field, and altogether Michigan will do its full share in the war. Every company in the national guard will go to Island lake with its quota of men full. Twelve out of the thirty companies have reported enlistments up to the full number of 83, and many men anxious to enlist have been turned away. As yet the governor has not ordered the enlistment of men up to 150 per company, but he may do so at any time, now that war is on, under the authority conferred by the legislature two weeks ago.

Outside of the national guard the people of the state are enthusiastic and patriotic. Col. C. V. R. Pond, adjutant general of Michigan G. A. R., who has had charge of the work of the Volunteer Reserve association in this state, said Sunday night: "It is safe to say that at the present moment from 1,800 to 2,000 men have enlisted in the volunteer movement, and the number is constantly increasing."

F. D. Eddy, former commander of the [illegible] Sons of Veterans, has received over 500 requests for enlistment from different parts of the state, and a Sons of Veterans regiment could easily be organized.

Michigan Honors the Brave.

Lansing, April 27.—Advices from all parts of the state indicate that Michigan never before witnessed such scenes as were enacted within her borders Tuesday. The occasion was the departure of Michigan national guards for Island Lake, where they will rendezvous until ordered to the front. At every town where there was a company of the guard a great demonstration marked its departure. The outpouring was unprecedented. The weather was perfect, and hundreds of people from the surrounding country were added to the population of the cities in which the demonstrations were held. In most cases farewell addresses were made by prominent citizens, and a number of companies were presented with handsome silk flags. In all these cities business was entirely suspended and all schools were closed in order that everyone, old and young, might honor the departing soldiers. The last company of the brigade reached Island Lake Tuesday night, and the examination of the soldiers for muster into the service of the United States will be begun at once.

Patriotic Scenes.

Detroit, April 27.—Never since the war of the rebellion have such exciting and patriotic scenes been witnessed as were enacted Tuesday upon the departure of the state militia for mobilization at the camping ground at Island Lake, 50 miles west of Detroit. A crowd which has not been equaled since the G. A. R. held its national encampment here witnessed the departure of the Fourth regiment from Detroit. At Port Huron members of the local militia company were each presented with a five-dollar gold piece and two of their officers with horses. The common council at Bay City pledged that all city employes going to the front should have their positions. Grand Rapids, Saginaw and Bay City each gave their soldier boys stirring send offs. The troops from the upper peninsula left home amid ovations and were met with cheers all along the line. Schools were almost wholly closed and business was practically suspended in the cities having military companies.

Gov. Pingree has announced his intention of personally taking command while the troops are in camp awaiting the call of the war department and examinations. The Michigan troops number about 2,700 and nearly all are now in camp.

Joy in Badaxe.

Badaxe, April 21.—Bells were rung, whistles blown and a great demonstration of patriotic feeling exhibited here when the news came that the president had signed the Cuban resolution.

Students and Teachers to Enlist.

Ann Arbor, April 22.—The board of university regents granted several leaves of absence for students and teachers enlisting for army or navy service. The university hospital was offered the war department for military purposes in case of war. Senior students in good standing who enlist will receive diplomas in June as if the course had been completed.

Wanted to Go at Once.

Grand Rapids, April 23.—The four companies of the Michigan national guard constituting the Grand Rapids battalion were disappointe that Gov. Pingree's call was for next Tuesday, instead of for immediate marching, as they are ready for an instant start. The companies opened recruiting offices Friday afternoon and night and the ranks were rapidly filled to the war limit, with many more enlistments offered than were wanted.

Ready to Fight Again.

Grand Rapids, April 22.—The inmates of the Michigan soldiers' home held an enthusiastic war meeting Thursday night and the following dispatch was sent to the secretary of war: "The veterans of the Michigan soldiers' home desire to tender their services for anything they can do, garrison, guard or police duty. We are a little disfigured, but still in the ring, and love our country just as well as 37 years ago."

Balloonist Tenders Services.

Sturgis, April 23. — Prof. C. H. Kabrich, of this city, telegraphed the secretary of war tendering his services as expert balloonist, and in a few hours an answer accepting his offer was received.

Lost Her Case.

Grand Rapids, April 22.—The jury Thursday morning in the superior court, in the case of Mary Leslie vs. the city, brought in a verdict in favor of the city. Miss Leslie was injured by riding a bicycle into a hole in Canal street. The question was raised of the liability of the city to keep the streets in condition for wheelmen. It is the first case of the kind in the United States. It was appealed at once.

Detroit Firm in Trouble.

Detroit, April 26.—Johnson & Wheeler, wholesale grocers, filed a chattel mortgage for $100,000 upon the entire stock and assets of the firm. The mortgagee is M. J. Brabb, trustee for the creditors. The latter include many local and outside banks.

Will Meet in Grand Rapids.

Grand Rapids, April 25.—A call has been issued for the annual meeting of the State Game and Fish Protective association to be held in this city on June 7 and 8, at the same time as the tournament of the West Michigan Fly Casting association.

Will Supply Nurses.

Battle Creek, April 25.—Dr. Kellogg, of the sanitarium, announces that the institution and branches in this country have 1,000 of the best-trained nurses in the world and will supply 500 for the army and hospitals.

Railway Earnings.

Lansing, April 23.—Up to March 1 this year the railroads earned a total of $4,290,467 in Michigan. This is an increase of 14.4 per cent.

CUBAN RESOLUTION.

How It Was Passed by the Two Houses of Congress.

A Legislative Proceeding with Which Not Many Readers Are Familiar—The Delicate Duties of Conferees.

[Special Washington Letter.]

MAKING laws in the national capital is carried on in a manner which is mysterious to the people, but perfectly palpable to close observers.

For example, look at the Cuban joint resolutions which so recently attracted the attention of the country. How did those resolutions originate, and how did they pass both houses of the congress? Have you ever thought of the details of it?

In the first place resolutions were offered by ten or more senators, declaring that this country must intervene to stop the barbarous warfare in Cuba; to feed the starving people there, with the aid of the warships; to avenge the battleship Maine; and to demand that Spain withdraw her military and naval forces from Cuba and take her flag from this hemisphere.

How could the congress dispose of all of those legislative propositions? All of them were important, and every senator who introduced a series of resolutions believed that he had solved the grave problem confronting the country. All of them wanted immediate consideration of their proposition, with full debate. But none of them succeeded.

Congressional procedure is simplified by the appointment of standing committees. All matters of legislative intention are referred to appropriate committees, and those committees first give these proposed legislative propositions ample consideration.

For example, when a man wants a pension by act of the congress his senator or representative introduces a bill. That does not bring the matter before the congress; not at all. The congress pays no attention to the bill. It is referred to the standing committee on pensions, consisting of 11 senators in one branch of the congress and 15 representatives in the other branch. Those committees consider the merits or demerits of the bill. When they have reached a conclusion they report the bill either favorably or unfavorably. That is the first step, and the most important step. If the committee reports the bill unfavorably it is never again heard of nor thought of in the congress.

The reason is very simple. After the members of the committee have investigated the matter, and have concluded that the bill has not merit, the congress goes on about its business, and the other members take no interest in the bill. But if the man who wants the pension has a member of the congress who will insist upon calling up the bill, after it has been unfavorably reported, the bill meets with the antagonism of all the members of the committee. The reason for this is also plain.

JOSEPH B. FORAKER.
(The Most Radical Member of the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee.)

The members of every committee are jealous of their official standing. They will bitterly and vindictively oppose any effort on the part of the house or of the senate to override their action as a committee. They always succeed in their opposition.

On the other hand, if a bill is reported favorably by a committee, it is placed upon the calendar along with a thousand or more other bills which have been favorably reported, and it must take its turn for consideration. Thus even when a bill has been favorably reported there is no certainty that it will have any opportunity to become a law by congressional action. You must remember that a bill or a joint resolution must be passed by the senate and also by the house of representatives; and that is a very hard matter to accomplish.

But bills and joint resolutions of national interest take precedence, and are pushed along with rapidity. They go through the regular channels of committee consideration, but they are hurried along by what is called "unanimous consent." That is to say, everybody in the congress agrees that there shall be no delay, and hence there is an opportunity to hurry matters.

For example: It usually takes an appropriation bill two months to get through the committee on appropriations. Then the bill goes to the calendar and awaits a convenient opportunity for the chairman of the committee to call it up from the calendar, and bring it to a vote. Sometimes appropriation bills are debated for a week at a time or longer.

But to show you how an appropriation bill can be hurried along by unanimous consent, let us look at the emergency appropriation of $50,000,000 for the national defense. That is an immense amount of money, and, under ordinary circumstances, it would take the congress two or three months to dispose of it. There are in the senate and house of representatives who want to ask questions and make long speeches before they will vote for large appropriations of the public money.

But in this case it was different. Congressman Cannon, of Illinois, chairman of the house committee on appropriations, had a conference with President McKinley, who informed him that our battleship had been destroyed in Havana harbor, that war would most likely result, and that this country was not prepared for war. We needed seacoast defenses, battleships and all sorts of military and naval accessories of war.

Congressman Cannon went to the capitol and quietly introduced a bill appropriating $50,000,000 for the national defense. The very next morning the committee on appropriations took up the bill, received information concerning our national situation, and then, without delay, the committee favorably reported the bill. Chairman Cannon reported the bill to the house, and asked "unanimous consent" for its immediate consideration.

LEMUEL E. QUIGG.
(New York's Member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.)

Without any public speechmaking, every member of the house of representatives had been given to understand that this was an emergency appropriation; and there was no objection to its immediate consideration. It was passed that day—within 30 hours after it had been introduced. This shows that the congress can act quickly if it is deemed necessary.

Now, as to the Cuban independence resolutions. All of them were referred to the committee on foreign relations. That committee considered all of the propositions advanced by those resolutions, but did not approve of any one of them. On the contrary, the committee prepared and favorably reported a new set of resolutions, embodying the best features of all which had been introduced; and the new set of resolutions came before the senate with the favorable report of the committee.

In the meantime the committee on foreign affairs of the house of representatives had considered a score of resolutions of similar import, and had reported a new set of resolutions entirely different from the resolutions reported to the senate. Inasmuch as both the senate and house must absolutely agree on every point before a bill or resolution can be enacted, this brought about a peculiar condition. The senate passed its resolutions, and the house passed its resolutions.

Now what was to be done? Both bodies must agree, but how? This brings us to "the committee on conference." What is the committee on conference? It is this: The senate appoints three senators and the house appoints three representatives. Those gentlemen meet and discuss the differences existing between the senate and the house of representatives. That is the case in all matters of congressional disagreement.

Well, as to the Cuban resolutions, the "committee on conference" met in the room of the senate committee on foreign relations; and they could come to no agreement. The senators reported to the senate, and the representatives reported to the house, and they could not agree. They were then directed to hold another conference. Again they met; and this happened four times in one day and night—they were at it until long after midnight.

Finally these gentlemen, who were called "conferees," reached an agreement. The senators agreed to recede from a part of their propositions. The representatives agreed to recede from a part of their propositions. They reported to the senate and to the house their mutual agreements and concessions. The senate and house accepted the conclusions which had been reached by their constituted "conferees," and the contest was over. That is the way it was brought about. After all the senate, consisting of 90 senators, and the house, consisting of 350 representatives, left the conclusion of the great and grave matter to the wisdom and conservatism of six men, three of the best men from each branch of the congress. This is the method of reaching conclusions between those great bodies.

Now another thing. After midnight, when the senators and representatives had made up their minds what to do about the war measure, and while their "conferees" were conferring, there was a complete abandonment of dignity and decorum, so far as the house of representatives was concerned.

With the question of a great war confronting them, the members of the house of representatives, like a lot of college boys, gathered in groups of 20 or more, in the various house corridors and lobbies, and whiled away the time by singing: "What Shall the Harvest Be?" and "Rally 'Round the Flag," and "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground."

Was it right? Was it in comportment with the occasion? Was it worthy of this great republic?

You tell. The correspondent simply writes facts, and entertains no opinions.

A LONG FELT WANT.

It is Supplied in this vicinity at Last.

It is hard to always be pleasant. Good-natured people are often irritable. If you knew the reason you would not be surprised. Ever have itching Piles? Not sick enough to go to bed or not well enough to be content. Nothing will annoy you so. The constant itching sensation. Hard to bear, harder to get relief. Keeps you awake nights. Spoils your temper, nearly drives you crazy. Isn't relief and cure a long felt want? It is to be had for everyone in Doan's Ointment. Doan's Ointment never fails to cure Itching Piles, eczema, or any itching of the skin. Here is proof of it at the testimony of an Ann Arbor citizen:

Mr. C. C. Church, of 520 South 7th street, Ann Arbor, now retired from the active duties of life, says: "I have no hesitation in recommending Doan's Ointment. To anyone requiring a healing and soothing preparation it will prove invaluable. I suffered for years from itching hemorrhoids and though I tried everything I could hear of and used remedies prescribed by scores of friends, I was unable to obtain permanent relief until my attention was called to Doan's Ointment. I was somewhat surprised after the second application to notice what a different effect it had from anything I had hitherto used. Encouraged I used it strickly according to directions and in a surprisingly short length of time when you take into account the number of years I was afflicted, the irritation ceased and the inflammation was allayed. When Doan's Ointment cured me it will cure others." Doan's Ointment for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster—Milburn Co. Buffalo, N. Y. Sole agents for the U. S. ENRICHES THE SOIL.

Science Has Demonstrated Beyond a Doubt That Alfalfa Rejuvenates Worn-out Land.

There is another remarkable characteristic of alfalfa that none of its rivals possesses—that is, the power to enrich chemically exhausted land. Along its tangled roots close examination shows masses of what are known to be tubercles. In other words, every root of alfalfa is afflicted with tuberculosis. Inhabiting these tubercles are myriads of bacteria. It is a general belief that bacteria are harmful to the human race. Some kinds are; but science is authority for the statement that bacteria are not always dangerous. Prof. G. L. Clothier, of the state agricultural college in Kansas, says, in discussing the bacteria on alfalfa and similar plants: Many species are very beneficial to the world. Among them are the bacteria inhabiting the tubercles on the roots of leguminous plants.

I remember that one of the assistants in this department of that college held up to me with a great show of pride a culture of some sort showing what he said was a marvelous growth of bacteria in tubercles. He was absolutely fond of those tubercles. My thought was one of great surprise until he informed me that one of the best things for the rehabilitation of exhausted soils was to grow some sort of plants on whose roots tubercles such as those would thrive. Alfalfa is one of these plants. Its long roots have a double part to play in this renovation of nature. The millions upon millions of bacteria draw large quantities of nitrogen from the air and store it up in the tubercles for use when the plant needs it. Scientific experiment has shown this to be absolutely true. Then the roots go on an excursion for certain chemicals on their own hook. They go down ten, fifteen or twenty feet and bring up the potash and phosphoric acid that are needed for such a plant and its tubercles.

Now, when these roots decay or are plowed underground, they not only release the great quantities of chemicals that have been stored up, but they leave millions upon millions of little openings in the earth, into which fresh air and moisture find their way, and thus fertility of soil is renewed. In other words, the land renews its youth and vigor by means of a plant which drags down into its roots certain chemicals from the air and pulls up into its roots certain other chemicals from the deep soil that could not be reached in any other way. It has been said that alfalfa lives more in the air than on the soil.

It has been proved beyond shadow of doubt that alfalfa does renew the youth of the soil. Phenomenal yields of wheat and other cereals have followed the plowing under of fields of alfalfa, and these yields have continued year after year.—Harper's Weekly.

LAST A LONG TIME.

Tar-Paper Collars for Tiles Are Easily Made and Save Much Trouble and Annoyance.

In laying tile drains the most serious danger is that earth will get in at the joints and finally clog up the interior. It is a difficult matter to lay the short pieces of tile so that this will not occur. It is a common practice to put hay over the joints, and upon this to pack the earth. The hay, however, decays within a few weeks and may then itself be carried into the joints. An excellent method of preventing this is shown in the accompanying illustration. Closely fitting collars are made of heavy tarred paper and a collar is slipped over each joint as the tile is laid. Such collars are easily made, either by sewing or by riveting together with tin-headed tacks, such as are used in roofing, and when in place these collars will last a long time, certainly until the ground is firmly and immovably established about the tiling.

It costs too much to do this kind of draining not to take every precaution against failure in any part of the work. In this connection it may be well to warn all those who put down tiles against the common practice of throwing back into the trench, about and above the tile, the rocks that are dug out with the earth. Not only is there much risk of breaking the tiling but there is also the risk that in the settling of the rocks the joints of the tiles may be greatly disturbed.—Orange Judd Farmer.

Measurement for Grain Bins.

A cubical box 12⅞ inches each way will hold a bushel. Hence to ascertain the contents of a bin take a stick or rule 12⅞ inches long and divide it by marks into tenths and hundredths. Measure the length, breadth and depth with this rule. Multiply the three dimensions together and the product will be the bushels. This is the most convenient and easiest method known. Use the rule as though it were feet and tenths. Suppose, for example, a bin (using this measure as a foot) measures 8.5 feet in length by 5.7 feet in width, and 4.9 feet in depth. The product of these is 237.405 or about 237.4 bushels. Every farmer should make such a rule, and use it in all cases where the contents of bins or boxes are required.—Charles H. Hickox, in Ohio Farmer.

Our government is trying to induce the people of other lands to use cornmeal. Why not use more of it ourselves? Perhaps we would not complain so much of dyspepsia.

SURE CURE FOR RHEUMATISM.

The statement that there is a cure for Rheumatism will be read with incredulity by the majority of people. However, it is a fact which we can prove. Rheumatism is a disease of the blood, and until that is thoroughly cleansed no one once affected with the disease can hope for relief. The remedy we offer is not a new discovery, but it has never been placed on the market in medicinal form. We know from personal observation that it has effected a permanent cure whenever tried and this is what suggested the idea of offering it to sufferers from rheumatism. The Sure Cure Rheumatic Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. They are warranted to cure the worst cases of rheumatism. Price, 50 cents a box. For sale by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price. Send for free sample.

April 27, 1898.

We left Dyea this morning for this place and reached here at 2 p. m. We hired our freight drawn up by team for 1 3-4 cents per lb.; this is as far as teams are driven, and is about 12 miles from Dyea. We walked up as we thought we could'nt earn 1 3-4 cents per lb. any easier than carrying it ourselves. The freight is loaded on to wagons and drawn to Canyon City, 9 miles from Dyea, and is then reloaded onto big sleighs for the balance of the trip. The first six miles, or to Finnigan's Point, is pretty fair wheeling, although it crosses and recrosses the river a good many times. At this place some enterprising man, I don't know whether it is Mr. Finnigan or who, has made a pole bridge and put in a toll gate and charges $1.50 per team for every load. From the Point to Canyon City, which is at the mouth of the Canyon, is 3 miles of pretty rough road, and I should not like to be obliged to ride over it on a lumber wagon.

Canyon City is quite a lively little burg of log huts, tents, etc. At the mouth of the Canyon is another toll gate with a sign up which reads: Double teams, $1.00. Single horse, ox, mule, hand sled, team of 3 goats, or team of 5 dogs, 50 cts. The toll gate men have a sure thing in Klondike, it is a wonder that they don't charge for walking through. It is about 2 miles through the canyon and is quite an up grade The canyon is very narrow, from 8 to 20 feet, but the perpendicular walls on each side are high enough to make up the narrow width. The snow and ice is very thick in some places, so thick that you can hardly hear the roar of the noisy stream beneath. Where the worst rapids are they have thrown in logs and it is covered over with snow and ice, and it is pretty fair road for sleighs during the winter, but impassable for even a man afoot or even with a canoe, after the break up and during the summer. It was a sight to see the struggling mass of humanity going up and down the canyon, and the way they were moving their freight. There were double horse and ox teams, single ox, horse and mule teams, dog teams of from one to six and many horses, mules, etc. with pack loads on their backs, besides many men drawing their loaded sleighs. These sleds are about 8 feet long and 1 1-2 feet wide, 8 inches high, and are capable of holding up and carrying eight or ten hundred pounds, providing you get power enough ahead. The oxen seemed to move their loads the easiest of any animal. An ox don't seem to make any work of drawing 600 or 800 lbs. of flour, bacon, etc. up through the canyon; they are all shod and walk along very slowly, chewing their cud, but they get there O. K. One man can draw only about 150 lbs., and he has to stop pretty often to rest. There are a good many hundred tons of goods piled up along the trail from Dyea up here If a man has a ton of goods, he loads up his sled in the morning and goes perhaps a 1-4 or 1-2 a mile and starts a pile and then goes back after another load, and so on till he gets it all together. The most of the piles are only covered with canvas and some by brush only. It was raining when we left Dyea, but when we got to the mouth of the canyon, it was snowing and it has been snowing all the afternoon and is still snowing this evening, and it is the heaviest snow I ever saw. We are stopping at the Palmer House. It is not quite as grand as its namesake in Chicago, but is very comfortable to put up at in such a storm as this. The meals are extra good and only 50 cts. There are four rooms in the house, upstairs, downstairs, kitchen and outdoors. The room I am in now is blue with smoke and profanity, but I think it will clear up before bedtime. There are several thousand people here living in tents; men women and little children. The women mostly dress in bloomers, short Mackinaw cloaks and rubber boots. There are hundreds of dogs here, and you can hear a dog fight at any time of the day or night. The old timers say that if this storm continues much longer, that there will be danger of snow slides farther up the trail. I think we will stay here as long as there is any danger. Well I think I will stop for this day, will write some more tomorrow.

Sunday, April 22nd.

Well I have had quite a sad experience to day, will write you about it, and send this out as soon as possible, for you will no doubt see an account of it in the papers, and will be worrying for fear I was caught in it.

It was still snowing hard this morning and about a foot of snow had fallen. Many tents went down under the load of snow, and we heard the roar of several snow slides up the canyon, and the report came down, there were 18 men buried in a slide up the trail, about a mile from the summit. They were all day out and only one hurt seriously. Then at noon the report came, there had been another big slide about 2 miles above here. The news spread like wild fire, and men rushed up the trail with shovels to help dig them out if possible. It seems that from 40 to 60 men were coming down the trail, the suvivors cannot tell just how many there were, hanging onto a rope which they carried in order not to get lost, as it was storming very hard, and just as they got into a narrow canyon, a slide struck them and covered all but eight or ten. There were many hundred willing hands soon shoveling snow and when one man got tired, another took his place and they followed up the rope till about 25 or 30 men were taken out, Some were dead, a few were able to walk after a little stimulant, and others died soon after being taken out. They were buried under the snow from 6 to 25 feet deep. Four men right near me, were found standing up buried under about 10 feet of snow. They were unconscious, but soon revived. We stayed and worked until it was impossible to work longer on account of the blizzard which was raging, and then we started back. I have read of the blizzard on the mountains, but never realized what they were till then. You could not face it, and if it had not been for the long string of men it would have been impossible to follow the trail. When we were coming back we passed one place where 3 men had been taken out dead since we went by. Their ox about six feet from their tent, was also buried, but when found, was alive and lay there chewing his cud. I noticed this place, going up, and asked a man near me if any one was camped there, and he said he did not know. So far there are 12 men dead and are down here in a tent for identification, and two women were found dead so far. I doubt not, but there are many more men buried up there, and it will be impossible to know how many till the snow goes off, and there are tons of provisions covered up. I must close and get this to a man who is going out. Now please don't worry, for I will not take any chances. Good bye.

A Hudson veteran, who ever since the war talk came up, has been telling around how he went to the front in '61, and if his country needed him again, how he would be the first to offer his services, had occasion to go into the American express office for a package this week. Now this veteran of '61 knew very well that the express agent, A. H. Boies was organizing a company of volunteers from Hudson, and when Al. shoved out the express book for him to sign, the veteran thought of course it was the list of volunteers, and calling Mr. Boies aside, said that he "would prefer not to sign that list." "I tell you, Al, I went to the front once, and I think I have been patriotic epough; let some of these younger fellers go this time." When Mr. Boies assured him that he merely wanted him to sign the book as a receipt for the package, the veteran looked ashamed, and undoubtedly kicked himself all the way home for his unnecessary refusal to fight for his country again. WON THE FIRST CONFLICT.

Commodore Dewey Crushes Spanish Squadron Off the Harbor of Manila.

A TREMENDOUS BATTLE ON THE WATER

Three of the Best Ships of the Enemies' Fleet Completely Destroyed--Others Are Sunk to Prevent Capture--Loss to America's Warships Trifling--Joy in Washington.

Madrid, May 2.—There has been a tremendous naval battle off Manila, the capital of the Philippine Islands, between the ships of the United States under commodore Dewey and the Spanish fleet under Admiral Montejo.

Commodore Dewey appeared off the Bay of Manila late Saturday night and at five o'clock Sunday morning engaged the Spanish squadron that had been awaiting the attack.

The opposing fleets were engaged for several hours and the heavy guns of the land fortifications at Cavite protecting the harbor kept up a steady fire on the American warships.

COMMODORE GEORGE DEWEY.

Spanish Losses.

Losses of Spanish vessels are:

Second-class cruiser Don Juan de Austria, blown up and sunk. Her commander killed.

Cruiser Reina Maria Christina, flagship, set on fire by shells. Burned and sunk. Her commander killed.

Cruiser Castilla, burned and a complete wreck.

Cruiser Mindano, severely damaged.

Cruiser Ullao, damaged and put out of action.

Late official telegrams to the government say that several other warships were sunk to avoid their falling into the hands of the enemy.

The Attack.

When morning came the Cavite fortifications opened fire and at once the flagship Olympia fired her eight-inch forward guns in reply. From this the firing became general. Admiral Montejo, in the Reina Maria Christina, went boldly to meet the foe. He was soon engaged with the Olympia, a cruiser of much superior force, and though he inflicted some injury his ships was set on fire and crippled by the Olympia's heavy fire.

The Second Engagement.

In the second attack the Baltimore, Olympia, Concord and Boston made straight for the crippled Spanish ships, firing their heavy guns with great rapidity. The Spanish gunners stood nobly to their guns and answered shot for shot. But weight was on the American side and soon the large cruiser Castilla was on fire and all the efforts of the crew to extinguish the blaze were unavailing.

Cruiser Scuttled.

The Americans continued to pour their fire upon the devoted vessel, and to prevent the magazine from exploding she was scuttled and the crew made for the shore in their boats or upon pieces of the shattered spars.

Blown to Pieces.

The Don Juan de Austria was even less fortunate. She, too, was crippled by the shots of the Americans and in her helpless condition could not escape the storm of shot and shell. Suddenly her magazine exploded. A great cloud of smoke, from which flames seemed to leap, was seen to rise above the ship and she was seen no more.

Calls It Complete Spanish Defeat.

Lisbon, May 2.—Reliable news is received here that the Spanish fleet was completely defeated off Cavite.

JOY IN WASHINGTON.

The People Express Their Delight Over the News from Manila.

Washington, May 2.—Washington is rejoiced. Not since the dark days of the great civil conflict of a third of a century ago have the people of this city been so profoundly moved by war news as they were Sunday evening. The first battle of the Hispano-American war has been fought and victory lies with Commander Dewey's squadron under the Stars and Stripes.

That was enough to set the people of Washington almost in a frenzy of enthusiastic rejoicing. For days they, in common with the people throughout the country, have been awaiting news from the Philippine islands, as everything pointed to a battle at Manila that might be a decisive conflict if the war. When the news came indicating a great victory for the American squadron the enthusiasm of the people was let loose and the streets of the city rang with cheers all night.

President Reticent.

Thus far no official advices have been received by the government, but press dispatches were transmitted to the president and officials of the administration as rapidly as they were received. The president, in company with several of his advisers, read the bulletins in the library of the white house early in the evening, but later in the night he went to his office on the second floor of the executive mansion where, until a late hour, he continued to peruse every dispatch with deepest interest. The news was evidently of the most gratifying character to him, but no statement could be obtained at the executive mansion concerning the battle or its possible consequences.

LATER NEWS OF THE FIGHT.

Details of Naval Conflict Received at British Colonial Office.

London, May 3.—The details of the battle of Manila have been received at the British colonial office. They came in two cable messages, received Sunday evening, the substance of which has just been furnished by the officials of the colonial office.

The first cable dispatch announces that the United States fleet entered Manila harbor at daybreak Sunday stationing itself opposite the city. A fort opened fire on the American ships, whereupon they shifted their position to one near Cavite, in Manilla bay, engaging in a fierce fight against both the forts and the Spanish fleet.

The engagement here lasted two hours and resulted in the annihilation of the Spanish fleet.

The Spaniards fought bravely against superior force and suffered heavy losses. Four hundred Spanish are reported killed, including two commanders. Their loss by fire is also probably very great. The Spaniards would not give in, and when the American fleet returned to Cavite some shots were fired from the forts on shore, but our ships poured in such a terrible cannonade that further resistance was impossible.

American Craft Uninjured.

The American ships were apparently uninjured. Commodore Dewey's attack was well carried out. The maneuvers of his squadron were a beautiful sight, and the navigation of the bay by our ships was a remarkable feat of seamanship, avoiding, as they did successfully, the numerous shallows.

All is now over at Cavite. Commodore Dewey awaits the decision of the governor-general of the Philippines before commencing the bombardment of Manila.

Montejo Admits Defeat.

Madrid, May 3.—A dispatch to the Liberal from Manila says Admiral Montejo, the Spanish commander, acknowledges that the Spanish fleet has been completely demolished. He adds that the crew of the Spanish warship Mindanao has been saved.

Dewey's Ultimatum.

London, May 3.—Commodore Dewey, according to a reported dispatch from Madrid, gave Capt. Gen. Augusti 24 hours to comply with an ultimatum which demanded all warlike stores and the entire stock of coal in charge of the government officials. The ultimatum asserted that no money levy would be made upon Manila. The dispatch says it is believed in Madrid that the government has already cabled Capt. Gen. Augusti authority to comply with the demand, no other course being open. Grave events may follow public knowledge of this compliance.

Dewey's Latest Demand.

Madrid, May 3.—El Liberal says Commodore Dewey, of the United States squadron in the Philippines, has demanded the surrender of all Spanish vessels in the Archipelago, threatening to bombard the ports if the demand is refused.

MANILA CAPTURED.

Report That the Stars and Stripes Wave Over the Philippine Capital.

Hong Kong, May 4.—A fast dispatch steamer just arrived from the capital of the Philippine islands, brings positive information that the Spanish governor general of Manila has surrendered to Commodore Dewey, in command of the American fleet, and that the stars and stripes are now floating over the public buildings of the city.

Commodore Dewey's first act as soon as the city capitulated was to land a force of marines from the American ships to preserve order. The American officers and insurgent leaders then at once set about organizing a provisional government.

The American flag was run up on the forts and public buildings and the city of Manila is now under a strong guard of American marines. The transfer of authority was accomplished without demonstration by resident foreigners.

The last act of the governor general before surrendering the city of Manila was to cut the cable connecting the islands with this city, presumably to prevent tidings of Spain's great misfortune reaching Madrid. Commodore Dewey is now in control of the entire colony, as the few Spanish soldiers outside of Manila are kept in check by the insurgents.

From Extreme Nervousness.

THAT no one remedy can contain the elements necessary to cure all diseases, is a fact well known to everyone. Dr. Miles' System of Restorative Remedies consists of seven distinctively different preparations, each for its own purpose.

Mrs. L. C. Bramley, 37 Henry St., St. Catherines, Ontario, writes: "For years I suffered from extreme nervousness and annoying constipation, developing into palpitation and weakness of the heart. I was unable to sleep, suffered much from headache, pain in my left side, palpitation and a constant feeling of weakness and prostration. I began using Dr. Miles' Nervine, Heart Cure and Nerve and Liver Pills and the Anti-Pain Pills to relieve sudden paroxysms of pain and headache. I soon felt much improved and the pains and aches and weariness left me. I then took Dr. Miles' Restorative Tonic and am now restored to my former good health."

A Blow to the Wedding Guest.

The very latest fashion in connection with wedding cake is not to have it piled up on a table in the hall, with each individual little box tied with white satin ribbon, and the monograms of the bride and groom stamped in gold on the top of it, but to have a very large ornamented bride-cake on the table where the collation is served. The cake is cut in slices and put into small wedge-shaped boxes, which fit one into the other, so that the whole affair, when covered with icing, sugar devices and figures, surmounted by perhaps an appropriate emblem for the occasion, looks exactly as if it had not been disturbed at all. When it is time to cut the cake, the bride places a knife into one of the crevices between the tiny boxes, and removes one herself. The rest are then handed about among the guest. There is, perhaps, a good reason for this new style of serving the bride-cake. It certainly does away with the possibility of one person carrying home more than one box of wedding-cake to dream on.—From "Society Fads," by Patty de Peyster, in Demorest's Family Magazine for May.

DYSPEPTIC'S---REJOICE.

Results of the New Cure for Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

Dr. Horton said recently in an article on the Stomach and its most prevailing disease—dyspepsia, "that very few people today possess a healthy sound stomach. And this class requires no aid to digestion; while the other portion, which figure fully 80 per cent., ought not to force digestion in a diseased stomach, as blood produced in such conditions will eventually contaminate the whole system. Medicine has been comparatively at a standstill as to a reliable treatment for stomach diseases in all of their manifold forms, although many prepartions are offered to sufferers, yet their use is usually more perilous than delay." But the saying that "necessity is the mother of invention" seems evidently verified in Prof. Drake's production of his marvelous treatment known as Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer. This well-spring of life is flowing into thousands of homes today; many who have tried nearly everthing with little or no relief, are now rejoicing over the results of this new method treatment, for in this treatment the idea of tieing sufferers down to an endless doping of drugs and nostrums is entirely lost sight of, as results from its use in bad complicated cases show that all that is required is a little persistency in following out the plain instructions which accompany each treatment, when a speedy and permanent cure will invariably be the result. TO BE MADE AN ADMIRAL

Commodore Dewey, the Hero of the Philippines, Will Be Promoted for His Valor.

AMERICAN TROOPS TO HOLD THE FORT.

The President Is Waiting for an Official Report of the Victory—Plans for the Cuban Campaign Being Steadily Developed — Admiral Sampson Keeps Up Blockade.

Washington, May 4.—Representative Grout, of Vermont, Tuesday introduced in the house the following resolution:

"Whereas, The intrepidity and skill displayed by Commodore George Dewey in his daring attack upon the Spanish fleet in Manila harbor and its total destruction, covered as it was by the protecting guns of surrounding forts, marks him as the possessor of high qualities as a naval commander; therefore,

"Resolved, That he ought to be promoted to the rank of admiral, and the president is hereby authorized to nominate him for that rank to the senate, which body is hereby authorized to confirm him, the general laws regulating promotions in the navy to the contrary notwithstanding."

Will Be Made Admiral.

Washington, May 4.—Secretary Long announced Tuesday that as soon as the department received any official report from Commodore Dewey, confirming the press accounts of his victory in the battle of Manila, a cablegram would be sent to the officer congratulating him upon the splendid performance of the American fleet under his direction. Moreover, said the secretary, as soon as the necessary confirmation is at hand Commodore Dewey will be made admiral in recognition of his valor. This will be accomplished immediately by an executive order designating him acting admiral, just as was done in the case of Capt. Sampson. Later on he probably will be nominated to the senate in the usual course for promotion to the rank of admiral.

Cabinet Meeting.

Washington, May 4. — The cabinet meeting Tuesday resulted in a decision to await a report from Commodore Dewey and then to send him the number of troops he deemed necessary to enforce our control of the Philippines. The whole session was consumed in a general discussion of past events. The administration has practically decided to occupy the Philippines with a strong military force as soon as possible after Commodore Dewey's report, which is expected to-day, has been received. For this purpose Pacific slope troops will be used and it is expected that at least 5,000 will be enroute within the next ten days. There does not seem to be any doubt as to the government's purpose to hold these islands pending a final settlement with Spain, when they will be used as a collateral to secure the payment to the United States of a war indemnity.

As indicated in Secretary Long's request Monday for an emergency appropriation, the government will take steps at once to supply Commodore Dewey's fleet with provisions and other supplies including ammunition and coal, and to this end will dispatch at the earliest possible moment a sufficient number of ships to supply amply all possible needs of the Asiatic squadron.

The Cuban Campaign.

Meanwhile the plans of the Cuban campaign are being steadily developed and there is no indication of a change of purpose on the part of the military authorities who are expected to land an expeditionary force in Cuba in a very short time. Admiral Sampson, so far as the navy department knows, is steadily maintaining the blockade of the Cuban coast, and this is not likely to be abandoned for the present, though two or three of his ships may be sent away temporarily to meet the Oregon on her way to Cuba from Rio Janeiro.

China Is Neutral.

The proclamation directed against the Spanish residents of the United States by the state department has not yet been issued nor is it certain that it will issue, that probably depending upon the course pursued by the Spanish government in their treatment of American citizens by Spain. China issued her neutrality proclamation Tuesday, so there is now no place left on the Asiatic coast open to the free use of the war vessels of either Spain or the United States. This is rather remarkable in that it marks the first action of this kind on the part of China, which has never before issued a neutrality proclamation, and the naval officers are duly grateful for the consideration shown by the Chinese government in withholding the issue of the decree until informed that the Americans had acquired a base in the Philippine islands.

Abandon a Town.

Montego Bay, Jamaica, via Kingston, Jamaica, May 4.—Gen. Pando, the commander of the Spanish forces in the field, withdrew the Spanish garrison from Bayamo, one of the important towns of the province of Santiago de Cuba, April 25, and refugees who have arrived here from Manzanillo, the port of Bayamo, by the schooner Governor Blake, say that Gen. Calixto Garcia, the insurgent commander, occupied the town the next day.

Spanish Fort Demolished.

Key West, Fla., May 4.—The gunboat Wilmington early yesterday morning destroyed a Spanish fort just being finished about four miles east of Cojima. The Wilmington also fired at a troop of cavalry while passing Jaruco beach and two men were seen to drop on the beach.

San Francisco, May 3.—In response to a telegram volunteering his services, Col. John S. Mosby, of this city, has received a letter from Gen. Miles to the effect that the commander in chief had already recommended him in connection with the raising of troops in the south.

Young Girls Fading Away.

Symptoms that seem like consumption; a lack of blood; friends feared one girl would fall dead on the street; restored to health by a sensible woman's suggestion.

Many girls of sixteen years seem to have consumption, although they have it not.

Their anxious parents and friends watch them slowly fade away.

A death-like pallor, transparent complexion and listlessness are signs of this condition.

The body lacks blood.

Mrs. John Tansey knows the meaning of these symptoms, and the cure.

She lives at 130 Baker Street, Detroit, Mich.

Her advice to mothers has been of great value to her neighbors. She tells the story to help others who are at a distance.

She said:

"When my daughter was sixteen years old she began to waste away.

"Had I not known there was no taint of consumption in the family I would have believed her lungs were affected.

"She grew thinner and thinner every day. She lacked only the hacking cough to show all the outward signs of consumption.

"Our doctor called the disease by an odd name, which I learned meant simply weak blood.

"No treatment seemed to do her any good.

"She was fading away before our eyes.

"I was induced to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and the change they made was almost magical.

"Before she had taken half a box there was a great improvement in her looks, appetite and weight.

"She gained strength rapidly. Soon she was in perfect health.

"Since then I have kept Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in the house always and have done much good with them.

"One example:

"There is a young girl friend of my daughter who seemed almost transparent.

"She was white and very thin. We were afraid she would fall dead in the street when she went out.

"I begged her to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and finally induced her to try them. They helped her wonderfully, probably saved her life and restored her to perfect health. Now she is recommending them to other young women.

"I earnestly advise mothers with growing daughters to keep Dr. Williams' Pink Pills always on hand as a household remedy.

Many women's lives are miserable because such symptoms as Mrs. Tansey's daughter showed were neglected while she were developing into womanhood. During that period of rapid development the blood needs the highest degree of strength to repair the tissues that are rapidly wasted.

These needed elements are supplied by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. The vegetable ingredients of these pills act like magic in restoring strength to the muscles and roses to the cheeks of growing girls or adults weakened by overwork.

All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They cost 50 cents a box; six boxes $2.50.

MACON CENTER.

Sickness, sorrow and death for the last few weeks have been in many of the families in our community. Taking there from one after another of the pioneers of our township, this time it invaded the home of Asel Russell calling to his final resting place the husband and father. Asel Russell was born in Perry, O., June 8, 1832, died April 23, 1898, at his home in Macon where he had lived for many years. He came to Michigan with his parents when but one year old, living in Ridgeway and Macon until death. He had been married twice leaving two children by the first marriage, Mrs. Herbert Boyd, of Evans Lake, and Edward M., a young man of twenty-one, at home. Nearly twelve years ago he was married to Mrs. Julia D. Freer, of Ridgeway, who now survives him. To them was born one son, George A. now ten years of age. Mr. Russell had been in poor health for several years the effect of grip resulting in congestion of the brain. He was a kind husband and loving father and will be greatly missed by his many friends.

What Oth rs Say About it.

It gives me pleasure to express my faith in Carter's Cascara Cordial, which is the only medicine I ever take or recommend. During a time when I was greatly overworked I was persuaded by a friend to try the Cordial. I am happy to say immediately began to realize tonic and blood-nourishing effects. I have in my travels recommended it to many people, and personally know of several cases where the Cordial has effected a cure when the doctors have failed.

Full reports of the war news will be found in other parts of the paper, complete in detail up to the hour of going to press. It now looks as if another victory like that of the battle of Manilla will finish the war, and it is to be hoped that this victory will come soon.

The present city administration is doing good work in many ways. The marshal is watching for offenders of the law. The contract made with the Electric Light Co. is a good one and will save the village a good sum of money, but in the health department there is no improvement. Scavengers of outbuildings are allowed to operate their machines in the day time, when all such work should be done at night. Yes, and worst of all, these men come from Adrian where such work is never allowed till after 10 p. m. The alleys reak with the stench of last year's garbage while the chairman of the health committee is gone to war and the health officer remains dormant.

Tecumseh is usually in the front rank no matter what is going on. Her soldier boys responded to the call to shoulder their muskets and go to war to a man. These boys are now at camp doing their duty like men with no idea but to go to the front and fight when orders come. The HERALD is ashamed to say that Co. "C" is the only company in the state which left home without some kind of a remembrance from the people of the town, even Adrian remembered their boys with cash for uniforms for the officers and a nice purse of money. These boys are not playing; it is hard work, even in camp. Should not we who stay at home do something to make their camp life pleasanter? Who will start the list?

Letter from Camp Eaton.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Camp Eaton, Island Lake,
May 4.

It is only a week ago yesterday since we arrived in camp, yet it seems twice as long. So much takes place between reveille at 5:30 and taps at 10:30 that it makes a day seem long indeed. The weather has been variable, and a severe test upon the endurance of the men. Last night was especially severe. It was as cold as a night in November. The boys of Co. C, however, are standing it very well. Some of them have bad colds which are unavoidable but nothing serious up to date.

The boys are drilling hard every day and holding their own as one of the best drilled companies in the whole brigade. Their guard mount last Friday morning was the occasion for many compliments from the officers of the 1st regiment.

There has probably been in the last week no less than a dozen different rumors as to where the Michigan troops will be sent, but, as a matter of fact, none of them are authentic. They will not leave here for some time at least, and their ultimate destination is uncertain. The medical examinations began yesterday and will consume a great deal of time. While not as severe as a regular army examination, a man will have to be in pretty good physical condition to pass. Monday the company held a meeting in the mess tent, the object of which was to ascertain how many of the company would volunteer for the U. S. service, providing our company organization could be preserved. Lieut. Wood gave the boys a good talk and, when at the close of his remarks, those who would not volunteer were asked to rise to their feet, not a man arose. The boys then gave three cheers for Lieut. Wood, and the other officers of Co. C. There has been a great deal of newspaper talk of late in regard to the 1st Regiment being mustered out or divided. I am authorized to state to the readers of the HERALD that when the 1st regiment goes to the front, it will go practically intact.

Sunday was a day eagerly looked forward to by every man in camp and when the trains began to arrive loaded to the steps with excursionists they were greeted by hundreds of the boys in blue. The Advance Guard from Tecumseh consisted of Comfort Chase, Don Bowen, Willis Love, Bert Lawrence and George Field who came on wheels and arrived about 11 a. m. There were other starters, but owing to the fearful condition of the roads, failed to finish. The excursion from Tecumseh was about two hours late in getting here, but quite previous in leaving at night as some found to their sorrow. The boys were delighted to see their friends and relatives and were kept busy showing them the sights of camp. The day was mild and pleasant, interspersed with light showers which did no damage, but about 6 p. m. a soaking rain fell, lasting nearly half an hour and thoroughly drenching those who were not fortunate enough to get into tents or buildings adjacent to the camp. It was estimated that 15,000 visitors were here Sunday.

The men from Co. C, who came home last week, were not sent home because of inability to pass a physical examination. The examinations only began yesterday. It was simply a case of flunk. There is one honorable exception and that is the case of Allen Titus. The rest, including Honley and Rogers, of Clinton, Awls of Bridgewater, and Wright, of Ridgeway, found things were getting too serious. They were given the chance to get out which they accepted. The boys, who are staying here ready for duty wherever it may be, don't object to these men being out of the company; in fact they are glad they are out, but they do object to being placed in a false light by the stories told by these men at home. There are men here who have sacrificed more in coming than these men ever could, and they naturally feel indignant at their efforts to pose in an honorable light before the people at home.

The HERALDS arrived Saturday noon and were distributed among the boys who eagerly perused the news from home. Below is a copy of a letter which explains itself:

TO WHOM PRESENTED: This is to certify that Mr. R. B. Hughes is employed as stenographer and engineman's timekeeper in this department and that he has been granted an indefinite leave of absence. He leaves to serve his country in response to the call to arms, and in the same spirit of patriotism which prompts him to go, I ask my successor to protect his position during his absence, re-instating him immediately on his return.

Yours truly,
C. C. RUPPEL,
Chief Clerk, Mechanical Dept., D. & L. N. R'y.

Ernest Welch and Bert Nichols have both been granted a leave of absence. Saturday night Ernest Wright, of Ridgeway, was attacked with a severe case of flunks, some of the boys thought a hair cut would relieve him so they proceeded to give him one. It was cut very well—in some places and sadly neglected in others. The boys say if Art Pocklington and Walter Lowry had been here, they would have got the same dose.

A postal card from L. C. Hayden was received by Captain Hayden this morning announcing the sad news that his sister Mabel was dying. The card was read at dinner by Sergt. Hastings and resolutions expressive of sympathy were adopted by the company. I will try and have a complete roster of the company next week. We are enlisting new men most every day.

Camp Eaton, Island Lake, May 5.

Bert Nichols, who was granted leave of absence, was taken seriously ill yesterday with pleuro-pneumonia and left for home last night accompanied by Brigade Hospital Steward D. T. Hall.

Ernest Welch returned to camp last night and brought the night caps donated to the company by the ladies of Anderson's dry goods store. It was a sight to see the boys arrayed in their fantastic headgear. The notes enclosed created much amusement and the boys extend a vote of thanks to the ladies for their thoughtfulness and generosity.

Enroute to Alaska.—Letter No. 5.

Sheep's Camp, Alaska,
April 8, 1898.

We are still in this place for we have not been able to get out yet, on account of the bad weather and snow slides. We expect to go on tomorrow if nothing happens to prevent. The snow slide that I wrote you about was more serious than we thought when it first occurred. There has been taken out up to last night forty nine bodies, and there is known to be missing over twenty more men, and no doubt there are others buried who were traveling alone, or who were supposed to have gone on over the summit, but were caught this side. There has been no travel up the trail since the snow slide until yesterday, as there were hundreds of men shoveling over the snow to recover the bodies. It is a hard task to shovel that snow all over, and impossible to find all the men now, as the slide covers several acres and is twenty-five feet deep in some places. The committee who had this matter in charge have now decided that it will be best to wait till the snow goes off before looking for more bodies. There has been no more slides since and I hope there will not be.

I have had only the one letter from home yet, although there must be several on the road for me, and perhaps I will get them some of these days. I shall write to you though, every time I get a chance and hope they will reach you all right. You had better direct to Dyea till further notice, as I can send out there every few days for mail. There is no post-office here, but there is a company here who take letters to Dyea for five cents, and bring letters back for ten cents each. Our next stop I expect will be at Lake Linderman, and I understand the same company carry letters to that point for twenty five cents each. so perhaps I will hear from you when I get there if not before. We have been well and enjoyed ourselves the best we could here, but that terrible snow slide put a damper on us. We often read of such things happening and give it a passing thought but to be right on the spot and help take them out and see twenty five or thirty bodies lying in a row for identification, is quite another thing. I went to the morgue several times to see if Will Ross or any of his friends were there, or if any of the other boys I had gotten acquainted with were there, but was glad not to find them. I have seen Will since and he said he was doing the same thing, was afraid I was there. It didn't seem to make any difference with the saloons and dance houses, for they were running full blast and as gay as ever.

Good bye.

GEO. W. KNAPP.

Edward Frensdorf shows his patroitism in a substantial manner by offering to maintain the salaries of any or all of his employees who go to war, and giving them their former positions on their return. This is quite a generous offer when it is taken into consideration that Mr. Frensdorf has an average of 40 men in his employ all the time.—Hudson Gazette.

CAMP EATON'S VISITORS.

By Wheel, On Foot and Otherwise to See the Soldier Boys.

About 4 o'clock last Sunday morning one might have seen a number of wheelmen straggling one at a time toward the Lima depot, from which place a cycling party was soon to start for Island Lake to spend the day with Co. C. The weather was far from propitious and it was with many misgivings that the little band of ten riders finally mounted their silent steeds and pedaled away toward the rising sun and a coming shower. And it might be well to add that the party encountered a very juicy apportionment of the latter and little of the former in their onward course. However, the sky cleared and for the first nine miles everything was lovely. Then came another shower and a wet one too.

Just before reaching Saline one of the party became seasick and dropped by the wayside, but soon recovered, worked up his war spirit and represented the tail coach into Ann Arbor where all did adequate justice to an ample breakfast and in an hour started forth once more with the invalid as good as new. From this place to Whitmore the rain had been harder and the cycle paths were of the right consistency for mud pies and just about as agreeable to the taste for everyone tried a little of it though rather unwillingly.

Meantime the crowd had been swelled by other victims and when anyone took a spill into the mire he unvariably had company. The climax was reached, however, when about 200 devoted Knights and Ladies of the Pedal, for there were a few of the latter, came to a standstill in a convenient swamp and each one endeavored to force the mud-encased tires through the forks, and from the amount of soil scraped off it would seem that the elevation of that particular spot must be several inches higher than before.

From Whitmore the roads were much better though hilly and two and a half miles from camp a chain parted, and when almost in sight another one went likewise so that the finish occupied about an hour. However, we beat the train in by two hours and were happy.

The train finally arrived and we found that we were not the only miserables in the land for they had troubles of their own, having been standing out in the country enjoying the scenery while a locomotive was found to pull them into the station.

Yet after everyone was there they were well repaid by their visit with the boys who were all hale, hearty and hospitable, and enjoying themselves finely considering the weather which is anything but conducive to sun strokes. Bonfires are built every night to help spring along and the boys are numerous enough in every tent to keep each other warm.

It has been estimated that at least 15,000 people witnessed the various regimental dress parades at 4 o'clock and it is hardly necessary to add that C company was one of the finest in the parade. Four of our cyclists wheeled back accompanied by some who came over the previous day, but of their adventures some one else must tell. The remaining portion placed their wheels in the baggage car and, as the train pulled out 20 minutes ahead of time, the wheels went, the boys didn't, neither did about 75 more of our excursionists who stood in the rain and thought—and thought. But all things have an ending, the Ann Arbor trainmen kindly telegraphed the advance train at Ann Arbor, held them there and then hauled the lost ones to that place. Taken all in all we got there and back as we have said before—by wheel, on foot, and otherwise.

DE PROFUNDIS.

A Tecumseh Brave.

Away back in the forties there was a blacksmithing firm in this town known as Gove & Gridley and to the junior partner and his wife were born two sons George and Charley.

Charley as a school boy was a fighter and though small refused to be run over by boys twice his size and to knock a chip from his shoulder meant active hostilities at once. He and Henry Bissel were great chums and many are the escapades and boyish trouble which they shared. The Gridley family lived at this time where the Friends' church now stands and the boys attended Mrs. Griffin's private school which stood on the present site of Geo. Tiffany's residence.

When about a dozen years of age young Gridley moved with his family to Hillsdale and later to Coldwater. He was selected to attend the Annapolis Navel Academy from Michigan and was appointed an Ensign, Sept. 20, 1860 from which position he was promoted from time to time until in the naval report of 1896 we find him with title of commander and inpsector of the 10th lighthouse district, ranking 63rd among 500 commander of the U. S. Navy. Sunday morning when Commodord Dewey opened fire on the fortifications of Manilla, our old Tecumseh boy, Chas. V. Gridley was captain in command of the Olympia, the flag ship of the Asiatic squadron of the U. S. navy and with his boyhood fighting qualities helped to silence the guns of Carite fortress and wipe a hostile fleet out of existence.

Financial Letter.

Chicago, May 4, 1898.

There was great excitement in the wheat pit today, and both May and July registered the best prices yet credited to them, the former selling at 131 and July at 98 5-8, the latter being the closing quotations.

The sharp rise was caused by higher cables and the fact that May was bid up by some shorts, whose actions stampeded the July bears and caused the final quotations to be the high for the day.

In corn there was a great deal of strength, but it came wholly from sympathy with wheat, as the situation of corn is not regarded as any stronger than it was when prices were much below the present plane. There was a fairly good cash demand, and as long as wheat holds its present level, it is natural to suppose that corn will not materially depreciate in price.

Provisions, although very strong, were a rather narrow market. The buying which has given lard such a bulge in the last few days has been done by a single interest, and while the trade des not dispute that the posit ion thus taken may be the correct one, it has thus far stood aloof from the buying side. The price range in wheat today was as follows:

	High.	Low.	Close.
May,	131	121	130
July,	98 5-8	95 1-4	98 5-8

RAILROAD NEWS.

Notes and Condensations Concerning the Railroads.

Considerable complaint has reached this office in regard to the excursion to Island Lake last Sunday. It seems the train carrying the Lima coaches left the station at the lake 20 minutes ahead of time and the greater number of the Tecumseh and Adrian contingents were left, but were taken on the T. & A. section and caught their own train at Ann Arbor. Ollie Hunt was in charge of the excursion from this way and Wednesday was in town and explained the reason for leaving ahead of time. The Lima train being the last one into camp, was standing nearest the station all day and had the best opportunity to get out. When the rain commenced, people made a wild rush for shelter and in a few minutes this train was jammed full and the train master ordered it out. Mr. Hunt supposing they would take a siding, was carried along leaving his crew behind. After considerable trouble, most of the remaining crowd were got aboard the Ann Arbor section as stated before. The change of arrangements was naturally confusing, but after all was the means of saving a couple of hours in getting home, as the yards were so congested with trains, that many did not clear until along in the night, and the Wabash excursionists did not get into Adrian until the next day. While some of our people got left in Ann Arbor, that was their own lookout as they knew the train would move on orders.

It is reported that the traffic departments of the Cincinnati Northern and the Detroit, Toledo & Milwaukee will be consolidated. In that event, General Freight and Passenger Agent Fred Whipple will pe put at the head of the two roads, and the headquarters will be moved to Toledo. The story could not be confirmed, however, at the headquarters of the D. T. & M., and is not generally believed. Still the rumor continues to bob up ever since General Freight Agent Cook, of the Cincinnati Southern, resigned. Mr. Cook has gone to Klondike with a party of gold hunters.—Blade.

The D. & L. N. Ry. will run an excursion to Columbus, O., Sunday to visit the Ohio National Guard camp. This will be worth seeing as the camp numbers 10,000 soldiers. The train will leave this station at 3:15 a. m. Sunday morning and the returning train will leave Columbus at 7:00 p. m., after the dress parade. Fare for the round trip $1. 50.

The steam shovel is busy digging dirt for filling in the big trestle east of the yard, but the hole is big and the amount of filling is immense.

A change in the depot yard management May 1st, throws Jas. A. Boyd out of a job.

IS A GREAT SOLDIER.

Maj. Gen. Miles, Commanding the Armies of the United States.

He Is Respected by Regular as Well as Volunteer Troops—His Marvelous Success as an Indian Fighter.

[Special Washington Letter.]

MAJ. GEN. NELSON A. MILES, commanding the armies of of the United States, is very popular with all soldiers who have served with him. The regular as well as the volunteer soldiers admire and respect him.

"I served under Gen. Miles at one time," said an army officer on duty in the war department, "and I have great respect and admiration for him. I think that you may say that all the officers and men who have ever been on duty with Gen. Miles respect and admire him for his manly qualities, superb courage, military genius and perfect integrity.

"One thing you may emphasize, and that is the fact that all young West Pointers who have served with Miles love him and swear by him. He has had the loyal and earnest support as well as the affection of the young officers who have been so fortunate as to see actual campaigning with Miles as their commander. His strongest friends in the army to-day are West Pointers. The old prejudice against volunteer officers is fast dying out. It is dead, so far as Gen. Miles is concerned. I am a West Pointer myself, and I tell you not even Napoleon had the confidence and admiration of his soldiers more than Gen. Miles has had from his officers and men, and I am one of them who would cheerfully obey any order coming from him, no matter what peril might be in the immediate future for me.

"Do you know that Gen. Miles never lost a battle in his life, either in the civil war, or during his Indian campaigns? When we were on the frontier, with Indians outnumbering us ten to one, it was necessary to send out small detachments to attract large hostile bands. On such occasions officers and men asked but one question, and that was: 'Will Gen. Miles lead us?' And when they were informed that Miles would be with us, there was no hesitation, no doubt, no questioning, but every man felt assured that victory would result, and we were never disappointed. Our commander challenged admiration for his activity and gallant leadership. He always led us in every fight. He never sought to shield himself. He is absolutely without fear of anything mortal. In the Nez Perces campaign officers begged him not to expose himself, because there was a general dread that all might be massacred if he should fall.

"Gen Miles always dressed in a picturesque style when on the frontier. He wore a broad sombrero, blue shirt, red tie, buckskin coat and trousers, fringed, with a belt around his waist in which were pistols and a large knife. He was as well equipped for personal struggle and danger as Buffalo Bill or any other ranger. He is one of the bravest of the brave, and I have seen him under fire with his officers and men; always cool, always aggressive, and ready for every emergency.

"Just after the Custer massacre Gen. Miles took 225 men and went after Sitting Bull and Crazy Horse, who, with 3,000 bucks, had settled down for the winter. That was a daring undertaking, but Gen. Miles captured those Indians who at that time regarded themselves invincible.

"As an illustration of his carefulness and keenness in dealing with the Indians, you might mention the peace talk which he had with Sitting Bull at Cedar creek. The wily and dangerous Sioux leader sent a flag of truce for the purpose of arranging terms of capitulation. Gen. Miles and Sitting Bull were to meet midway between the lines of Sioux and the Fifth infantry, and have a nice quiet little peace talk. According to the plans they met and held a conference. Within a few moments a big Sioux buck sauntered out toward the general and chief, and came very close to them. At the same time, by a previous order issued by Gen. Miles, one of the infantrymen sauntered out, and also approached the parleying commanders. Then another Indian quietly sauntered forth, and at the same time one of the infantrymen imitated him. This continued until there were six Sioux bucks and six infantrymen surrounding Gen. Miles and Sitting Bull. Gen. Miles then said: 'You are a bad Indian. All of your bucks here are armed. They have weapons under their blankets. You intended to kill me here in cold blood. If any one of your men pulls a trigger one of my men will kill you right in your tracks.' The old chief had no desire to go suddenly to the happy hunting grounds, and warned his men to return to their places. One by one they retired, and one by one the infantrymen returned to their ranks.

"Gen. Miles then said: 'Now, I will give you five minutes to surrender. If you do not do so I will open fire on your band and annihilate you.' Sitting Bull turned away, saying: 'I have enough men here, as you see, to wipe out your entire army.' Gen. Miles repeated the remark, that in five minutes he would open fire unless the band surrendered. Sitting Bull went back to his camp, delayed beyond the allotted time, and Gen. Miles promptly ordered his troops forward. The soldiers of the Fifth infantry understood their work, and followed their commander. The battle was not a prolonged one, for Sitting Bull was defeated and surrendered.

"Gen. Miles is a hard rider. He is an athlete. He is tall, erect, soldierly in appearance, a splendid horseman and a perfect marksman either with a rifle or a revolver. He rides a bicycle and rides it well. He is a swimmer, boxer and all around emergency man, no matter where he may be placed. Buffalo Bill says there never was such a perfectly equipped man for Indian fighting in the entire army.

"The Nez Perces chief, Joseph, who was one of the greatest of Indian leaders, had been pursued by several vigorous fighters, with good commands, and had eluded all of them. When Gen. Miles, however, followed him and surrounded him, and when the old chief realized that he had been out-generaled in his own style of warfare, and in his own country, he expressed amazement and said: 'Who is this new chief that has outwitted me? I know it must be a new chief, for the others are children.'

"By the way, I do not believe that any general could learn from books, or under any instruction procure, the aptitude for the disposition of troops which seems intuitive with Gen. Miles. In the same Nez Perces campaign, I recollect his promptness of action when he came up with the Nez Perces and found them entrenched. The country was new to Gen. Miles. He had never been there before. But, glancing over the country, using his field glass, and asking a few questions of the guides, he began immediately the disposition of his troops, and moved them with such precision and celerity that Chief Joseph was outwitted and outgeneraled with such dazzling quickness that he uttered the remark above quoted. Coming from a man of the undoubted ability of Joseph, I have always regarded that remark as one of the greatest compliments that has ever been paid to Gen. Miles as an Indian fighter.

"Grover Cleveland was president when Gen. Schofield retired. Do you know that there are no two men in this republic who ought to have greater admiration for each other than ex-President Cleveland and Gen. Miles. Their lives have been parallel in civil and military life.

"While Grover Cleveland was a poor boy, sweeping the office for Lawyer Bowers, in Buffalo, Nelson A. Miles was a poor boy clerking in a store in Boston. Grover Cleveland possessed exceptional ability and sturdy qualities, and Lawyer Bowers took him into his home and into his office and encouraged his early struggles. Using military terms, I may say that Grover Cleveland passed through all grades of promotion in civil life, just as Gen. Miles has passed through all the grades of promotion in military life. Just as the poor boy in Buffalo was entering upon the practice of the law, the poor boy in Boston was entering upon the military profession. Strangers to each other, they were struggling along the pathway of life; and their lives were running in parallels, each of them achieving a distinction and success by sheer native ability and merit. Each of them possessed the genius of labor, and they toiled and plodded along, each honestly doing his best in his own sphere, and then their lives converged and they came together in the national capital. The poor boy of Buffalo was chief executive, and the poor boy of Boston became commander of the army."

MAJ. GEN. NELSON A. MILES, U. S. A.

MICHIGAN BOYS IN CAMP.

In Training at Island Lake for Much Harder Service at the Front.

ALL EAGER TO BE ORDERED TO GO SOUTH

Volunteers Are to Be Organized Into Four Regiments Only—Thousands of Persons Visit the Camp on Sunday—Adjt. Gen. Irish May Be Made a Brigadier General.

Detroit, May 1.—Michigan's national guard, 3,000 officers and men, are now quartered at Camp Eaton, Island Lake, 42 miles from this city, where they are waiting to be enlisted in the volunteer service of the United States. At present it is a regimental encampment in order to give the colonels freedom in handling their men in field service. The camp is magnificently situated on a large open stretch of ground, long used for encampments. After four days of tent life a marked change has come over the soldiers, and they look at the present probationary period in a serious light, working faithfully with the feeling that they are preparing themselves for active service.

Limited Equipment.

The necessity of keeping the national guard up to a high standard was never so fully exemplified as when the quartermaster's department was called upon to equip the soldiers. This proved to be an impossibility, owing to the short supply of almost everything needed. The lack of overcoats and blankets was especially felt, and the hardships of camp life were forced upon the citizen-soldiers rather suddenly. A limited supply of blankets was secured, and orders were placed for overcoats, uniforms, haversacks, cartridges, shoes and other equipments, to be delivered as soon as possible.

Companies in Full Quota.

About every company in the brigade was recruited to its full strength before coming to camp, and some of them brought more men than is allowed by law, with the result that the extra men were obliged to return home. The men are anxious to learn something definite about the future, as most of them would rather move south than be kept in camp all summer. The United States mustering officers are expected within a day or two but there will undoubtedly be some trouble on the score of volunteering. Ninety per cent. of the soldiers now here intend to volunteer, but all of the regiments have a proviso that their regimental and company formation, as constituted at present, must remain intact.

The routine of camp life is seemingly enjoyable to the men, notwithstanding the fact that they are kept busy drilling all day, and no pass is extended beyond "taps." A detail watches all trains going to neighboring towns at night, and the announcement at the outset that any who did not wish to be thorough soldiers would be dismissed has had a good effect. There are so many young men throughout the state who are so anxious to join the forces if given an opportunity that all are anxious to hold their positions.

Where They Hail From.

Of the men now in camp Detroit furnishes nearly 700 and Grand Rapids about 350, while the following cities have each a company: Coldwater, Kalamazoo, Battle Creek, Grand Haven, Ionia, Flint, Alpena, Bay City, Saginaw (West side) Saginaw (East side) Port Huron, Owosso, Cheboygan, Monroe, Big Rapids, Manistee, Muskegon, Calumet, Iron Mountain, Houghton, Sault Ste. Marie and Ironwood.

One Regiment Must Disband.

Camp Eaton, Island Lake, May 1.—Gen. Irish says the Michigan volunteers must be organized into four regiments, each 12 companies strong. That is final, as no way could be found to substitute five regiments. One regimental organization must be broken up. The other regiments are now suggesting that the Fourth ought to be the one to go and be amalgamated with the other regiments, because it has no colonel. That would leave Detroit unrepresented in the First brigade of volunteers by a regiment of its own.

The latest rumor about the Fourth is that the four companies of the First battalion would rather be divided between the Second and Third infantry than be commanded by Col. Gardener. By breaking up the battalion; Col. Gardener would find but four companies in his regiment at camp. However, the other four companies would not be hard to obtain. Col. Herbst, of the governor's staff, has 150 drilled men in the Detroit Gray's battalion, and all are anxious to enlist. He says he can make the number 300 if necessary. Detroit is full of other independent companies, which would pay their own expenses to come to Island lake to enlist.

Lieut. Col. McLeod, brigade surgeon, and all medical officers of the different regiments, report this encampment an exceptional one in respect to the health of the men. There are only six men in the hospital, all but one with trivial ailments. Private Clemts, of Bay City, who has been suffering with pneumonia, contracted before his arrival, is much better and improving fast.

According to the latest order received by Adjt. Gen. Irish from Secretary Alger over 1,000 more volunteers will be needed at Island lake to make up the deficiency and to fill the places made vacant by rejected members of the national guard. A great many of this 1,000 will come from Detroit.

Sunday in Camp.

Detroit, May 1.—All railroads in this state led to Island lake Sunday, and Michigan paid her farewell tribute to her regiments in camp there. From Detroit alone 10,000 persons took advantage of the excursion to say goodby to their loved ones. The gathering was augmented by from 5,000 to 7,000 persons from other quarters of the state. The scenes that marked the march through the streets in this city last Tuesday were reenacted Sunday with additional pathos, for some day this week the boys in blue will leave for the south to enter into actual service in the present war. The occasion was not one of joyous levity, but one of solemnity. Michigan never before saw such a day.

It rained all day at intervals, and the tents of the line officers and privates were filled by visitors during the showers. At four o'clock the Second infantry, under the command of Col. McGurrin, gave a dress parade on the headquarters parade ground. The three other regiments and two independent battalions gave regimental and battalion parades in the drill grounds at the west end of the camp.

Gen. Irish in Favor.

Detroit, April 30.—A special from Washington says: "The indications about the war department appear to be that if anybody gets an appointment from Michigan as a brigadier general of volunteers it will be Adjt. Gen. Irish, of Gov. Pingree's staff. It is also hinted that Gen. Nathan Church, of Ithaca, Mich., is to go upon Gen. Miles' staff because of the long friendship between Miles and Church."

[Edwin M. Irish, who, by reason of appointment as adjutant general of Michigan, is the principal military officer of the state, is about 47 years old. Enlisting as a private in the Kalamazoo militia company, he rose by grades, becoming a captain and then colonel of the Second regiment. Gov. Pingree made him adjutant general. Gen. Irish is a lawyer. He is credited with the chief responsibility for the increased efficiency of the state's militia service.]

WAR BONDS.

An Issue of $200,000 Soon to Be Placed on the Market by State Treasurer Steel.

Lansing, April 28.—State Treasurer Steel will at once place on the market $200,000 of war bonds. At the recent special session of the legislature an issue of $500,000 was authorized, but the entire amount will not be offered unless occasion requires. Of the first issue one-half will be $1,000 and the balance $100 bonds. The former will be payable at the National Park bank, New York, and it is expected that the latter will be sold in small lots to citizens of Michigan. All will be ten-year bonds, with the privilege to the state to pay after five years. All will bear interest at the rate of 3½ per cent.

Lansing, May 3.—Subscriptions were opened at the state treasury Monday night to the Michigan war loan at $101 for each $100 bond, the issue to be $100,000. The bonds will bear three and one-half per cent. interest from May 1 and are due in ten years, but are payable after five years at the pleasure of the state.

FRUIT MEN HAPPY.

Indications Are That the Crop in the Fruit Belt Will Be Unusually Large This Year.

St. Joseph, May 3.—Reports from various points in the fruit belt, covering the territory from Benton Harbor to Shelby, indicate a big crop of fruit this season. The winter was exceptionally favorable for all kinds of fruit trees, vines and shrubs, and with May 1 at hand not a single set back has yet occurred to mar the prospects. The trees in the southern part of the belt are now in full bloom, and in this section the buds are far advanced and some of them are already out. By next week the orchards will be in full blossom, and the hillsides north and west of this city will seem covered with white and pink. The fruit package manufacturers are making preparations for a heavy demand for baskets, boxes and crates.

BEQUEST FOR ANN ARBOR.

Dr. Elizabeth H. Bates, of Port Chester, N. Y., Gives University of Michigan $135,000.

Ann Arbor, May 4.—Dr. Elizabeth H. Bates, of Port Chester, N. Y., has made a bequest of $135,000 to the University of Michigan, the income therefrom to go to the establishment of a chair in the medical department devoted to diseases of women and children, to be known as the Bates professorship. At first Mrs. Bates intended to give this money to Harvard, but friends in the west persuaded her to remember the University of Michigan. The bequest was announced by President Hutchins at a meeting of the literary faculty. It was hailed with delight and they are looking for more of the same nature. The estate is expected to yield at least $6,000 a year.

Sent to Prison.

Adrian, May 1.—James E. Dunn, of Howell, married 20-year-old Ella Richardson, an inmate of the Industrial Home for Girls, and was sentenced to Ionia for one year by Judge Smith for so doing. Girls of that institution cannot marry except by consent of the board of control. This is the first case.

Awarded Damages.

Benton Harbor, May 1.—Mrs. Ella M. Lang, of this city, has been awarded $2,500 in a $10,000 damage suit against the H. W. Williams Transportation company for the loss of her husband, Joseph M. Lang, who perished in the burning of the steamer City of Kalamazoo at South Haven, November, 1896.

New Mine at Houghton.

Houghton, May 1.—Capt. W. A. Dunn, who opened the Baltic mine, will shortly begin mining operations on the South side property just west of Houghton. He hopes to discover the Pewabic lode, a continuation to the southward of the vein on which the Quincy and Franklin mines are opened.

Mill in Ashes.

Allentown, Pa., April 30.—The roller flour mill at Catasauqua, operated by Meuser & Cressman, was completely destroyed by fire Friday. The loss will amount to nearly $100,000.

WHAT'S IN A NAME.

Many Times Nothing---Some times a Fund of Knowledge.

It's a good old saying, and a true one too, "Know all men by their works." The public have been imposed upon so many times by unscrupulous claims made for selfish means of profit, they look for something more substantial; they ask for deeds. The little conqueror has earned the reputation made in Michigan and no imposter can steal it. From north to south, from east to west, in every city, town and hamlet in the state, people stand ready to testify to merit. Gratitude for comfort brought to thousands of homes brings emphatic rejoicings and words of praise, the like of which has not been equalled in modern times. Is it a wonder the name Doan is a familiar one in every household? Is it surprising the public appreciate Doan's Kidney Pills and will not be led astray by the ingenious efforts of would be competitors? A Detroit citizen tells here why the name of Doan is dear to him: Mr. R. N. Elliott, of 143 High street, Detroit, says: "My knowledge of Doan's Kidney Pills dates back to five years ago. I was then living in the town where Dr. Doan was located. I was tortured with kidney troubles and inflammatory rheumatism. The doctor prescribed the pills for me which have since become so justly famous. Their use quickly eliminated the uric acid from my system and with its departure came the cure of the rheumatism and the end of the kidney troubles. It took but a few boxes to accomplish this end and I feel that I owe Dr. Doan an everlasting debt of gratitude for prescribing such a valuable remedy. I have taken great pleasure in recommending this medicine to a number of my friends. I always keep a box of these pills on hand so that should I take a severe cold and feel that it is settling on my kidneys a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills relieves all apprehension."

England's Attitude toward America.

The British press and public were a little slow in getting thoroughly waked up about the Cuban question and the impending conflict between the United States and Spain. But nothing could have been more clear-sighted, fair-minded, and in general, also, well-informed, than the views that had been adopted by almost the entire United Kingdom as the situation grew acute in April. The firm friendship of the British Government has been highly appreciated by our authorities at Washington and by American public opinion at large. This friendship—which has not involved any failure on the part of Great Britian to treat Spain with all the courtesy that has been due to her as also a friendly nation—has in point of fact been of more real use and satisfaction to us in America than a treaty of alliance could have been. For if the rapprochement between England and America had been too marked we might have been embarrassed in our friendly relations with some of the continental powers, and thus a coalition might have been provoked for the benefit of Spain. All that we wanted from England was courtesy, fair play and an open-minded readiness to believe that we were not acting without ample reason or proper motives. It is precisely this treatment that we have in fact received; and it will not be forgotten. Our traditional friendship with Russia remains undisturbed, and it might be a fortunate thing upon the whole for the peace and progress of the whole world if the steadily growing friendship between England and the United States should be accompanied by a similar growth of friendly relations between the British empire and Russia. Although in another paragraph we have frankly deprecated the joint action of the powers in addressing the United States Government on the Cuban question, it is certainly to be admitted that Sir Julian Pauncefote's consent to accompany the other ambassadors was very tactful, inasmuch as Spain was thus left without any excuse or reason for complaining that England was openly siding with the United States.—From "The Progress of the World," in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for May.

The Arena for May is accented with strong and characteristic features. Every live citizen of our country should not fail to read John Clark Ridpath's stirring, instructive and most truthful paper, President McKinley and the Waldorf-Astorian Revel. We should also recommend that President McKinley give the article a careful perusal. The leading article, entitled The Great Slave Power, by Senator William M. Stewart, of Nevada, sets forth and emphasizes the analogy of the money despotism in America to the systems of human slavery which formerly prevailed, demonstrating the more intolerable pressure of the former. Mary Lowe Dickinson presents an appreciative review of the life and work of the philanthropist Frances E. Willard. George Clark, Ph. D., contributes an interesting paper on The Novel-Reading Habit, and Rev. Andrew W. Cross discusses in a happy bit of criticism The Humerous Characteristics of the Scot.

An exchange says that in a neighboring town a girl waved her hand at a stranger and in three days they were married. Three days later the young wife waved a flat iron at her husband, and the next night he came home waving a divorce. "What are the wild waves saying?"

A BACKWARD SPRING

Brings Blood Diseases, Nervous Derangements and Chronic Catarrh.

Never was there a greater demand for spring medicines—something to cleanse the blood, strengthen the nerves, or regulate the digestion. Is there any medicine so good for these purposes as Pe-ru-na? Thousands of doctors, druggists and tens of thousands of people of all classes and vocations have long ago decided this question—that Pe-ru-na has no equal in these cases. Poor shrunken dyspeptics become strong, vigorous and hearty after a few bottles of it. People who are blotched, pimpled and sallow and sluggish never fail to find a course of Pe-ru-na to clear the skin, invigorate the system and enrich the blood. Chronic catarrh in all phases and stages, cases that have defied the best of treatment for many years, take a few bottles of Pe-ru-na to their entire relief. Nervousness, debility, weaknesses of both sexes, sleeplessness, irritability, despondency, hypochondria, all these disappear when Pe-ru-na is used according to directions.

One of the most instructive books on chronic catarrh ever furnished free is being sent by the Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio. This book is very instructively illustrated with expensive drawings, and will be sent free to any address.

Richard Clarkson.

Who not long ago was so suddenly called "from his home below to his home above," was born in Lodi township, Seneca county, New York, on the 28th day of May, 1823, and came with his parents to Michigan in 1831. The family settled in Macon, Daniel Clarkson, the father, establishing the homestead where Mr. and Mrs. James Clarkson now reside. Boyhood experiences in the primeval forests and in the pioneer home remained vividly impressed on the memory of Richard and often furnished most acceptable material for the entertainment and information of his friends.

He was married on the 10th of November, 1854, to the daughter of another Macon pioneer family, Miss Mary M. Osgood, who survives him. There are also left behind, to revere their father's memory, the three daughters, M. Josephine, Mrs. J. Mark Pennington and Martha.

Mr. Clarkson has long been known in the community as a friend of right living, a promoter of whatsoever things are honest and lovely and of good report. Noteworthy was his readiness to help those that were in need. Testimony is given that he never turned a deaf ear to an appeal for aid.

"His was a noble spirit,
Good, generous and brave."

In 1874 he experienced religion, and since 1885 he has been a consistent and helpful member of the South Macon Reformed church, serving during the last years of his life in the capacity of an elder. His place in the church as well as in his home, "knows him no more," but his memory is blessed and in both spheres he will be greatly missed.

He entered into rest on Sabbath morning, April 3rd, 1898. Just a week later, Easter bells and Easter flowers gave the sweet and comforting reminder that "Jesus died and rose again," and that "even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him."

The funeral services were held at the family residence on April 5th. They were attended by a large number of relatives and friends. Rev. J. A. DeSpelder, of Holloway, a former pastor, preached the sermon. The interment was in Ridgeway cemetery.

"Say not 'Good night,' but in some brighter clime Bid me 'Good morning.'"

A letter from W. H. Babbitt.

Cleveland, Ohio,
May 5, 1898.

The last number of the Tecumseh HERALD glows with patriotism. I cannot forbear to add my tribute of admiration in view of the courage of Co. C. There is probably no town in Michigan or perhaps in the Union, that has sent off so many to camp, in proportion to its size, ready to be called into active service as Tecumseh.

The friends of these young men may well pray that their services on the field will not be needed, but if they are, "Dulce et decorum est pro patria More." So Cicero said at least.

War is deeply to be deplored. It cannot be viewed in any other way than as a relic of barbarism. It is an enormous waste of human life and of the resources of life. The lives sacrificed in it might be devoted to noble purposes of peace and the treasure wasted might be devoted to the advance of morality and intelligence. But even in this enlightened age, war cannot it seems, be always avoided. When its object is to free the slave and put down oppression and cruelty, it can be justified. When for mere conquests, the day for it has gone by. Our country should be ashamed to enter upon it for any such reason. The war with Spain has humane reasons for its inciting cause. As a writer on the situation has said, the Priest and the Levite, who passed by the man who fell among thieves, acted on the principle of non intervention. We do not wish to follow their example.

Spain's policy with reference to its foreign possessions, has always been cruel and barbarous and there are no signs of its growing any better. We are justified in demanding that this policy toward our neighbors, the suffering Cubans, shall cease. The brilliant victory of the brave and skillful Dewey, shows that we have the ability to enforce our demand, the sooner the better. It is hardly possible for us to forget the Maine, or to believe that the Spanish nation is not responsible for that awful tragedy, yet we must not make this a war of vengeance. The motto, "Remember the Maine" is not needed to unite our people in supporting our Government for a vigorous prosecution of the war, even those that were for peace, now say let us conquer a peace. Here in Cleveland there are some who have conscientiously taken a position against the use of force, but it is estimated that 100,000 people, men, women and children, assembled at the public square to see the Fifth regiment off, and the enthusiasm was unbounded.

A bull dog, a wagon load of eggs and a vigorous dog fight make an interesting but not highly profitable combination. Such a combination got together Wednesday night in front of the music store. The bull dog is the attache of the music store, likewise the egg wagon. The cause of the rumpus was the running of the bull dog's blockade by a strange cur. Hostilities were at once begun. In spite of the assistance of the shore batteries, in the shape of his owner, the bull dog was hard pressed and cast an anchor to windward by seeking shelter in the egg wagon. Now eggs do not make very good earth work and, after wollowing around for a time there was a suspension of hostilities. The bull pup looked like an animated charlotte russe when he was finally rescued. He now enjoys the distinction of being the only dog in town, or man either, who luxuriates in an egg shampoo.—Britton Citizen.

VICTORY WAS COMPLETE.

Commodore Dewey's Fleet Entirely Destroyed Spanish Squadron Off Manila Harbor.

ELEVEN OF THE ENEMIES' SHIPS SUNK.

Over 600 Spaniards Killed or Injured —Not an American Lost His Life and No Ships Destroyed—Detailed Account of the Most Wonderful Battle in History.

Hong Kong, May 9.—Among naval men, military men and civilians, Europeans and natives here there is only one subject of discussion, the brilliant, dashing, annihilating victory of the American fleet under Commodore Dewey over the Spanish fleet commanded by Admiral Montejo in Manila bay on Sunday last.

The position occupied by the Spaniards, the support which their ships received from the land batteries, and the big guns they had ashore gave them an enormous advantage. Therefore, when it is considered that the Spaniards lost over 600 men in killed and wounded, that all of their ships were destroyed, and that their naval arsenal at Cavite was also destroyed, with its defenses, it will become apparent that the victory of the American commodore is one of the most complete and wonderful achievements in the history of naval warfare.

Not a man on board the American fleet was killed, not an American ship was damaged to any extent, and only six men were injured slightly on board the Baltimore.

This grand achievement is quite as much due to the generalship of Commodore Dewey as to the fact that American gunners, ships and guns are superior to anything in the same line afloat anywhere. Credit must also be given to the fullest extent to the officers under Commodore Dewey, for, to a man, they seconded their gallant commander in every way possible, and thus helped him win the laurels which are justly his.

STORY OF THE VICTORY.

Detailed Account of Dewey's Bold Dash and Its Results.

The following dispatch, containing a detailed account of the battle, was brought here by the McCulloch:

"Manila Bay, May 1.—Last night Commodore Dewey arrived off Manila bay and without consulting his officers decided to make a dash into the inner harbor. From his flagship, the Olympia, he signaled the commanders of the fleet to follow him, and with all lights out the squadron of sea fighters steamed into the bay with the crews at their guns. As they passed the fortifications at Corregidor the order of the vessels was as follows: Olympia, Baltimore, Raleigh, Petrel, Concord, Boston.

"Eight o'clock had just struck when the stately flagship steamed silently past the frowning batteries that command the entrance to the bay and in spite of the fact that the moon was shining brightly the fleet was well up the harbor before the Spaniards on watch were aware of its approach. Corregidor lay a mile behind them when the first gun boomed its warning that the enemy was at hand.

First Shot from Spaniards.

"One heavy projectile screamed over the inflo ating ships and plunged into the water far away. This was followed by a second, which dropped astern. Instantly the Raleigh, the Concord and the Boston accepted the challenge. A shell from the Concord described a long curve and apparently landed exactly inside the shore battery, which fired no more. Slowly the squadron edged its way toward Manila and the men, worn with long watching, were allowed to drop beside their guns for a nap on deck. So closely had the arrival of the fleet been timed that at break of day Dewey was within five miles of Manila.

"Here he sighted the Spanish squadron. Admiral Montejo's flag was seen fluttering from the cruiser Reina Christina. Just ahead of it was moored the Castilla, a protected cruiser of 3,200 tons. Astern and to seaward in line of battle were arranged the cruisers Don Juan de Austria, Don Antonio de Ulla, Isla de Cuba, Isla de Luzon, Quiros, Marquis del Onero and General Lezo. With the flagship, they remained under way in anticipation of the action that followed. The vessels moved down to the attack in single file at a uniform speed of eight knots, and as they passed in front of Manila three great batteries mounting powerful guns opened up at a distance of five miles. Suddenly the Concord's guns boomed out a reply. For a moment there was silence and expectation. Commodore Dewey signaled not to attack these batteries, for fear of sending his shells into the crowded city.

Mines Explode.

"Veering up the bay, he passed slowly in front of Cavite, where two powerful submarine mines were exploded ahead of the flagship. The commodore coolly glanced at his watch as he stood impassively on the bridge and called the attention of one of his officers to the fact that it was exactly six minutes past five o'clock. As the mines let go a smile flitted over his face, because of the fact that the Spaniards in exploding the mines had misjudged the position of the flagship. As it was, tremendous volumes of water were hurled into the air. But there was no hesitation. Dewey evidently had no fear of the mines. He signaled the ships to steam ahead and in a moment he was within range of the guns of the batteries at Cavite. By this time the Spanish gunners had got the range and the shells began bursting close aboard.

Flagship the Target.

"The Spanish vessels also opened up with their guns and the missiles flew all about the flagship, which was evidently the mark at which they were directing their fire. Aboard the American fleet the heat was intense. The men, stripped to the waist, stood at their guns waiting for the signal to open up. All was silent aboard the Olympia except the whirr of the blowers and the steady throb of the engines. All at once a shell screamed through the air and burst directly over the deck of the flagship. Then came the signal from the boatswain's mate,

"Remember the Maine."

"'Remember the Maine!' was the defiant cry that rang out in the American ships. On the forward edge of the flagship stood Admiral Dewey, with his chief of staff, Executive Officer Rees, and Navigator Lieut. Calkins. Capt. Gridley, commander of the ship, from the conning tower awaited the order to begin the engagement. Dewey looked at the batteries, from which puffs of smoke were rising, and said, grimly: 'Shoot whenever you get ready, Gridley.'

"At 19 minutes of six the starboard eight-inch gun in the forward turret of the Olympia belched forth a welcome to the dons at a distance of 5,500 yards. The firing was taken up by the Baltimore and Boston in turn, and shell after shell from their great guns was sent hurtling toward the Castilla and the Reina Christina. At first it was all guesswork. The Spaniards, knowing the exact distance, fired rapidly.

"Encouraged by the small amount of damage that was being done by the guns from the Spanish ships and batteries, the flagship turned and steamed majestically up within 2,000 yards of the enemy's vessels. At this range even the quick-firing six-pounders were found to be effective, and a perfect storm of projectiles was poured in upon the unfortunate Spanish fleet.

Vessels Burning.

"Three vessels were set on fire and their men were forced to abandon the guns. Satisfied with the work thus far accomplished, Commodore Dewey gave the signal and the fleet steamed slowly out of the range of the batteries in order that the crews, which had been continuously at the guns for more than two hours, could go to breakfast. There was a lull in the firing, and shortly before eight o'clock the fleet steamed past the flagship, the men cheering lustily. For three hours they remained out of range of the enemy's guns, and then the signal for action fluttered at the halyards of the flagship.

Attack Renewed.

"This time the Baltimore was given the place of honor. She opened up with her guns on the Spanish ships and batteries as coolly as if at target practice. The replies were slow and irregular. The Raleigh, the Boston, the Concord and the Petrel were directed to break into the inner harbor and destroy every hostile ship in sight. The gunboat Petrel, with her light draft, was enabled to move up within 1,000 yards. With her guns going as rapidly as they could be fired, she created awful havoc among the vessels still flying the Spanish flag.

"In the meantime the Reina Christina had been burning fiercely and had been abandoned. The Ulloa, which had also been deserted, lurched suddenly and sank beneath the waters of the bay.

"A few minutes later the Spanish flag on the arsenal disappeared and was replaced by a white ensign that fluttered bravely in the wind. The signal was then made to the Petrel to finish the destruction of the vessels in the inner harbor. The Don Juan de Austria, the Marquis Duerc, the Isla de Cuba and the Correo were set on fire. The Manila, a large transport, and a number of tugboats were seized before they could be sunk and passed into the hands of the Americans.

"Dewey's orders on approaching Manila had been to capture or destroy every Spanish vessel in sight. Within six hours after the Olympia steamed past the fortifications at the entrance of the harbor the orders had been implicitly obeyed. Not a Spanish vessel remained in the hands of the enemy. The total casualties on the American fleet were six men slightly wounded, while the Spaniards report 618 missing.

Rumored Evacuation of Manila.

Madrid, May 9.—It is claimed that a message has been received here from Manila, announcing that the Spanish troops have retired from Manila, taking with them all their arms, ammunition and stores."

PROMPTLY HONORED.

President Sends Cablegram to Dewey Making Him an Admiral.

Washington, May 9.—By direction of the president, Secretary Long sent the following cable dispatch to Admiral Dewey:

"Washington, May 7, 1898. Dewey, Manila: The president, in the name of the American people, thanks you and your officers and men for your splendid achievement and overwhelming victory. In recognition he has appointed you acting admiral, and will recommend a vote of thanks to you by congress.

"(Signed) LONG."

Dewey's Dispatches.

"Manila, May 1.—Squadron arrived at Manila at daybreak this morning. Immediately engaged the enemy and destroyed the following Spanish vessels: Reina Christina, Castillo, Don Antonio De Ulloa, Isla de Luzon, Isla de Cuna, General Lezo, Marques de Duero, Corrso, Velasco, Isle de Mindanao, a transport and water battery at Cavite. The squadron is uninjured, and only a few men are slightly wounded. Only means of telegraphing is to American consul at Hong Kong. I shall communicate with him.

"(Signed) DEWEY."

"Cavite, May 4, 1898. Long, Secretary Navy: I have taken possession of the naval station at Cavite, Philippine Islands, and destroyed its fortifications. Have destroyed fortifications at the bay entrance, paroling garrison. I have control of the bay completely and can take the city at any time. The squadron is in excellent health and spirits. The Spanish loss not fully known, but very heavy; 150 killed, including the captain of the Reina Christina. I am assisting in protecting the Spanish sick and wounded. Two hundred and fifty sick and wounded in hospital within our lines. Much excitement at Manila. Will protect foreign residents.

"(Signed) DEWEY."

WHAT A MOTHER SAYS

Of Dr. Hartman's Famous Family Remedy and Spring Tonic.

Mrs. Hannah Lint, 1132 East Long street, Columbus, Ohio, is one of the many enthusiastic advocates of Pe-ru-na. She says: "For many years I was subject to nervousness, despondency and neuralgia, for which doctors and remedies seemed of no use. At last I was persuaded to try Pe-ru-na.

I found it to be exactly the remedy I had been so long in search of. It relieves the tired, depressed feeling felt in spring-time at once. It never fails to restore to me natural appetite and the best of sleep. It has cured permanently my old despondency and neuralgia, and I wonder why so many people continue to suffer through spring and early summer when Pe-ru-na is such a prompt and perfect relief. As a family medicine I believe Pe-ru-na to have no equal." It relieves at once cramps, colic, prostration from heat, the ill-effects of sudden checking of the perspiration, and all other bad effects of hot weather. As a remedy for nervous prostration it has no equal, and the thrusands of men and women of this generation who "have nerves" find it a priceless remedy. Every family should have a copy of "Facts and Faces." Finely illustrated. One of the best books of testimonials ever published. Sent free. Her Health Restored

THE misery of sleeplessness can only be realized by those who have experienced it. Nervousness, sleeplessness, headaches, neuralgia and that miserable feeling of unrest, can surely be cured by Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. So certain is Dr. Miles of this fact that all druggists are authorized to refund price paid for the first bottle tried, providing it does not benefit.

Mrs. Henry Bruns, wife of the well known blacksmith at Grand Junction, Iowa, says: "I was troubled with sleeplessness, nervousness, headache and irregular menstruation; suffering untold misery for years. I used various advertised remedies for female complaints besides being under the care of local physicians, without help. I noticed in Dr. Miles' advertisement the testimonial of a lady cured of ailments similar to mine, and I shall never cease to thank that lady. Her testimonial induced me to use Dr. Miles' Nervine and Nerve and Liver Pills, which restored me to health. I cannot say enough for Dr. Miles' Remedies."

Dr. Miles' Remedies are sold by all druggists under a positive guarantee, first bottle benefits or money refunded. Book on diseases of the heart and nerves free. Address,

WHAT'S IN A NAME.

Many Times Nothing---Some times a Fund of Knowledge.

It's a good old saying, and a true one too, "Know all men by their works." The public have been imposed upon so many times by unscrupulous claims made for selfish means of profit, they look for something more substantial; they ask for deeds. The little conqueror has earned the reputation made in Michigan and no imposter can steal it. From north to south, from east to west, in every city, town and hamlet in the state, people stand ready to testify to merits. Gratitude for comfort brought to thousands of homes brings emphatic rejoicings and words of praise the like of which has not been equalled in modern times. Is it a wonder the name Doan is a familiar one in every household? Is it surprising the public appreciate Doan's Kidney Pills and will not be led astray by the ingenious efforts of would be competitors? A Detroit citizen tells here why the name of Doan is dear to him: Mr. R. N. Elliott, of 143 High street, Detroit, says: "My knowledge of Doan's Kidney Pills dates back to five years ago. I was then living in the town where Dr. Doan was located. I was tortured with kidney troubles and inflammatory rheumatism. The doctor prescribed the pills for me which have since become so justly famous. Their use quickly eliminated the uric acid from my system and with its departure came the cure of the rheumatism and the end of the kidney troubles. It took but a few boxes to accomplish this end and I feel that I owe Dr. Doan an everlasting debt of gratitude for prescribing such a valuable remedy. I have taken great pleasure in recommending this medicine to a number of my friends. I always keep a box of these pills on hand so that should I take a severe cold and feel that it is settling on my kidneys a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills relieves all apprehension."

Doan's Kidney Pills are sold by all dealers. Price 50 cents per box. Mailed on receipt of price by Foster—Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

DYSPEPTIC'S---REJOICE.

Results of the New Cure for Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

Dr. Horton said recently in an article on the Stomach and its most prevailing disease—dyspepsia, "that very few people today possess a healthy sound stomach. And this class requires no aid to digestion; while the other portion, which figure fully 80 per cent., ought not to force digestion in a diseased stomach, as blood produced in such condiions will eventually contaminate the whole system. Medicine has been comparatively at a standstill as to a reliable treatment for stomach diseases in all of their manifold forms, although many prepartions are offered to sufferers, yet their use is usually more perilous than delay.". But the saying that "necessity is the mother of invention" seems evidently verified in Prof. Drake's production of his marvelous treatment known as Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer. This well-spring of life is flowing into thousands of homes today; many who have tried nearly everthing with little or no relief, are now rejoicing over the results of this new method treatment, for in this treatment the idea of tieing sufferers down to an endless doping of drugs and nostrums is entirely lost sight of, as results from its use in bad complicated cases show that all that is required is a little persistency in following out the plain instructions which accompany each treatment, when a speedy and permanent cure will invariably be the result. What Others Say About it.

It gives me pleasure to express my faith in Carter's Cascara Cordial, which is the only medicine I ever take or recommend. During a time when I was greatly overworked I was persuaded by a friend to try the Cordial. I am happy to say immediately began to realize tonic and blood-nourishing effects. I have in my travels recommended it to many people, and personally know of several cases where the Cordial has effected a cure when the doctors have failed.

WILL NOW PUSH THE WAR

Policy of the Government Henceforth Will Be Aggressive Action All Along the Line.

ARMY WILL FOLLOW THE NAVY AT ONCE

President's Advisers United in Supporting the Policy of Extreme Aggression—Spaniards to Be Driven from Cuba—Spanish Fleet Said to Be Off Puerto Rico Ready to Act.

Washington, May 10.—The military movement to end the war with Spain by a prompt and decisively aggressive compaign in Cuba is in full swing throughout the country, orders being issued from the war department with a rapidity similar to the continuous rattle of an automatic machine gun. The force of expert military telegraphers sent hundreds of messages in cipher and hundreds of others in ordinary language to commanding generals, to railway superintendents, to quartermasters and commissaries, governors of states and mustering officers and to all the units of the vast mechanism which is relied upon to unite in a crushing blow to Spanish authority in Cuba and the Philippines.

Gen. Miles, having secured the president's permission to take the field in person and command the invading army, completed his final arrangements to leave for Tampa, where he will assume active control of the force concentrated there and at Mobile and New Orleans, divided into divisions under Gens. Wade, Coppinger and Shafter.

CARRIES AID TO CUBA.

Steamer Leaves Tampa with Ammunition and Supplies for Insurgents.

Tampa, Fla., May 10.—The steamer Gussie, one of the Mallory line of boats, chartered by the government for use as a transport, has sailed for Cuba, loaded with arms, ammunition and supplies furnished by the United States government for the use of the Cuban insurgents. A company of 100 United States troops from the First regiment of infantry accompanies the expedition to aid in guarding the landing of the valuable cargo, and will, if necessary, penetrate into the interior far enough to place the supplies in the hands of the insurgents.

FOR CUBA'S FREEDOM.

The Army Ordered to the Gulf Coast for Immediate Transportation.

Washington, May 11.—Orders were issued from the war department Tuesday to move every portion of the regular and volunteer armies selected for the invasion of Cuba directly to the gulf coast, and Monday's order, which contemplated the concentration of the volunteer army corps at Chickamauga, was countermanded in the interest of greater dispatch. Instead of delaying the land attack on Havana the powerful expedition which was decided upon last Sunday will be hurried into the island with the least possible loss of time, and in place of assembling the reserve composed of volunteers at Chickamauga to follow a few days behind the regulars, the movement will be simultaneous all along the line.

Some 60,000 soldiers will be thrown around the doomed city of Havana as quickly as human energy and unlimited resources can get them there. The discovery that the Spanish fleet has made a cowardly retreat to Cadiz leaves Admiral Sampson free to capture San Juan and return to Havana in time to blow its fortifications into smithereens before their guns can do any harm to the American land forces.

The 6,000 troops to help Admiral Dewey complete the conquest of the Philippines will be hurried from San Francisco as fast as they can be mobilized, and two big transports, with accommodations for 5,758 men, have already been chartered for the voyage.

TAKES NO CHANCES.

The Spanish War Fleet Decides Not to Fight at Puerto Rico.

Washington, May 11.—It is hard to tell whether the naval officers were relieved or disappointed by the news that came late Tuesday afternoon to both the navy and state departments to the effect that the Spanish flying squadron had arrived at Cadiz, Spain. The safety of the Oregon from attack is now completely assured, and the way is clear for military operations in Cuba without running the risk of having the occupying army's line of communication cut off. On the other hand, it is believed that no enduring peace can be secured until the Spanish navy has been destroyed, and it now appears that to do this our sailors must make up their minds to go after the Spaniards, a task very much more difficult than that of meeting them near our own shores.

Sampson Still Silent.

Nothing was heard from Sampson Tuesday, but there is a confident expectation that interesting news will be coming from his squadron within the next 24 hours. Whether this means an attack on Puerto Rico or not cannot be learned.

Is Unconstitutional.

Washington, May 10.—The supreme court, in the case of H. Rhodes, railroad agent at Brighton, Ia., versus the state of Iowa, held that the Iowa law forbidding the sale of liquors in the state and making it a crime to transport them was unconstitutional as an interference with interstate commerce.

Fifty Buildings Burned.

Duluth, Minn., May 9.—Fifty frame buildings on Minnesota Point, just above the ship canal, were burned yesterday afternoon. There was a lazy puff of smoke, a burst of flame and then a long row of ramshackle buildings sprang into a blaze. An hour later 3,000 people were homeless.

Young Girls Fading Away.

Symptoms that seem like consumption; a lack of blood; friends feared one girl would fall dead on the street; restored to health by a sensible woman's suggestion.

Many girls of sixteen years seem to have consumption, although they have it not.

Their anxious parents and friends watch them slowly fade away.

A death-like pallor, transparent complexion and listlessness are signs of this condition.

The body lacks blood.

Mrs. John Tansey knows the meaning of these symptoms, and the cure.

She lives at 130 Baker Street, Detroit, Mich.

Her advice to mothers has been of great value to her neighbors. She tells the story to help others who are at a distance.

She said:

"When my daughter was sixteen years old she began to waste away.

"Had I not known there was no taint of consumption in the family I would have believed her lungs were affected.

"She grew thinner and thinner every day. She lacked only the hacking cough to show all the outward signs of consumption.

"Our doctor called the disease by an odd name, which I learned meant simply weak blood.

"No treatment seemed to do her any good.

"She was fading away before our eyes.

"I was induced to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and the change they made was almost magical.

"Before she had taken half a box there was a great improvement in her looks, appetite and weight.

"She gained strength rapidly. Soon she was in perfect health.

"Since then I have kept Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in the house always and have done much good with them.

"One example:

"There is a young girl friend of my daughter who seemed almost transparent.

"She was white and very thin. We were afraid she would fall dead in the street when she went out.

"I begged her to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and finally induced her to try them. They helped her wonderfully, probably saved her life and restored her to perfect health. Now she is recommending them to other young women.

"I earnestly advise mothers with growing daughters to keep Dr. Williams' Pink Pills always on hand as a household remedy.

Many women's lives are miserable because such symptoms as Mrs. Tansey's daughter showed were neglected while they were developing into womanhood. During that period of rapid development the blood needs the highest degree of strength to repair the tissues that are rapidly wasted.

These needed elements are supplied by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. The vegetable ingredients of these pills act like magic in restoring strength to the nerves and roses to the cheeks of growing girls or adults weakened by overwork.

All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They cost 50 cents a box, six boxes $2.50.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. NEW YORK, N. Y.

President Clark has a crow to pick with the village parents. Last Monday was council meeting and the usual "no quorum" was present, though important matters had been deferred to this meeting. The president is of the opinion that some resignations might be in order unless the members intend to do better in the future in the matter of attendance.—Britton Citizen.

"The Light of the World or Our Saviour in Art."

Cost over $100,000 to publish. Contains nearly 200 full-page engravings of our Saviour, by the great masters. Every picture is reproduced from some famous painting. Agents are taking from three to twenty orders per day. The book is so beautiful that when people see it they want it. The Hermitalge, Prado, Uffizi, Pitti, Louvre, Vatican, National of London, National of Berlin, Belvidere and other celebrated European galleries have placed their greatest and rarest treasures at our disposal that they might be engraved for this superb work. "First glance at the pictures brought tears to my eyes," says one. "Cleared $150 first week's work with the book," says another. "Some high grade man or woman should secure the agency here at once," says every editor, "as $500 can soon be made taking orders for it." Nearly $10,000 expended on new plates for edition coming from press. A True Story.

"My boy came home from school with his hand badly lacerated and suffering great pain. I dressed the wound and applied Carter's Herbal Ointment freely. All pain ceased and in a very short time healed without leaving a scar." For wounds, sprains and swellings, I know of no remedy to equal it. It is a household necessity. Price 25c. S. E. PARRISH.

Editor F. W. Samsen has sold The Tecumseh News to James W. Hine, of Detroit, who takes possession tomorrow. The HERALD regrets the move of Mr. Samsen as he has been a good neighbor and competitor, only trusting to like Mr. Hines as well.

As the years roll by many new people move into any community and many of the residents move away. One person goes and another comes to seemingly fill his place. Albert Brewer died Sunday but no one can come to fill his place. He was as a part of Tecumseh Always ready to help any worthy enterprise. Always glad to do good when an opportunity offered. Scrupulously conscientious in every transaction and always reliable. Every one of the men who ever worked for him loved and honored him. Truly, 'tis hard to spare such a man. All Tecumseh mourns for him.

Geo. C. Martin.

Geo. C. Martin was born in New York March 20, 1832, and his boyhood was spent in that place where he was given a thorough education. He was the third of a family of seven children, all of whom are now dead except one sister Mrs. H. V. S. Myers, of New York. About thirty years ago Mr. Martin came here, making his home with Rev. Pardon Nichols in the house where he has since resided. He was a close student and being reared in affluence, was able to amass an extensive library of valuable works and also gratify his taste for curios of which his residence is a veretible store house. There is something peculiar in the fact that each of the entire family died with rheumatism, and about five years ago the subject of this sketch was so afflicted. He passed away Saturday May 7, while seated in his easy chair enjoying a smoke from his favorite pipe. Mr. Martin was never married and his only known living relative is the sister before mentioned. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at one o'clock, Rev. W. F. Jones officiating.

Albert L. Brewer

Was born in Tecumseh April 16, 1845, and all his life has been spent in this village. When he left school he began work in his father's foundry as a moulder where he remained until he mastered that portion of the business. His father Horace Brewer, then owned and operated the Tecumseh Foundry and Machine Shop.

During the stress of a busy season Albert was called to assist in the office, and proved so valuable in this capacity that he continued in this position and did not learn the trade of machinist as his father had intended. In early youth he was taken into partnership with his father and this relation continued until 1871 when the firm of H. Brewer & Co. was founded. In this firm until his death he always held a prominent position, and for many years controlled its management.

On November 1st, 1870, he was married to Hattie L. Hamilton, daughter of Dr. I. S. Hamilton. To this union there were born two daughters, the younger of whom died in infancy, the elder, Mrs. Fitzsimmons, surviving her father. Mrs. Brewer died June 18, 1887.

Some men are so quiet and unabtrusive in their character that their worth is not actually appreciated until they have passed away. Such was the deceased. True to all his engagements, honorable in all his dealings, courteous in all his actions and steadfast in his friendships he won the respect and confidence of all his associates. As a member of the common council and of the board of education and as vice president of the Lilley State bank, all his acts were characterized by strict business integrity and a quiet persistent devotion to the advancement of the best interests of the community.

During his last illness, which continued for more than a year, he was patient and uncomplaining, showing the greatest thoughtfulness for those about him and evading so far as possible any reference to his own suffering. His daughter and her husband, Mr. Fitzsimmons, were untiring in their endeavor for his relief and comfort. But all their efforts and those of skillful physicians served only to temporarily arrest the fatal malady, and on Sunday, May 8, 1898, Albert L. Brewer ceased to breathe.

RAILROAD NEWS.

Notes and Condensations Concerning the Railroads.

T. M. C. Schindler has been appointed general freight and passenger agent to succeed C. W. Cook. The change is effective to day, and Mr. Schindler left to day for Van Wert to assume the duties of his new position. In one sense, it is not a new position, but only the restoration to his old position. Under the old C. J. & M. organization he was general freight agent of the property. When the road was disorganized, the Michigan division going to the Lima Northern and the Ohio division organized as the Cincinnati Northern, Mr. Schindler, with a large number of the old officials, was without a position. His appointment now comes in the way of a vindication of his record while in charge of the traffic department of the road. Mr. Schindler is a graduate of the Wabash system. He was voucher clerk in the freight department of the road, when the general offices of the Wabash were located at Toledo. Before that time he was connected with the Atlantic & Great Western at Cincinnati, entering railway service in August, 1876. In 1897 he was appointed chief clerk to the commercial agent of the Wabash, from which position he was advanced in 1885 to the secretaryship to the general traffic manager of the same road. February 1, 1888, he accepted the position of general freight and passenger agent of the Michigan division of the old C. J. & M. Manders could not have selected a man more thoroughly acquainted with the duties of the position than Mr. Schindler or a more competent and conscientios traffic man.—Blade.

Chief Clerk Geo. B. Henry, of the Wheeling, has resigned from the passenger department to accept a similar position with the Detroit & Lima Northern, with headquarters at Detroit.

While Mr. Henry's title will probably be that of chief clerk, it is generally understood that he will be in active charge of the passenger department of the Lima Northern, and when the present extensions, which are under construction are completed, he is to have a title. The change amounts to a substantial advancement for Mr. Henry and is deserved recognition of his ability. He began his railroad career under Col. James M. Hall, as clerk in the general passenger department. Mr. Henry was an apt pupil, and soon advanced to the position of chief clerk. This, in itself, is sufficient recommendation for any young man. Mr. Henry is one of the most promising young passenger men in Toledo, and his appointment will greatly strengthen the passenger department of the Lima Northern.—Blade.

Tuesday afternoon the auditors of Fulton, Henry, Putman and Allen counties were in session yesterday afternoon appraising the value of the property owned by the D. & L. N. Railway Company. The auditors believed that the road was more valuable this year than it was last and accordingly considerably increased the valuation of the property in the assessment. The main line was appraised at $4,500 per mile, the sidings at $800 per mile and the rolling stock at $200 per mile. The buildidgs in Allen county were assessed at $4,200. The Allen county treasurer will receive taxes from this railway company on property valued at about $66,000.—Lima Times Dem.

At 6:30 Friday night the D. & L. N. train, No. 41, while bowling along between the Fayette branch crossing and Packard a road crossing, came up to two young ladies, sisters named Cameron, living near Packard. One of the young ladies stepped back upon the track to pick up something she had dropped just as the train came along. The locomotive struck her and threw her 70 feet into the ditch. She was not injured very materially, unless internal injuries materialize later. She was conveyed home.—Telegram.

The contract for carrying American express upon the Ann Arbor railroad having expired, the latter has refused to make a new contract, and decided to conduct the express business themselves along their line, with offices at their depots and their station agents attending their business. The new arrangements went into effect Monday. For Dundee the American and U. S. companies continue business upon the D. T. & M. and Lima Northern roads respectively.—Dundee Rep.

It is reported that right of way is being purchased and money being paid therefore, for an extension of the Lima Northern railroad between Trenton and Toledo parallel with the Mich. Central and Lake Shore roads through Monroe. This is a new project, quite different from any heretofore made public.—Dundee Rep.

The D. and L. N. road began running over its own line into Detroit Tuesday going into the Fort street depot. A new time table went into effect yesterday over the new line. See corrected schedule in this issue.

Mrs. Wm. Cotterman went to Lima Saturday for a visit.

William Ross.

William Ross, the subject of this sketch, was born at Ballymena, Antrim county, Ireland, on February 29, 1836, at which place his boyhood days were spent. He was married at Ballymena, October 27, 1854, to Miss Margaret Orr and the following year the young couple severed home ties resolving to try their fortunes in this country, coming directly to Tecumseh which place has since been their home. Mr. Ross has always been in good health until the past four years since which he has been a great but patient sufferer, ever prepared for the mandate which should summon him to the other world. To Mr. and Mrs. Ross were born seven children, two sons and five daughters all surviving. The entire family except one son, Will D., who is in the Klondike, were present at the time of his death as were also six grandchildren. His only brother, Jno. Ross, who is traveling on the road was unable to be present. Mr. Ross during his illness was conscious to the last recognizing all his children. He passed away Saturday, May 7, 1898, at the age of 62 years. The funeral services were conducted from the nome Sunday afternoon by Rev. W. F. Jones, a large concourse of relatives and friends attending. Mr. Ross was ever a kind husband and loving father.

NOT CHANGED BUT GLORIFIED.

In the clear morning of that other country
In Paradise.
With the same face we have loved and cherished
He shall rise.
Let us be patient we who weep and mourn
Some vanished face
The Lord has taken but to add more beauty
And a deviner grace.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire express our heartfelt thanks to our friends and neighbors for their sympathy and kindness in our affliction also for the beautiful floral offerings bestowed.

MRS. WM. ROSS AND FAMILY.

A stranger was looking at some window shades in a Hillsdale store last week, and was undecided just what was to his liking. The proprietor was busy moving some goods and left the customer alone, and when the owner came back, the customer and several shades were missing. Mr. Crane now sings:

"The shades of mine are going fast,
And through old Hillsdale city passed
The man who asked of me the price,
And stole away as slick as mice,
I tell you sir."

We had the pleasure of inspecting James Heck's, residence Wednesday, and found it in every respect a modern home, including bath room, lavatory, furnace heat and electric lights. There are six ground floor rooms and four in the second story. A novel feature is the open stair case rising from the library. The house was built by Smith and VanWinkle, after plans furnished by Mr. Heck, the contract calling for everything complete; woodshed, walks, lawn grading, cisterns etc., and the price paid was $1800.

Some people are born to be hung and fail to get their just due. For the past ten days, wheelmen who leave their bicycles in the racks along the street, have been looking for the miscreant who throws eggs in among the tangle of spokes, with no other idea than pure devilishness. The plan of these vacuum heads is to find a number of wheels all in a bunch after dark and then let go a volley of eggs, which is thoroughly distributed through the whole lot. It would be a justice if the wheelmen went at it and egged these fellows out of town.

The installation sermon was preached by Rev. W. F. Irwin, pastor of the Fifth Presbyterian church, Chicago, a brother-in-law of Rev. Jones, from the text "Wilt Thou be Made Whole." The charge to the pastor was given by Rev. W. K. Spencer, of Adrian; the charge to the people by Rev. David Howell, of Lansing, and the installation prayer was made by Rev. J. A. Letter from Camp Eaton.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)
Camp Eaton, Island Lake, Mich., May 10.

There were some surprises after the medical examination among the men in the companies of the First on last Friday. Co. C sent sixty-five men through the ordeal and seventeen failed to pass. Most of the men were rejected for slight reasons. Impaired eyesight was a common cause while slight deafness was another. Some of the members were greatly chagrined at their inability to pass the required examination, but they were allowed a second trial and as before they were unable to meet the eye test. Co. C has furnished its quota and was mustered into the United States service Sunday evening.

The company was very much surprised and disappointed to find that the vacancies had to be filled by men from other towns when we expected that they would be filled by men from Tecumseh, as we had been led to believe that there were fifty men waiting for the chance to come.

In all probability we shall leave for Tampa before the end of the week.

Captain Hayden arrived in camp Monday morning.

CALL FOR MICHIGAN BOYS

Secretary of War Alger Instructs Gov. Pingree to Get Them Ready for Chickamauga.

TWO REGIMENTS ABOUT READY TO GO

Michigan Naval Reserves Board the Yosemite at Norfolk, Va.—Many Would-Be Volunteers Are Rejected—Thousands Visit Camp Eaton—The State War Bonds.

Island Lake, May 9.—An order was received from Secretary of War Alger Sunday morning requesting that the formation of two Michigan volunteer regiments be hurried as fast as possible, so that they can be sent to Camp George H. Thomas, Chickamauga park. Three companies of the First infantry were mustered in Sunday evening by Capt. Irvine, U. S. A., and it is expected the regiment will leave Wednesday. The disappointment at being rejected is greater among the privates than among the officers, and it is a common sight to see them crying over the matter.

Reserves Aboard Their Ships.

Norfolk, Va., May 8.—The Michigan naval reserves, 248 in number, are aboard their ship, the Yosemite, at last. All was bustle aboard the receiving ship Franklin Saturday morning when the order was given to get aboard the transports in waiting, and in a remarkably short time the blue jackets from the north were on their way to Newport News. In one hour they had been landed on the pier at the big shipyard, where the Yosemite had been several weeks undergoing a complete transformation. It did not take the reserves very long to get aboard, and everything had been so cleverly arranged for their reception that every man, when directed, went at once to his particular quarters. The Yosemite is ready for sea, and only awaits orders from the navy department. No none at present knows where she will be ordered. The boys are full of fight and anxious to get away. They say they are prepared to go anywhere.

Many Rejected.

Island Lake, May 8.—The examining board examined 545 enlisted men Saturday and rejected 117 of them. Men who were apparently robust and had never been sick a day in their lives were turned down. Some of the rejected ones had tears in their eyes as they told of their failure. Maj. Tyrrell, recruiting officer for the state service, left Saturday to recruit eight companies to fill the four regiments asked for by the secretary of war. The surgeons who were captains in the national guard service are kicking because they will only rank as mounted first lieutenants in the volunteer service, although they draw the same money. Gov. Pingree says if they don't like to volunteer as first lieutenants they don't have to, as 1,500 physicians in Michigan have already applied for positions as surgeons. Dr. Andrew P. Biddle, of Detroit, will probably be chief surgeon of the First volunteers, with the rank of major. The formal order attaching the First independent battalion to the Second infantry has been issued.

Dean Nancrede, of the medical faculty of the University of Michigan, tendered his services to Gov. Pingree. He was accepted, and will be commissioned a major. The governor is anxious to secure other experienced surgeons to accompany the regiments, and believes that the action of Dr. Nancrede will have a good effect.

The pay for the troops was distributed Friday. The money, $60,000, arrived from Detroit Friday morning. It is guarded by 24 picked men from company H, Third infantry.

Reports from Washington received here are to the effect that the troops to be sent to Manila will be taken from the first volunteer regiments that are mustered into the service. The men say they would as soon go to Manila as anywhere else.

Thousands of Visitors.

Camp Eaton, Island Lake, May 9.—Twelve trains from different sections of the state carried that many thousand persons to the tented village Sunday that they might once again say goodby to their soldier loved ones before the latter take their departure for the scene of conflict. Sunday's crowd differed from that of a week ago in that it was composed for the most part of persons closely related to, or directly interested in, the officers and men waiting to be mustered in for actual service. Last Sunday several thousands merely took advantage of the outing because of the cheap railway rates. The camp streets presented a gala appearance.

Gov. Pingree is as active as ever in preparing the soldiers for "hard fighting," and expresses the belief that Michigan's quota of warriors will win fame, if the opportunity is given them in the field of battle.

State War Bonds.

Lansing, May 9.—Subscriptions will be received by the state treasurer at Lansing, up to and including Saturday, May 14, 1898, to the Michigan war loan of 1898, at $101 for each $100 bond. At this price bonds will net purchaser slightly more than 3¼ per cent. per annum for first five years and 3½ per cent. per annum thereafter. Bonds bear interest from May 1, 1898, at the rate of 3½ per cent. per annum payable semiannually, and purchaser will be required to pay accrued interest on bonds to date payment is made to the state, in addition to the premium on bonds. Bonds are due May 1, 1898, but are payable at the pleasure of the state after May 1, 1903. Principal and interest payable in Detroit, Mich. Delivery of bonds to be at Lansing or Detroit, at the option of the purchaser. Bonds will be ready for delivery about June 1. At time of payment purchaser will be given negotiable certificates, exchangeable for bonds as soon as bonds are prepared. The right is reserved to reject any or all subscriptions and to allot less than amount subscribed. Payment will be received in lawful money, post office or express order, or bank drafts on commercial centers. Remittances may accompany application. In case for any reason allotment is not made in accordance with application money will be refunded.

DEWEY'S GREAT VICTORY.

How It Was Received at Various Points in Michigan—Tribute of Gov. Pingree.

Ionia, May 9.—A great wave of patriotism and war enthusiasm swept over this city when the news came from Manila. Flags were raised on the car shops and the wagon works, and fully 5,000 people listened to speeches by A. B. Morse and others on "The Flag" and Dewey's victory. Cannon boomed and the Cuban flag occupied a conspicuous place with the stars and stripes.

Kalamazoo, May 9.—Dewey's victory was celebrated here with a parade, followed by speeches in Courthouse square by Senator Colman, N. H. Stewart, Judge J. E. White and E. N. Dingley.

Benton Harbor, May 9.—The victory of Dewey at Manila set Benton Harbor afire with patriotic joy. A procession of 1,000 citizens, composed of the Alger guards, G. A. R., Knights of Pythias, uniformed rank, Maccabees, Modern Woodmen and fire companies, paraded the principal streets led by a band. The procession halted at the college on Morton Hill, where speeches were made from a platform on the campus. Prof. Spencer spoke as an American, Prof. Edgecombe as an Anglo-American and Prof. Nise as a German-American. Music and bonfires added to the enthusiasm.

Camp Eaton, Island Lake, May 9.—Gov. Pingree says of the victory of Commodore Dewey:

"Dewey's decisive victory, coming at this opportune time, gives a clear indication of the inevitable result of the war, and should impress upon Spain the folly of attempting to continue a strife which, if carried to the end, can only result in her downfall. Commodore Dewey and his officers have well earned the gratitude of their countrymen for their decisive action, which was brilliant as it was complete. American seamen are the equal of any in the world, and have shown themselves to be equally good fighters."

SETTLERS WIN A SUIT.

Decision of the State Land Commissioner Settles Title to Thousands of Acres.

Marquette, May 7.—Land Commissioner Binger Hermann has rendered a decision affirming the decision of the register and receiver of the local land office in the contest case of Mrs. Ann Patterson against the Lake Superior Ship Canal Railway and Iron company. The decision supports Mrs. Patterson's claim. The land involved in this particular case is only 160 acres, but the decision supports the claims of some 60 settlers to 6,000 or 7,000 acres of the best land in the upper peninsula. The homestead of Mrs. Patterson and the other contestants is on land granted for constructing the Portage Lake canal across Keweenaw point, but where the company in selecting its land picked lands given under a former grant for the construction of a railroad from Ontonagon to the Wisconsin state line. Commissioner Hermann holds that by the forfeiture of 1889 title to these lands was immediately revested in the United States.

THE CROPS.

Wheat Is Said to Be in a Splendid Condition — Fruits and Pastures the Same.

Lansing, May 7.—Michigan's wheat crop is in splendid shape, the average condition for the state, 94 per cent., being 12 per cent. higher than last year at this time. So little has been winter killed or otherwise destroyed that it is estimated that less than one per cent. of the area sowed will be plowed up. The season has been favorable for meadows and pastures also, it being estimated that but four per cent. will be plowed up. Fruit of all kinds promises well in all parts of the state, the average percentage for apples being 91 and for peaches 94.

Will Tax New Roads.

Lansing, May 8.—All railroads built since 1891 north of the forty-fourth parallel of latitude have been exempt from taxation under a law providing for such exemption for a period of ten years. Railroad Commissioner Wessellus has decided to assess all these companies this year, denying their claim that the fact that the exemption provision was omitted from the Merryman tax law last winter cannot operate as a nullification of the state's contract with them. The companies will appeal.

Want Electric Railway.

Grand Rapids, May 6.—The Merchants' and Business Men's association has decided to look into the prospects of Grand Rapids for securing an electric railway connection with the country towns and villages adjacent to it. Electric lines to Belding and Greenville are referred to as the nearest probabilities.

To Dredge Torch Lake Canal.

Houghton, May 8.—James Pricer, of Houghton, has contracted with the Calumet and Hecla Mining company for nearly a season's dredging on Torch Lake canal. The canal has but 14 feet of water. When a depth of 16 feet shall have been obtained work on the 20-foot channel will be begun.

School Fund Distributed.

Lansing, May 10. — The semi-annual distribution of the primary school interest fund made by Auditor General Dix distributes $349,446 among the counties of the state, on the basis of 50 cents for each child of school age in the counties. There are 699,893 such children in the state.

JUDGE WOFFORD

Most Distinguished Member Missouri Bench Highly Values

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

Judge Wofford is one of the ablest criminal lawyers in the state of Missouri. He has been on the bench in Jackson county, of which Kansas City is the seat, for the past six years.

Judge Wofford is one of the leading Democrats of the Southwest. There is no better or more widely known man in that section of the country.

The careful balancing of right and wrong and the dispensing of even-handed justice brings with it a judicial, discriminating habit of mind that no profession cultivates like the law.

Judge Wofford is not one of those persons who are afraid to see things with their own eyes, to weigh evidence and to govern their lives accordingly. Judge Wofford was in poor health. His friends advised him to use Paine's celery compound. He did so, and is today in the best of health and spirits, and properly grateful to the great remedy as his letter shows:

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 28, 1898.

Messrs. Wells, Richardson & Co.,

Gentlemen:—I have used Paine's celery compound, and know it to be highly valuable as a sedative and equally efficacious as a stimulant.

Respectfully,

JOHN W. WOFFORD.

When the ablest physicians and the best informed pharmacists not only prescribe and recommend, but themselves use and find health in Paine's celery compound; when thousands of men and women in every walk of life, from the humblest to the most famous and honored, voluntarily go out of their way to tell others the great good Paine's celery compound has done them, the present great demand for the remedy is not to be wondered at.

Paine's celery compound, the best of all nerve invigorators and blood purifiers, will do more to bring back health and strength, especially now, as spring comes on, than any amount of attention to the health later on, when work drops from nerveless hands, and there is no alternative but to give up altogether.

Paine's celery compound cures diseases due to nervous weakness or to a bad state of the blood. It is the one real spring remedy known today that never fails to benefit. Get Paine's celery compound, and only Paine's celery compound, if you wish to be well!

WILL MOVE IN JULY.

Unless the War Is Ended by the Navy Before That Time.

The Government Will Not Send Our Gallant Citizen Soldiers to Cuba Until the Rainy Season Is Over.

[Special Washington Letter.]

THEY are singing again the old songs; the songs of the civil war. The soldiers are marching, the music is playing, they come here from near and from far.

More than a generation has passed away since the tocsin sounded in this republic. It is just 27 years since the flag was fired upon and the sections grappled in deadly struggle upon this continent.

President Lincoln called for 75,000 volunteers, under the mistaken apprehension that the rebellion would last but a month or two. Sherman was called a crazy man, because he said that it would take more than 200,000 men to bring the civil war to a successful conclusion. Thus both statesmen and soldier peered into the future in vain. It took five years, and fully 1,000,000 men, to accomplish the result.

To-day there are no sectional divisions in this republic. The nation is confronted with a foreign foe, and the magnitude of the war is not underestimated by the government at Washington; both civilian and soldier officials realizing that this war is to be a serious business from beginning to end.

In 1861 Horace Greeley led his country into trouble and disaster. He published a great newspaper in New York, and it was a war paper. Greeley started the cry: "On to Richmond," and his reiteration of that cry brought about a battle before the federal forces were ready for it; and defeat was the result at Bull Run.

It is timely now to express the hope that there may be no Greeley in journalism who can influence the present administration to make any movement which is not fully considered and amply prearranged. The armies must not move until they are ready to move. Let us do our plowing, our sowing and our harvesting before the armies move into actual hostilities. It is the present purpose of the government to keep the boys in camp, drill them, have mock battles and gradually prepare our volunteer armies for actual work on the tented field. There is another reason why the boys will be rendezvoused in and near Washington, Chattanooga, Atlanta and other convenient points for two or three months, and it is an excellent reason. The rainy season is now on in Cuba. There are no good roads in all that island. There is not a macadamized turnpike in the whole place. The

IN ARLINGTON CAMP.
(Signal Drill of the National Guard.)

Spaniards have held that beautiful country for 300 years and have done nothing for its improvement. Therefore it is impossible for armies to move, and hence it would be useless to send the boys there at this time, to swelter and suffer, without being able to accomplish anything for their country.

Furthermore, during the rainy season yellow fever rages in Cuba. If our soldier boys were to go there now, thousands and maybe tens of thousands of them would die of yellow fever, without being able to strike a blow at the enemy. They would be stricken, would suffer, languish and die far from the dear folks at home; and their deaths would be chargeable to the almost criminal carelessness of the government.

The harbor of Havana is a filthy cesspool. The Spaniards have done nothing for its drainage, nor would they ever do anything in the way of public improvement. Consequently that harbor is the breeder of yellow fever. From it the germs spread over the entire island, and often the plague has been brought to this country from that uncivilized and therefore unwholesome spot.

President McKinley has not underestimated the reaponsibilities which rest upon him. He has called for 125,000 volunteers; and when it is time for active operations there is reason to anticipate that he will call for 125,000 more. In good season there will be 150,000 well-drilled American soldiers in Cuba, and they will speedily settle the question of sovereignty there. The race of inquisitors, torturers, murderers, race exterminators and barbarian butchers, the people branded forever with the brand of Cain, will be driven not only from Cuba but from Puerto Rico. Then we shall have none of them on this continent.

This is one of the first reforms of modern history. There are others plainly visible for the immediate future. When Turkey is dead, when Crete is Greek and when Cuba is free we will all take a long day off and sing the long-meter doxology: "Praise God, from whom all blessings flow!"

It is a wonderful sight to witness the gathering of these citizen soldiers. They all belong to the national guard; they are our state militia, our working men, boys from the stores, shops and fields. They are men and boys accustomed to the ways of peace, but ready always to go to war, at the call of their country.

Over on the Virginia hills, opposite Washington, directly south of Arlington, where Gen. Lee lived before the war, and where 20,000 federal soldiers now lie buried, the boys are in camp They have spread their tents on the same ground which was for four years occupied by boys in blue who were preparing to go out and meet the boys in gray; all of them American soldiers, and all of them brave enough to die for their cause.

Looking from a window of his committee room at the capitol, Senator

FUN IN THE CAMP.
(Trials and Tribulations of Washday.)

Quay said: "Can you point out Munson's hill?"

Having been there often when out driving, the writer easily pointed out the locality, when Senator Quay said: "I must go over there and see the boys in camp on Munson's hill. It will make me think of my young manhood. When my regiment entered Washington we were marched out to Munson's hill, and there we were in camp for two or three months. It was from Munson's hill that I saw the first confederate flag. It was from Munson's hill that I marched out into my first battle. Scared? Well, I guess so. If any man tells you that he wasn't scared when he first went into battle, put him down as a romancer and a blowhard."

Senator Quay is only one; there are others. Many of the veterans of the civil war are now living here, being employed as clerks in the various executive departments. You should see them standing on the street corners in the morning or in the afternoon, watching these soldier boys as they march past, over the bridge, and into camp. You can tell the old soldiers from the civilians, for they talk knowingly of the drill and discipline of the passing soldiers. What memories must be rushing through their brains!

Have you thought of the international effect of this gathering of the citizen soldiery of the republic? The nations of Europe maintain immense navies, and they keep standing armies of from 100,000 to 500,000 men. These expensive navies and military establishments are maintained in order that they may keep the peace. They have been accustomed to sneer at our unarmed nation; and to wonder at our indifference.

Therefore, during all this time, Spain has been sneering at "the Yankee pigs," fully convinced that we would be powerless in a war. Well, it is little more than two months since our battleship was destroyed; and now we already have captured Manila. It is marvelous in the eyes of the nations of Europe.

You must remember that here we have representatives of every government in the world. The ambassadors of Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy; the ministers of Austria, Russia, China, Japan and other countries, are viewing these parades; and they are sending word to their governments. They tell with what marvelous haste the American republic can prepare a navy and muster an army of effective troops. Regardless of our war with Spain, this simple lesson concerning our reserved power will produce an effect which will forever hereafter command the respect of the nations of the civilized world.

And after it is all over these same representatives of the nations of the world will see our armies marching home again, disbanding, and the soldiers returning at once to the pursuits of peace. They will see our battleships and our cruisers quietly anchored at Mare island, League island or some convenient peaceful anchoring place. Our regular army will dwindle back to 25,000 men, and our navy will consist of those vessels necessary to cruise about and look after American interests.

Yes, the boys are tenting on peaceful fields, the ships are blockading Havana, the guns are ready for booming forth their deadly missiles; but after all this is a peaceful people, and we will walk the paths of peace again, as soon as the Spanish pestilence of crime is driven from our peaceful continent.

SMITH D. FRY.

Clearing for Action.

"What's that terrible noise overhead?" asked the startled youth, as the clock struck 12.

"I thought you had been in the navy?" answered the maiden, under her breath.

"So I have."

"And don't understand that noise?"

"No."

"Well, that's papa clearing for action."—Yonkers Statesman.

Special War Announcement.

The Outlook has secured the services of Mr. George Kennan, vice-president of the American Red Cross Society, as a member of its staff during the war. Mr. Kennan is the most distinguished American traveler of the time, and his studies of the conditions in Siberia have had a world-wide reading and have revolutionized the Russian exile system. He will study conditions in Cuba and elsewhere, as may be desirable, and report to the readers of the Outlook in a series of weekly articles which are certain to be of surpassing interest and to afford a graphic narrative of the progress of events.

SURE CURE FOR RHEUMATISM.

The statement that there is a cure for Rheumatism will be read with incredulity by the majority of people. However, it is a fact which we can prove. Rheumatism is a disease of the blood, and until that is thoroughly cleansed no one once affected with the disease can hope for relief. The remedy we offer is not a new discovery, but it has never been placed on the market in medicinal form. We know from personal observation that it has effected a permanent cure whenever tried and this is what suggested the idea of offering it to sufferers from rheumatism. The Sure Cure Rheumatic Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. They are warranted to cure the worst cases of rheumatism. Price, 50 cents a box. For sale by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price. Send for free sample.

WON BY MICHIGAN BOY.

First Prize in Oratorical Contest of College League Taken by Charles Simons, U. of M.

Chicago, Ill., May 7.—The annual oratorial contest of the College league was held here Friday night. Six colleges were represented and the first prize was taken by Charles Simons, of the University of Michigan, who chose "John Brown" for his subject. Other colleges in the debate were awarded positions in the following order: Northwestern, Oberlin, University of Iowa, University of Wisconsin and Chicago university. The contest was the eighth that has taken place since the formation of the league, and seven times Michigan has carried off first prize.

[Charles Simons, winner of the contest, was born in Detroit 21 years ago. He received his preparatory education in the public schools of that place, and is now a senior in the classical department of the University of Michigan. This was not the first oratorical contest he has seen. He received his practice in the high school, and has won two previous contests at Ann Arbor. He carried off honors in his class contest three consecutive years, and last year was appointed alternate in the northern oratorical contest. This year he won over 70 competitors. He is now class orator and will deliver the commencement oration.]

ORCHARDS IN BLOOM.

The Michigan Fruit Belt Gives Promise of an Early and Heavy Crop —Beets to Be Grown.

Benton Harbor, May 11.—The fruit belt of Michigan is now in full bloom. Peach and apple orchards of the early varieties are laden with blossoms. Early strawberries are also in bloom, and the acreage is larger than ever before. Barring unlooked-for cold weather, the fruit of southern Michigan will be in the markets from two to three weeks earlier than it was last season, and about the first week in June shipments to the Chicago market will be made. Cantaloupe growing is receiving much attention here, one farmer having 20 acres devoted to that crop. The prospect for raising sugar beets at a regular contract price for the sugar factory to be established here is very encouraging to the farmers.

According to the new calendar college will open two weeks earlier next fall, about the middle of September, and will close a few weeks earlier than usual. The remainder of the calendar is as usual, and but few changes, except in the entrance requirements to the medical department, are noted. Beginning with the fall of 1901 completion of the literary course will be required before entering the medical course.

Ex-Official Kills Himself.

Bay City, May 10. — Charles Glaser, ex-comptroller of West Bay City, recently indicted by the grand jury for embezzlement and forgery, committed suicide Monday morning at 6:30 o'clock by shooting himself near the heart. His trial in the circuit court was to have been begun Monday. Glaser was recently employed by the auditor general's office and came here to give $3,000 bail for his appearance. He left sealed letters to Judge Maxwell, Mayor Lind and others.

Hillsdale, May 6.—The first annual intercollegiate contest of the Michigan Oratorical league was held here Friday evening, seven Michigan colleges being represented. The judges did not make their award until Saturday forenoon, when they gave first place to Miss Alice Joy, of Albion, for the oration "John Jay a Political Hero." The prize was a gold medal awarded by the league.

'ROUND ABOUT US.

G. A. Kennedy has enlisted in Co. C, (Tecumseh) 1st Michigan Infantry, and is with the boys at Island Lake.—Blissfield Advance.

Earl Moore, a former Blissfield boy, has been a musician for several years on the U. S. cruiser Olympia, the flagship of Admiral Dewey's Pacific squadron. He is a fine musician and learned the rudiments of the art with the Blissfield band.—Blissfield Advance.

Herbert Randall received a letter from a Philadelphia firm trying to engage him to take photographs of the fortifications of the eastern coast. As there is no such firm in Philadelphia as that purports to come from, he has an idea that it is a Spanish scheme.—Ann Arbor Courier.

Caro: A detective in the secret service of the United States has been in town for several days endeavoring to find the source of a counterfeit $100 bill which turned up last week in Unionville. It is a most dangerous counterfeit, and passed through several banks without suspicion.

The Board of Regents are patriotic. They have granted diplomas to all student of the senior class who go to war, and all students in other classes who go to the front will be allowed to take up their work at the same time in any future year without additional fees.—Ann Arbor Courier.

Captain Granger writes: "Arrangements have been made to keep a flag floating from the armory continually until war is over. We have three flags and as soon as they are whipped out Mayor Hiscock and City Clerk Mills will furnish new ones. The city janitor will attend to them."—Ann Arbor Democrat. Good scheme. We should do the same.

A party of six young men, three of whom were students, and two sons of prominent citizens who are puzzled to know what to do to hold them in check, were gathered in by the police for being drunk and disorderly Saturday morning. They had been carousing all night over a keg of beer. They were released from jail on payment of the costs, in consideration of their parents.—Ann Arbor Argus.

Henry Snyder, who lives on the Palmyra road, reports that recently while working in a meadow about 50 rods from the highway, he discovered a soft spot in the ground. Thinking perhaps, that somebody had buried some stolen plunder there, he dug into the place, on Wednesday, and found instead the body of a new-born babe. The whereabouts of the parties who buried the body in this lonely spot remains a mystery.—Blissfield Advance.

We learn that one or two persons have been indiscreet enough to talk in a way not complimentary to the United States and that one man had expressed the hope that the Indiana had been sunken. The Enterprise wants its readers to be cautious in their remarks. These are war times and thousands of patriotic Americans are freely offering their lives to maintain the honor and reputation of our country and their friends will not tolerate any treasonable talk.—Manchester Enterprise.

That's right, a hobo fakir tried that same scheme on here the other day and an old soldier hit him in the jaw and then put him in the quay to reconsider his utterances.

In a conversation about giving advice, the following story was told by a witty gentleman to the Cheboygan Democrat: A man was charged with felony and upon his statement that he had no means to employ a lawyer, the judge called one to the bar and said: "Take this man into one of the jury rooms and give him the best advice you can." The prisoner went into the room with him and after a while the lawyer came out alone. "Where is the prisoner?" he was asked by the judge. "Oh he is gone! Yes, you told me to give him the best advice I could, and I told him to jump out of the window and run."—Coldwater Republican.

Coldwater Sun: In reading the usual notices from his pulpit last Sunday evening Rev. W. I. Cogshall of this place took up a piece of paper and to all appearances read from it as follows: "The regular session of the Donkey club will be held at the close of service. Members will line up just outside the church door, make remarks and stare at the ladies who pass as is the custom of the donkeys in full standing. Any member known to escort a lady to church like a gentleman, sit with her like a gentleman during service and escort her home again like a gentleman, will be promptly expelled from membership." The application of the preacher's wit is obvious.

Rev. E. A. Spence came near being a victim of a practical joke Tuesday evening. It seems that class feeling between the freshmen and sophomore classes is running high just now and has been manifested by members of each class catching members of the other class and cutting their luxuriant locks of hair. Several young men had been observed in the neighborhood of Mr. Spence's house and when he ventured to go on the street about fifty of them jumped upon him and were about to cut his hair but they discovered their mistake and fled, leaving him alone. Mr. Spence has possession of a hat which the owner can have by calling upon him at his residence.—Ann Arbor Democrat.

Company A, U. of M. Rifles, Wm. Magley, captain, is drilling hard each evening, and is rapidly getting into shape. All the members are big men, the requirements being that all men must be over 5 feet 8 inches and weigh over 140 pounds. At the drill last night Geo. Wilson was elected second lieutenant. A few vacancies are open, and all men coming within the requirements and who mean business are invited to meet with the company tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock in front of University Hall and make application to the captain. The company are trying to make theirs the best drilled one on the campus and for this reason only men who will take an interest in the plans are invited to join.—Ann Arbor Democrat.

Miss Sarah Mabel Hayden.

Passed on to life eternal Friday, May sixth, Sarah Mabel Hayden. Born in this village, most of her life was spent among us. She was graduated from our high school in the class of 1885.

Having had from her earliest childhood a passionate love of music, a desire to cultivate her talents in that direction induced her to go abroad in September of 1890. She spent two years in Dresden and one in Florence, improving every opportunity for developement.

Returning to Tecumseh in June of 1893, she accepted a position as teacher of voice culture in the young ladies' seminary at Sherman, Texas, remaining there one year. The three following winters were spent in Austin, pursuing her chosen vocation.

Owing to ill health she was unable to resume her work there and spent the past year in Tecumseh with her mother, taking a few pupils as she was not willing to sit with folded hands so long as she had strength to continue the work which gave her so much pleasure. Failing health obliged her to give up even this and from January 1898 until the end her suffering was extreme.

Modest and unassuming though unusually persevering in what she undertook, the impress of the faithful discharge of every duty despite the weariness of pain, the sweet patience with which she bore her sufferings is stamped indelibly on the hearts of those who knew and loved her.

RESOLUTIONS.

Camp Eaton, Mich., May 7, 1898.

Resolutions of respect adopted at informal meeting of the members of Co. C, First Infantry, Michigan National Guard.

WHEREAS, it has pleased Divine Providence to call from her home and loved ones the sister of our beloved Captain, Will H. Hayden,

RESOLVED that we, the members of Co. C, First Infantry, Michigan National Guards, while humbly bowing before the hand of God and submitting to Him "who doeth all things well," we wish to express our deep sorrow and heartfelt sympathy for the bereaved family.

RESOLVED that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family and that one be sent to each of the Tecumseh newspapers.

An exciting runaway occurred Wednesday forenoon. Chas. Kulenkamp's horse hitched to the stair railing in the rear of Lehr's store, became frightened at the unloading of goods from Jenter & Rauschenburger's furniture wagon and broke loose, taking part of the railing with it. That frightened the furniture team and all ran down the alley. The team struck a hitching post opposite Marx's blacksmith shop and upset the wagon, which they left there, and all ran down railroad street at a lively pace. They were soon captured however, without difficulty.—Manchester Enterprise.

TROOPS GO TO THE FRONT.

Thirty-First Regiment Michigan Volunteers Leaves for Chickamauga Park.

THREE TRAINS NEEDED TO CARRY THEM.

The Thirty-Second Infantry Receives Orders to Proceed at Once to Camp at Tampa, Fla.—The "Soo" Canal Locks Are Placed Under a Close Guard.

Camp Eaton, Island Lake, May 18.—The Thirty-second regiment, Michigan volunteers, has been ordered to Tampa, Fla., direct. Five new companies and detachments arrived in camp Tuesday. They will be assigned to the Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth regiments, Michigan volunteers. The companies were from Mount Clemens, 45 men, Capt. R. J. Farrar; Benton Harbor, the Alger guards, 84 men, Capt. Frank P. Graves; Ionia, 89 men, Capt. G. J. Lawless; Traverse City, the Hannah rifles, 89 men, Capt. J. V. McIntosh; Detroit, Company M, Detroit Light guard, Capt. Cowley.

It is believed at headquarters that another call will be made by the president soon. The estimates are that Michigan's quota will be three regiments, or 3,078 men.

Detroit, May 16.—The Thirty-first regiment, Michigan volunteers, left Camp Eaton at one o'clock this morning for Chattanooga, Col. Gardener in command. The regiment consists of 47 officers and 980 men, and departed from camp in a train composed of three first-class Wagner coaches for the officers, 37 tourist sleepers for the men, one horse car and five freight cars. They will travel over the Detroit, Grand Rapids & Western to West Detroit, thence over the Michigan Central and C., H. & D. to Cincinnati, thence over the Queen & Crescent to Chattanooga. Early Sunday morning the necessary cars arrived at Camp Eaton and the task of loading them commenced. Supplies of all kinds were issued to the officers, and the men left camp with everything except rifles and ammunition. More than half of the rifles used by the state are unfit for service; so Col. Gardener decided to take his men to camp without rifles and secure new ones from the government. Thousands of men and women visited the camp during the day and bade farewell to their husbands, sons, brothers and sweethearts. The Thirty-second infantry is awaiting orders to move, but it will be a week or more before the other two regiments are ready, as the supply of clothing and equipments has run out.

The Thirty-first became a part of the regular army Wednesday morning when Col. Cornelius Gardener and the field and non-commissioned staffs were mustered in. Gov. Pingree immediately wired Secretary Alger that the regiment had been mustered with 978 enlisted men and 47 officers.

The Thirty-second regiment is all mustered in, the last company going through Saturday morning, and will be ready to move to the front as soon as the government gives the word. Two thousand and ten men and ninety-two officers have been mustered in to date.

Gov. Pingree has ordered the companies recruited at Traverse City, Benton Harbor and other cities throughout the state to report in camp at once. These will be used to fill up the Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth regiments.

Gov. Pingree has received the following telegram from Secretary of War Alger:

"One regiment of infantry from your state having been mustered into service, will be ordered to proceed to Chickamauga, Tenn. It is desired that the state authorities furnish all supplies possible in the way of clothing, camp and provision equipage and all appurtenances for a soldier in the field, including tents, which are needed on arrival at Chickamauga. These troops, with those of other states, will be thoroughly equipped and moved to the front. This was found to be better than to attempt to thoroughly equip the regiments at the state rendezvous. Ordnance, quartermaster and subsistence departments are concentrating at Chattanooga, Tenn., supplies to meet situation."

Three car loads of supplies arrived here from the war department. The cars contained, among other things, 300 rubber blankets, 500 woolen blankets, 500 blouses, 500 pair of trousers, 3,000 spoons and 2,500 tin cups. The supplies were all for the Thirty-first infantry and are only a portion of those ordered by the state to equip the Michigan troops. The companies of the Thirty-first infantry assembled and the articles of war were read to them.

Recruiting for the national reserve is proceeding briskly all over the state, an average of 250 enlistments a day being received at headquarters here.

Complaints have been made that brewers at Grand Rapids and Detroit have been shipping beer to Camp Eaton by the car load and disposing of it both at wholesale and retail.

Sault Ste. Marie, May 14.—In view of the recent discovery of a quantity of dynamite near the canal and the appearance there of suspicious looking strangers during the past few days, the force of watchmen on the locks has been increased to 18 men by orders received from the department. Assistant United States Engineers J. L. Calvert, A. E. Longeladorf and F. C. Shevohon each have a force of six men who are on guard night and day to prevent the possible destruction of the valuable property by Spanish agency. Nobody is now permitted to cross the lock gates or to remain on the lock walls without first securing a pass.

Resigned.

Lansing, May 15. — J. W. Simmons, of Owosso, has resigned as a member of the state board of education to accept the appointment of director in the training department of the State Normal school.

SAWMILL HANDS KILLED.

Two Men Meet Instant Death in a Boiler Explosion Near Petoskey —Several Others Injured.

Petoskey, May 15. — A terrific explosion occurred at Conway, five miles north of this city, Saturday afternoon. Employes were just going to work after dinner at McFarlin Brothers' sawmill, when the boiler blew up with a roar that was heard for miles, tearing the mill to pieces, killing two men instantly and fatally injuring another. Engineer Louis Robinson was blown 100 feet and his body terribly mangled. One of the workmen, John Hatch, had just stepped into the boiler-room and he was also instantly killed, his remains being dragged from a mass of wreckage. George Ballou, another workman, was not near enough to receive the full force of the explosion, but he was struck by flying wreckage. His ribs were broken, as were his legs. He can live but a short time. Arthur McFarlin, one of the proprietors, was knocked senseless, but will recover. A dozen other men owe their lives to their habit of waiting for the whistle to blow before entering the mill.

THE WAR BONDS.

State Treasurer Steel Begins Their Sale, Disposing of $158,000 Worth the First Day.

Lansing, May 18.—The first issue of the Michigan war loan bonds was made by State Treasurer Steel Tuesday, $158,000 of 3½ per cent. bonds being allotted. The bonds were sold at a premium of one per cent. and were allotted in small blocks, not more than $15,000 being permitted to a single purchaser. The heaviest buyers were banking houses, but many individuals secured small amounts.

Lansing, May 17. — The time for receiving bids for the issue of $100,000 of Michigan 3½ per cent. war bonds expired Monday. The offers aggregated nearly $750,000, a number being for the entire issue. The allotment will be made to Michigan citizens in lots of from $100 to $1,000 at the rate of $101 for each $100 bond, notwithstanding the fact that Treasurer Steel can dispose of the issue in a lump at $101.15. The design is to make the sale a popular one.

For Free Text-Books.

Lansing, May 14. — The City School Superintendents' association Friday adopted resolutions recommending the adoption of the free text book system and in opposition to the new uniform text book law passed by the last legislature. The present name of the association being a clumsy one, it was changed to "The State Association of Superintendents of Schools." W. W. Chalmers, of Grand Rapids, was elected president.

Niles, May 17. — There are nearly half a hundred cases of measles in the city and new cases are being reported every day. There are also three cases of diphtheria. A daughter of August Miller died from the disease and another is very low. The diseases are interfering with the attendance at schools and they may be closed.

Farm Buildings Burned.

Flint, May 14. — Fire destroyed all the buildings on the farm of W. S. Pierson, in Mt. Morris township, except the house, which had a close call. Six barns and sheds attached were destroyed, with their contents, and some stock was cremated. The loss is heavy and but partially covered by insurance.

DYSPEPTICS---REJOICE.

Results of the New Cure for Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

Dr. Horton said recently in an article on the Stomach and its most prevailing disease—dyspepsia, "that very few people today possess a healthy sound stomach. And this class performs its part to digestion; while the other portion, which figure fully 50 per cent., during not to force digestion in a diseased stomach, as blood-poisoning in such conditions will eventually contaminate the whole system. Medicine has been comparatively at a standstill as to a reliable treatment for stomach diseases in all of their manifold forms, although many preparations are offered to sufferers, yet their use is usually more perilous than delay." But the saying that "necessity is the mother of invention" seems evidently verified in Prof. Drake's production of his marvelous treatment known as Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer. This well-spring of life is flowing into thousands of homes today; many who have tried nearly everthing with little or no relief, are now rejoicing over the results of this new method treatment, for in this treatment the idea of tieing sufferers down to an endless doping of drugs and nostrums is entirely lost sight of, as results from its use in bad complicated cases show that all that is required is a little persistency in following out the plain instructions which accompany each treatment, when a speedy and permanent cure will invariably be the result. LaGrippe,

Followed by Heart Disease, Cured by DR. MILES' HEART CURE.

MR. C. S. SHULTS, of Winterset, Iowa, inventor and manufacturer of Shults' Safety Whiffletree Coupling, writes of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. "Two years ago an attack of LaGrippe left me with a weak heart. I had run down in flesh to mere skin and bone. I could not sleep lying down for smothering spells; frequent sharp darting pains and palpitation caused a constant fear of sudden death, nothing could induce me to remain away from home over night. My local physician prescribed Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and in a few days I was able to sleep well and the pains gradually lessened, and finally ceased. I reduced the the doses, having gained fifteen pounds, and am now feeling better in every way than I have for years."

Dr. Miles' Remedies are sold by all druggists under a positive guarantee, first bottle benefits or money refunded. Book on diseases of the heart and nerves free. Address,

A True Story.

"My boy came home from school with his hand badly lacerated and suffering great pain. I dressed the wound and applied Carter's Herbal Ointment freely. All pain ceased and in a very short time healed without leaving a scar." For wounds, sprains and swellings, I know of no remedy to equal it. It is a household necessity. Price 25c. S. E. PARRISH.

DOWN ON THE FARM.

Tillers of the Soil Appreciate the Little Wonder-Worker.

Near the little town of Woods Corners, about six miles from Ionia, resides R. L. Pierson. Mr. Pierson, a farmer by occupation, and like all hard working tillers of the soil has found the burdens the back must bear is no light load to carry. Few people who never lived on the farm appreciate what it means to follow the plow from sunrise to sunset, but if the public in general don't know how hard such work is, the kidneys do. Long hours of work of any kind means long hours for the kidneys, and they can't stand it without rebelling. When the farmer comes home tired out at night, if he only realized that the tired feelings most always come from tired kidneys, and that the little wonder-workers, Doan's Kidney Pills, would right the wrong brought on by overwork, life would be easier for him. Read what Mr. Pierson says about his experience:

"I noticed when I stooped, lifted or changed my position suddenly, early in the fall of 1897, that I was always rewarded with sharp pains across the small of my back, and in the morning I was so lame and sore that I could scarcely get out of bed. The too frequent action of the kidney secretions, especially annoying at night, plainly indicated that my kidneys were the cause of the trouble. I had often heard Doan's Kidney Pills spoken of by my neighbors and as it was the first time I required such a preparation I procured a box. I noticed their beneficial effects in a day or two and I continued the treatment until my backache was cured and the other weakness was thoroughly relieved. I make no mistake when I say that Doan's Kidney Pills cure backache and kidney complaint." Doan's Kidney Pills are sold by all dealers. Price 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

Unless the ghost walks the business cannot run.

Don't let the little ones suffer from eczema or other torturing skin diseases. No need for it. Doan's Ointment cures. Can't harm the most delicate skin. At any drug store, 50 cents.

No other large city is as quiet as Berlin. Railway engines are not allowed to blow their whistles within the city limits. There is no loud bawling by hucksters, and a man whose wagon gearing is loose and rattling is subject to a fine. The court have a large discretion as to fines for noise-making. The negro whistlers who make night shrill and musical in Washington would have a hard time of it in a German community.

Strangest of all, piano playing is regulated in Berlin. Before a certain hour in the day and after a certain hour in the night the piano must be silent in that musical city. Even during the playing hours a fine is imposed for mere banging on the piano.

In Paris it is only during the carnival and on fete days that the sound of the French horn is tolerated. At other seasons it is rigorously prohibited by the police.

German intolerance of noise is not a recent thing. Wallenstein, who demanded absolute quiet, had 130 houses torn down in Prague and sentries posted all round in the distance, to secure silence. There is a tradition that still further back in time a Bohemian shepherd, seeing the monk Adelbert asleep, blew on his pipe in mischief. The monk called down the curse of deafness on him.

Her Boy was Dying.

How a child was brought back from the brink of the grave to enjoy a healthy, happy childhood. One mother's advice for parents concerning the health of their children.

The boy about whom this strange, true story is told wasted away till he seemed nothing but skin and bones. Then his health turned and he became fat and hearty.

The first stage is familiar to many parents. The second is of deep interest to all parents or friends of ailing little ones.

Fathers and mothers, who long to have their children healthy and happy cannot fail to sympathize and rejoice with Mr. and Mrs John F. Williams.

Their comfortable home, a short distance from Damon, Ill., is happy now because of the wonderful events that are told in words eloquent with simple truth and gratitude, by the mother of the boy.

"Our Josie was never strong," said Mrs. Williams. "From his birth he was weak and puny.

"Two years ago, when he was two years old, he had an attack of lung fever. Dr. N. A. Jones cured this fever, but the child did not recover strength.

"He began fading away beneath our eyes.

"He had no appetite, vomited a great deal, coughed continually, his limbs became withered.

"He became painfully weak and emaciated. We waited for his death.

"At this time a boarder named Asa Robinson suggested that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People would do the child good.

"They had cured Mr. Robinson of rheumatism and he believed in them.

"My husband bought three boxes of the pills. We began giving Josie one-third of a pill three times a day.

"In three days the child was brighter. His appetite was better. He began to show interest in toys and was less fretful.

"We increased the dose, giving him half a pill at a time. He gained every day in weight and appetite.

"At the end of this treatment, after taking three boxes, he was a new boy.

"He was happy, hearty, enjoying life with his little companions.

"I have no doubt that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People saved him from an early grave."

Mrs. Williams made affidavit to the truth of her statement before David Caine, a Notary Public.

Dr. A. A. McCabe examined the child and made oath before Notary Mort Brooks that he is now physically sound and well.

The evidence is completed by Dr. N. A. Jones, who made affidavit before Notary George Rupp, that the child had been in the condition described by Mrs. Williams, as the result of catarrhal pneumonia.

The action of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People on the blood and nerves system, in eliminating poisons and furnishing materials for new tissues, makes them a sure remedy for wasting diseases and the long train of evils arising from disordered blood and nerves. All druggists sell the pills one box for 50 cents; six boxes for $2.50.

NO CURE—NO PAY.

That is the way the druggists sell GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC, for Chills and Malaria. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating tonics. Price 50 cts Forsale by John . Orr

What Oth rs Say About it.

It gives me pleasure to express my faith in Carter's Cascara Cordial, which is the only medicine I ever take or recommend. During a time when I was greatly overworked I was persuaded by a friend to try the Cordial. I am happy to say immediately began to realize tonic and blood-nourishing effects. I have in my travels recommended it to many people, and personally know of several cases where the Cordial has effected a cure when the doctors have failed. Respectfully,
MABEL JENNESS MILLER.

Entered at the postoffice at Tecumseh, Michigan as second class matter.

The war progresses. All that is to be hoped is that Uncle Sam will push matters so that the end will come before the sick season in Cuba comes on.

"Co. C. 31st Migh. Vol. Infantry Camp Thomas, Chickamauga, Ga.," is the address of our boys in camp. As many copies of the HERALD as they can read go forward to them each week and it would be well could every person in Tecumseh remember this address and send the boys tokens of remembrance often. It is no fun down there away from home and friends.

Last Thursday, Friday and Saturday there appeared on our streets, morning, afternoon and evening a "fakir" who sold watches and gave away pocket books containing money. The "skeme" was, of course, a swindle. The man was an easy manipulator, being able to change the $20.00 bill for a $1.00 bill so quickly no one, except the man who saw into the box from the second story window, could detect him and the usual number of fools "bit." The marshal was grossly negligent in not arresting the "fakir" and the HERALD has grave doubts about the judgment of the village clerk being good in issuing a second license to such a man.

Human nature as verified by Gov. Pingree is indeed paradoxical. He refused to appoint a sergeant of the 19th as adjutant because we had plenty of good men in Michigan but he appoints Gardener of the 19th colonel and turns down two better men from Michigan because—why? Because its Pingreeism. It would seem that a man with an ounce of gray matter in his skull, a Michigan man and a man who pretends to be for the people, would have sense enough to know better than trust the people's soldiers to a relic like Cornelius Gardner, a man without a reputation, without the capabilities for making one nor the inclination to do anything becoming a man or a soldier. The most noted physician and surgeon in Michigan said last week "The officers who failed to pass the examination for service expecting to serve under Gardener are indeed lucky. He has in him the two component parts whose combination makes the meanest thing on earth a wire pulling politician and an army officer." Capt. Gardener himself has never been granted an favors in the service having been for the most part assigned to detached squads or skeleton companies. Comparing his record and capibilities with the Michigan men who should have had command he is a mere recruit. Our hope is that the 31st may be so far superior to their Colonel that their deeds shall bury in oblivion both himself and the record of his dirty work and may those who help the deal go with him.

Mrs. Geo. Smith.

Miss Anna Schreyer was born April 10, 1829, in Bavaria, Germany. At the age of 12 years she came to New York city with her parents where they remained a number of years. In 1875 they moved to Toledo where they resided for 23 years. Her death occurred April 30, 1898, she being in her 70th year. She leaves a husband, ten children, two brothers, John and Peter Schreyer, of New York city, and one sister, Mrs. Margaretha Beckley, of Tecumseh, to mourn her loss.

Her busy thought was ever with the poor and needy
And ever ready to the call to do her Savior's bidding.

Geo. This gas is undoubtedly the light of the future. Rations will be ready at 5 o'clock and will be served early and late at 20 cents each. Recruits desiring strawberries or lemon ice will be charged 5c extra. Schooners of Sampson coffee, platoons of bread and Cuban butter, large detachments of ham, and a flying squadron of potato chips with volley of olives will determine the Main(e) feature of the engagement. Schley maidens will carry the provisions, nor Dewey exaggerate when we state that it will take a strong Manilla rope to keep the average citizen from going to the front that night.

The Tecumseh Odd Fellows had another interesting meeting Tuesday evening. About thirty members of the Blissfield lodge were present and the Blissfield team handled the work upon two candidates in the first and second degrees. The I. O. O. The horse ran over on the town line road and was stopped at Chas. Matthews. Miss Camburn did not regain consciousness until after the doctor's arrival but was pronounced not seriously injured and is rapidly recovering.

In our haste to claim Captain Charles Vernon Gridley in a previous issue we made the mistake of crediting him to the wrong family of Gridleys. We are in receipt of a letter from his mother in Washington explaining our error. Captain Gridley is the eldest son of Frank and A. E. Gridley. Mrs. Gridley was a sister of Dudley Sholes of this place and was married here. They afterward moved to Hillsdale where Mr. Gridley died. Mrs. Gridley secured government employment in Washington through the influence of the late C. A. Stacy, who was also instrumental in securing the appointment of young Charles to the Annapolis military academy from Hillsdale. From this point on our sketch was correct. Mrs. Gridley is still a resident of Washington making her home with her youngest son Lucius. She writes "We are all well and feel greatly relieved that Charlie has been spared this time at least. I have not heard from him for a month except what I see by the papers. I do not hear from anyone in Tecumseh since Ella (Mrs. Moir) left there. Hope you will see this all clear now as I want Charlie's record straight. Earle Gridley, the blacksmith, was a brother of Frank Gridley consequently an uncle of our Charles instead of being his father.

Tecumseh's soldier boys, Co. C. of the 31st Michigan Volunteer Infantry, are now at Camp Thomas, Chichamauga, Georgia, having left Island Lake last Sunday night about 12 o'clock. Those who went to see them Sunday found a very busy lot of men, packing accoutrements and making final preparations for bidding Camp Eaton good bye and starting south. The train was divided into three sections and our boys were assigned to the third section. They were well cared for in Wagner sleepers and not much crowded for room and the trip down was very comfortable as well as uneventful except for the ovations which Michigan soldiers were given at every point. At Chattanooga, Tenn., an order was issued for every man to fill his canteen with water as that at the Park was very poor. The first night in camp was indeed soldier life. The regulars having taken all the wagons with them, it was found impossible to get the tents on to camp and the boys rolled themselves in their blankets and reposed on the bosom of mother earth, but being warm there they suffered no great inconvenience. How long they will remain at Chickamauga is uncertain but long enough at least to be thoroughly equipped with modern war tools and to become thoroughly used to tactics used in actual warfare. When the order comes to move to the front the 31st will no doubt achieve glory and fame for a better regiment of men it would be hard to find. Wherever their lot may be cast the thoughts and prayers of our people go with them and messages of their welfare will be anxiously awaited.

Hereafter the United States Will Be a Really Great Power.

Circumstances Have Driven Us Into the Arena of International Politics Where We Must Play an Important Part.

[Special Washington Letter.]

THE circumstances have created themselves. This republic has entered upon a new epoch. Precedents are being established which tend to radically alter the traditional policy of the country.

Washington could not foresee the conditions of the century beyond him, and hence he believed that this republic would always be isolated. President Monroe uttered a doctrine which is dear to our people, but he could not forsee a warfare for the protection of Spanish subjects from Spanish tyrants upon American soil. Lincoln, Jackson, Grant and even Cleveland could not peer into the future and see what destiny had in store for us as a participant in the development of the world.

The international lawyer, the philosopher who pores over the map of the world, and studies the movements of nations in their onward marches, will not need the eye of a seer to discern that in a very brief space of time the stars and stripes will be floating over the Philippine islands, the Hawaiian islands, Cuba, Puerto Rico and the Canary islands.

After taking possession of them what will we do with them? That is an entirely different problem. Its solution will depend upon circumstances, some of which are yet undiscernable because undeveloped.

Among statesmen of prominence there is no dissent concerning the conditions of American development in international affairs. On the contrary, it is generally agreed that present conditions and visible developments of the future indicate the manifest destiny of this republic to extend its power and to exert international influence, in order that our strength at home may be maintained and the perpetuity of our institutions may be assured.

The wooden ships, with their wealth of spreading canvas, are of the past. The iron and steel monsters of modern times propelled by steam require new policies and new international considerations. The people who fix their eyes on Cuba, and who view only our mobilized land forces speeding to Tampa, have but a child's view of the international panorama which is now unfolding before the statesmen of the world. The fleet of Admiral Sampson, the flying squadron, the regular army and the volunteer army do not constitute the entire sum total of our national strength, nor of our national purposes. Circumstances are running away beyond the primary intent and purpose of President McKinley.

We have always maintained a fleet in Asiatic waters, and our naval station there must be maintained. Circumstances are such that we cannot afford to forever withdraw our battleships and cruisers from Asiatic waters. We cannot live in our own shell like a national snail.

When this country abandons the Asiatic station, it will be time for us to abandon Alaska, and when we abandon Alaska we may as well make ready to abandon our Pacific coast states. In brief, we must be one of the foremost nations of the world in every respect, or we will sink out of sight and deserve the sneers and snubs which have heretofore been put upon us by the powers of the old world. We must be narrow or we must broaden out.

To-day we have not a place in Asia where we may stop over night and be welcome. Because we are at war with Spain there is no harbor open to us along the eastern coast of Asia, and there is no coaling place for the ships of our Asiatic squadron. The American citizens who first face this fact must do so with deep humiliation, but it is true that we are not allowed to-day to enter Asiatic harbors for food, coal or any other of the necessities of life which may be called contraband of war.

Our humiliation is deeper when we note and acknowledge the fact that our republic is the only nation of the first class that can be kicked out of Asia in this unceremonious manner. All of the European nations have coaling stations and commercial footholds over there. But our naval vessels had to get out and fight for a foothold, or else steam across the Pacific ocean 10,000 miles. When our people understand this fact they will say unanimously that it is not right.

From the beginning of the Cuban war the American republic has been suspected by European nations of having sinister designs of conquest. There was no such intention on the part of our people, nor in the mind of the administration. But circumstances have altered conditions so radically, and international developments have been so marked, that it became necessary for us to take possession of the Philippine islands; not merely for the present, but for the future. The war with Spain has brought about this result as one of the unforseen conditions of the times.

Some of our statesmen who have bitterly opposed the annexation of the Hawaiian islands now favor action on that line. It is daily more and more apparent that we must have military and naval strength in the Pacific ocean, or we will fall behind in the procession of the nations of the century.

Our institutions are now being unexpectedly tested, and the republic is rapidly rounding into an epoch which will bring to our constitutional government of the people weal or woe; an epoch which might have been avoided, averted or delayed by sound diplomacy. In the very near future these views of statesmen will be outlined in congressional debate. At present the conditions and environments are known only in the confidential conferences of statesmen, in the capitol cloak rooms or in the privacy of their homes.

Ever since the order went to Admiral Dewey to attack the Philippine islands, the eyes of our diplomats have been centered upon the orient, and but little thought has been given to the fleet in Cuban waters, the flying squadron or the land forces which have been mobilizing at the various designated points of rendezvous. The horizon of the nations they have scanned, viewing the peoples who are avariciously grasping for future aggrandizement. Our most able statesmen believe that for self-protection alone, and with no primary spirit of conquest, we should obtain and maintain a foothold in the orient.

It is a fact, not for a moment to be overlooked, that France desires to be the strongest and greatest power in southeastern Asia. France has long coveted the Philippine islands. Diplomatically, if not forcibly, France will object to the permanent conquest of those islands by this republic. Even now France is bristling up and preparing her navy for aggressive action.

But now that this country has gone forward there will be no backward step. Our people have not generally paid any special attention to the Philippine islands, but our statesmen have studied and learned all about them. They lie midway between China and Australia. They contain 115,000 square miles; and the British islands contain only 118,000 square miles. The land on the Philippine islands is almost fabulously fertile. The population is 8,000,000, which is almost three times as many people as there were in the American colonies when they struck out for liberty and independence. They are good people, too. They are learning the art of war and are winning their independence. They are fully aware of the value of personal and national liberty. They are but little, if any, inferior to the people whom Gomez and Garcia are leading in Cuba. It was a war necessity that this republic should capture the Philippine islands. We will always have and maintain there a coaling station, if nothing more.

No nation in Europe would undertake to thwart us except France, and she dare not. France has the second greatest navy in the world, but she cannot use her navy to enforce any demand upon this country without encountering other navies. There may be some naval demonstrations in Asiatic waters, but the fleets of Great Britain and of Russia will also be there. Those powerful nations would rather see the Philippine islands in our possession, or under our protectorate, than in the power of any other country.

Right there lies the core of the argument of diplomacy. Right there we see the kernel of the diplomatic nut. The possible possession of the Philippine islands by this country, as the result of war with Spain, has constituted the strongest argument for peace with the powers of Europe; and yet few of our people have realized that fact. It is on this account that Spain has been unable to secure European concert to aid her in defending her Cuban possessions. The powers of Europe would rather see those valuable islands under the stars and stripes than to see them wrested from Spain by France. And France has been plotting to make just that move upon the slightest pretext.

Beginning war for the preservation of peace at its doors, this republic has really entered upon an era of conquest and marked an epoch in history; an epoch which would have made Washington and Jefferson shudder could they have foreseen it.

MAYOR OF LOWELL.

Family of Wm. F. Courtney have Reason to Believe in

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

Mayor Courtney, in employing Paine's celery compound in his family, had the example and assurance of many persons who occupy today like responsible positions in other cities.

Mayor Ramsdell, of Lynn, a personal friend of Mayor Courtney, recently gave his opinion of this great remedy as follows:

"A previous experience with Paine's celery compound as a restorer of exhausted energy induced me recently to take it again, the many duties of the mayor's office having taxed my slight physical resources greatly. I made no mistake. In one week I found my appetite improved, the feeling of weariness disappearing and my nerves becoming steadier. Paine's celery compound has thus been a friend in time of need and I like to say a word for a friend."

His unhesitating recommendation had much to do with its use by Mayor Courtney.

Mayor Miles B. Preston, of Hartford, Ct., said within a day or two, speaking of the same remedy:

"The modern man of business, be he ever so sturdy, finds often that the continued pressure of affairs has caused the nerves to remonstrate and fall in tone. At such a time Paine's celery compound becomes of value. Having experienced its benefits I gladly commend it."

Among other statements as to the value of Paine's celery compound, Mayor Bennett, of St. Charles, Ill., added: "I believe that Paine's celery compound has enabled me to escape my periodical attack of rheumatism this winter. I very cheerfully recommend it to any one in similar need, in the full belief that it will be helpful in every case."

Mayor Courtcey has been eminently successful as a lawyer, one of his appeals to the supreme court having been instrumental in bringing about the passage of the present ballot reform law. Mayor Courtney's happy experience with Paine's celery compound is shown in his letter annexed:

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 11, 1897.

Messrs. Wells, Richardson & Co.,

Gentlemen—I take pleasure in recommending Paine's celery compound. It has been of great benefit to members of my family, who have used it, and among my friends and acquaintances, including Mayor Ramsdell, of Lynn. I have known it to prove very successful in accomplishing cures. Sincerely yours.

WILLIAM F. COURTNEY.

There is absolute relief from nervous prostration, sleeplessness, poor appetite, growing thinness and loss of vigor and strength in Paine's celery compound.

It is a fact verified by the practice of the best physicians and by thousands of personal testimonials that Paine's celery compound makes new, pure blood builds up the nervous system, and cures disease when all other remedies have failed. It is the greatest spring remedy in the world.

WAITING FOR THE FLEETS.

Movements of the Americans and the Spaniards Are Both a Deep Mystery.

NO NEWS OF WARSHIPS MADE PUBLIC.

A Fierce Battle at Cienfuegos—Admiral Dewey Heard From—The Administration Urged to Hasten the Cuban Campaign—The Volunteer Army—Other News.

Key West, Fla., May 16. — Amid a perfect storm of shot from Spanish rifles and batteries the American forces cut the cables at Cienfuegos.

Four determined boat crews, under command of Lieut. Winslow and Ensign Magruder, from the cruiser Marblehead and the gunboat Nashville, put out from the ships, the coast having previously been shelled. The work of the volunteers was perilous and one was killed while bravely doing his duty, six others being seriously wounded; two of them will probably die.

The Spanish loss is known to have been very heavy, the warships firing hundreds of shells right into their midst.

Dewey Heard From.

Washington, May 16. — Admiral Dewey telegraphs to the navy department as follows:

"Cavite, May 13.—Hong-Kong, May 16.—Maintaining strict blockade. Reason to believe that the rebels are hemming in the city by land, but have made no demonstration. Scarcity provisions in Manila. Probable that the Spanish governor will be obliged to surrender soon. Can take Manila any moment. Climate hot and moist. On May 12 captured gunboat Callao, attempting to run blockade. Have plenty coal. One British, one French, two German, one Japanese vessel here observing.

"DEWEY."

The Corps Commanders.

Washington, May 17.—In a general order issued at the war department Monday afternoon the assignments to the different corps and other important commands are announced. They are as follows:

Maj. Gen. Wesley Merritt, U. S. A., the department of the Pacific.

Maj. Gen. John S. Brooke, U. S. A., the First corps and the department of the gulf.

Maj. Gen. William M. Graham, U. S. volunteers, the Second corps, with headquarters at Falls Church, Va.

Maj. Gen. James F. Wade, U. S. volunteers, the Third corps, reporting to Maj. Gen. Brooke, Chickamauga.

Maj. Gen. John J. Coppinger, U. S. volunteers, the Fourth corps, Mobile, Ala.

Maj. Gen. William R. Shafter, U. S. volunteers, the Fifth corps, Tampa, Fla.

Maj. Gen. Elwell S. Otis, U. S. volunteers, to report to Maj. Gen. Merritt, U. S. A., for duty with troops in the department of the Pacific.

Maj. Gen. James H. Wilson, U. S. volunteers, the Sixth corps, Chickamauga, reporting to Maj. Gen. Brooke.

Maj. Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, U. S. volunteers, the Seventh corps, Tampa, Fla.

Maj. Gen. Joseph H. Wheeler, U. S. volunteers, the cavalry division, Tampa, Fla.

Clearing the Way.

Washington, May 17. — Commodore Watson, commanding the blockading squadron at Havana, has given orders to attack and destroy the Spanish fortifications on the Cuban coast, except at Havana, in order to clear the way for the army of invasion.

NO FURTHER DELAY.

Invasion of Cuba Is Likely to Occur in a Few Days.

Washington, May 18.—Considerable pressure has come upon the administration from congressional quarters to have the campaign hastened, and there are thought to be signs of a resumption of the plans of the military leaders for the invasion of Cuba at the point where they were suddenly suspended by the announcement of the arrival of the Spanish flying squadron at Martinique. One sign of this was the inclusion in the regular army orders of a direction to Capt. Alger to go to Tampa to join Gen. Miles. At army headquarters there was no sign of immediate departure, but after all, in view of the fact that three times at least everything has been prepared for a movement to Tampa, it may be presumed that everything is in train for departure at short notice without open manifestation of preparations.

No News of the Fleets.

The official bulletin boards Tuesday failed to yield any news of the movements of either of the three fleets, Sampson's, Schley's and the Spanish flying squadron, and there is reason to believe that the department itself has received no information on that point.

The general impression is that no particular effort is to be made just now to pursue the Spaniards, so long as they keep within the confines of the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean sea, but that Sampson and Schley, in combination, will encircle the island of Cuba, maintain the blockade, and convoy troops across the Florida straits, if necessary, meanwhile simply keeping a watch on the Spanish flying squadron, to see that it does not do mischief either to the American fleet, or, by escaping into the Atlantic, to the seaboard cities.

The Volunteer Army.

Washington, May 18.—The volunteer army is rapidly nearing completion. Reports received by Adjt. Gen. Corbin show that 92,580 men have been mustered in. Eighteen states have completed their quota, as follows: California, Georgia, Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Maryland, Minnesota, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Battle Expected.

Washington, May 18.—It is believed the Spanish squadron under Admiral Cervera will be unable to avoid a conflict with either Admiral Sampson or Commodore Schley, and reports of a great battle are looked for at any hour.

The Spanish Fleet.

Curacao, Dutch West Indies, May 18. —The Spanish fleet is now supposed to be off the coast of Venezuela, or off the coast of Colombia. Only a portion of the fleet was allowed to enter this harbor to obtain provisions, cattle and coal, which were purchased here. Confirmation was obtained of the report that the Spaniards left one of their torpedo gunboats at Fort De France, island of Martinique.

Situation at Manila.

Hong-Kong, May 18.—The steamer Esmeralda, which has just arrived from Manila with 400 refugees, chiefly Chinese, reports that the United States cruisers Concord and Boston are going to Iloilo, where they expect prompt capitulation and to recapture the American ship Saranak, with a cargo of coal. The blockade of Manila is extremely rigid and several foreign ships have been refused admittance.

Pending the arrival of troops from the United States, the Americans defer hostilities ashore.

To Urge Insurgent Attack.

London, May 18.—The Hong-Kong correspondent of the Times, telegraphing Tuesday, says: Aguinaldo and the principal leaders in the recent rising left in the United States dispatch boat McCulloch for Cavite. They will attempt to persuade the natives to attack Manila in a few days. They have promised Admiral Dewey to regulate their conduct in accordance with the principles of humanity. The Americans are evidently anxious to complete their conquest before the arrival of the troops from San Francisco. British residents now take a more hopeful view and a famine is no longer feared.

Says Manila Must Capitulate.

London, May 18.—The Hong-Kong correspondent of the Standard says: It is expected, owing to the strict blockade and the famine resulting from it, that the city of Manila will soon be compelled to capitulate to the American blockading squadron under Admiral Dewey.

WITHOUT A CABINET.

All Spanish Ministers Resign—It Is Alleged New Cabinet Will Continue to Prosecute the War.

Madrid, May 16, via Paris.—All the members of the Spanish cabinet have resigned. Senor Sagasta will at once communicate the situation to the queen regent, who will entrust him with the task of forming a new ministry. It is officially denied that the cabinet changes are connected with a peace movement. On the contrary, it is declared that Premier Sagasta's ministry, when the new cabinet is formed, will continue to prosecute the war with the full resources of the country.

Cost Seven Lives.

St. Hyacinthe, Que., May 17. — A disastrous fire occurred here early in the day when the Materie St. Joseph was burned, causing the loss of seven lives and injury to a number of inmates, of whom there were 200 in the institution, by jumping from windows. There are also five unaccounted for. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Indorse the War.

Milwaukee, May 18. — The chiefs of police of the National Association of the United States and Canada, at their session Friday, passed a resolution declaring their support of the government in its war with Spain.

Favors Beer Selling.

Des Moines, Ia., May 18.—Judge Woolson, of the United States circuit court, has rendered a decision in favor of beer selling in Iowa which is a great backset for the state prohibition law.

Declared a Holiday.

Omaha, Neb., May 16.—Gov. Silas A. Holcomb has proclaimed June 1 a public holiday in Nebraska, in honor of the opening of the Trans-Mississippi and International exposition at Omaha.

Prefers Senate to Army.

Washington, May 16.—Senator Sewell, of New Jersey, has declined the appointment as major general of volunteers, presumably because he would have to forfeit his seat in the senate.

Remenyi Drops Dead.

San Francisco, May 16. — Edouard Remenyi, the Hungarian violinist, dropped dead at the Orpheum theater while performing Sunday afternoon.

An Envelope Trust.

Worcester, Mass., May 18.—Ten of the most prominent envelope companies in the country formed a trust here with a capital of $7,000,000.

A Big Fire.

Attleboro, Mass., May 18.—A fire destroyed the business portion of this city, the loss being nearly $2,000,000.

FOUND HIS WAY HOME.

A Lonely Fox Hound That Traveled a Distance of Five Hundred Miles in Six Weeks.

"Did you ever hear of a dog traveling from Mississippi to Kentucky?" said a gentleman from Houstonville recently to a New York Telegram reporter, "without a human companion?

"Well, I heard Col. Tee Carpenter tell of a wonderful hound of his. He says that some years ago he sold a hound to a gentleman of Corinth, Miss. The dog broke away from the expressman on the train when in northern Mississippi and was not heard of for some time. The Mississippi gentleman wrote to Carpenter and asked what was the reason the dog had not been sent. Carpenter looked the matter up and found that the dog had jumped out of the express car while the train was running at full speed. About six weeks afterward the hound showed up at Carpenter's house in Lincoln county. He had come home alone, being guided by that peculiar instinct with which dumb animals are gifted. He had traveled fully 500 miles. The dog was never of any value thereafter and he was completely prostrated by the trip. He looked like a skeleton when he got back to Kentucky, and could never afterward run fast enough to keep up with Carpenter's other fox hounds."

SAN JUAN IS BOMBARDED

Ships of the North Atlantic Squadron Batter Down the Forts and Silence Spanish Guns.

ENGAGEMENT BEGINS BEFORE SUNRISE.

Nine American Warships in the Conflict and the Iowa Fires the First Shot—One Man Killed and Seven Injured—Little Damage Done to Our Boats.

St. Thomas, via Fort de France, Martinique, May 13.—Admiral Sampson has hammered the forts of San Juan de Puerto Rico to powder. The American squadron arrived just before daylight yesterday. Word had been sent ahead that the fortifications were to be bombarded—notice to women and children, to aliens and noncombatants to quit the place and seek safety. Out of the gray of the dawn there flared from the halyards of the flagship New York the signal: "Remember the Maine." It was answered by a mighty cheer. Then the crashing thunder of a great gun broke and boomed over the harbor.

Came from the Iowa.

It was one of the great 12-inch guns on the Iowa which began the bombardment. "Fighting Bob" Evans was in his element at last. The shell struck home on Castle Morro, the limestone fortress which guards San Juan as its namesake stands watch over Havana. Then the Indiana opened from its forward turret with a 13-inch projectile. The walls of Morro crumbled where the projectiles struck. The castle's guns soon made reply, but the first shot flew far to the leeward, bursting harmlessly. On steamed Sampson's fleet, the monitors Puritan and Terror creeping nearer inshore, their low freeboard presenting a small target for the forts, and their 10 and 12-inch guns doing execution against the fortifications.

Morro Castle Crumbles.

Morro fired but three shots from its heavy guns. There were but seven shots from the big guns of the American squadron. These left Morro castle a crumbled ruin. Its guns were mute, its gunners killed or in flight.

Then began the attack on the land batteries. Here the cruisers did effective service, and soon the walls were tumbled about the ears of the officials, the guns dismounted or abandoned. The Spaniards pluckily served their guns, but their fire was slow and wild.

Dispatch from Sampson.

Washington, May 14. — At 7:20 Friday morning the navy department received the following dispatch from Admiral Sampson. It was dated at St. Thomas, May 12, and was as follows:

"A portion of the squadron under my command reached San Juan this morning at daybreak. No armed vessels were found in the port. As soon as it was sufficiently light I commenced attack upon the batteries defending the city. This attack lasted about three hours and resulted in much damage to the batteries and incidentally to a portion of the city adjacent to the batteries. The batteries replied to our fire, but without material effect. One man was killed on board the New York and seven slightly wounded in the squadron. No serious damage to any ships resulted.

"(Signed) SAMPSON."

Sampson Retires.

After three hours' firing the admiral withdrew the fleet, and, heading for Key West, he said: "I am satisfied with the morning's work. I could have taken San Juan, but I have no force to hold it. I only wanted to administer punishment. This has been done. I came for the Spanish fleet and not for San Juan."

Given a Chaplainship.

Chicago, May 7.—Rev. Thomas Ewing Sherman, of the Society of Jesus, connected with St. Ignatius college, Chicago, has been appointed chaplain of the Fourth regiment of the Missouri national guard, Col. Corby, commanding. Almost all the men of the regiment are Catholics. Father Sherman is the son of Gen. W. T. Sherman, and is enthusiastic over his appointment.

Mail Deliveries Not Limited.

Washington, May 14.—The conferees on the post office appropriation bill have agreed to strike out the senate provision limiting the number of mail deliveries in cities to four times daily.

Dropped Dead.

Louisville, Ky., May 17. — Capt. Michael G. Bauer, secret service agent for Kentucky, dropped dead in front of the custom house from hemorrhage of the lungs.

A Spanish Officer Who Thought He Could Clean Out the Whole United States.

"I chanced to hear a conversation a few weeks ago in Havana that was both interesting and amusing," remarked a gentleman who was until recently connected officially with the United States consulate at Havana, to a Washington Star reporter. "While dining in a cafe one evening my attention was attracted by a Spanish officer and an Englishman seated at an adjoining table. The Spaniard, who was a well-known officer, was somewhat flushed with wine and he spoke in loud tones, his remarks being fraught with braggadocio. The Englishman was also a well-known resident of Havana, having large business interests there.

"I cite the incident," continued the ex-official, "merely to show that the Spaniards feel thoroughly confident that they could make a strong, if not overpowering, showing in case of war with this country. The subject was discussed by the Spaniard and the Englishman for several moments, until finally the former sneeringly said: 'Why, I could land in Florida with 25,000 men and walk right through the whole United States.'

"The reply of the Englisman was the amusing part of the incident.

"'Yes, you could,' he said in a most sarcastic manner; 'yes, you could—if the police didn't stop you.'"

C. A. EVERETT

Enroute to Alaska.—Letter No. 6.

In Camp on Lake Bennett.

April 21, 1898.

You will see by this that we are still on the move. We are like the gypsy; here to day and away tomorrow. I think my last letter was written when we were at Sheep Camp, on the other side of Chilcoot Pass. We left Sheep Camp on Monday Apr. 11, early in the morning and passed over the recent snow slide, where I have no doubt many a poor fellow lies buried yet, down deep under the snow, and on up to what is called the Scales. This is as far as goods can be taken with horses in the winter, think there is a summer trail where horses are taken to the top. This place is called the Scales from the fact that most of the goods are weighed here and packed up to the summit by professional packers, at so much per pound, the price varies according to supply and demand. The day we went up they were getting 3-4 cents, but some days they get as high as 1 1-2cts. per pound. A professional packer will take at one load generally from 80 to 100 lbs. and some of them will take 150 or 180 lbs. The Indians seem to be the best packers, one of them has taken 200 lbs. at a trip.

From the Scales to the Summit is 1100 ft. and is very steep. There are steps cut in the ice and snow and a rope stretched along one side to hang on to and help yourself up. Freight is also carried up by a steam cable and large iron buckets, and then there is a gasoline engine that draws loaded sleighs up by means of ropes and pulleys, this goes up close beside the foot trail. It was a very novel sight to look up the trail and see the men with their loads going slowly towards the top. It made me think of a huge ant hill and that the men were the ants. The trail was crowded and you had to fall in line several rods from the foot of the stairway, single file, and go with the procession. Well I finally fell in line and started up. When a man took his foot out of the notch in the ice, the man behind him promptly took possession. The whole line would move from four to six steps and then rest a few seconds. At short distances there was places cut out of the ice at the left hand side, where a man could step out of the line and rest if he wanted to, but he might have to wait some time before he could get in line again. These men were packing everything imaginable; sacks of flour, beans, bacon, rice, rolled oats, and in fact most all kinds of eatibles and drinkables too, I imagine by the looks of the kegs. Some had sleds, picks, shovels, sheet iron stoves and even trunks strapped to their backs. The man just ahead of me had a big sheet iron stove on his back, and after bumping my head against it several times, I kept my distance. A little farther up the line was a man with a great overgrown Saratoga trunk on his back and I'll bet he was carrying 200 pounds, especially if a woman packed it. I could not help but think how he would sweep the line if he should lose his balance and tip over backwards. We were just 45 minutes going up. It was snowing some and the wind blowing hard, and when we reached the top there was a regular blizzard raging. There were hundreds of tons of provision in sight, piled about in the snow and I presume as much more under the snow that you couldn't see. A good many men will never find their outfits until the snow goes off. They will get it up there and a storm will come up and the snow will drift over it, and the next man is liable to pile his right over it, not knowing there are goods under the snow. I saw places where they had dug down in the snow 10 or 12 feet and then tunneled around under other piles in order to get their goods. The Canadian Government have a customs office here, and a detachment of N. W. T. mounted police. There are two customs brokers offices also. You have to go to one of these and get your customs papers made out, and then go to the customs office and pay your duty. They are not very strict if they think a man is honest, generally take your bills for it and don't examine your goods. They did not even ask me if I had any firearms, and I was to modest too tell them that I had. When you pay your duty you don't even get a receipt, but get a pass and by the way, is a very crude affair at that. It is a piece of paper torn from common note paper, dated with a rubber stamp and reads: "Pass A. B. duty paid 25 pieces," or as many as you have, signed by the officer in charge. This pass you are obliged to show every time you take a load from off the summit. It was 4 p. m. before we got our customs papers all fixed out and our sleds loaded and were ready to start down the other side. I passed the two police with their big revolvers strapped on, by showing my pass, and was just congratulating myself that the worst troubles of the day were over and it would be smoothe sailing now, for I had been told that after you get off the summit, it was all down hill and good sledding. When I reached the edge and looked over, Great Scott! Yes it was down hill and with a vengeance too, as far as I could see down through the storm, it looked to be almost perpendicular. My hair fairly stood on end, must I take my sled loaded with about 300 pounds, down that place? I watched two or three other fellows make the start and saw them shoot out of sight in the storm in various styles and positions, and it didn't raise my courage very high, but I thought "He who hesitates is lost," so I jammed my hat down on my head, shut my teeth together hard, grabbed the gee poles to my sled and started off the edge. I didn't have to urge the sled any in the next 1000 ft., in fact the sled did all the urging, and inside of the next ten minutes I performed some wonderful gymnastic feats with the assistance of the sled. Some times I would be flat on my back sliding ahead of the sled, sometimes on my stomach, then at times the sled would slew around and we would roll over and over, but I hung to the gee pole like a puppy to a root and soon reached the bottom. After digging the snow from my eyes, ears and mouth, I found that the sled and I were both there and must have arrived about the same time, if there was any difference I think the sled got there first. I had no broken bones and the sled was O. K. and not a package lost off, as I had them securely bound on with rope. "Holy Smoke," what a toboggan trip that was. I decided right there and then, that climbing the other side with a pack on your back was a picnic compared with coming down this side with a loaded sled. Fred and Mac got down with about the same experience as I, but after that first time we went two to a sled and got down easier. We would take a sack of flour and tie a rope around it and fasten it to the hind end of the sled and let it drag, then I would sit on the bag and by digging my heels hard into the snow it made a very good brake and I would soon have so much snow in front of me and in my lap that I could hardly see over it. There were some very amusing sights down that mountain, but it was always more funny to have it happen to the other fellow than yourself. One day when I was going up I heard a man yelling "look out below," and soon saw him coming and his sled was running away with him. He had hold of the gee pole, but he had changed ends with himself and was flat on his stomach going down head first ahead of the sled and he did not dare to let go. I don't know how he came out at the bottom. The same day I saw a fellow trying to take a load down with a dog team hitched to it. The sled soon got the advantage of him and ran over two or three of the dogs and got them all tangled up, slewed around and the last I saw of them man, sled and dogs were rolling down the mountain. Another time I saw a team of eight dogs standing up near the top and they were not hitched to anything, evidently their owner had gone down with the sled to save a mix up with the dogs. The dogs soon got to fighting and then got tangled up in their harness and commenced to roll down the hill. They were soon in one solid mass or ball of dogs. They made a big racket, but kept up their fighting and every time a dog came out on top he would bite the dog nearest him, each seemed to blame the other for the predicament they were in. It is very dangerous business taking goods down there, because there are so many people at work. You are in constant danger of running over some one, or of being run over by some body or a runaway sled. Some times a loaded sled comes flying down alone, it has either gotten away from its owner, or else he didn't have the sand to hold on to it. One day while we were there, a man was killed by being run into with a runaway sled, and it is a wonder there are not more accidents. We found a good trail from the foot of the mountain for a long way, for there are hundreds of men drawing their sleds over it every day, and it is mostly down hill or level when you strike the lakes. Crater lake is the first lake we traveled over and is only a short distance from the foot of the pass. It is only about 1 1-2 miles long with high mountains all around, except at the outlet. There is quite a large glacier on the right of this lake. A short distance farther on is Long lake, 3 1-2 miles long with the trail running down on the ice the whole length. The first night we stopped with a couple of Swedes who are camped at the foot of Long lake and are keeping a sort of a restaurant. We wanted to make Lake Linderman that night, but it was so late when we left the summit, it was still snowing and almost dark and they said it was 4 miles yet to the lake and a bad canyon to go through, so we stopped with them. In the morning it was still snowing, but we pulled out and about a mile farther on we came to the canyon and found it pretty bad. It is not over 20 feet wide in some places, with straight up and down walls and a creek runs down through it, with the trail on top of the ice and snow. Some places the snow is 50 to 100 feet deep, where it has drifted in, then at then at other places the trail runs on the ice. These huge snow drifts make some pretty steep pitches to go down. Some places the trail runs along the side of a big drift and then there is danger of your sled tipping over and rolling down into the drink, if it happens to be a place where there are rapids and it is not frozen over, there are many such places. This canyon is about one mile in length. We passed through it all right and soon reached Lake Linderman. There are several thousand people camped around the head of the lake. We went on down the lake about a mile and camped. It snowed all day and towards night it commenced to blow hard and we were afraid the tent might go down, but it stood it all right. The next morning when we woke up, our tent was half full of snow. There happened to be a little air hole under the tent in front and it had drifted in at a great rate, even the stove which stood close by, and with the draft open, was half full of snow. It blew hard all day and the air was full of fine drifting snow. If we went outside for five minutes, it would drift right through our clothes. About all we did that day was to get a little wood. The next morning it had stopped storming and we took our sleds and started for the summit, which was about 10 miles from our camp. We found a howling blizzard up there as usual. I have never been up there when it didn't storm, but they say that some days it is warm and nice. We soon loaded our sleds and came down and when we got out on the lakes, we found it was snowing and blowing very hard and if there had not been a hard well beaten trail to follow, it would have been an easy matter to get lost, for you could only see a few feet, but we got to camp all right by leaving our sleds at the head of the canyon and going back after them the next morning. You can have no idea of the number of persons on the trail. There used to be a regular blockade every night at the canyon. One night we didn't get there with our loads till 7 o'clock and as there was quite a crowd waiting to go through, we thought it would make it rather late, so we left our sleds and walked on down through, and we found it packed with men and sleds for about half a mile. Some places where there was room, they were four and six abreast.

The cause of the blockades, was several steep pitches, where only one sled could go at a time, and they would generally tip over two or three times and the next man would have to wait until the road was clear before he could make a start. One day a man had a leg broken in there. The night I speak of, it was 11 o'clock before they all got through. I got into a blockade one afternoon and was about three hours getting through.

It made a pretty good day's work to go to the summit and bring back our load of 300 pounds. The distance was 20 miles the round trip, but we should not complain, for there were women camped each side of us, who made the same trip with their husbands and helped draw back 500 pounds, and there are lots of women drawing their sleds or helping their husbands. I wonder how some of the society ladies of Tecumseh would like this kind of work? It would be something different than making afternoon calls I reckon.

We finally got all our stuff down to camp and then we made another move of 7 miles down to the head of lake Bennett, then we made a move of about 15 miles down lake Bennett, where we are now with all our plunder. This lake is 30 miles long and from 1 to 3 miles wide. There is a steady stream of sleds going down the lake here, for the Skaguay trail comes in at the head of the lake also. When the wind blows hard, a good many put up sails on their sleds and go down the lake flying, sometimes 1000 or 1500 pounds to a load.

I think we will stay here and whip saw out our lumber and build a boat. We may possibly go down the lake 2 miles farther as there is better timber. I don't think we will be able to go down with a boat before the last of May or first of June, by the looks now. The snow hasn't melted much yet and the ice in the lakes is very solid. We cut a hole through the ice yesterday for a well and after getting the snow off, there was about 3 feet of solid ice and I suppose where it is not protected by snow, it is 4 or 5 feet thick.

We have had very fine bright weather for about a week, gets very warm in the middle of the day and cool at night. The water pail freezes over in the tent every night, but we have plenty of bedding and sleep all right. Our well froze over an inch thick last night and when I was washing this morning out in front of the tent, I noticed that as I wet my hair it froze, so we got out the thermometer and found it was only 4 degrees above zero. It was very deceiving, I didn't think it was so cold, a man would freeze his nose and not know it. It don't get dark until about 9 o'clock and the sun comes up about 4 o'clock in the morning, and there is a sort of a twilight all night. It is very bright in the day time, and everybody has to wear snow or smoked glasses, if out in the sun to prevent snow blindness. There are a good many so afflicted, but we have escaped it so far. This country is remarkable for the appetite and complexion it gives everybody. They all have wonderful appetites and complexions the color of a side of bacon, women not excepted. I don't know when I will get a chance to send this out to Dyea, but will try hard to soon. There is a man who goes up and down the lakes here, carrying letters at 50 cents each, but it takes him some time to make the trip and he don't get around very often, but I will wait for him and perhaps it will reach you by the 4th of July. I suppose I must have several letters on the road somewhere, but have received only the one, since I left home and that was while I was in Seattle.

We are all well and getting along first rate, but can't say how it will be with us next week, for it is my turn to do the cook act. Think perhaps there will be a chance to call in a M. D. soon then. I hope this will find you all well and enjoying yourselves. Give my best regards to all my friends.

A party consisting of 4 men and 2 women from Adrian, went down to Palmyra one night last week, got good and drunk, made a raid on the hotel, broke up the furniture and incidentally the lanlord's nose.

Monday afternoon he died there of delirium tremens brought on by his constant and excessive use of intoxicating liquors. 'ROUND ABOUT US.

Adrian youngsters have organized a military company called the Dewey Cadets.

George Tiffany, who was a member of Company C, of the state militia, and joined that company when it went to Island Lake, has returned to his duties with L. Frensdorf & Son. He failed to pass the rigid physical examination. He is deeply disappointed at his unability to go to the front.—Hudson Gazette.

Papers were signed Wednesday evening whereby the Hudson Gazette and Hudson News were consolidated. The paper will be issued from the Gazette office the News company having taken a three years lease of the plant. The sheet will be run as a free silver paper with Byron Schermerhorn as managing editor. The change will take place this week.

"The Hudson Post says: The woolen mill at Tecumseh has erected a sixty foot iron staff, above which floats the American flag. A bunch of incandescent lights are used at night so that even after dark "Old Glory" may be seen from afar off." Now perhaps the Post man considers Clinton our important suburb. We hope however he consulted our neighbor first.

While Lieutenant H. U. Kies was home Tuesday on his 24 hours leave of absence from Camp Eaton, he gave his order to Kimble & Schmid for an army chest, in which to transport his private belongings, and is now ready for Manila, Porto Rico, Cuba or any other old place. The chest was shipped yesterday. It was an iron-bound durable looking box, and the firm hope to get orders for several more. Manchester Enterprise.

The bard of the Hudson Post got loose again last week in this wise:

'Twas on a Saturday night;
Abe Woodbeck wanted to fight;
His carcass filled with whiskey
Made Abe feel mighty frisky.
Then in Tecumseh town
The marshal won renown,
By running Woodbeck in;
The justice wanted tin,
So fined poor Abe a ten,
And let him go again.

CAUGHT IN A TRAP

Believed at Washington That Spanish Fleet Is at Santiago.

Schley Is On Guard and the Enemy Cannot Escape Certain Destruction.

Officials Unable to Understand Why Cervera Allowed Himself to Be Thus Cornered.

Battleship Oregon Touches at Jupiter, Fla., and Sends Dispatch to Washington.

Lieut. Davis Says the Race Was a Most Exciting One—Marietta and Buffalo with Oregon.

Washington, May 25.—There seems to be no longer any doubt that the Spanish fleet now in Santiago harbor is hemmed in by Commodore Schley's squadron and that their escape is almost, if not quite impossible. Members of the cabinet are exultant over the news, and although they are not willing to make public the source of their information they regard it as perfectly trustworthy. They are not willing to state the exact position of Sampson's fleet, but do say that it is acting in concert with Schley and can come to his relief at any time should the situation require it. The published report that another and more formidable fleet is en route from Cadiz to the relief of the imprisoned squadron is not credited by members of the administration, but should this prove to be the fact the move would be welcomed by our naval authorities, as it would certainly result, it is said, in the destruction of the two fleets instead of one. It is authoritatively stated that the situation of Santiago harbor is such that our gunboats, which are available for the purpose, could successfully prevent the escape of the Spaniards, thus relieving a considerable part of both Sampson's and Schley's fleets for operations elsewhere. Members of the administration regard the present situation as most favorable for our cause, and do not doubt that in a very short time the Spanish fleet will be utterly destroyed and active operations begun against Havana and Cuba by both our military and naval forces.

Safe Arrival of Oregon.

The safe arrival of the Oregon at Jupiter inlet, Florida, is spoken of with great satisfaction by members of the cabinet. Capt. Clark, in his message to the secretary of the navy, reports his safe arrival there and says that he is in condition for immediate active operations at the front. Taken altogether the news of the day is highly satisfactory, and it is confidently expected that should the Spanish attempt to force a passage to sea the news of the total destruction of their fleet may be expected at any time.

A Most Exciting Race.

New York, May 25. — A special dispatch to the Evening World from Jupiter, Fla., says that Lieut. A. R. Davis, of the battleship Oregon, came ashore there late at night. "Our race," said Lieut. Davis, "was a most exciting one, and especially after we left Bahia, for we then knew of the possibility of interception. Capt. Clark, however, kept the little fleet in constant readiness, and, had we run into the Spanish fleet, we would have been heard from. As it is, we are all happy that our race from San Francisco is now ended, and that we will have a chance to take part with the fleets now looking for the Spaniards."

The Marietta and Buffalo are with the Oregon.

Confident, Yet Anxious.

Washington, May 25. — The question that agitated the navy department Wednesday morning was whether or not the Spanish squadron under Admiral Cervera is at Santiago de Cuba. The department hopes and believes it is, but so far is not in possession of accurate information on that point. The reason for its belief, so far as can be gathered, is that the Spanish squadron, when last heard from ten days ago, was in that harbor and that it has not been seen anywhere else, in spite of the fact that the scouting vessels of the navy fairly swarm in the West Indian waters and that the United States consuls on every island are on the alert to watch and to report the movements of the Spanish fleet. The department officials, accepting the view that Cervera is in Santiago harbor, are of the opinion that he is likely to remain there for a long time, weeks and months perhaps.

Believed at Key West.

Key West, Fla., May 25.—There is nothing definitely known here about the possible operations in eastern Cuba, but the view is accepted at this place as a fact that the Spanish fleet is blockaded in Santiago harbor, in which event the naval opinion here is that the Spanish fleet has "committed suicide."

It is no breach of confidence to say that Commodore Schley and Rear Admiral Sampson are believed to have Admiral Cervera within their reach, and if the Spaniards are in Santiago harbor they can be blockaded and starved out. A single heavy American vessel can hold the harbor's narrow exit, through which the Spaniards could emerge only singly. The Spanish fleet is very fast, but it is not composed of heavily armored vessels. Indeed, any of Admiral Sampson's battleships could, in the opinion of naval experts, engage the entire Spanish fleet with a fair chance of coming off victorious. The American commander has not only ships for battle, but for the chase as well. This is the view here, where the movements of the American fleet are approximately well known.

Among naval officers and people at Key West generally there is the most thorough confidence in the skill and energy of both the American commanders, and it is believed their triumph in West Indian waters is assured.

No Definite Confirmation.

Port au Prince, Hayti, May 25. — The report of the arrival of the Spanish Cape Verde fleet at Santiago de Cuba is correct. The correspondent here of the press has been able to obtain definite confirmation of this news, but up to the present time it has been impossible to obtain any details. The dispatches sent from here to Santiago de Cuba asking for information on the subject remain unanswered.

Deny That Cable Is Cut.

Kingston, Jamaica, May 25.—The West Indian and Panama Cable company denies that the cable lines from Santiago de Cuba to San Juan de Puerto Rico and Ponce have been cut. The company adds that Puerto Rico messages will be received.

Goes to Retake American Ship.

New York, May 25.—A special dispatch from Hong-Kong says that Admiral Dewey, at Manila, has sent the cruiser Baltimore and the little gunboat Callao, recently captured from the Spaniards, to Iloilo to retake the American bark Saranac. This vessel was seized by the Spaniards on April 24 at Iloilo, where she had just unloaded a cargo of 3,000 tons of coal, which was also seized by the Spaniards.

Hot Race After the Terror.

Chicago, May 25.—A special dispatch to the Journal from Washington says: The state department has received word that the Spanish torpedo boat Terror and the alleged hospital ship Alicante have left Martinique.

The information came from the United States consul at that point.

Secretary Long confidently expects the capture of both vessels. Orders were given to the Minneapolis and the Yale, which last week were at Curacoa, and it is believed by the department that these two fast vessels are now hot on the trail of the Spaniards and that they will either capture or destroy both.

Either ship can outrun the Terror and there will be little trouble in their vanquishing it once they meet.

Word from Blockading Squadron.

On Board the Associated Press Dispatch boat Wanda, off Havana, May 24, via Key West, Fla., May 25. — The situation on the blockade from Cardenas, east of Matanzas, to Mariel, west of the city of Havana, remains unchanged. The American squadron continues to maintain a strict blockade, and for the last five days there has been no fighting at any point and no incident worth noting except that one of the large cruisers fired three shots at a schooner off Havana on Sunday morning and brought her to. She proved to be an American vessel, and, after she had displayed her colors, she was permitted to proceed without there being anybody sent on board to examine her papers.

The light of Morro castle, which, it is supposed, has recently been burning at night for the benefit of the Cape Verde squadron under Admiral Cervera, was extinguished on Monday night and has not since been lighted.

There are no signs of military activity along the coast of the blockaded part Situation at Madrid.

London, May 25.—The following dispatch has been received from Madrid dated one a. m., Wednesday: Nothing positive is revealed as to the situation. Lieut. Gen. Correa, minister of war, has received a cablegram from Gen. Blanco saying that American warships are in front of Santiago. Capt. Aunon, minister of marine, has received a lenghty dispatch from Admiral Cervera, replying in full to instructions. The minister of marine receives nobody. He is working day and night. Monday he presented to the queen regent every detail of the plans at Santiago de Cuba, showing the defenses and the security of Admiral Cervera's squadron. Admiral Camara has gone back to Cadiz with sealed orders. It is said that on his arrival there he will arrange for maneuvers of his ships at sea, for trials of speed, gunnery and everything necessary to satisfy himself that the squadron is in efficient condition. He will depart for a destination undivulged. Senor Capdepon, minister of the interior, says a telegram received by the war office from Manila reports that the natives are disposed to remain loyal to Spain and will defend the territory against foreign invasion.

DYSPEPTIC'S---REJOICE.

Results of the New Cure for Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

Dr. Horton said recently in an article on the Stomach and its most prevailing disease—dyspepsia, "that very few people today possess a healthy sound stomach. And this class requires no aid to digestion, while the other portion, which figure fully 80 per cent., ought not to force digestion in a diseased stomach, as blood produced in such condiions will eventually contaminate the whole system. Medicine has been comparatively at a standstill as to a reliable treatment for stomach diseases in all of their manifold forms, although many prepartions are offered to sufferers, yet their use is usually more perilous than delay." But the saying that "necessity is the mother of invention" seems evidently verified in Prof. Drake's production of his marvelous treatment known as Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer. This well-spring of life is flowing into thousands of homes today; many who have tried nearly everthing with little or no relief, are now rejoicing over the results of this new method treatment, for in this treatment the idea of tieing sufferers down to an endless doping of drugs and nostrums is entirely lost sight of, as results from its use in bad complicated cases show that all that is required is a little persistency in following out the plain instructions which accompany each treatment, when a speedy and permanent cure will invariably be the result. Dr. Miles' Nervine

A REMEDY FOR THE

Effects of Tobacco.

THE excessive use of tobacco, especially by young men is always injurious and undoubtedly shortens life materially. Mr. Ed. C. Ebsen, compositor on the Contra-Costa News, Martinez, Cal., writes; "I have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and received much benefit from it. I was troubled with nervousness, dizzy spells and sleeplessness, caused by the use of tobacco and stimulants. I took Dr. Miles' Nervine with marvelously good results, allaying the dizziness, quieting the nerves, and enabling me to sleep and rest, proving in my case a very beneficial remedy." Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is especially adapted to restoring the nervous system to its normal condition under such circumstances. It soothes, heals and strengthens.

Lessons in Warfare Taught by the United States.

Another fact in connection with our national existence is both curious and interesting, and that is this: Although essentially unwarlike and at all times maintaining but a small army and either no navy at all or one of very meager proportions, when compelled to fight we not only have been always victorious, but also we have taught our older and more experienced neighbors many of the most important lessons connected with naval warfare. From the United States was learned the lesson of the value of privateering—as an auxiliary to the movements of the regular naval force; again, we demonstrated the paramount importance of good gunnery even against superior weight of metal, and that "the man behind the gun" was, after all, the main factor in a naval engagement; then, too, we proved the superiority of our ship-builders by producing the finest types of ships afloat. The first steam frigate on the navy list of any nation flew the stars and stripes; the Monitor revolutionized all existing naval theories as to offense and defense, and at once rendered obsolete the type of man-of-war then constituting the fighting strength of foreign fleets. It would be strange indeed if it should be the destiny of our nation to solve for the world the as yet unsolved problems in naval warfare consequent upon the use of steel ships and of modern guns and armor, and to determine the practical utility and destructive power of the dreaded torpedo under all possible conditions, in fleet contests or in single ship combats.—"The Navy of the United States," by Henry W. Raymond, in The Chautauquan for June.

"These gloves are too small," said pretty little Miss Jigley to Mr. Wilkins who kept a department store. "They squeeze my hands."

"Which shows that they are very sensible gloves, eh?" suggested Mr. Wilkins.—Harper's Bazar.

DOWN ON THE FARM.

Tillers of the Soil Appreciate the Little Wonder-Worker.

Near the little town of Woods Corners, about six miles from Ionia, resides R. I. Pierson. Mr. Pierson, a farmer by occupation, and like all hard working tillers of the soil has found the burdens the back must bear is no light load to carry. Few people who never lived on the farm appreciate what it means to follow the plow from sunrise to sunset, but if the public in general don't know how hard such work is, the kidneys do. Long hours of work of any kind means long hours for the kidneys, and they can't stand it without rebelling. When the farmer comes home tired out at night, if he only realized that the tired feelings most always come from tired kidneys, and that the little wonder-workers, Doan's Kidney Pills, would right the wrong brought on by overwork, life would be easier for him. Read what Mr. Pierson says about his experience:

"I noticed when I stooped, lifted or changed my position suddenly, early in the fall of 1897, that I was always rewarded with sharp pains across the small of my back, and in the morning I was so lame and sore that I could scarcely get out of bed. The too frequent action of the kidney secretions, especially annoying at night, plainly indicated that my kidneys were the cause of the trouble. I had often heard Doan's Kidney Pills spoken of by my neighbors, and as it was the first time I required such a preparation I procured a box. I noticed their beneficial effects in a day or two and I continued the treatment until my backache was cured and the other weakness was thoroughly relieved. I make no mistake when I say that Doan's Kidney Pills cure backache and kidney complaint." Doan's Kidney Pills are sold by all dealers. Price 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2 50. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

MORE TROOPS LEAVE CAMP

Departure of the Thirty-Second Regiment of Michigan Volunteers for Tampa, Fla.

IT CARRIES ON ITS ROSTER 1,025 MEN.

Cheered by Comrades Left Behind—Addressed by the Governor—Michigan's Quota Under the President's Call for Men Is Now Filled—Other Michigan News.

Island Lake, May 23.—The first section of the train bearing the Thirty-second Michigan volunteer infantry, Col. William T. McGurrin commanding, left the state camp ground at ten o'clock Thursday night en route for Tampa, Fla. The other two sections followed later. The regiment, except in the matter of arms, which are to be supplied at the Florida rendezvous, is fully equipped. The enlisted men were given a rousing send off by the light of a camp fire. The regiment contains 1,025 men. The regiment, with colors flying in the twilight and the band playing "The Star-Spangled Banner," marched through the parade grounds of the Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth regiments, and were cheerily applauded as they passed. In front of Gov. Pingree's headquarters they were massed in columns by companies.

The governor mounted a box that was placed on a table and was received with a great cheer. He complimented the regiment, expressing the pride the state felt in it; spoke of the fine qualities of the officers; said the men were about to make history for themselves which would be more to them than all the pay they would receive and also they would make history for the state, and said the only thing for a soldier to do was to obey orders, and that when he did so promptly, cheerfully and unhesitatingly, it was for his own benefit. He gave them advice as to eating and drinking in tropical countries; cautioned them against spirituous liquors as especially to be avoided, and said that by abstaining from water unless it had been boiled before drinking, and each man looking out for his own habits with respect to food and drink, there was little danger of yellow fever or any miasmatic disease. He assured them that the state would look after their welfare.

The last company needed to fill Michigan's quota under the call of President McKinley for 125,000 men arrived here Wednesday night. It was the Lake Superior cadets, from Marquette, Escanaba and Menominee. The men were examined and were mustered in Thursday morning. Gov. Pingree says that if there is a second call for volunteers it should be filled on a different system than prevailed on the first. There should be a quota for each town, the same as for states.

Camp Eaton, Island Lake, May 25.—With the mustering in of all the companies into the United States service control of the camp passed from the state military officers to the senior colonel in command of the volunteers. Col. Boynton, of the Thirty-third, is now commandant, and when his regiment moves to Washington Col. Peterman, of the Thirty-fourth, will be commandant.

Tampa, Fla., May 24.—Michigan's first regiment of volunteers, the Thirty-second infantry, marched from their sleeping cars to Palmetto beach without arms, ammunition or cartridge belts. The only weapons in the command were the swords and revolvers of the officers. In other respects, however, the Wolverines are the best equipped of any of the volunteer regiments which have come so far south. Every man has a new uniform, the camp equipment was complete to the last detail, and there was not a sick man in the regiment.

The Thirty-second Michigan came straight through from Island Lake, where it has been under canvas for nearly a month. The command traveled in palace sleeping cars, and its journey through the southern cities was one continuous ovation. It seemed as if the people of Tennessee, Georgia and Florida particularly welcomed the boys from Michigan. The first battalion of the Thirty-second Michigan came from Detroit and the second from Grand Rapids. One company comes from Kalamazoo, one from Coldwater, one from Battle Creek and one from Grand Haven, and the aggregate is a body of fine fellows, ranking high physically. The Michigan regiment left their Springfield rifles home, for the officers want their men to be armed with the regulation Krag-Jorgensen rifle used by the regulars. The Michigan camp lies between the Ohio and Georgia regiments, close to the water of Hillsboro bay, and is about as well located as any around Tampa.

Michigan W. C. T. U. Meets.

Saginaw, May 25.—The state convention of the Michigan W. C. T. U. began in this city Tuesday afternoon. The opening address was given by Anna S. Benjamin, of Portland, the president. Her report showed that the organization had made considerable progess during the year. A memorial service was held for the late Frances E. Willard, eulogies being pronounced by ladies from different parts of the state. The evening session was devoted to routine business.

Marble Bust Unveiled.

Marquette, May 25.—A white marble bust of Hon. Peter White was unveiled in the presence of a mammoth crowd at the opera house Tuesday night. It was presented by citizens to the board of the Peter White library. The bust is by Trentanove, the sculptor, who was present.

A Pill for the Ill.

"They'll do you good," a physician said in giving some pills to his patient, a woman who had suffered for months from diseases which baffled skillful treatment. His words proved true. The woman rejoices.

The hurry and bustle of the housewife is extremely wearing upon the delicate organism of womanhood.

Her intense earnestness in whatever she undertakes, tempts her constantly to go beyond her strength.

Mrs. L. E. Browning, of Pueblo, Colo., was one who did this.

"Eight years ago," said she, "my husband died and I was left with three children to care for and educate.

"The burdens of life fell heavily upon me, but I determined to make the best of it.

"I succeeded in my undertakings for a livelihood, but in doing so overtaxed myself, and undermined my health.

"I was very ill about two years ago with blood poisoning, caused by an abscess that had not received proper treatment.

"The disease settled in my throat for a time, causing intense agony.

"Then inflammatory rheumatism set in. For four months and a half I was a prisoner in my room, most of the time confined to my bed.

"My hands were swollen so that I could not feed myself, and the swelling in my feet and ankles would have made walking impossible if I had been strong enough.

"One day, after considerable treatment, my physician brought me a box of pills.

'You need a tonic,' he said, 'and something that will act at once, and this is the best medicine for that purpose.'

"Pills!" I exclaimed in surprise as he opened the box and showed them.

'Yes,' he replied, 'these are Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, but you need not be alarmed, they are not physic, and my word for it, they'll do you good.'

"Before I had been taking them a week I noticed a great improvement in my condition. Soon my rheumatism was gone.

"I grew stronger each day and now am in the best of health.

"I consider Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, the best tonic.

"A friend not long ago was telling me of her mother who is at a critical period in her life.

"She was subject to terrible fainting spells, and the entire family would watch over her.

"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have not only stopped the fainting spells, but given her so much strength that she is able to take up life's duties again."

To more highly endorse her words, Mrs. Browning made affidavit before George W. Gill, Notary Public.

All diseases arising from an impoverished condition of the blood, and most all cases from that, are cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

They act directly upon the blood. Building it up with lacking constituents; it becomes rich and red, the various organs are nourished and stimulated to activity in performing their functions, and thus disease is eliminated from the system.

These pills are sold everywhere, the sale being enormous.

The Britton band has been reorganized and we again have a first-class band. It should receive substantial support from our citizens.

Heman VanValkenburg's horse became frightened at the train between here and Ridgeway Thursday, got away and throwing Mr. V. out, bruised him up quite badly.

Rev. C. I. Deyo will deliver the address on Decoration day, May 30, the third in succession since his coming here. His subject will be "Three Great Epochs in One National Existence."

Preaching services as usual on Sunday in the Reformed church. The evening topic will be "The Christian Soldier" and will be illustrated on canvass. The C. E. service at 6:45 p. m. will be led by Mrs. Wm. Drake.

Rev. Nickerson received a letter on Monday dated the day before at Chicago from his youngest son, who is a member of Col. Grigsby's "Cowboy Cavalry" saying that they were enroute from South Dakota for Chickamauga and that the boys were having lots of fun with the crowds that greeted them at every station.

Some one collided with Clarence Lowe's horse and buggy, which was being driven by the hired man Saturday evening, and smashed the buggy up badly. The other fellow didn't stay to find out which was hurt the worst, no doubt taking it for granted that as long as his wheels stood up it was safer far away.

Rev. Deyo will preach on the following subjects next Sunday, morning, a Memorial sermon "Voices of the Dead." The G. A. R. will attend in a body. Evening, "Empty Pews or Some Reasons Why People do not Attend Church." The ladies have a surprise for the congregation at the morning service, they say "Come and see our newly papered auditorium."

We have a recollection that last season a subscription was raised in Tecumseh to build a bicycle path from that place to Frank Davidson's corner to meet the path constructed from here. What has become of our neighbors' good intentions? Our path has been gravelled through to Ridgeway and a few hours work will put it in fine shape, then if Tecumseh will do her share we can soon complete the work. All that is necessary is to have some one take hold of the matter who has push enough to go through with it and the deed is done. Now let everyone who rides a wheel interest himself in seeing this work completed.

For the third time in eleven months, O. B. Lenardson's store was broken into Saturday night and a lot of merchandise appropriated to other than legitimate use. Last June a nocturnal caller paid his respects and swiped about forty dollars worth of postage stamps and some clothing. In June another visit was made and more goods disappeared. Saturday night, with a lap robe which had been taken from Clarence Lowe's runaway rig, to dead the crash of glass, the thief broke out a rear window and fitted himself out in an entire new regalia. Either his feet are not mates or his eyesight was poor, as he selected a miss-mated pair of shoes, one a No. 8 and the other a 9. It looks as though some one depended on Owen to furnish his wearing apparel and made periodical visits after the needed supply. Better put on one of Charlie Mabee's burglar alarms.

For the observance of Decoration day the following program has been arranged Band will play a few selections on the street at 1:15 p. m., meeting in Exelby's hall at 1:30.

Music on the Graphophone.

Few people appreciate the marvelous powers of the graphophone as an entertainer. It is an instrument which, though it costs much less than the least expensive musical instrument, will enable its owner to have at pleasure music of any kind—from that of a bagpipe to that of a grand military band. It reproduces vocal selections and gives one command of every pleasure that appeals to the sense of hearing. No investment pays such large returns in pleasure. Besides reproducing the musical and other records made for entertainment purposes, the graphophone will record immediately and reproduce at once and as often as is desired, your own words or song, or any sound. By Absorption.

Catarrhal sufferers should remember that Ely's Cream Balm is the only catarrh remedy which is quickly and thoroughly absorbed by the diseased membrane. It does not dry up the secretions, but changes them to a limpid and odorless condition, and finally to a natural and healthy character. The balm can be found at any drug store, or by sending 50 cents to Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., New York, it will be mailed Full directions with each package. Cream Balm opens and cleanses the nasal passages, allays inflamation, thereby stopping pain in the head, heals and protects the membrane and restores the senses of taste and smell. The Balm is applied directly into the nostrils.

The City Girl in the Country.

"When she has a few minutes to spare the busy housekeeper comes out to chat with you," writes Ruth Ashmore of "Small Faults of Summer-Time" in the June Ladies' Home Journal. "Instead of telling her of the things in which she would be interested, of some of the great sights of the city, you explain to her how little used you are to country life and how tiresome you find it. Surely this is not much of an incentive, as far as she is concerned, toward adding to your pleasure. Overdressed, disagreeable in your manners, you cannot expect to be popular, and yet you wonder at the enjoyment that your friend is finding in the place you refer to as 'this horrid, disagreeable hole.'

"Sunday comes, and with it an invitation to go to church. Again you make the mistake of overdressing. In church you stare at the congregation and are by no means polite to the clergyman and pay but little attention to the sermon. When you go out, following the country fashion, the neighbors all stand for a little chat, and some of the young men ask to be introduced to you. Then you make yourself agreeable, and being charmed by the good manners that you have the policy to assume for the time being, they ask permission to call on you. In a short time your callers appear. As it is early evening the veranda is filled with the other people staying in the house but instead of introducing the young men to the other girls, and forming a jolly party for the evening, you take them off in a corner, devote yourself to entertaining them and express the wonder audibly, 'Why people, when they see that other people want to be alone, do not leave them alone.'"

This year of all years, we should have a strict observance of Memorial Day. Yesterday a canvass of our business men along the street found nearly every man ready and willing to close his doors Monday, some for all day others for the afternoon. It is a good thing to drop petty business jealousies on such occasions and show a patriotism, which if not appreciated by each, reflects little credit either on customers or tradesmen.

Enroute to Alaska.—Letter No. 7

In Camp on Lake Bennett.
May 2, 1898.

Yours of March 31, just received yesterday and I was very glad to get it and to know that you were all well at that time and everything running smoothly.

I wrote and sent out a letter to you on April 21, giving you a description of our trip since we left Sheep Camp, over Chilcoot Pass and down the lakes etc. I want you to be sure and let me know in your next letter if you received it all right, for I thought it would be interesting to you. I mailed you two letters also while at Sheep Camp, did you get them? I presume there are letters somewhere on the way for me, but it is doubtful whether I get them or not, and it is very uncertain whether you get the ones I send you, but I shall keep right on sending them whenever I get a chance. We have to watch our chances and send out by some one who is going back up the lakes, and as soon as they break up and it gets unsafe to travel on the ice, then we will have no chance to send out. Two horses broke through to day and were drowned, a short distance up the lake from our camp, but the ice generally is very solid yet.

Since writing my last, we have moved down the lake several miles. We are now camped about 20 miles from the head of the lake on the right shore, in a very pleasant place and with plenty of nice dry wood handy and all the good water we want to use by going a few rods to the hole in the ice. We found fair timber here for boats, but it is getting well culled over, as there have been a good many boats built right around here last fall and winter and this spring. We have jnst commenced to whip saw our timber. Fred and I have been sawing all day. It was very pleasant and warm and I enjoyed it vey much. It made me think of old times on the farm and especially working in the sugar bush in the spring. One very familiar sound was a woodpecker drumming on an old dead tree for his morning meal. We saw the first robin here this spring, to day and he commenced singing in a tree near our tent about 3 o'clock in the morning, as it begins to get daylight at that time, we don't get up though when the robins commence to sing. We have lots of company around us, in fact more than I supposed, for last night I got my cornet out and went out door and played the Star Spangled Banner, and when I finished there was a great clapping of hands and cheering, up and down the lake both sides of us and also across the lake, which is about 3 miles wide here. It was very clear and still and as there are high mountains on each side, it echoed fine and I suppose sounded very good to our neighbors. I played several pieces as I rather enjoyed it myself. Everybody is very sociable and accomodating, you can borrow anything they have if you want it. I lent my sled to an entire stranger two or three days ago and this morning he came and wanted to know if he could have it a day or so longer, as he was moving his stuff about 8 miles down the lake. Now I am sure that sled will turn up all right when he gets through with it. There are hundreds of tons of provisions piled up and down the lake on the ice, and in fact all along the trail and nobody to watch it and I have not heard of a single instance where anything had been taken or molested. It would hardly do to leave things piled around that way in honest old Tecumseh even. I am afraid the temptation would be to strong for some of her citizens. We have not had a storm of any kind in over two weeks and the weather is just fine.

Well I had my first experience in cooking last week and I surprised the boys and even myself. Mac told me before I commenced, that I had better go out in the woods and spend the whole day in prayer. He had cooked the week before and knew what I would have to go through. I told him he had better do the praying and to pray to be delivered from being obliged to eat what I might cook, but I got along first rate. I cooked rice, beans, evaporated apples and apricots, fried bacon, baked bread and biscuit and pancakes, made tea etc. and even boiled water and didn't burn it. We have what is called the miners cook book, and we get many valuable pointers from that. The rice and I had a little misunderstanding, the first time I cooked it, I didn't calculate on its expanding propensities. It filled about every dish in camp. I thought at one time I should for the overflow. If it hadn't been such a hot job, I think I should have sat down on the cover to the dish and held the blame stuff down till it was cooked. I had rice enough for several days. I had quite a little fun with my first batch of biscuits. The boys were away one afternoon and I thought it would be a good time to practice a little. I read the recipe over very carefully, measured everything out, sifted the flour two or three times and mixed all together dry and then mixed it in a dough with water in the frying pan. I stirred it up with a spoon, as the recipe said "keep your hands out." I didn't have any mixing board, but I happened to think of an old sheet that I put in my trunk, thinking it might come handy for bandages, so I found that and tore a piece off and spread it over a box that we use for a mess chest, sprinkled on some flour, emptied my dough on and with a baking powder can for a rolling pin, was ready to roll out my first batch of biscuit. But alas they didn't roll, they just stuck to the cloth and rolling pin like the paper on the wall. I took a knife and worked and scraped at that dough and finally got my hands into it, even it was contrary to the recipe. With the hot fire I had for baking and the hot time I was having with the dough, it made me pretty hot generally. I had a mind to roll the whole thing up in the cloth and throw it out in the bushes behind the tent. Just then some one darkened the tent door and I looked up quick and there was Mac who had come back unexbectedly and caught me red handed or rather dough handed in the act. It tickled him considerable to see the muss I was in, but I didn't give it up. I soon found out that all was needed was plenty of flour on the board and on top of the dough and I soon had them in shape and baked two tins of them and they were pretty good, not quite as good as I am in the habit of having at home, for my wife can't be beat at making biscuit you know, but they were pretty good for the first time and under the circumstances. I baked Johnny cake also and that happened to be good. I also cooked rolled oat porridge every morning, but that is not much trouble. I don't like to bake pancakes for it is such a hot job and the boys eat so many of them that it is rather tedious to bake them in the frying pan, three small cakes at a time. We also have canned honey and maple syrup, so you see we are living in pretty fair shape. I know that we have better cooked food and more of a variety than a good many of our neighbor campers. Whew, but what an appetite this work and outdoor life gives one. I never felt better in my life and I don't think there is any more danger of sickness or accident than there would be at home on a farm.

We don't hear of any sickness in here, everybody seems to be well and hearty and working hard sawing out lumber and building boats to go down the lakes and rivers as soon as the ice goes out. To hear the hammering about here, one would think he was in a boom town and that buildings were going up by the score, I suppose like Tecumseh must be at present with the car shops boom.

I was very sorry to hear that the Globe mill had burned. It is too bad and they had just been to so much expense to refit it. I hope they had it properly insured.

We saw a Seattle paper of April 25, and saw by that, war had been declared with Spain. It must make some excitement, should like to be at home if we have war.

Direct your next letter to Circle city, Alaska, and I will probably get it all right, as there will be a good many boats go in by St. Michael and up the Youkon about June 1st. You can commence writing your letter as soon as you get this and write a good long one and tell me all the news and mail it as soon as June 1st.

Give my best regards to all inquiring friends. GEO. W. KNAPP.

Lessons in Warfare Taught by the United States.

Another fact in connection with our national existence is both curious and interesting, and that is this: Although essentially unwarlike and at all times maintaining but a small army and either no navy at all or one of very meager proportions, when compelled to fight we not only have been always victorious, but also we have taught our older and more experienced neighbors many of the most important lessons connected with naval warfare. From the United States was learned the lesson of the value of privateering— as an auxiliary to the movements of the regular naval force; again, we demonstrated the paramount importance of good gunnery even against superior weight of metal, and that "the man behind the gun" was, after all, the main factor in a naval engagement; then, too, we proved the superiority of our ship-builders by producing the finest types of ships afloat. The first steam frigate on the navy list of any nation flew the stars and stripes; the Monitor revolutionized all existing naval theories as to offense and defense, and at once rendered obsolete the type of man-of-war then constituting the fighting strength of foreign fleets. It would be strange indeed if it should be the destiny of our nation to solve for the world the as yet unsolved problems in naval warfare consequent upon the use of steel ships and of modern guns and armor, and to determine the practical utility and destructive power of the dreaded torpedo under all possible conditions, in fleet contests or in single ship combats.—"The Navy of the United States," by Henry W. Raymond, in The Chautauquan for June.

The cyclists of the town should turn out an immense crowd for Memorial day. They are doubtless the most numerous organization in town and should be well represented. Every wheel rider is hereby requested to meet at military square Monday afternoon at one o'clock and be ready to take part in the parade. This year of all years, decorate your bicycle and show your patriotism.

About a year ago a subscription paper was started here, over a hundred dollars guaranteed and the right of way for a bicycle path from this place to Frank Davidson's corner, secured where it was planned to meet a like path built by the citizens of Britton. What became of the project is a mystery and why it was buried is another. Certain it is that the cycle path is still away in the future and people would like to know why. The path out of Adrian is now completed to the Quaker church. Everybody else is building cycle paths and we shouldn't be behind. Let's dig up that old subscription paper and go ahead.

The Army and Navy supper at the Armory last evening given by the ladies of the Research Circle was an unqualified success. The hall was tastefully decorated with the National and Cuban colors; the paper napkins took the form of American flags and the souvinirs were cartoons, portraits and poetry selected along the line of the present unpleasantness. The menu was fine and splendidly served. The receipts amounted to about $30. At the close of the supper the hall was turned over to the young people, who indulged in a social dance, the ladies serving light refreshments at 12 o'clock. The proceeds are to be given to the library by the Research Circle.

Try our Columbia River salmon, 15c per can. R. S. MOORE.

A fair audience attended the War Song Concert at the Opera House Wednesday evening and were well entertained. Part I opened with a chorus, "The Battle Cry of Freedom." Ben Pulver and chorus rendered "Marching thro' Georgia" and Will Elliott a bass solo, "The Sword of Bunker Hill." Twelve little girls then gave a drill exercise which was duly appreciated. A chorus "Battle Hymn of the Republic," quartette, "Tenting To-night" and a vocal solo by Miss Eva Camburn entitled "Just Break the News to Mother" completed the first part which was followed by a tableau entitled "Old Glory." Part II was as follows:
Chorus, "Hail Columbia."
Vocal solo—Miss Kingy.
Chorus, "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp."
Recitation, "Barbara Frietchie"—Anna Ferguson.
"Just Before the Battle, Mother."—Miss Thorpe and chorus.
Violin solo, "Red, White and Blue."—Miss Elliott.
Vocal solo—Mrs. Dorr.
Grand Chorus, "America."
Tableau, America.

Wonders and Charms of the Island of Puerto Rico.

Uncle Sam Will No Doubt Acquire the West Indian Gem Before Signing a Peace Treaty with Spain.

[Special Correspondence.]

WHATEVER the congress may eventually do with Cuba, it seems probable now that before peace with Spain is restored the island of Puerto Rico will become an American colony. It will be invaluable to us as a naval station, to say nothing of its great trade and incomparable agricultural resources. Lying as it does east of Santa Domingo, only 60 miles distant from St. Thomas, all the arguments that have been advanced for many years as to the advantages to us in the acquisition of a coaling station at the latter isle and in West Indian waters apply with yet greater force to Puerto Rico and the two small islands of Culebra and Vieque, rich in fine forests of dye and cabinet woods, which go with it. Probably no part of the West Indies is as fertile as this Spanish possession, and none is so generally susceptible of cultivation. A single acre of its cane already yields more sugar than elsewhere. Besides about 50,000 tons of sugar, it generally exports each year about 17,000 tons of coffee and 1,800 tons of tobacco. The yearly production of sugar has been known to reach 100,000 tons. This sugar is separated from the cane in mills owned hitherto by Spanish and English capital.

Sixty years ago a writer described Puerto Rico as "the most lovely of all those regions of loveliness washed by the Caribbean sea." Given such an island, possessing every variety of tropical landscape, fertile from the mountain summits to the brink of the sea, rich in pasture fields, shaded with beautiful groves of cocoa palms, moistened by 1,300 streams, with here and there a hot spring, and already opened to internal commerce by improved highways and a new railroad girding the entire coast, it is difficult to prophesy as to the progress a few hundred Yankee capitalists might make. The pasture lands in the north and east are superior to those of the other Antilles. Herds graze on the thousands of hills. Hundreds of cattle are exported yearly, while the islands to the south depend upon these green fields for their homes. Besides sugar, tobacco and coffee, the American settler might successfully raise cotton, rice, maize, flax, jut for sugar bags, cassia for making senna, incense, lumber, dye and cabinet woods. Upon this table he might well afford the most luscious fruits of the tropics, pineapples, citron, oranges, lemons and melons, with fresh ginger and other spices, all cultivated at home or near by. Gold, once mined in great quantities, is still found, as well as coal and salt.

Travelers generally agree that the climate of Puerto Rico is more agreeable and healthful than that of any of the other Antilles. The average daily temperature is 80 degrees Fahrenheit, but a cooling north breeze is generally prevalent during the hottest days. Land winds, so disagreeable in the other Antilles, are seldom felt, though tropical hurricanes are apt to make things lively at any time between July and October. The forest-covered mountains, which extend from east to west, with the length of the island, produce a marked difference in the climate between their opposite proclivities. The district of the north, comprising the greater portion of the island, is visited by frequent showers, while the southern district is often without rain for months at a time.

In San Juan, the capital, where our naval station will doubtless be permanently located, yellow fever threatens the lives of foreigners who stop in the crowded and dirty streets, but in the suburbs, where the permanent foreign colony is located, the air is pure and wholesome. With his modern ideas as to municipal hygiene, Uncle Sam will make short work of these ill-drained thoroughfares and stamp out Yellow Jack in short order. The city has a population of 25,000.

In ancient times the chief fort or castle was called the "morro," or Moorish tower, because it was generally round; and San Juan, like Havana, has its Morro as the most prominent point of its fortifications. It stands on a bluff jutting out from the city walls and has a lighthouse immediately in the rear of it. Against the seaward front of the massive walls the ocean pounds and thunders, but the landward harbor is quiet and safe for any craft. A broad parade ground is inclosed within the walls, westward from the citadel, and not far off is the oldest house in the city, no less a structure than the ancient castle of Ponce de Leon, one-time governor here and discoverer of Florida. His ashes are also kept here.

Just under the northern wall of the castle is the public cemetery, the gate to it overhung by an ornate sentry box, and the bones of evicted tenants of graves whose terms of rental have expired are piled in the corners of the inclosure. This cemetery alone is enough to breed a pestilence, and it is to be hoped that our sailors when they anchor off the harbor mouth will be favored with a breeze inshore most of the time. The prevailing winds by day are from the sea landward; by night from the inland mountains toward the coast. Far inland rises the conical summit of the great Luquillo, a mountain about 4,000 feet in height, and from whose sides descend streams that fertilize the island.

Puerto Rico is 100 miles in length and from 50 to 60 miles in breadth, and as square as a dry goods box. East and west, north and south its coast lines run almost as regularly as if projected by compass. It is about 90 miles from San Juan to Ponce, the southern port, by a fine road diagonally across the island. The Spaniards generally are poor road builders, but in this island they have done better than in Cuba, and one may travel here with a fair amount of comfort to the mile. There are several lines of railroads building, a system being projected around the island 340 miles in length. The area of Puerto Rico is about 3,600 square miles, with a population of 700,000, of which nearly one-half are black or colored, and 600,000 cannot read or write. The city of Ponce is the largest, with a population of about 38,000, and an export trade of vast extent. It is the chief sugar-shipping port, though it has no good harbor, and lies nearly three miles from the sea. It is a rather fine city, with a pretty plaza and a grand cathedral, and its houses, like those of San Juan, are all built of stone.

Other harbors are: On the east coast, Fajardo and Humacao; on the north, besides San Juan, Arrecibo; on the west, Aguadillo and Mayaguez, at the former of which Columbus watered his caravels in 1493.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S PALACE AT SAN JUAN, PUERTO RICO.

Columbus landed at the northwestern corner of the island, bringing his ships into the harbor still called Aquadillo. The spring here, where he and his sailors obtained fresh water, still bubbles forth. During his stay of a few days Columbus captured a beautiful Indian girl and called her Catalina. Little did he dream that near those same waters, 400 years later, a Yankee warship would capture a Spanish vessel bearing this same name. Catalina was not particularly fascinated with the Spaniards and jumped overboard, swimming two miles to an island in the Caribbean sea. She was never heard of since. Puerto Rico was not again visited by white men until 1508, when Ponce de Leon, Spanish governor of Santo Domingo, was attracted there by reports of its rich soil and great mineral wealth. He landed with his soldiers, and it is said that the native chief showed him some rivers with golden sands. Ponce de Leon was charmed, and immediately set about to conquer the island. He told the natives that he and his soldiers were immortal and they generally believed him until two of the tribe, a trifle skeptical, held a Spaniard's head under water and saw that he died. After this they effected a great uprising and massacred all the Spaniards they could lay hands upon. A bloody war continued, but seeing the Spanish dead continually replaced, the savages came to believe that the new soldiers were in reality the old ones returned from the other world. The Spaniards conquered by aid not only of such deceits but of their customary cruelty, and imported fierce bloodhounds to hunt down the poor Indians. As late as this century wild descendants of these dogs lived in the forests of Puerto Rico, where they subsisted upon the land crabs which at certain seasons move down the mountain sides in tremendous armies to deposit their young in the sea. The Puerto Ricans were eventually conquered and reduced to slavery.

San Juan was for three centuries a convict station. After the death of Ponce de Leon the island was used for no other purpose until 1815, when Spain awakened to the fact that her beautiful island possession had been unappreciated and neglected. Meanwhile the aborigines had been practically exterminated, and San Juan had been captured by the English in 1598, by the Dutch in 1615 and by the English again in 1742. Even these progressive nations had failed to appreciate what Uncle Sam will shortly put to good use.

BEST SPRING REMEDY FOR THE CHILDREN.

The Perfect Health of a Large Family is Due to the Use of

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND.

WORCESTER, Mass., March 5, 1898.

Wells, Richardson & Co.—Gentlemen: Myself and family form a first-class example of the health-giving qualities of Paine's celery compound. Every spring we use this valuable remedy, and it has kept my children well and strong. I believe that it is better to take steps to keep well rather than to wait till one is sick. The good health of my family and freedom from doctor's bills shows the wisdom of taking Paine's celery compound. Every time I have a chance I speak in praise of Paine's celery compound, knowing it to be superior to sarsaparillas or any ordinary spring medicine. Yours very truly,

HARRY PRENDIVILLE,
Publisher of the American Bandsman.

Here's a whole family.

Husband, wife and children made well and kept well by Paine's celery compound.

The pre-eminence of Paine's celery compound over all other remedies, especially as a spring invigorator and blood purifier for every member of the family, from the youngest to the oldest, could not be better illustrated than in the case of the Prendiville family of Worcester, Mass.

It is to be remembered that not one-tenth of all the magnificent cures fairly due to Paine's celery compound ever get beyond the knowledge of the immediate family; that, in fact, few people have any appreciation of the number of families throughout the United States where Paine's celery compound is kept constantly on hand, and is being taken, or has been taken, by some of its members.

Paine's celery compound has already done an enormous work. It has saved lives. It has saved health. It has saved homes.

It is not beyond the reach of the most modest household, while a much greater expenditure will procure nothing else so effective.

Paine's celery compound, the remedy that makes people well, is within the reach of all.

As frequently happens in the spring, the entire family begins to feel "run down," and to suffer with the hardest disease in the world to diagnose—the trouble they have when they say, "Doctor, I don't feel well." The advice of hosts of competent physicians is to use Paine's celery compound, the one known spring remedy that restores lost nervous energy, creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and builds up the strength of the entire system.

Nervousness, headaches, thinness, pale faces and poor appetites among children come from the same causes that produce rheumatism, neuralgia and debility in older persons—from poor blood and insufficiently nourished nerves. Paine's celery compound is the first, last and only remedy used in intelligent, prudent homes, where pains are taken to get only the best in so vital a matter.

The GRAPHOPHONE

The most fascinating invention of the age. Always ready to entertain. It requires no skill to operate it and reproduce the music of bands, orchestras, vocalists or instrumental soloists. There is nothing like it for an evening's entertainment at home or in the social gathering. You can sing or talk to it and it will reproduce immediately and as often as desired, your song or words.

Other so-called talking machines reproduce only records of cut and dried subjects, specially prepared in a laboratory; but the Graphophone is not limited to such performances. On the Graphophone you can easily make and instantly reproduce records of the voice, or any sound. Thus it constantly awakens new interest and its charm is ever fresh. The reproductions are clear and brilliant.

Graphophones are sold for $10 and up

BUILDING ASSOCIATIONS.

The Report of the Secretary of State Shows a Decrease in Their Business.

Lansing, May 20.—Secretary of State Gardner is out with his second annual report on building and loan associations for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1897. The delay since January 1 was partly caused by the slowness of the association in responding to correspondence from the state department. Two associations which failed to make any report were examined, but found solvent.

The reports made by 76 associations showed total receipts of $7,036,251.59 against $7,477,174.95 for the previous year. The capital stock in force had shrunk from $33,297,562.50 to $409,162.50. The number of shares issued during the year was 80,203 against 102,315¾ the previous year. The number of shares matured in '97 was 10,933½, against 4,822½ in '96; number retired, 7,195½, against 8,849 in '96; number withdrawn, 75,452, against 70,237 in '96.

The total assets for '97 were $11,231,246.01, against $11,548,315.91 in '96. These included $8,712,559.25 in loans on mortgage security, against $9,299,059.61 in '96, and $367,069.14 in loans on stock security, against $428,584.34 the previous year. The amount of cash on hand in the loan fund was $260,539.75 against $348,414.76 in '96.

The disbursements included $1,355,578.26 in loans on mortgage security, against $2,224,467.48 in '96. The items of matured stock and withdrawals of stock show a large increase. The total number of members decreased from 41,802 to 40,254; number of shares loaned upon fell from 25,454½ to 17,723¼, and there was a decrease in the number of investing and borrowing members. The expense ranged from .58 to 23.79 per cent. of the total receipts, as compared with .27 to 13.43 per cent. for 1896. The expense per share was $0.06 to $1.93, as compared with $0.03 to $1.45.

MICHIGAN FORESTS.

Meeting of Prominent Citizens to Take Steps for Their Preservation.

Lansing, May 21. — A number of prominent Michigan men interested in the subject of forestry and the preservation of the forests of the state met here Friday and took important action looking to the establishment of a forestry commission by the next legislature. Among those present were Regents Cook and Lawton and Prof. Spaulding, of the state university, Secretary Butterfield, of the State Agricultural college, Prof. W. J. Beal and C. W. Garfield, of the state board of agriculture.

Up to a few years ago Michigan had a forestry commission, but very little was ever accomplished, and the commission was finally abolished. The gentlemen who were here Friday, however, are enthusiastic upon the subject and propose to go to work in a systematic way to accomplish something in the way of preserving the forests of the state. A committee, consisting of Regent Farr, of the University, Hon. C. W. Garfield and Land Commissioner French, was appointed to prepare a bill to be presented to the next legislature, the object of which will be to create a state forestry commission and provide for the protection of the forests of the state. This committee is expected to be able to report to a meeting to be held here June 8, when further work will be outlined.

In the meantime, however, Land Commissioner French and Secretary Butterfield will prepare a map showing the waste land in the state which might be improved by the planting of forest trees and made to yield a beneficial influence on the surrounding country. These gentlemen will call the attention of the political parties of the state to the necessity for forest preservation and endeavor to have the state conventions include in their resolutions an indorsement of the proposition.

WORK OF THE STORM.

Much Damage Results from Heavy Gales and Falling Hailstones.

Detroit, May 20.—A very heavy wind and hailstorm swept across a portion of southern Michigan early Thursday morning. At Battle Creek the old shops of the Brown & Upton Thresher company, 200 feet long, were completely unroofed. At Kalamazoo, small buildings were overturned, roofs were blown off, windows were broken, and the electric lights were extinguished by lightning. Much damage was done through the country by blowing down of chimneys, orchard trees, fences and outbuildings.

Moorland, May 20.—Severe electric storms raged in this vicinity Thursday night. Lightning struck a barn three miles from here, belonging to Leroy Ackerman. Three horses, two calves, tools and hay were burned. The estimated loss is $10,000. The barn was insured, but the contents were not.

Passed Away.

Alma, May 22. — Mrs. James E. Mitchell, wife of the Alma college professor of history and literature, died here after two weeks' illness. She was the daughter of a prominent fur dealer of Indianapolis, Ind., and an alumna of Alma college. This is the third great affliction to the college faculty since January. All the students and citizens mourn her death.

Fruit Promises Well.

Grand Rapids, May 23. — At the meeting of the Kent County Fruit Growers' association reports were received indicating exceptionally favorable fruit prospects. The reports covered all the tree fruits, and it was also reported that the small fruits are very promising.

If the country editor were to snap at all the great inducements held out he would soon be a millionaire. If he runs a paper according to the popular notion he would be in the poor house. If he published half the items that are sent him he would be in jail one half of the time and in the hospital the other half. —Ex.

A Milan grocery firm bought a bunch of bananas and incidentally a healthy tarantula. The police force and fire department were ordered to bombard the enemy and succeeded in taking him prisoner, after which the proprietor and clerks climbed down off the cheese case and took a refreshing draught to counteract any possible evil effects.

An exchange says a poor editor, who knows how it is himself, says: "It is said that a New York girl kneads bread with her gloves on." This is no news to us. We need bread with our boots on we need bread with our pants on, and if those subscribers who are so in arrears don't pay up soon, we will need bread without anything on."

The Clayton record vouches for this: An Irishman in Illinois by the name of O'clock is the father of thirteen children. After finding names for eight of offspring as they made their appearance with a regularity that was all but phenomenal, the parents began to designate them according to their consecutive number, as Nine, Ten, Eleven, etc. One of the sons has recently been appointed postmaster for his town, and he now signs his official papers "Ten O'Clock, P. M."

The latest political music is the song of the candidate, which he hums to the tune of "America," in this wise: "My office, 'tis of thee—soft place reserved for me, of thee I sing. Place that I longed to get, worked for in cold and wet—place that I'll have, you bet; of thee I sing. I love the downy bed—soft chair and tape so red, you bet I do. I love thy full control, I love the big pay roll, I'm for you heart and soul—I'm after you." This odorous ode may may be found on sale, free of charge, at all news stands.—Winchester Sun.

An Account by General Lee of his last Experiences in Cuba.

General Fitzhugh Lee, since returning from Havana, has written an article for the June number of McClure's magazine, giving a general review of recent Spanish rule in Cuba as it presented itself to him in his own observations, experiences and impressions and in his official labors as consul-general at Havana. The article will be very fully illustrated from special photographs, most of them hitherto unpublished.

"Dear me!" said Wilbur, as he looked out over Watkins's lawn, "The dandelions on this place must run up into the millions."

"They do," said Watkins. "But we've given up trying to get rid of 'em, and to console ourselves we call them Klondike daisies."—Harper's Bazar.

Poultney Bigelow, who within a month has crossed Spain on a bicycle, will give the Spanish view of the situation in a series of articles written for Harper's Weekly.

The Atlantic for June gives the place of honor to an editorial discussion and summary, patriotic but judicial, of our War with Spain and After, treating the inherent and irrepressible causes that have led to the inevitable death grapple of the two civilizations, and offering a forecast of the problems which will confront us at the end of the present conflict.

The leading feature in the May number of Harper's Round Table is Kirk Munroe's new serial story, "The Copper Princess." This attractive issue also contains: "The Hasty Voyage of the 'Delight,'" by Sophie Swett; A Dark Night's Work, by Owen Hall; Two Deeds of Heroism, a condensed chapter from Nansen's Farthest North; Between Two Armies, by Hadji Bektash.

The leading article in the June Harper's is "The Czar's People," by Julian Ralph. It is illustrated by T. de Thulstrup, W. A. Rogers, W. Louis Sonntag, G. W. Peters and Harry Fenn with engravings by E. Schladitz. It is the second of Mr. Ralph's series of articles discussing Russia as a militant power in the forefront of modern political and territorial movements, and gives a vivid and impressive picture of the materials out of which the Czar is striving to form an empire that will include the greater part of Europe and Asia.

What shall we do with the Philippines?

"What will be done with the Philippine Islands?" is a proposition which we are beginning to discuss, a little prematurely, perhaps. During the remainder of the war our occupation of the islands will be purely military, and their future ownership will depend entirely upon the terms fixed in the treaty of peace by which the war will be terminated. Whether they shall be ours or not, it may not be unwise to consider in advance the question as to whether they shall again be Spain's. As we have already said, we are not seeking territory or gains of any material kind in this war. If the war is to go on in the spirit in which it was begun, we must come out of it with clean hands in this respect. But every nation going into war in a just cause has a right to demand and to exact security for the future. That our cause is a just one must now be assumed by every American. The war must be conducted upon that theory. So far as the cost of a reasonable resistance by Spain is concerned we do not believe that this country is desirous of exacting indemnity for it; but if there is to be any "last ditch" about Spain's resistance, if her honor is not to be satisfied until she has put us to an enormous expense and has practically driven our commerce off the seas, then we may well think of insisting upon a material indemnity, and upon a valuable security against the future. If the Philippines are ours to do with as we will, we sincerely hope that they will not be retained as a colony of this country, because we have no machinery for colonial government, and any attempt to provide one will immeasurably increase the problems of our politics, and indefinitely postpone the carrying out of the reforms at home which demand the undivided attention of our public men. But it may be quite the part of wisdom to dispose of the Philippines in such a way that they will fall into the hands of a power friendly to the United States, which, in turn, will pay for them a sum sufficient to recompense us for some of the expenditures of the war.—Harper's Weekly.

Letter from Chickamauga.

Camp Thomas, Chickamauga Park, Ga.
May 23, 1898.

EDITOR HERALD: There is no doubt but what you are all aware by this time that the 31st Regt., Mich. Vol., is in camp at Chickamauga Park. We left Island Lake about 11:30 Sunday night, May 15th, the train being in three sections each carrying one battalion. The first section leaving at 10:30 o'clock was followed by the other two one-half and one hour apart. We were in the 3rd section. The train was composed of Pullman and Wagner sleepers and it was not a great while after being put aboard that every man was fast asleep in their respective berths, one man in the upper and two to the lower with 49 men in a car. The officers of the battalion had the rear car which could have accommodated as many more if found necessary.

Arrangements had been made ahead for coffee for each meal during the days enroute. We were to have breakfasted Monday morning at Dayton, O., but owing to the fact that each section was 3 hours later than scheduled, we got our first meal at Lima. It was breakfast without the "break" preceeding the "fast" the first two sections having cleaned up almost everything in the line of eatables.

With very few exceptions we were greeted all along the line by crowds of people gathered at the different stations and who cheered lustily for the Michigan troops. A larger part of the places were passed through without stopping.

We took dinner at Cincinnati where we were better served than at Lima, good coffee being furnished to each man, and that together with the one sandwich for each composed the government meal except what was bought from individual purses. While we were eating dinner in the railroad yards the second section of our train passed into Kentucky over the Ohio river bridge 150 feet directly over our heads, and cheers were exchanged between us. We soon fooled them making very few stops in that state. We caught hasty glimpses of beautiful mountain scenes and for the first began seeing the typical southern colored homesteads and they are about as we see them in our illustrated magazines.

We stopped at Sherman, Ky., and all men were taken from the train to the adjoining hilly fields for a half-hour setting-up drill, which was thankfully participated in by the officers as well as men. Our next stop was made at Lexington, Ky., at about 8 o'clock for supper. A large number of the Kentucky Volunteers were at the station and many pleasant acquaintances were made among the soldiers. After leaving Lexington all of the boys were satisfied to get into their comfortable berths at an early hour. It being night we missed the thrilling experience of passing through long and short tunnels, 42 in number, and over numerous bridges, one of which was 285 feet high and 1200 feet long. During the night we crossed the line into Tennessee.

All were aroused at a reasonably early hour and we still had an opportunity to see some very pretty mountain scenery. We arrived at Chattanooga at 9 a. m., there meeting the other two sections of our train. We ate our breakfast in the railroad yards and had the liberty of the city until the train started for Chickamauga Park which was quite late owing to the fact that there was a scarcity of locomotives, one roads handling all the troops from the city to the Park. Many troops were at Chattanooga when we arrived and many came in while we were side tracked. We started from there about 12:30 and for a distance of 13 miles it was a very long run on account of the heavy grades. Many times we could have walked faster than the moving train. On the crest of famous Missionary Ridge the engine blew off and during the interval of getting a new supply of steam many of the boys made a climb of the historic mountain. They were soon warned by the bell and whistle to get aboard and in a few moments the train was speeding down the other side of the mountain.

At 3 o'clock our train pulled into Chickamauga Park station, its postoffice name Lytle, and we alighted into a mighty hot climate. After the delays which generally accompany such a command, we started for our camping grounds nearly to rear of the Park, 3 big miles from the station. Notwithstanding the marked change of climate, every man stood the march in first class shape and when the command, "dismissed," was given, the men made movements of surprising alacrity. Supper was served by the quartermaster.

The first night every man in the regiment rolled up in his blanket and lay down to sleep with Mother Earth for a bed, the starry firmanent for a canopy and their arms for pillows. Occasionally a man would be awakened by a snake, lizard or some other reptile crawling across their neck, but aside from a few incidents of this kind every one enjoyed the much-needed rest.

Wednesday morning after a few shifts tents, which had been hauled up from the station during the night, were raised in a very few moments. A city for the 31st Michigan Volunteers had sprung into existence. Since then details from each company have been at work every day making our location look like a camp. Leaves have all been raked into piles, shrubbery cut and pulled up and drawn away by the wagon and mules that have been supplied to each company since arrival.

A camp routine of drills, guard mounting, etc., has been established and each company is taking part in all of them, no excuses except for sickness being granted. No partiality is being shown, every man doing his share of duty.

Very truly yours,
COMMISSIONED OFFICERS OF CO. C.
Per "Reddy."

ITEMS OF 31ST.

It takes a total of 100 men to guard the regiment.

Camps of West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana troops are the only ones visible from our position.

Sunday's program was regimental inspection and divine services.

Sixty mules and twelve wagons have been issued to this regiment.

Line officers from the near regiments are entertained by the line officers of 31st during the early evening.

There are a great many reptiles that inhabit the Park in the snake and lizard specie and bugs and spiders of every description.

This afternoon we were visited by a heavy welcome shower, but Sol put in an appearance directly after and everything was put in good shape in a short time.

Regular army rations seem to be agreeing very well with all of the boys, but strawberries at 5 and 8c and bakery stuff at double prices are procurable from wagons along the main road and are frequently indulged in by a number of the men.

When the train pulled into the Park station Tuesday afternoon a corral containing 1450 mules was seen by the men. For most of the boys this was quite a sight and some say nearly as many mules as have served on the council for the city of Detroit.

The water supply is limited and every precaution is being taken to prevent a famine in this line. The 31st has sunk springs for its own use and will allow no other troops to take water from them, a guard being placed over each spring to enforce this.

Many relics of the battles fought on this field during the Civil War are picked up by the boys. These include flattened rifle and musket balls, pieces of canister, bayonets and their scabbards and yesterday some men from Indiana unearthed a cannon of small caliber.

Col. Gardner will doubtless be commissioned brigadier general shortly. This is very much regretted by every man in the regiment. Lieut. Col. Fred Schubel, of Lansing, is next ranking officer in the regiment and very efficient and will doubtless receive the appointment of colonel of the 31st.

ITEMS FROM CO. C, LEFT CENTER COMPANY OF THE THIRD BATTALION OF 31ST REGT. M. V. OF THE 1ST BRIGADE OF 2ND DIVISION 1ST CORPS OF THE "ARMY OF THE GULF."

Gabriel Mills, of Macon, Mich., is here with Co. G, 14th Minnesota.

Co. C showed up well on regimental guard today, Lieut. Kies being in command.

With very few exceptions every man in the company is feeling finer than the finest.

Young Brailey, the promulgator of the new telephone company at Tecumseh, gave us a call the other evening. He is regimental bugler of 6th Ohio.

Burton A. Sweet, of Carson City, who enlisted at Island Lake and there taken ill May 14th and removed to Harper hospital, Detroit, is reported very low.

Surgeon Kyle, of the 160th Indiana, recognized the Irish "mug" of our Capt. Kyle and immediately presented himself at our quarters to claim relationship.

Capt. Kyle regrets that the stop at Lexington was not of longer duration that he might have had an opportunity to inspect some of the Kentucky thoroughbreds.

Roscoe Hall, of Canton, Ill., agreeably surprised most of us the other evening with a call at our quarters. He is with Co. M, 5th Illinois Volunteers, and is an old Tecumseh boy.

Lieut. Kies finds his old assistant commandant, R. S. Spillman, at the Michigan Military Academy, in position of colonel of the West Virginia troops. They had a happy meeting.

E. M. Coller, Tecumseh's popular music dealer, was in town Tuesday and disposed of considerable merchandise. —Addison Courier.

The village of Addison held a day of field sport a week ago Saturday. From the amusement point of view the affair was a success but according to the Courier as a trade producer for the merchants it was no good.

Last Friday night Vern White, Chas. Shultz and Royce Bartlet were passing a very enjoyable time fishing at the mill pond of Richardson Bros., of Springville; they caught a fine line of fish and pulled their boats to shore and had everything ready to depart home, when to their surprise they were looking down the barrel of a revolver in the hand of Deputy Game Warden Duell, of Tecumseh. The boys were very much frightened at this sudden attack and before they could arouse themselves to a realization as to what it all meant, he arrested them and drove them to Tecumseh where they were tried and find $15 each. The boys think that the next time the gentleman from Tecumseh gets a chance to push a pop under their noses, he will have to be a better sprinter than they are.—Onsted News.

RAILROAD NEWS.

Notes and Condensations Concerning the Railroads.

The new engine for the car shops has arrived and is being placed in position. It is a 160 horse power engine, manufactured at Saline, O. By some error of the shipping clerk the two big boilers were shipped via the Lake Shore and yesterday afternoon went sailing through toward Adrian, where they will be transferred to the Lima and brought back again, there being no way to make the transfer from one road to the other, here.

Chicago, May 25.—After a fight lasting several years, the government has secured from the railroads a concession under which officers and privates making long journeys will be given through tickets. Heretofore each road has honored a government order for transportation by issuing a ticket over its own lines only.—Blade.

A portion of the old Lake Shore track, east from the old depot, was torn up Sunday, the material is to be used for yard tracks at Lima O., by the D. & L. N. road. The balance of the old track to the east of Raisinville station will be taken up soon.—Dundee Reporter.

Commodore Schley Informs Navy Officials That They Are in Santiago Harbor.

AND THEY HAVE NO CHANCE TO ESCAPE.

Report That the American Ships Have Bombarded the Forts and Given Battle to the Spanish Squadron—Invasion of Cuba Has Commenced—Other War News.

Washington, May 31.—At 12:30 o'clock yesterday morning the navy department received a dispatch from Commodore Schley announcing definitely that he had located Admiral Cervera's Cape Verde squadron in the bay of Santiago de Cuba. The commodore states that he has seen and recognized the vessels of the Spanish fleet.

Is Bottled Up.

While the naval officials have been morally certain for several days that Cervera's squadron was in the harbor of Santiago, the official announcement from Commodore Schley was received by the officers on duty at the department with intense satisfaction. Assurance is now doubly sure that the Spanish fleet is bottled up and that the cork is in the bottle.

May Blow Up the Ships.

It is not believed Admiral Cervera will attempt to escape from the predicament in which he now finds himself, as such a course would surely result in the destruction of his vessels and the loss of many lives precious to Spain. The suggestion is made, however, that the Spaniard may blow up his ships rather than have them fall into the hands of Schley, as they certainly will if they remain in the harbor.

The Entrance Guarded.

Commodore Schley will remain in front of Santiago harbor until he destroys Cervera's squadron. Admiral Sampson's fleet is at Key West ready to assist Schley if needed. The department, after translating Commodore Schley's cablegram, wired him instructions to this effect: "Under no circumstances permit Spanish ships to escape. Destroy or capture them."

It is certain that Cervera could not have escaped from Santiago without being discovered, for the American scouts had been prowling about the port for ten days, and other scouts had not been far away. Practically Santiago has been blockaded for that length of time. Cervera's coal ship, which followed him from Curacao to Santiago, was captured last Wednesday, and at the very moment when the queen regent was cabling her congratulations the coils were tightening about him.

Key West, Fla., May 31.—Everybody knows now that Spain's flying squadron, four splendid cruisers and two torpedo boat destroyers, is imprisoned in Santiago harbor. This fact has been known here many hours, and the speculation now is over the probably disposition of the Spaniards—whether they will be blockaded or the forts reduced and the vessels compelled to fight. In the latter case there can be but one result, for Commodore Schley has some of the finest ships in the world, to say nothing of cruisers and various smaller vessels, and could in a few days be reinforced by other powerful warships.

Compelled to Seek Shelter.

Strong and effective as are the Spanish ships, representing the flower of the Spanish navy, every argument in naval strategy compelled Admiral Cervera either to seek the shelter of the close harbor of Santiago or return to Spain, and he chose to make his stand at Santiago. That he would court a fight in the open sea is an idea which has never been entertained in American naval circles, although his ships, without exception, have high qualities, owing to their great speed, for such a contest.

view of the situation taken by the naval experts here, Admiral Cervera will have to accept battle at once. It is confidently expected that a hard blow will be struck within three or four days, and that the result will be known to the world at the expiration of that time.

WORK FOR SOLDIERS.

Military Invasion of the Island of Cuba Has Commenced.

Washington, May 31.—The military invasion of Cuba has begun. Unless the orders of the war department miscarry at an early hour the troops that have been gathered at the gulf ports began to break camp and march aboard transports waiting to carry them to the enemy's territory. About 25 of these ships, the biggest and fastest that could be obtained for the purpose, had been gathered ready to receive the troops.

Officers Are Mum.

How many troops started; where they took ship; where they are bound, are questions which the directing spirits of the campaign refuse positively to answer. They have no desire that the Spanish should have opportunity afforded them to gather forces to attack our soldiers as they land. Therefore nothing of the details of this first movement can be learned. There is a suspicion that the start will be made from Tampa and Mobile and it is probable that in such case the fleets of transports will converge at Key West to pass under the convoy of the warships which Admiral Sampson has provided to insure the safety of the troops during the passage across the Florida straits to insure them against attack at the hands of some stray Spanish cruiser or gunboat.

RUMORS OF A FIGHT.

Commodore Schley Said to Have Bombarded Fort and Fleet.

Cape Haytien, Hayti, June 1.—Advices from Havana say that since two o'clock Tuesday afternoon the American fleet at Santiago de Cuba has been cannonading the batteries of Morro Castle, La Zacapa and Punta Carda. At the same time, it is added, the American ships have been engaged with the Spanish warships. The firing was extremely heavy. At 3:45 p. m. the cannonading became less heavy against the fortifications, but was more accentuated in the locality where the fleets were engaged.

The cable is still working from Santiago. Private messages intimate that there has been a severe fight between the American fleet and the outer fortifications and the Spanish fleet. The fight lasted the greater part of the afternoon. The advantage appears to have been with the Americans. According to the latest advices the combat is still in progress.

Morro Castle is at the entrance of the harbor of Santiago de Cuba; La Zacapa, also shown on the maps as Lazecapa castle, is a short distance inside the harbor entrance, and Punta Carda is situated on a point well inside the harbor of Santiago de Cuba, showing that the American fleet has entered the harbor, according to the Havana advices via Cape Haytien, and has engaged the Spanish fleet in those waters.

Discredited at Washington.

Washington, June 1.—Naval officials absolutely discredit the news from Cape Haytien to the effect that Commodore Schley forced the entrance to Santiago bay and engaged the Spanish fleet in the harbor. While no official advices have been received from Commodore Schley since the battle is reported to have occurred, the naval officials declare with positiveness that it is not only improbable but in the circumstances, almost impossible that an attempt should have been made by the American commander to force an entrance to the bay.

Battle Is Expected Soon.

It has been thought that the campaign against Cervera might now be ended by demolishing the forts at the entrance of the harbor of Santiago, blockading the channel and isolating the Spanish fleet until other problems of the war are worked out. This, however, is not in accord with American policy, and, simply accepting the

LANDED TROOPS IN CUBA

Steamer Florida Returns to Key West After Putting Several Hundred Soldiers Ashore.

THE MEN RECEIVE A HEARTY WELCOME.

Landing Place Is Kept a Secret, But Probably Near Santiago—Much Joy in Cuban Circles Over the Success of the Expedition — Encouraging News from Gen. Garcia.

Key West, Fla., June 1.—The steamer Florida returned here at seven a. m. Tuesday from Cuba, having successfully landed a most important expedition on the island.

The war department absolutely forbids correspondents telegraphing the name of the landing place of Gen. Lacret's expedition, which, it was understood was at a point about 25 miles east of Havana. Later information raises a strong presumption that the landing was effected, as originally planned, not far from Guantanamo, province of Santiago de Cuba.

The expedition was landed on the coast of Cuba on Thursday, May 26.

A Triumphal Invasion.

When the Florida, escorted by the Osceola, drew up to the shore at the place selected for the landing, she sent scouts to see if all was clear. These scouts were greeted by Gens. Ferie and Rojas, with some 1,500 armed insurgents. Consequently, far from there being any hostile demonstration upon the part of the Spaniards, the landing of the expedition was in the nature of a triumphal invasion. The Cubans who were waiting for the party had a brass band and welcomed the newcomers with national airs.

The returning members of the Florida party brought with them several hundred private letters, which, it is understood, give a complete insight into the present conditions prevailing in the blockaded island.

The work of unloading the cargo of the Florida was promptly begun and carried on by the 432 men composing the expedition. There was nothing in the nature of interruption and the work was finished Friday.

Causes Much Joy.

Key West, Fla., June 1.—The successful landing of the Florida expedition has caused much joy in Cuban circles here. The Cubans say their armies will now make forward movements. The Florida probably carried more supplies than all the filibustering expeditions put together.

From Garcia's Army.

Key West, Fla., June 1.—Couriers from Cuba Tuesday brought highly encouraging reports from Gen. Calixto Garcia's army. Garcia alone, it is said, has 10,000 men, better equipped than ever before, except in the matter of clothing, and they are in excellent spirits. Five thousand men, it is added, occupy territory along the northern coast near Maniti. The Spanish troops have withdrawn to Santiago, Holquin and Manzanillo, and Gen. Garcia still holds his headquarters at Bayamo, Gen. Mario Menocal has been obliged to abandon his contemplated attack on Holquin, province of Santiago de Cuba, Gen. Lugue, of the Spanish army, having thrown 10,000 men into the city and strongly fortified neighboring hills. Gen. Menocal has been asked to proceed to Havana province and take command there. The Cuban military leaders have been discussing the summer campaign. They believe 5,000 or 6,000 men can well be spared from Santiago province, where the Spaniards are entirely on the defensive, and sent to the western part of the island.

"In 1890 I had a severe attack of LaGrippe and at the end of four months, in spite of all physicians, friends and good nursing could do, my lungs heart and nervous system were so completely wrecked, my life was despaired of, my friends giving me up. I could only sleep by the use of opiates. My lungs and heart pained me terribly and my cough was most aggravating. I could not lie in one position but a short time and not on my left side at all. What a Well-known Citizen of Lansing, Mich., says of Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer.

"I have had dyspepsia for eighteen years. My troubles were indigestion, sour stomach, acid fermentation, palpation of the heart, sleeplessness and terrible sick headache, which at times would entirely unfit me for business I have had special treatment by seven physicians, and it seems as though I have tried nearly every known or supposed remedy, with some little relief, but would soon relapse to the old condition. I commenced using Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer a few weeks ago, have used about two and one-half boxes which have done me more real good than all the treatment and so called remedies I have ever taken. I would advise any person afflicted with stomach troubles, dyspepsia or nerve troubles, to try this treatment.

AWFUL FATE OF CHILDREN

The Dwelling-House of A. Richter, at Iron Mountain, Is Destroyed by Fire.

TAKES FIRE WHILE THE FAMILY SLEEPS

Two Children Lose Their Lives and Two Others Are Fatally Burned—Fire Inmates Escape Unharmed—Explosion of a Lamp the Probable Cause.

Iron Mountain, May 27.—The residence of A. Richter, on West B street, was destroyed by fire Wednesday night. Two children, a boy aged nine years and a girl aged 11 years, were burned to a crisp, and two others, aged four and six, a girl and a boy, were so badly burned that they cannot live. It is not known how the fire originated, but the firemen suspect that it was caused by the explosion of a lamp in an incubator. Richter and his wife and nine small children occupied sleeping apartments on the second floor. The children were first aroused before an alarm had been given. Seven managed to escape, five of them uninjured, but two were fatally burned. Richter and wife escaped by jumping through a window, the former having his arm so badly cut by glass that he came near bleeding to death.

READY TO RESPOND AT ONCE.

Michigan Troops Under the New Call May Be Recruited from Townships and Wards.

Lansing, May 27.—Gov. Pingree said that while all of Michigan's quota under the first call had been mustered in and business at Camp Eaton was about to be closed, steps will at once be taken to raise the additional quota of 2,500 assigned to Michigan under the call made Wednesday. Recruits will be rendezvoused at the present camp. The governor is confident that the quota can be filled promptly, and his plan is to assign to each township and ward in the state its proportionate number, based on the number of eligible men within its boundaries. He thinks this plan far more preferable than raising whole companies in a single town or city, believing that the latter scheme will seriously affect such municipalities in future, the depletion of its population being so great.

There is considerable opposition to the plan to raise Michigan's quota by apportioning it among the 1,600 townships and wards in the state on the basis of the number of eligible men in each. It is pointed out that this would not only require much time, but that the transportation of men to the places of rendezvous would be very expensive. The governor is being urged to accept companies wherever offered, being assured that many of the members come from the surrounding townships, thus dissipating his fear of too extensively depleting the cities. He is expected to definitely decide to-day upon a plan for filling the quota. In the meantime he is being besieged by both individuals and companies desirous of enlisting, the offers being far more numerous than those which followed the first call.

Camp Eaton, Island Lake, June 1.—Gov. Pingree has issued an official circular in which he says that he has received no official notice of a second call for volunteers, and that at present it is "impossible to tell what will be required of Michigan, and whether it will be required to furnish a quota of infantry, artillery or cavalry." Until this is known, he says, it is useless to correspond with the military department of any of its members with a view to mustering in various bodies of men from over the state. If further enlistments are required it is expected that the quota will be distributed as evenly as possible over the state among places that have not heretofore furnished troops. The policy of giving captains' commissions to aspirants for the reason that they have collected the names of a body of men who have expressed their intention to enlist cannot be recognized for several reasons. One of them is that these men are greater in number than would be required from Michigan. It is not desired in case of another call to take men who have families dependent upon them for support.

Death of Joseph Dunkley.

Kalamazoo, May 28.—Joseph Dunkley, one of the foremost business men of this city, to whose efforts is attributable Kalamazoo's famous celery industry, died here Friday morning. He was born in England and came here in 1857. He was a florist by trade, and was one of the first promoters of celery-raising along modern lines. He began experimenting with the vegetables many years ago, and originated many of the methods by which the culture reached its present state of perfection. He leaves a wife and seven children.

To Pay Expenses of Troops.

Lansing, May 30.—Preparations are being made by the state officials for another sale of war bonds to pay the expenses of raising Michigan's quota under the second call for troops. The amount of the bonds to be issued has not been determined, but it is believed that it will not exceed $75,000. Treasurer Steele thinks these can be disposed of on a three per cent. basis. There still remains unissued $300,000 of the loan authorized by the legislature.

Scofield, May 27.—Another step in the Geierman murder case was taken Thursday. Sheriff Rodd appeared before Justice Shaw and swore out a warrant for Henry Geierman, charging him with the murder of his wife. The prosecutor claims to be in possession of very strong evidence against the husband of the murdered woman.

The Horrors of Rheumatism.

A woman's account of torture which lasted three years; of her struggles against the dreadful disease, and the good fortune that crowned her efforts.

Such suffering as rheumatism causes the victims upon whom it fastens itself is almost unendurable.

Sufferers from the worst types of this terrible disease will supply the missing horrors in the following story from real life.

Those who writhe under milder forms of rheumatism will be able to imagine the feelings of the tortured victim.

The only justification for making public such heart-rending details is the fact that the lesson taught will be helpful to others, pointing the way to renewed life and health to every sufferer from rheumatism.

The story is told by a woman. Her name is Mrs. Caleb Fenly; she lives in St. Paul, Ind.

This is her account:

"I am a farmer's wife. I believe my frequent exposure to the weather caused my terrible attack of rheumatism. Damp weather always aggravated it.

"My limbs would begin to swell at the ankle joints.

"This swelling would begin in the night, at times. I would awake in agony.

"Daylight would find my limbs purple in color, swollen to twice their natural size, and so racked with pain I could not bear to touch them.

"My right arm and both legs were so drawn as to be almost useless.

"My skin became dry and yellow.

"At times my limbs would pain as though millions of needles were pricking them.

"Again they would be numb, and I could not feel a needle thrust into my flesh.

"I was confined to the house three years, unable to walk nearly half the time.

"After those three slow years of agony, during which I spent probably $2,000 for treatment and tried a dozen doctors, I gave up hope of any release from pain, but death.

"I was cured, completely cured, by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They alone caused my recovery.

"The first dose gave me appetite.

"After the second dose I slept soundly the first time within a year.

"I sent for a dozen boxes. By the time I had taken the contents of eleven boxes I felt entirely well.

"The doctor said I was cured. He was greatly impressed, and since then he has prescribed Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People for many of his patients."

Mrs. Fenly, together with her husband, made affidavit to the exact truth of the foregoing account before Notary P. N. Thomas.

The cure of the severest cases of rheumatism by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People has occurred in every state in the Union, and its power in ordinary cases is proportionately greater.

These marvelous vegetable pills go directly to the seat of the trouble. They build up a new cellular structure in the diseased parts by eliminating poisonous elements and renewing health-giving chemical forces in the blood.

They are for sale by druggists everywhere; for 50 cents a single box or $2.50 for half a dozen.

That popular reformer, The Arena's able editor, John Clark Ridpath, has added this month to the list of splendid papers from his pen that have appeared in this Magazine of the People, a powerful contribution entitled "The Invisible Empire." This paper will delight all who are the foes of Plutocracy, and should be read by those who are not, for it would do them good. "For some time it has been my purpose," says the Doctor, "when opportunity should offer, to call the attention of the American people to the fact that they are no longer under the government of the American republic. They have passed under another sceptre. They are the subjects of another power—a power unseen, but felt in hall and hamlet, by every man and woman, by every parent and child, by every nabob and wage serf within the borders of the United States and throughout the world." But read it for yourself; it will cause the scales to drop from off your eyes and make you see.

Best Papers the Best Mediums.

There is much good solid sense for every advertiser in the following paragraph from a thoughtful eastern advertiser: The daily paper is by far the safest and most certain method of reaching the public. It should not be difficult for any intelligent man who has lived for any time in a community to know just what papers will serve him as advertising mediums. It isn't at all necessary to examine the books in the newspaper's counting room or to get their affidavits of circulation. A paper that you read yourself and that your neighbors read and respect and that you know to be widely read and respected, you can safely rely on as a satisfactory medium for reaching people of your own kind.

YOU HAVE BEEN GETTING BETTER RESULTS FROM The Detroit Journal WE'RE GIVING YOU MORE CIRCULATION.

Did You Ever Notice? The best business houses in Detroit use THE DETROIT JOURNAL largely—more largely every year. Nearly every successful general advertiser uses THE DETROIT JOURNAL. Some advertisers are not allowed in THE DETROIT JOURNAL.

Memorial Day Exercises.

Memorial day passed quietly in this town although a large number of people attended the exercises which took place at the opera house at 1:30 p. m. as announced last week. The absence of the band which is at the front with the 31st made the occasion more somber than usual. At the close of the inside program the procession marched to the cemetery where the decoration of the graves of the deceased members of Beers Post G. A. R. and Co. C, 1st Infy., took place, after which an appropriate ceremony in honor of those who sleep on southern battle fields was held. We append the speech of Hon. Lester H. Salsbury as given at the opera house:

DECORATION DAY ADDRESS DELIVERED BY MR. SALSBURY, OF ADRIAN, MICH., AT TECUMSEH, MAY 30, 1898.

Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen:

If there is a day in the whole year that ought to impress us with the responsibilities of American citizenship, with the cost and value of human liberty, impress us with the fact that there is a God in the Heavens who rules the world, who makes men instruments of his Almighty Power, in overturning wrong and oppression among the nations of the earth, and of moulding and shaping the destiny of a nation, it is this day—the day of the soldiers' decoration, a day that has been set apart and made sacred by a great nation to the memory of the men who died that this nation might live, the men who fought for it, who bled for it, who washed it of its stain in their blood and handed it down to us brighter, stronger, purer and more beautiful than it ever was before; the men who, when Fort Sumpter was fired upon and the starry flag we all love so well, was trailed in the dust in those days by armed men; then, with set teeth and flashing eyes, raised up that flag, and appalled by no danger, disheartened by no defeat, bore it aloft amid the smoke and thunder of battle until the last rebel laid down his arms and that flag floated again with fresh significance over every town, hamlet and city in this broad land. And to-day in recognition of that mighty service performed by you, my brave comrades of the war, the people of this great nation, in recognition of that service, in greatful memory of its sacrifice, suspend the ordinary business and avocations of every day life, gather in decorous parade with music and prayer, with choicest flowers of spring and with garlands of ivy and repair to the places where sleep, in death's still sombers, our dead comrades of war, and there decorate their graves with garlands of the ivy, with choicest flowers of springtime and look up to the Almighty and be thankful for the ministry of the lives of our dead comrades of the war. As we do here in Tecumseh to-day, so do our countrymen in every church-yard and cemetery of the north, east and west; we mingle our tears and decorate the graves with others in common sympathy, in devout thanksgiving to God of battles for the victory he vouchsafed to us through the death and sufferings thatthese men underwent to reach a place among that history counts immortal.

Then let us dwell on this service today with malice in our hearts toward none, with charity for all, let us have brought here no burden of a quarrel with any man, nor care for business in our anxiety; but here, by the shadow of our comrades' graves, let us divest ourselves of outward sins, our plans for making money, our thoughts of present pleasure, and let us live in memory and in peace. We may profit a great deal, if we will by the exercises and the memories of this hour. These are the times for burdening, heavy-laden hearts for storing up dead sympathy, with soulfelt sympathy and bring the spirit of brave service. We are made better men, better citizens, better Christians, by the meditations of these days and hours; they make us more quick in sympathy, more brave in self denial. O, what a grand country this is! What a great citizenship is ours, no standing army need be here to make the republic safe. Our magnificent citizenship, our glorious patriotic sons will always guard this republic. In the strong arms and against the brave patriotic hearts of our youthful manhood this republic can always rest secure. Whenever heroes are demanded, they come from every quarter of our land, from every avocation in life, through every door-way leap the young men of our nation to uphold it, to guard it, to ward off the dangers that threaten it; to stand like a rock of adamant against the enemies of the republic and say the stars and stripes shall wave. Why, this very spring has been an exhibition again of the heroism that actuates the souls of our young manhood in this chosen country of ours; the unanimity which our citizenship, without distinction of party or section, responded to the call of our President for troops and men to maintain the national authority, and to enlist in the great cause of humanity, enlist to say to the nations of the earth that the western hemisphere is no place for butchers like Weyler (great applause). That this great American republic will never tolerate such butchery as Spain instituted upon the fair island of Cuba.

Yes, my friends, we won our national independence by our own brave arms and stout hearts; the God of battles guided the nation through eight long years of sacrifice—of blood, of death, until finally the victory was won, and a nation dedicated to freedom was established in the western world. Then came a war with Great Britton that our nation thus instituted, thus reared, should have equal rights upon the high seas. So far this form of government had been a comparative success; but there was another struggle, and that struggle demonstrated the fact that this nation had the right of self-preservation; that secession was wrong; that national unity was right; that slavery was wrong; that freedom and independence were right. Through the blood, the toil and suffering of the men who were your comrades, who died while you were spared, our country came out of the conflict, reunited, disenthralled. The Almighty Disposer of human events was with us yet, because what we fought was right. We fought for freedom to the slave; we fought to unite our country; we maintained the perpetuity of the great republic, a nation blessed by the Almighty, a christain nation, a christian people. And now, when right across the water, we found that men and women and children were being starved to death; that the government of Spain was trying to conquer Cuba by starving innocent women and children, again was the great nation stirred up—stirred up in the cause of humanity. And our president gave them notice that their footsteps must vacate the fair island of Cuba; and the great nation was stirred up again, and the men who wore the gray, the men of every section, the men of every party, rushed to the standard to uphold the hands of our President in the work he had undertaken and unanimity with which our citizens flocked to the standard of the republic to uphold the President's hands, was worth a dozen victories because it showed that the republic was safe. They stood upon a loftier plane, upon a loftier platform than the platform of any party. Thank God. That platform was the glory of the flag and the integrity of the republic.

My friends, it was a hard and strange problem that was presented to the people of this land in the April days of 1861. We had read and we had been taught in history how nation had fought against nation, how ambitious tyrants suffered agrandizement for the acquisition of territory, had penned up human arteries and filled untimely graves. But we could not dream that war could go on among sister states; we could not dream that anyone could fire upon our dear old flag; our fidelity to the union could not look at the theory of secession, and nothing by us was considered dangerous as against the patriotism of an American citizen. But from this, my friends, there was a rough awakening. When our constitution was formed, some of the states held slaves and a provision was introduced in the fundamental law of the land recognizing and protecting it. The hearts of our fathers were so charged with joy and exultation because of the great victory won, that they didn't realize the awful significance of their action—when they incorporated in the fundamental law of the land that provision recognizing and protecting human slavery. A thing that was antagonistic to the principles for which they had fought; a thing that was yet to deluge our fair land in fraternal blood and bring sack-cloth into every American home. Four million men being bound down in chains, were scourged by the lash and hunted in the pestilent swamps by blood-hounds under the forms and sanctions of the law. Our fathers had fondly hoped that states would undertake to right the wrong of slavery and do away with it. The great north did dispense with human slavery—the states of the north—but the climate and cotton-gin of the south made it profitable there, and there it secured a firm foothold, and two civilizations were growing up in our land, divided by what may be called the Mason and Dixon line fatted by the labor of the slave. The south gave it a firm foothold; they taught their children it was right; and their ministers from the sacred pulpit proclaimed that it was sanctioned by law divine. Like all wrong unholy things, its spirit was aggressive, and compromise after compromise was made with it; concession after concession was granted to it, until finally it assumed the air of an autocrat and boldly said it would take its trade into all free territories of this nation. Then a conflict arose between the states that were slave states and the states that were free; freedom on one side, slavery on the other. But, my friends, the time came when the institution of slavery had to go down, or the republic be practically destroyed The pur-

The school board have decided to award Albert J. Rector, a member of the class of '98, who has gone to war, an especially prepared certificate of his work in the schools here. While properly speaking this is not a diploma, it is very similar and shows the patriotism of our school board. Bert lacked only about six weeks of finishing his course.

We clip the following from the Adrian Telegram. If the story hasn't two sides to it, we're glad the local lad got licked.

A couple of young Adrian boys visited Tecumseh, Monday, on their wheels. One of them was the son of Capt. John B. Morden. While there a young Tecumseh tough commenced fooling with young Mr. Morden's wheel and when the owner remonstrated, the Tecumseh boy hauled off and gave him a body blow. "Look here," said Master Morden, "if you don't look out I'll wipe the street with you." The Tecumseh youngster allowed that he'd have a good time doing it, and dared him out into the back alley. Well, they went out, and so did a big crowd, which looked after the fair play. The dignity of Adrian was upheld by young Mr. Morden, who is a boxer of considerable repute (unknown to the Tecumseh boy), and, as he was in the right, there seemed to be a disposition on the part of the Tecumseh boys to see their bully cleaned out, and he was, to the queens's taste.

ETIQUETTE OF STATE.

Rigid Rules of Precedence Govern the Social Events of Official Society at Washington.

"The wife of the president makes and returns no visits. The wife of the vice president pays first visit only to the wife of the president," writes Mary Nimmo Balentine in an illustrated article on "Women of the United States Senate" in the Woman's Home Companion.

"The wives of senators make first calls on the wife of the president, the wife of the vice president, the wives of the ambassadors, the ladies of the supreme court, and upon each other in the order of the length of service of their husbands in the senate. The wife of the vice president holds receptions on Wednesday, cabinet day, because her husband is a member of the president's cabinet, while the day of receiving for senators' wives is Thursday, between the hours of three and six in the afternoon. These receptions begin after the first of January, and continue to be held until Lent begins. Some ladies observe the day for receiving all the time congress is in session. The customary preparations for holding an afternoon reception are to station one man at the drive to open and shut carriage doors and call carriages, and another at the hall door to admit callers and take cards. The hostess receives the visitors standing near the door of the entrance, and is dressed in a high-necked gown, which may otherwise be as elaborate as taste may dictate. Visitors may be announced by name to the hostess by an usher, or may speak their names themselves.

"Any person is at liberty to make the visits at the homes of senators, and all persons are cordially received. Those leaving cards expect their visits to be returned; resident and non-resident sightseers, who call without introduction of any sort, do not leave cards. A large proportion of the official folk owe first calls to the ladies of the senate, the ladies of the cabinet, the wives of foreign ministers and the wives of the members of the house of congress. These are termed 'duty calls,' and must be returned in person. A woman whose husband is in the 'upper house' can be quite as exclusive as any lady of private position, if she so desire. The women of the cabinet could not close their houses to the public, however much they might wish to do so."

To Freshen a Chiffon Waist.

Freshen your half-worn chiffon waist by adding a black velvet bolero made with small revers covered with white silk and network of jet. Colored velvets are also pretty for this purpose if the bodice is of white or cream.

Average Life of Frenchwomen.

WAYS TO WASH PAINT.

Reliable Bits of Information Which Will Be Read with Interest by Many Housekeepers.

It is often a question with housewives how to remove dirt from painted woodwork and leave the paint. A plateful of the best whiting is a great aid in this work; but where it is not at hand a good substitute for it will be found in the white part of coal-ashes. Provide a plate with some of the white ashes, and have ready some clean, warm water and a piece of flannel, which dip into the water and squeeze nearly dry; then take up as much of the ashes as will adhere to it, apply it to the painted surface, when a little rubbing will instantly remove any dirt or grease, after which wash the part well with clean water, rubbing it dry with a chamois or a clean soft rag. Paint thus cleaned looks as fresh as when first laid on, without any injury whatever to the most delicate colors. It will not cut the paint nor prove the least injurious to the hands.

Sometimes when we move into a house that had been tenanted before us by a family that did not feel under any obligations to "clean up" before they left, we find the woodwork in a fearful plight. In such cases more than the ordinary care must be exercised to take off the dirt and leave the paint. Much of the drudgery may be overcome by using the following recipe: Two quarts of water, half a bar of soap dissolved in it, two tablespoonfuls of powdered borax and two tablespoonfuls of turpentine. This will make a kind of transparent jelly or soft soap. Take a flannel rag, with which spread the preparation thin and evenly. Have ready a pail of warm water and two soft cotton rags. Take, for instance, one door, which should be soaped and then washed off before you begin another one, as it is best not to let the soap dry too much before wiping off. This will require but a few minutes' work, and will leave the paint uncut, but bright and clean.—Mrs. W. L. Tabor, in Farm and Fireside.

Early Marriage Ceremonials.

The early marriage ceremony among our Anglo-Saxon forefathers was of a very primitive character. It consisted merely of hand-fasting, or taking each other by the hand, and pledging love and affection, in the presence of friends and relations. The bridegroom paid the father a sum of money, called a "foster-lean," or payment for nourishing. At a later period, the early custom of espousals was reduced to a regular system, and the lover was required to give a "wed," or security, for the performance of his contract; hence our word "wedding."

Why Owls Look Wise.

The owl looks wise because his eyes are fixed immovably in their sockets, and so when he looks from one object to another he must move his head.

STYLISH COLLAR FOR A BICYCLE JACKET.

Pattern and Directions for the Home Manufacture of a Very Fashionable Little One Out of White Duck.

A pretty and out of the ordinary bicycle suit has a short reefer jacket of blue serge. All the reefers are very short. This one is for a skirt of blue and white Shepherd plaid. The hat is also of Shepherd plaid with a gay bird at one side.

The feature of this reefer jacket is the duck collar and reveres. This is fashioned much like a boy's sailor collar.

The collar is made of two pieces joined in the middle of the back. It is doubled and can be lined like a cuff if desired, but if lining is used the greatest care must be observed to keep it from puffing.

A collar like this can be laundered so easily that a dozen such collars can be made and put on whenever needed. Girls who bicycle a great deal are making collars in white, blue, tan, quartz gray, scarlet duck and pique so that they can have a collar to match every hat of the season.

Persons arriving at Kingston, Jamaica, from Havana declare that Cuba is able to resist only one month longer, owing to scarcity of provisions.

Madrid officially reports that Cervera and his fleet are at Santiago de Cuba, and that an American (Schley's) squadron is patrolling the entrance to the bay.

Sampson's fleet of ironclads is off Havana in position to bombard the city and has received detailed instructions and is prepared to pave the way for the landing of the military expedition for the invasion of Cuba.

The queen regent of Spain was urged to flee from that country in fear of threatened revolution.

Capt. Clark reached Key West with the battleship Oregon and is rapidly getting into shape for active work.

Admiral Sampson's fleet returned to a point near Havana after six days of scouting for hostile ships along the Cuban coast.

Twenty-one of the 29 Spanish prizes in Key West harbor were condemned by the judge and ordered to be disposed of by the marshal.

Commodore Schley cabled to Washington that he had the Spanish armada under Admiral Cervera securely cooped up in the harbor of Santiago de Cuba.

Arrangements were being made at San Francisco to send the second and third detachments of troops to aid Admiral Dewey at Manila without delay.

President McKinley, Secretaries Long and Alger, Gen. Miles and others held an important conference at which it is said, the bombardment of Havana and Puerto Rico was agreed on.

Envoys from Gen. Garcia went to Washington to arrange plans of cooperation with the American forces say there are between 20,000 and 25,000 Cubans now in the field.

The Universal Peace union, through its president, Alfred H. Love, of Philadelphia, sent an appeal to the queen of Spain to acknowledge Cuban independence in the interests of peace.

The work of mustering the volunteers into the service of the United States under the president's first call for troops is practically completed.

Officials in Washington decided to make no forward movement of troops either upon Puerto Rico or Cuba until full and definite information is received as to the location of the Spanish squadron and its possibilities as a factor in the aggressive movements of Spain.

In the senate in Madrid Marshal Primo de Rivera, former captain general of the Philippines, said: "That rag called the American flag shall never float over the walls of Manila."

SUNDAY MAY 29.

Announcement is made at Madrid that the Spanish reserve squadron, commanded by Admiral Camara, has left Cadiz. Another report says it is still in Cadiz.

Hayden Jones and Charles Thrall, the Americans held prisoners by Spain since May 12, are again free, having been exchanged for five Spaniards.

There is no truth in the report that the United States cruiser Baltimore, now at Manila, has been damaged by an internal explosion.

The president appointed ex-Senator Butler, of South Carolina, major general of volunteers.

MONDAY, MAY 30.

Another Spanish gunboat, the Leyte, has been captured by the Americans at Manila.

The military invasion of Cuba has begun, the transports taking on board about 30,000 men at southern ports.

Admiral Dewey's hold on Manila is unrelaxed, and the Spaniards must surrender or starve. A good supply of rifles and ammunition has been procured by the insurgents.

It transpires that Sampson's bombardment of San Juan shattered Cervera's plans and resulted in the armada's trip to Santiago.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 1.

Dispatches from Cape Haytien stated that Commodore Schley had attacked the Santiago forts and the Spanish fleet. It was also stated that the advantage was with the Americans, who entered the harbor after a heavy engagement.

Gen. Blanco gave notice that all newspaper correspondents must keep out of Cuba or suffer arrest.

Gen. Merritt has assumed personal command of all the expeditionary forces bound for Manila, and has instructed his subordinates to rush preparations to start the second expedition.

The press censorship at Tampa, Fla., has become more strict, and hereafter no publication is to be permitted of orders that may be issued at army headquarters.

Not only in France, but all over Europe, the nations are now eager to show their sympathy for America in the present war.

Thought It Was Water.

St. Louis, June 1. — James Underwood, a traveling salesman for the Champonia Jewelry company of Newark, N. J., drank a quantity of cyanide of potassium by mistake at the jewelry store of F. H. Niehaus Monday, thinking it was water. He fell to the floor immediately and lived but ten minutes.

Will the Klondike Region Become Habitable?

Who knows if the mother of inventions will not hatch contrivances that may render the valley of the Yukon as habitable as the valley of the Vistula, "once studded with fir-woods, and now with prosperous villages"?

There was a time when the Romans considered the Caucasus an unfit habitation for a civilized human being; and the poet Ovid, in his exile at Tomi, on the shores of the Euxine, complained of more shivers than a Russian reformer in an Irkutskaya snow-bank. Germany his countrymen described as a land "horrid with frozen pines." They relaxed their precautions against desertion when their legions ventured into the wilderness north of the Danube, not thinking it possible that a sane human being would run the risk of getting left behind in a country where the very bears had to crawl underground in winter.

And northern winters must, indeed, have scared the wits out of thin-skinned settlers before the terrors of an ice-storm had been modified by the invention of chimney-flues. The ancient Italian plan of counteracting a frost was to fill a brazier with glowing charcoal and carry it into a corner of the parlor where my lady and her visitors wished to warm their delicate hands. The converts of Cato considered it manly to get along with a minimum of such artifices, and Juvenal mentions an old sinner who dispensed with braziers altogether and admonished his shivering servants to remember that "the grasshoppers would soon be back."—Felix L. Oswald in June Lippincott's.

TOOK HIS ADVICE.

A Veterinary Surgeon of Battle Creek tells about it.

How many times in life a few words of good advice, coming from a friend we can depend upon, will save us hours, perhaps months of misery. The following which coming from Battle Creek will interest our readers. Dr. Oliver Guiteaux, Veterinary Surgeon of that city, a well-known man there, as well as in Kalamazoo and Marshall, speaks of his experience with the little conqueror and the result of a few timely words of advice he says:—"I was standing in Amberg & Murphy's drug store in Battle Creek one day when a friend of mine came in and asked for a box of kidney pills. After he had made his purchase I said quietly to him, "You have made a mistake in buying those." His reply was "How is that?" I said Doan's Kidney Pills are worth all the others put together. As he wanted my reasons for thinking so I told him that my kidneys had bothered me for years, that I suffered from backache until I could scarcely stand it, that I had nearly every symptom to be found where the kidneys are affected, that I had used remedy after remedy including box after box of the one he just purchased, and that until I used Doan's Kidney Pills I might have taken as many spoonfuls of water, in fact. I think some of them hurt me. A couple of weeks after this I met him on the street, when he said: "Doc., Doan's Kidney Pills are just as you represented." After using the box about which we had a conversation in Amberg & Murphy's drug store I was as bad as ever. I then procured Doan's and stuck to their treatment until they cured me."

The most fascinating invention of the age. Always ready to entertain. It requires no skill to operate it and reproduce the music of bands, orchestras, vocalists or instrumental soloists. There is nothing like it for an evening's entertainment at home or in the social gathering. You can sing or talk to it and it will reproduce immediately and as often as desired, your song or words.

Other so-called talking machines reproduce only records of cut and dried subjects, specially prepared in a laboratory; but the Graphophone is not limited to such performances. On the Graphophone you can easily make and instantly reproduce records of the voice, or any sound. Thus it constantly awakens new interest and its charm is ever fresh. The reproductions are clear and brilliant.

Graphophones are sold for $10 and up

ALL HAVE HISTORIES.

The Civilians Recently Appointed Generals of Volunteers.

James H. Wilson, One of the New Commanders, Directed the Soldiers Who Captured President Jefferson Davis.

[Special Washington Letter.]

EACH of the civilians recently appointed to the position of major general of volunteers has a history, military as well as civil. Two of them were confederate leaders and two of them were union generals in the civil war.

A momentous event in our national history is recalled by the appointment of Maj. Gen. James H. Wilson, the soldier whose cavalry troopers effected the capture of Jefferson Davis at the close of the irrepressible conflict between the sections.

One of the veterans who knew him well in the days of his prime and prowess informs the writer that Gen. Wilson stood in high favor with Gen. Grant, who regarded him as a most brilliant and reliable cavalry officer; a soldier always ready to fight. Gen. Sheridan said of him that "Wilson may be a little ahead of the time, but never behind time in carrying out specific orders."

Naturally as brave as Kilpatrick or Pleasanton, and as dashing as Custer, he was highly esteemed at headquarters in the field on account of his valuable suggestiveness and ready ability in separating the wheat from the chaff in any military proposition. Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business. He finally became president of the New York & New England Railroad company, and subsequently lived quietly in Wilmington, Del. President Cleveland brought him again to public view when he appointed him a member of the board of visitors to the military academy at West Point.

The capture of Jefferson Davis was brought about by the activity and energy of Gen. Wilson, and the determination of character with which he imbued the officers and men under his command. If Abraham Lincoln had lived Mr. Davis would never have been captured. This fact is well known, and is made apparent in the memoirs of Grant, Sherman and others. In his book on Lincoln a very significant paragraph is published by Col. A. K. McClure, as follows:

GEN. JAMES H. WILSON.
(His Troopers Effected the Capture of Jefferson Davis.)

"He intimated to Sherman very broadly that he desired Jefferson Davis to escape from the country. Sherman in his memoirs repeats a story told by Lincoln to him illustrative of his wish that Davis should escape 'unbeknown to him,' and, discussing the same subject in the white house in the presence of Gov. Curtin, Col. Forney, several others and myself, he told the same story to illustrate the same point, obviously intending to convey very clearly his wish that the southern leaders should escape from the land and save him the grave complications which must follow their arrest. Secretary Welles, in an article in the Galaxy, quotes Lincoln as saying on this subject: 'No one need expect he would take any part in hanging or killing these men, even the worst of them. Frighten them out of the country; open the gates; let down the bars, scare them off. Enough lives have been sacrificed; we must extinguish our resentments if we expect harmony and union.'"

But Lincoln was not permitted to live, and other policies prevailed; policies which for a generation distracted our country. The tragedy in Ford's theater in Washington aroused all of the malevolent passions of the people. They were clamorous for vengeance, demanding the lives of Mr. Davis, every member of his cabinet and all of his general officers.

It was known that Mr. Davis was traveling in a southwesterly direction, and under orders from Sherman two expeditions were sent out from Macon by Gen. James H. Wilson in pursuit; one to scour the left, the other the right bank of the Ocmulgee river; one under command of the lieutenant colonel of the First Wisconsin cavalry, Henry Harnden, the other under command of Col. Pritchard, of the Fourth Michigan cavalry. Harnden started on the 6th and Pritchard on the 7th of May, 1865. On the afternoon of May 9 these commands met at Abbeville, Ga., compared notes and continued the pursuit by different routes.

It was learned along the lines of march that Mr. Davis and his party were encamped within a mile of Irwinville, and small detachments from each command spurred ahead of their comrades, all endeavoring to outride each other and have the glory of capturing the fugitive chieftain. The result was that in the early morning before the capture of Mr. Davis these federal troops fired into each other, causing the deaths of two men and the serious wounding of several others.

Col. Pritchard reached Irwinville after midnight of May 9 and found a negro boy who could guide him to the Davis camp. When within half a mile of the camp Pritchard sent one of his lieutenants, named Purinton, with 25 dismounted men, to go to the rear of the camp, with instructions to wait until break of day to make the capture.

Capt. Lawton, of the Fourth Michigan cavalry, writing of the event, says: "At daybreak the order was whispered along the line to make ready to enter the camp. Mounting their horses, the men moved along at a walk until the tents came in sight, and then, at the word, dashed in. The camp was found pitched in both sides of the road. On the left hand as we entered were wagons, horses, tents and men; on the right were two wall tents, fronting from the road. All was quiet in the camp. We encountered no guards; if there were any, they must have been asleep.

The account of the final capture of the ex-president of the confederate states, which will live in history as authentic, is the statement published by Mr. Davis himself, which is as follows:

"I stepped out of my wife's tent and saw some horsemen, whom I immediately recognized as cavalry, deploying around the encampment. I turned back and told my wife that these were not the expected marauders, but regular troopers. She implored me to leave her at once. I hesitated from unwillingness to do so, and lost a few precious moments before yielding to her importunity. My horse and arms were near the road on which I expected to leave, and down which the cavalry approached. It was, therefore, impracticable to reach them. I was compelled to start in the opposite direction. As it was quite dark in the tent, I picked up what was supposed to be my "raglan," a waterproof light overcoat, without sleeves. It was subsequently found to be my wife's, so very like my own as to be mistaken for it. As I started my wife thoughtfully threw over my head and shoulders a shawl. I had gone perhaps 15 or 20 yards when a trooper galloped up and ordered me to halt and surrender, to which I gave a defiant answer, and dropping the shawl and reglan from my shoulders advanced towards him. He leveled his carbine at me; but I expected if he fired he would miss me, and my intention was in that event to put my hand under his foot, tumble him off on the other side, spring into his saddle and attempt to escape. My wife, who had been watching, when she saw the soldier aim the carbine at me ran forward and threw her arms around me. Success depended upon instantaneous action, and recognizing that the opportunity had been lost I turned back, and, the morning being damp and chilly, passed on to a fire beyond the tent."

That is the story of the capture, plainly stated, and with the candor of perfect truthfulness. The official account forwarded to Gen. Wilson by Col. Pritchard substantiates the narration published by Mr. Davis, although it gives many details not found in the story written by the ex-president of the lost cause.

Hon. John H. Reagan, for many years a member of the national house of representatives, and also of the senate, was postmaster-general of the confederacy, and he was with the Davis party on that occasion, and was also taken prisoner. He also has published an account of the event, and says that Col. Pritchard did not come up for some time after Mr. Davis was made a prisoner. He says: "Mr. Davis was standing, dressed in the suit he habitually wore. He asked Col. Pritchard who commanded the troops, and when Pritchard announced himself as their commander, Mr. Davis said: 'You command a set of thieves and robbers. They rob women and children.' Col. Pritchard reminded Mr. Davis that he was a prisoner, and Mr. Davis replied: 'It would be bad enough to be the prisoner of soldiers and gentlemen. I am still lawful game, and would rather be dead than be your prisoner.'"

The prisoners were taken to Macon, Ga., where they arrived May 13, 1865. Mr. Davis was sent by command of Gen. Wilson to Fortress Monroe, Va., and there imprisoned for nearly two years. He was finally arraigned for treason before the United States circuit court, at Richmond, Va., where he had been for four years the head of a strong confederation of states. He was liberated on bail furnished by Horace Greeley, Cornelius Vanderbilt and Gerrit Smith, and that ended the case; for Mr. Davis was never brought to trial.

STATE CONVENTIONS.

Calls Issued by the Democratic, Union Silver and People's Party Committees.

Detroit, May 28.—The democrats of Michigan will meet in state convention in the city of Grand Rapids on Wednesday, June 22, 1898, at 12 o'clock noon, for the purpose of nominating party candidates for the following state offices: Governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, auditor general, attorney general, commissioner of state land office, superintendent of public instruction, member of the state board of education. The convention will also transact such other business as may come before it. According to the rule adopted by the democratic state convention held in Detroit in 1880, and since followed, every county in the state is entitled to one delegate to the state convention for each 500 votes cast for governor at the last general election, and one additional delegate for a fraction of not less than 250 votes. But each county is entitled to at least two delegates. All delegates must be residents of the counties which they represent.

Grand Rapids, May 28.—A state convention of the union silver party will be held in the city of Grand Rapids on the 22d day of June, 1898, at 11 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of placing candidates in nomination for the various state offices and to transact such other business as may properly come before it. All electors of the state who are opposed to the single gold standard and who favor the free coinage of gold and silver at the present legal ratio of sixteen to one, are cordially invited to participate in the primaries for the election of delegates in their respective voting precincts and conventions, without regard to past party affiliations. The various counties in the state will be entitled to send one delegate for every 1,000 votes cast for governor in the last election, and one additional delegate for a majority thereof, but each organized county shall be entitled to at least four delegates.

Grand Rapids, May 28.—The people's party of Michigan will meet in state convention at the city of Grand Rapids on the 22d day of June, at 11 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for the various state offices, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the convention. The several counties will be entitled to delegates in said convention on the same basis as the call for 1896. The several county chairmen will be duly notified by mail. Each county will be entitled to at least one delegate.

Lansing, May 28.—The prohibition state convention will be held in Lansing August 23. Rev. F. E. Britten, of the Baptist church at Albion, has resigned his pastorate to become chairman of the party.

DECORATION DAY.

An Appropriate Observance Takes Place in Detroit—Children Sing Patriotic Songs.

Detroit, May 31.—Memorial day was celebrated as usual here, although the absence of the young militiamen who hitherto escorted the veterans in their parade was keenly apparent. At the base of the soldiers' monument in the Campus Martius were beautiful floral pieces dedicated to the heroes of the Maine as well as those of the rebellion. Gov. Pingree and staff formed a prominent feature at the head of the parade, in which the local cadets and independent military organizations took the place of the national guard. The veterans and their escorts proceeded to the Auditorium, which had been decorated with national and Cuban colors. There Mayor Maybury and others made addresses, and exercises in honor of the national dead were held. One of the striking features of the Auditorium was the singing of patriotic songs by 400 school children. The decoration of the graves of soldiers was looked after by committees from the Woman's Relief corps, most of the flowers being furnished by the school children.

PINGREE TO HIS MEN.

The Governor Delivers a Memorial Address in Michigan's Volunteer Camp.

Island Lake, May 31.—There were no soldiers' graves here to decorate with wreaths of flowers, but exercises befitting Memorial day were held. The Thirty-fourth regiment, the only one now in camp, playing a dirge, marched to the parade ground, where the stars and stripes waved at half-mast. At the governor's headquarters the national anthem was sung, and Col. Peterman and Gov. Pingree delivered short addresses. Col. Irish, who is in command of the Thirty-fifth regiment under the new call, also addressed the volunteers.

High School Orators Speak.

Ann Arbor, May 29.—The first annual contest of the Peninsular Oratorical league was held here Saturday night. The six high schools of Ann Arbor, Bay City, Detroit, Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo and Saginaw, East side, participated. S. Wells Utley, of Detroit, won first place; Milton W. Guy, of Ann Arbor, second. The next year's contest will be held at Bay City.

A Note of Warning.

Lansing, May 28. — Agents are working the rural school districts with sets of reading charts, using bogus recommendations from Superintendent Hammond. The charts are inferior, and the price asked is $37. The law limits the price to $16. Superintendent Hammond desires to warn all school districts against these men.

Manistique, May 31.—A sailboat with 15 men capsized Sunday near Sulthoix Point and four unknown men were drowned. The men were going over to raft logs for the Mackinaw Lumber company, of St. Ignace.

Memorial Day Exercises.

poses of the Almighty in this land were right. The cries of the slaves were known. Father was separated from mother as children were separated from parents. The crack of the slave driver's whip as it drew the red current of life from the quivering flesh of the prostrate slave had been heard by this land of liberty long enough. Compromise was discarded and the surgeon's knife was substituted to cut this cancerous poisonous thing from the national heart. The south then threatened nullification and secession. Daniel Webster, sitting in the senate of the United States, in a speech of mighty massive power and strength, combatted the idea that there was any right of secession; that this nation could not coerce this state; that we had no right of self-preservation. Finally we discovered that a great storm was arising, the ultimate consequences of which no man could foretell; its mutterings were already being heard; its lightening had been seen and its thunder had been heard. Finally a cloud of war arose, no bigger than a man's hand, but it spread and spread until it covered the whole country, and one million men stood in arms to destroy this nation because they could not have their own way about slavery. Then the spirit of the loyal North came up in full view from every farm, from every work-shop, from every country, through every doorway rushed the young heroes of the North, and the murmur of their united voices, like the roaring of a storm, broke forth in the grand challenge of this encouraged patriotism. Ah, my comrades, you were there; you were among the men that made the emergency; you were willing to give all that you were to maintain the honor and dignity of the country. The battle was on. The blood flowed like a river. The lamented Lincoln was in the presidential chair. His first theory, you remember, was to restore the union with slavery. Abraham Lincoln wrote to Horace Greeley in August 1862 that if he could restore the union with slavery, he would do that; if he could restore the union without slavery he would do that. Shortly after that he was lead to see what the real issue was. The hand of the Almighty, was in this fight. (Applause). You might as well try and heal an old sore while the virus of poison remains as to restore this union with slavery. The God of nations would not permit it. We heard of it as a negro war. It was in one sense a negro war. It could not be otherwise. It was costly. For every drop of blood that had been bought from the veins of the bondsmen by the fangs of the blood-hounds, or by the slave driver's lash, was to be atoned for by blood from the veins of the brave in all the land. I cannot take time this afternoon to undertake to tell what it cost to wipe this stain from our banner. We fought better than we knew; our blood and sacrifice was the atonement that brought this land up out of its degradation into the glorious light of liberty.

This republic is the example of all nations of the earth, and under its beneficent example monarchs are being turned into republics, crowns are becoming a thing of torture; and the crowned heads of Europe to-day tremble because of the example of this great country of ours. O, my friends, my comrades, this is your work. You were the men in the hands of the Almighty to bring about this grand consummation. Whether the years go fast or whether they go slow, you will wear in your hearts forever the glory of long ago; through much suffering, treading the path of the wilderness, through blood and death you proved your loyalty to the glorious flag and the union of states. Some of you may not be rich in purse as the world goes, but, ah, you are rich in the service to your country, that no money can measure rich in the service that raised four million men from the toil of bondage; from the shackles of the slave up into the light and liberty of freedom and American citizenship. Rich, my comrades, in the service that can never be departed from you; rich in the service that prevented this republic from being dismembered, from being broken up into fragments, from having as many nations here, or warring against each other, as we have states; but in maintaining its dignity, its unity, and making it the greatest and most powerful nation upon the face of the earth. I want every comrade of mine to walk the earth with the tread and the aspect of a king. If any men have a right to walk the avenues and streets of our country with head erect, with the satisfaction of having done their duty as American citizens, it is soldiers of 1861 (Great applause).

Then, my friends, when you twine garlands, when you scatter flowers, decorate generally to the memory of the men of the rank and file of the musket and bayonet, without whose service the country would never have been saved. They are the grandest heroes of the civil war, for this reason: that they chose the path of the greatest danger with the least hope of reward. The victory was won by blood and the suffering of scores of the men of the musket and bayonet; their names are all unspoken; they are buried together in a common ditch with no covering (but the blue coat they wore) for their stout heroic heart; and I tell you, my friends, they were the ones who carried the loads, who endured the hardships, who crossed rivers at any time of the day or night, and then had to stand around and shiver the balance of the night because they were too near the enemy to permit of a fire being made to warm them; dragging through the mud up to their knees and carrying loads on their backs that would discourage an ordinary mule (Laughter). Your reward is the consciousness that you did your duty; while the man who commanded had the benefit of choicer quarters; he had better grub; good deal better pay, and could stand behind two ranks of blue that received the bullets, and, if he got too afraid, he could stand behind a tree (Laughter). And if he got very scared, he could resign and go home. I simply mention this to show that you boys were the sufferers; that you boys were the ones who made the sacrifice; that you boys are entitled to the gratitude of your countrymen for what you did for them. O, merchants and business men of Tecumseh, just think for a moment what would have been your attitude in life had not these boys did for you what they did do. Don't say that this old talk about the soldiers is about played out. O, no, my friends' it will never play out—never, never; don't say that. Don't ever utter it in your lives. If you ever have said so, go wash your face with soap and water and hide it under a bed-quilt (Laughter). I tell you it is a war of ideas, and it has been from the beginning. There is a contention, as you might say, everywhere. If it were not for contention the world would die, in one sense, from inactivity. Men say frequently that the world is growing worse and worse, but I tell you, my friends, I don't believe that. The world is growing better and better. The sacrifices that have been made for liberty have been made to put away wrong, and wrong by them has been put away. No more burning men at the stake for political and religious opinion. No more slavery. These wrongs are being put away, and now for the first time in our national history a great nation had risen up in the sunlight and said to the people of another nation, you shall not carry on your practice of murder and starvation anywhere upon the western hemisphere, no more forever (Great applause). And now we are engaged in a war largely for humanity, largely to prevent men, women and children from being murdered and starved to death.

A few years ago it was my privilege, as well as pleasure, to go over the great battle-field of Gettysburg, and as I went over that field and noticed there the monuments that had been raised to the bravery and valor of the brave men who fought there to turn back the tide of rebel invasion and place the seal of doom forever upon the hopes of those in rebellion to establish a nation upon this continent with human slavery as its corner-stone, I could not help taking off my hat and pushing back the tears. Almost the first thing that is shown to the visitor at the battle-field of Gettysburg is the lines of the conflict of the first day, and as we go out upon these lines of battle almost the first thing we see is the line that is drawn at Willoughby, running where our heroic 24th Michigan stood on that first day until they lost three hundred and thirty or forty men out of about four hundred and sixty-four. Standing there like a wall against the masses of the enemy, saving the line for the balance of the Union army to come up and save the magnificent position to us, which aided us largely in winning that glorious victory that was won. And it is to the ever-lasting, or should be, pride and joy of Michigan that its heroes who fought and struggled there lost more men, according to the numbers engaged, than any other state whose troops fought and bled there. And was it accident, my friends, or was there some design? Was there some hand that over-ruled that battle-field so that a Michigan regiment was at every point, except one and there a Michigan man commanded. There was our 24th at McPherson's Grove; our 3rd was in a peach orchard; our 1st was at the spot they call the "loop", where the line of battle deflected away to the left; the 5th was between the loop and the wheat-field. The 4th, the regiment to which I had the honor of belonging, was in the deadly wheat field itself. The 16th was upon a little round top, the 7th on Cemetery Hill. The Michigan men were true to the trust imposed upon them; they stood and fought with heroic valor in the front rank of the war for our republic. And as I passed over these lines and as I went in the cemetery and saw the dead, I felt that these men were almost to be envied because they were permitted, considered worthy, I might say, on that glorious battlefield to mingle their blood with the sacred stream that waters the tree of liberty. I felt that these men had not died in vain; that they had died that the nation might live; no broken constitution typifies their career. They died not in vain, and by their death they had done more for their country and posterity, not only of this land, but of all the nations of the earth, than they ever could gain in living a hundred years. I tell you the noblest time for a man to die is when he dies for his fellowmen. It don't come to a man every one hundred years to die for his country as you were permitted to do. I am glad today that I live in this heroic age. Ah, that is something, a service that no money can buy.

But, my comrades, there is another class to which I wish to speak this afternoon, and that is the ladies of this great American land of ours. I tell you the Spartan mothers were not confined to Greece alone. We had them in our Civil War; we have them today in our war with Spain. The mothers who live right here in your midst every day, whose boys go forth to war, cannot have cowards for sons. In those days of trials they filled us with their prayers and tears; they gathered in society and prepared bandages for the wounded heroes in front. It has been said that half in tears of women and half in blood of men was the ransom paid. When the soldier went to the front, laid his life upon the altar of his country, he laid there also the life and the hope of that other heart bound up to his, and the same fire of sacrifice consumed them both. Uncomplainingly they performed their part of the service, uncomplainingly they cheered us on, hoping when hope seemed lost, never giving up.

It does not seem thirty-seven years ago when men in uniform and women in tears, met all over this country at the depots to say good-bye; but when I look in your faces; when I see hair that was once black as the raven's wing, now almost frosted over with white; when I see eyes that were bright and flashing then, dimmed with age now; when I see forms that were nice then, crippled and stooped now, I remember that the years have gone by. And now, today, this same scene is re-enacted. Women in tears and men in uniform are again meeting at the depots to say good-bye. But we hope and pray that the sacrifice need not be as great. But however much it may be, there are strong arms and brave hearts enough in this country to maintain the dignity and the honor of this Great Republic and to press forward in the cause in which we are engaged. And we owe it to ourselves, we owe it to our nation, we owe it to our grand citizenship, to teach the nations of this earth that whether an American citizen stands on the deck of an American battle-ship, or on the deck of an American commerce-ship, or on the deck of an American flat-boat in time of peace in a friendly harbor, that no man on earth, and no nation on earth, must endanger his life or his safety (Great applause).

I want our government in this war to teach the nations of the earth that the whole power of this government, and with all its mighty resources, is behind every citizen that stands under the flag (Great applause). Spain has found out that she monkeyed with a buzz-saw (Laughter). She has turned aside the republican elephant and the democratic jack-ass.

Now, my friends, I have engaged your attention altogether too long. I am glad to have met you. I want to say a word to the girls before I quit. To be an American citizen is the proudest title a man ever wore. There is no need of you girls running after some superannuated worn-out old duke or prince of foreign country. Get a man with a title. You just take up some of these kings we have around here, some American citizen. So girls be patriotic, be American. And if you want to get married, take up some of our boys who have the courage to go to war; they are the fellows for you.

But, comrades, your story no man can tell. As long as I live, as long as I have a voice to say a word to my comrades, so long will I do what I can to pay a worthy tribute to what they deserve of their country.

The debt that this government owes you, never, never, never can be measured in money. Why, suppose that you had not gone to war; suppose no such men as you would have gone to war, and suppose the South had succeeded, as they would if you had not gone; would not we have been ashamed of ourselves? Would not the men who had property in this country, or tried to do business, been ashamed that there was nobody to prevent the South from gaining. If that had taken place there would have been secession between the North and the East; there would have been division in every other way; as many nations of this country as we have states. But now liberty safe, property safe, life safe, everything safe in this grand old country. God bless you, my comrades, and give you long life to enjoy the country that you saved by your valor and your devotion to duty.

THE SHIP IN PROCESSIONS.

It Is an Old Custom and Still Popular, Dating Back a Century or More.

A pretty feature in Washington processions, says the Star, political and national, for many years, has been the "ship of state," or "constitution," as a float, often complete in its appointments, armed with miniature cannon, and manned by sailors. Sometimes the intervals between the appearance of such floats have been of such length that the ship is hailed as an entirely new figure. Under the name of "Constitution" or "Union," however, the ship float has been a feature in political demonstrations in the United States for over a century. As far as known the first exhibition of the kind (at least in this part of the country) was in Baltimore in 1788, and the credit of its introduction belongs to Commodore Joshua Barney, who, though a mere boy, was a valiant officer in the revolution, and distinguished himself in the war of 1812 with his flotilla. In that year the ratification of the constitution was the great question before the people, and there was a division of sentiment on it, those in favor of its ratification as framed forming the federalist party. In Baltimore a great federalist demonstration was projected—a procession from the eastern part of the city around what is now the harbor to the hill south of the basin, and a mass meeting. Commodore Barney took a prominent part in this affair, had his ship in line under the name of the "Federalist," and the name of Federal Hill naturally attached to the vicinity to which the ship led the line and where the meeting was held.

Constructor Hobson's bravery has put Admiral Sampson in a position where he can await the arrival of the invading army.

How the Heroes Were Saved.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 6.—Hobson and the hero crew of the Merrimac were saved in the following manner: Unable, after the sinking of their vessel, to make their way back through the storm of shot and shell, they rowed into the harbor to the Spanish flagship and were taken on board unharmed. The Spanish admiral, under a flag of truce, on Friday sent word to the American admiral that he offered to exchange the prisoners, adding that in the meanwhile Hobson and his party would be treated with the greatest kindness.

DEWEY IS ALL RIGHT.

Sends a Report of the Situation of Affairs at Manila.

Washington, June 7.—After a lot of conflicting rumors of naval engagements, the landing of troops and such matters, at the navy department there came at the close of the day one important bit of news embodied in a report from Admiral Dewey of important successes achieved by the insurgents at Manila. The navy department at two p. m., Monday, posted the following bulletin:

"Admiral Dewey reports that the insurgents have been actively engaged within the province of Cavite during the past week. They have won several victories, taken prisoners—about 1,800 men, 50 officers of the Spanish troops not native. The arsenal of Cavite has been prepared for occupation by the United States troops upon their arrival on transports.

Still at Cadiz.

London, June 7.—Reports from various sources state that Admiral Camara's fleet is still at Cadiz. It is detained there, it is alleged, because the government fears a revolution in the south of Spain if the Spaniards should be defeated.

DOCTOR AND A MAN.

The Aged Discoverer of Collodion Recently Passed Away in Massachusetts.

The discoverer of collodion died in Dedham lately, notes the Boston Herald. He was Dr. John Parker Maynard, who had been the leading physician there for many years. This discovery was made while Dr. Maynard was still a medical student. He had the conception in his mind at that time, and engaged in a series of experiments in a little building which he erected outside Dedham village, and finally brought them to a success. His object was the application of collodion to operations in surgery, and he demonstrated his usefulness here by applying it in 1847. He had sought to aid surgery in this way rather than to achieve pecuniary advantage, and hence gave collodion without price to the medical profession.

Dr. Maynard was a modest man and never asked credit for himself for what he had done. He thought that any advantages that came from it should be the property of his profession in the interests of human suffering. Collodion has grown into a much wider use since that time, but it is probable that there is less general knowledge of the man to whom the world owes its introduction. Dr. Maynard was never forward in enlightening them as to the facts of its origination. He died at the age of 81, after a long and useful and most honorable career in surgical and medical practice.

Civilization and Nature.

Civilization is transforming nature in surprising ways, says an exchange. The dehorning of cattle is an example, as this practice is gaining favor so rapidly that hornless cattle may be expected soon to become the rule rather than the exception. The first objections were that it is cruel and unnatural. The early method of dehorning with a saw was undoubtedly slow and painful, but specially constructed clippers are now used that often remove a horn in a single second, and with so little suffering that feeding is continued as usual and the operation is really humane, the frequent injuries in herds from goring being prevented.

WISCONSIN'S CELEBRATION.

Semi-Centennial Anniversary of States's Admission Into the Union Appropriately Remembered.

Madison, Wis., June 7.—The celebration of the semi-centennial anniversary of Wisconsin's admission into the union opened in this city Tuesday. Several thousand visitors were present from all parts of the state. Gov. Bushnell and staff, of Ohio, arrived Monday. At 2:15 in the afternoon the first official meeting of the celebration was at the university armory. Visitors were welcomed on behalf of the state by Gov. Scofield, on behalf of the city, by Mayor Whelan. The response was by Gov. Bushnell. At 5:30 in the afternoon occurred the boat race between U. W. freshmen and St. Johns military

In the evening the State Press association, the state legislators since 1848, the Eastern Star and other organizations held banquets, while the veterans held a grand camping at Camp Randall. Over 1,000 veterans are already under canvas on the historic camp grounds. An overflow meeting at University armory was addressed by J. V. Quarles, of Milwaukee.

NAVAL HERO DEAD.

Capt. Gridley, Commander of Dewey's Flagship at the Battle of Manila, Passes Away.

Washington, June 6.—Capt. Charles V. Gridley, commander of the cruiser Olympia and one of the heroes of the brilliant victory at Manila, is dead. The announcement of his death was received by the navy department late Sunday afternoon in a cablegram from Paymaster Gelt, of the navy, dated at Kobe, Japan, June 4, and directed to Secretary Long. The dispatch contained this simple statement: "Capt. Gridley died to-day. Remains accompany me on Coptic."

Heavy Loss by Fire.

Portsmouth, O., June 8.—The entire plant, rolling mill and steel plant of the Burgess Steel & Iron company, was totally destroyed by fire Tuesday night. The loss will aggregate $350,000, and the insurance is about $200,000. Eight hundred employes are thrown out of work. The plant is a complete wreck, only the stacks being left standing. Several small buildings in the vicinity were also destroyed.

FORTS RAIDED BY SHELLS

Sampson's Big Guns Do Destructive Work to Batteries in Front of Santiago Harbor.

SPANISH FORTIFICATIONS DEMOLISHED.

Admiral Cervera Admits the Killing of Nine Officers and Men and Wounding of Thirty-Five — Admiral Sampson Declares His Ships and Men Uninjured.

Washington, June 8.—Shortly after seven o'clock Tuesday evening information confirmatory of the dispatches concerning the bombardment of the fortifications of Santiago reached the navy department. It came in the form of a cablegram from Admiral Sampson which was made public in the following bulletin:

"Secretary of the Navy: Bombarded forts at Santiago, 7:30 to 10 a. m., to-day, June 6. Silenced works quickly without injury of any kind, though within 2,000 yards. (Signed) "SAMPSON."

Shortly after nine the firing ceased, the warships turning in order to permit the use of the port batteries. The firing then became a long reverberating crash of thunder and the shells raked the Spanish batteries with terrible effect. Fire broke out in Catalina fort and silenced the Spanish guns. The firing of the fleet continued until ten o'clock, when the Spanish were ceased entirely, and Admiral Sampson hoisted the "Cease firing" signal.

No Damage to Americans.

Generally the fire of the fleet was very destructive. Many of the earthworks were knocked to pieces and the Estrella and Catalina fortifications were so damaged that it is questionable whether they will ever be able to renew any effective work during the war. After the fleet retired the Spaniards returned to some other guns and sent 12 shells after the fleet, but no one was injured. One large shell fell close to the collier Justin. Throughout the entire engagement no American ship was hit and no American was injured. If the Spaniards stuck to their guns, and all evidence is to the contrary, their loss must have been heavy.

Probable Junction with Insurgents.

Cape Haytien, Hayti, June 8.—According to the latest direct advices from Santiago de Cuba, dated Monday at midnight, the bombardment which began at 7:45 a. m., Monday, and continued until half past ten in the morning, was resumed again for a short time about midnight. It was then believed that the Americans had effected a junction with the insurgents near Daiquiri, some distance east of Aguadores and near the railway line to Santiago.

Spanish Losses at Santiago.

Cape Haytien, June 8.—The latest reports from Santiago summarizes Spanish losses as follows:

Cruiser Reina Mercedes dismantled.
Estrella and Cavo batteries and Catalina fort destroyed.
Morro Castle partly demolished.
Punta Gorda, Socapa and Cincorealos batteries and Morro barracks damaged.
Officers killed on Reina Mercedes..... 3
Seamen killed and wounded on Reina Mercedes..... 20
Officers wounded in land battle..... 5
Men killed or wounded in land battle....23

Among the officers killed or wounded are Col. D. Selvador Diaz Ordonez, Capt. Sanchez, Lieut. Grizar, Lieut. Elroy Gonzolo Garcia, and Lieut. Perez.

Sunk by Sampson.

A Spanish torpedo boat destroyer, supposed to be the Terror, was sighted by the Texas while trying to sneak into the Santiago harbor Monday night and was shattered and sunk, the entire American fleet opening fire upon her.

Cervera's Official Report.

Madrid, June 8.—The following official dispatch has been received from Admiral Cervera: Six American vessels have bombarded the fortifications at Santiago and along the adjacent coast. Six were killed and 17 were wounded on board the Reina Mercedes; three officers were killed and an officer and 17 men were wounded among the troops. The Americans fired 1,500 shells of different caliber. The damage inflicted upon the batteries of La Socapa and Morro castle was unimportant. The barracks at Morro castle suffered damage. The enemy had noticeable losses.

TROOPS ARE OFF.

Thousands of Boys in Blue Leave Tampa for Santiago.

Tampa, Fla., June 8.—Rush orders were received here last night to start the army of invasion for Santiago, and before midnight transports carrying 6,000 troops sailed out of the bay. Fifteen thousand more are on board steamers and will leave immediately. The troops which left last night are the Fourth, Eighth, Thirteenth and Twenty-fifth infantry of the regular army, and rough riders, under command of Col. Wood and Lieut. Col. Roosevelt.

Will Make Short Work.

It is ordinarily about four days' sail from Tampa to Santiago, and it will probably be Sunday before the American army reaches the old Cuban capital. Admiral Sampson's bombardment will make short work of the campaign against Santiago, and Puerto Rico's turn will come soon. As soon as Santiago is taken the major part of the expedition will again go aboard the transports and proceed to Puerto Rico to repeat their triumph.

MARVELOUS RESULTS.

What a Well-known Citizen of Lansing, Mich., says of Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer.

"I have had dyspepsia for eighteen years. My troubles were indigestion, sour stomach, acid fermentation, palpation of the heart, sleeplessness and terrible sick headache, which at times would entirely unfit me for business. I have had special treatment by seven physicians, and it seems as though I have tried nearly every known or supposed remedy, with some little relief, but would soon relapse to the old condition. I commenced using Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer a few weeks ago, have used about two and one-half boxes which have done me more real good than all the treatment and so called remedies I have ever taken. I would advise any person afflicted with stomach troubles, dyspepsia or nerve troubles, to try this treatment.

Respectfully,

INVASION OF CUBA.

Why It Has Been Delayed by the General Commanding the Army.

Neither Miles Nor the President Wanted to See a Repetition of the Terrible Disaster at Bull Run.

[Special Washington Letter.]

AMONG scholars it is generally conceded that the best scholarship in the world has long been found in German schools of thought and education. Neander, the great philologist and ecclesiastic, said: "German scholarship is based largely on the system of reviewing."

Men who learn their lessons of life by the experience of others, as well as by their own experience, build deep foundations and lofty superstructures of intelligence. There is nothing more true than that we may learn of the future by disclosures of the past. This is but an epitomizing of the truism that history repeats itself, in many substantial details.

For the purpose of pointing a moral and adorning a tale, we may well review a bit of our own history, to which allusion was made in a recent letter, in which it was briefly stated that the first disaster came to the federal arms in our late civil war because of the coined phrase of a great newspaper man, "On to Richmond;" a phrase which was taken up all over the country by newspapers great and small.

Senators, representatives, congressmen and cabinet ministers constantly received letters from all parts of the land containing the demand that the army should go "On to Richmond." The pressure of public opinion in this direction became so strong that the president yielded to it, and the army, under McDowell, was ordered forward before it was prepared to move; long before it was in condition to cope with the brilliant generals of the confederacy. The result was inevitable. The army did not go "On to Richmond" very far until it ran up against a "Stonewall," a very steep "Hill" and an invincible "Longstreet;" and the army came streaming back into Washington defeated, demoralized, panic-stricken. After that experience the administration became deaf to public clamor, and took time for the accomplishment of its purposes.

Many men and newspapers of the present day howled and bayed and yelped ceaselessly: "On to Cuba," but the McKinley administration has calmly taken its time to prepare for an onward movement which should surely not be a failure, much less a disaster. Consequently weeks have passed away while the volunteer army has been successfully mustered and mobilized.

It is a common error for sanguine men to underestimate the strength of the enemy. Many of us now living remember that Gen. Sherman was called a crazy man because he said that not less than 200,000 soldiers would be required for federal operations in the Mississippi valley. The people who called Sherman crazy within two years saw that it required more than 250,000 men to make any headway at all against the well-drilled, well-officered, brave and efficient soldiers of the south.

Maj. Gen. Miles, commanding the army, has been severely criticised in Washington and throughout the country for not having marched "On to Cuba" as soon as war was declared. Nobody went so far as to call him crazy, but by many he was deemed inefficient. None of these things moved him. He foresaw the strong fortifications and earthworks, defended by a desperate soldiery of Spain, under command of a shrewd leader, and he would not risk an invasion of Cuba by a force which might be defeated.

The newspaper writers and the men in our cities, towns, villages and hamlets who have joined in unreasoning demands for an invasion of Cuba evidently have not thought of what the result of disaster to our army would mean. In the first place, a small army landed in Cuba would have been attacked by the combined strength of Gen. Blanco, and they would have been sent marching over roads containing concealed mines of deadly explosives. There would have been great danger every hour and every minute, and the likelihood of complete destruction and annihilation.

Success for the Spanish forces would have meant the capture of our arms, ammunition and food supplies; enough to have lasted the Spaniards a long time. But, worse than that, a Spanish victory would have warranted Spain in requesting European aid to prevent the conquest of her Atlantic possessions. Moreover, it has been well known that Austria and France would have been glad of an excuse for interference. Consequently disaster and disgrace would have been the result to this country if there had been an unwise beginning of the war.

Probably no man in all this land has been so really anxious for a movement "On to Cuba" as Gen. Miles. The invasion of Cuba has been on his mind ever since war was declared. Upon him has rested the responsibility of conducting the organization and mobilization of the army. He has been obliged to oversee all preparations for mustering the soldiers, for clothing them, for feeding them, for transporting them on cars and ships and for making a safe landing on Cuban soil. With all these things on his mind, while you and I have been attending to our daily duties, it is safe to say that he has been more intent on the invasion of Cuba than all of the editors, writers, public speakers and general wranglers for prompt action.

In addition to the responsibility thus briefly outlined, Gen. Miles has been obliged to study the international possibilities of failure. If he had been hurried into any false movement, which might have cost the loss of thousands of lives and the complete failure of our cause, the country would never have forgiven him, and his brilliant career would have been ended in disgrace. With all of these matters weighing upon his mind do you wonder that he has given no heed to the clamor crystallized in the unreasonable demand that the army should at once move "On to Cuba?" It is well-known that the so-called "business interests" of the country opposed the war and endeavored to control the administration at Washington, but unsuccessfully. The people of the country believed that there was ample cause for war in the destruction of their battleship. So the war really began at 9:40 p. m. in Havana harbor February 15, 1898.

While the court of inquiry was deliberately proceeding with its work President McKinley ignored the business interests, whose sirens were singing in the white house. He knew that there must be war; and so, on March 7, he asked the congress for an appropriation of $50,000,000 "for the national defense." On March 8 the bill was passed by the house of representatives, and on March 9 it was passed by the senate without debate. The people were impatient because it was not until April 5 that Consul-General Lee was recalled, and it was not until April 10 that he left Havana. On the following day, April 11, President McKinley asked the congress for authority to intervene in Cuba. It was not until April 19 that the congress passed the intervention resolutions.

Still the people were impatient, although war was coming on fast enough. On April 20 an ultimatum was sent to Spain. On April 21 Spain gave Minister Woodford his passports. On April 22 the blockade of Cuban ports was proclaimed. On April 23 the president called for 125,000 volunteers. On April 25 a state of war was declared by congress to have existed from April 21, and on April 27 Matanzas was bombarded.

Still the people were impatient until news came that on May 1 Commodore Dewey had attacked and completely destroyed the Spanish fleet in the harbor of Manila, on the Philippine islands. Then the people began to feel that a state of war actually existed and that the administration at Washington intended to prosecute the war with vigor.

But still the cry of "On to Cuba" was continued in many sources. No attention was paid to the cry by the administration, because the president and others clothed with responsibility as well as authority determined that there should be no mistakes made which could be avoided. Gen. Miles authorized an interview in which he said: "I have never sacrificed the men under my command, and I do not propose to subject them to any unnecessary risks in the present campaign. No officer is fit for a command who would needlessly risk the life of a single soldier, either from disease or from the bullets of the enemy." He did not intend to send soldiers to Cuba prematurely, to die of yellow fever and other climatic diseases, without firing a shot at the enemy. He was right.

No other nation in the world could have enlisted, mustered, armed, equipped and sent to the field an army of more than a quarter of a million of men in one month. Moreover, no other nation could have been able to arouse itself from the peaceful slumbers of a whole generation and equipped itself for war on sea as well as on land in such a short space of time. By reviewing the events of the recent past we cannot but be impressed with the greatness and grandeur of the institutions which were so sincerely and impressively lauded by Abraham Lincoln on the Gettysburg battlefield; the institutions of a government of the people, by the people and for the people; a government which shall not fade from the earth, but which shall grow and expand, carrying with it the gospel of self-government unto all of the nations of the world.

A Woman's Heart.

The wife of a clergyman tells the story of her suffering with neuralgia of the heart, with the hope that her experience may indicate to others the way to regain health.

Few bodily afflictions are more terrible than heart disease. To live in constant dread and expectation of death, sudden, instant death, with last farewells unspoken, is for most people more awful to contemplate than the most severe lingering illness. The slightest excitement brings great suffering and danger to people so afflicted.

Such was the experience of the wife of a well-known clergyman. She tells her story for the sake of doing good to others.

"I feel," she said, speaking carefully and weighing her words, "that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People relieved me of a lifetime of sickness and sorrow, and I cheerfully recommend them."

This grateful woman is Mrs. Wamsley, wife of the Rev. C. E. Wamsley, who lives on West Sheridan Street, Greensburg, Ind. She continued:

"My heart became affected after the birth of my youngest child, about six years ago.

"The pain was constant. Frequently it grew so severe I would be forced to cry out.

"I could not endure any excitement.

"It would increase the pain so I would scream and fall down in a state of collapse. In this condition I was helpless.

"These spells would come on me at home, in the street, or anywhere I might be.

"I could not sleep at night. I ate very little.

"Different doctors were called in. They said I had neuralgia of the heart, resulting from nervous prostration.

"The doctors treated me, but the relief they gave did not last.

"I was a physical wreck, when my eye fell on an item in the local paper describing how Mrs. Evans, of West End, had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Her suffering was like mine.

"I hope other sufferers who read this account will have the faith I had when I read of Mrs. Evans.

"My husband bought me one box of the pills. The change they made in my condition was encouraging. I took another box; then bought six more boxes.

"All the time I gained in health, strength, hope, nerve force—steadily, surely!

"Before I finished the eighth box I considered the treatment. I felt perfectly well, and the doctor said I was entirely cured."

To add weight to her story Mrs. Wamsley made affidavit to its truth before J. F. Russell, a Notary Public of Greensburg.

Neuralgia of the heart is only one of many serious evils that grow out of derangements of the nervous system or of the blood and supplies the necessary materials for rapidly rebuilding wasted nerves. It sues reaches the root of many serious diseases.

It is these virtues that have given Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People their wonderful curative powers in diseases that at first glance seem widely different.

This famous remedy is for sale by all druggists for 50 cents a box; or six boxes for $2.50.

THE RESEARCH CIRCLE

Origin, History and Work of the First Organized Woman's Club of Tecumseh.

The history of this organization dates back to the early winter of 1890, when at a tea party held at the home of Mrs. Helen M. Forestall a desire was expressed by the ladies present that some plan of systematic reading be advanced that all might become better acquainted with the literature of the day.

The plan suggested was to hold weekly meetings, at which the reading and discussion of books and literature from the best authors should be taken up and further that each member should tell what form of reading had given her the most satisfaction and help in the past. No regular club formation was attempted at this time, no special outline of work drafted, and the meetings were held at the homes of the various members each Monday evening. Hence it became known as the "Monday Club," the meetings continuing to the spring of 1891.

During the winter of 1892 an epidemic of la grippe pervaded the country and succeeding in putting an effectual quietus on the aspirations of the ladies for that season. However in the fall of 1892 under the general management of Mrs. M. J. Bryan, who made personal calls on all the members, the meetings were again started. The ladies now found that some organization would not only be beneficial but had become a necessity and the following officers were elected: president, Mrs. Burridge; vice president, Mrs. Alice Helm; sec'y, Mrs. H. M. Forestall; treas., Mattie McConnel; critic, Mrs. Mary Wright. The meetings were still held in turn at the homes of the members, although programs for written papers were regularly prepared for the work from week to week and as the work became more systematic and broadened out into larger channels the club took up the study of the lives of famous English authors with typical selections from each.

No. 2 of the Herald's Local Portrait Gallery.

MRS. HARRIET M. BURRIDGE,

Who Has Been President of the Research Circle Since Its Organization in 1890.

In the winter of '93 the club met with their president, Mrs. Burridge, each week. This year was marked by a steady increase in membership and by the interesting study of English history from text books. This same season the meeting night was changed to Friday and the name Friday Club was adopted. The year closed with a reception to the friends of members, which has since become an established custom and no year passes without its enjoyable social features.

The season of '94 brought forth a printed leaflet of the work to be done, which consisted of a study of architecture and art in America, France and Italy and was illustrated by an excellent collection of Stoddard's views. The meetings had now been held for two seasons at the home of the president and the members seated night after night at a great round table telling of their search for information for class work suggested the idea that the name "Research Circle" would be appropriate, which name the club still bears.

At the opening of the season of '95 it was voted that as the study of the home land had been so interesting, that it be continued. Hence the neat little souvenir program for work which made its appearance this year bore the inscription American History, Literature, Science and Art. Broad subjects indeed but so carefully prepared and thoughtfully discussed were the papers along the subjects chosen that the winter's work was in every way satisfactory.

The membership this year reached 30 active members and was so limited, it being found that more than this number could not be used to advantage. During this year the course of study showed the ladies the immense value of such readings, and that the study of science, art, philosophy and political economy had their beginnings in the experiences of human beings in the remote ages and realizing that the history of our present is the history of the far away past it was decided to begin the next season's work at the dawn of civilization, so we find in the calendar of 1896 this heading "Studies in Egyptian History and Miscellaneous Topics." In order to familiarize the members with the workings of organized bodies, the study of parliamentary law was taken up from Mrs. Cole-Bethel's book in addition to the regular work. This year a room was rented at Mrs. Anna Smith's and for the first time in its existence the club was given a home. A long list of names having accumulated of persons desirous of becoming members, it was found necessary to amend the limited membership and this plan was adopted: That another section of the society be formed from the twenty-five persons awaiting membership; this section to be officered from its own members, to do the same work, have the same privileges and be a part of the original body. This was done and it has since been necessary to form still a third section for the accomodation of those anxious to join.

During the year the question of joining the State Federation of Women's Clubs was agitated and at the last meeting of the year, president's night, it was voted to join that organization for one year. A portion of this evening was devoted to pre-Raphaelic artists by Miss Burridge, who illustrated her talk with numerous photographs.

In April 1897 it was found imperative to secure a light well ventilated club room for the use of the now flourishing club and a suite of rooms were procured over S. W. Anderson's store which has been found so satisfactory that they are still retained. They have been furnished and decorated for a club home and are always open for all members. In the same month and year it was decided to offer the people of the city a lecture and Mr. Leigh Lynch, of Jackson, was engaged to furnish a stereoptican lecture on the Hawaiian and other Pacific islands which he did.

During the summer months three meetings were held, one at Mrs. A. Hardenburgh's, one at Mrs. Robbins and the third, a picnic on the lawn of Mrs. E B. Wood.

The work for '97 as announced in the Club Calendar was "Studies in History" divided into the Ancient Eastern Nations, The Greek Period, and The Roman Period down to and including the third Carthaginian war. The University Extension Magazine was used as an accurate basis for topical study in these subjects. At the beginning of the year just closed was organized the third section of the club, the sections meeting respectively on Friday evening Saturday afternoon and Monday evening, thus bringing three times the number of women into actual work of preparing papers and three times the number into the modes and practices of parliamentary law.

In November the club sent their president as a delegate to the meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs. After hearing the report of this convention, the different sections decided to take a more practical interest in the public schools and to co-operate with the teachers in whatever might be deemed of advantage to youth. Committees were formed to visit the schools and report from suggestions made by the teachers as to the needs of the various grades.

The work for the present year as found in the "Circle" calendar will be studies in Mediaeval history, and Current Topics. The plan followed by the Research Circle allows six different members to prepare a paper each week. Two sub-divisions of a topic are handled each week one member from each of the three sections being given the same subject. Thus each section hears two papers on different subjects at each meeting. Although the first aim of this organization was self and home culture yet it has the reputation of doing a large amount of altruistic work and is ever ready to lend a helping hand to others. Social features have always held prominent places in the work and the first as well as the last evening of each season is devoted to the entertainment of the club's friends, who may learn to understand the designs and hopes of the society. In the past year three receptions have been given. The first by Section I, welcoming the new sections to the club; the second by Section II to the husbands and friends of all members; the third a club reception to the members of the "Monday Club."

A very delightful and instructive feature of the Club's work has been the annual Flower Exhibit, which has been held for the past three years. Many of the plants and flowers shown have been grown by the members, who have attained considerable skill in preparing the flowers for show purposes. The large receipts from these exhibitions attest the interest of the public in this part of the Club's work.

At the club rooms tea, chocolate or coffee is often served in dainty china cups as a happy climax to a season of study, and in a social group the ladies discuss the various methods for furthering their work. A large crayon portrait of Mrs. Harriet Burridge, who has been the president since its organization adorns the wall and was a gift to the club from the artist, Mrs. Geo. Tiffany.

Much of the success and stability of this organization is credited to secretaries Mrs. M. H. Forestall, Mrs. J. J. Freeman, who were always in their places with carefully prepared minutes also to vice presidents, Mrs. S. J. Helm and Mrs. Geo. Howell, who in those early days carefully looked after the oncoming work. As a result of the Army and Navy supper given by the Circle the public library will be opened during the entire afternoon and a number of new books will be added. The future possibilities of the club are very great and it is well known all over the state as one of the most flourishing of the women's clubs. The officers of the present year are as follows:

Cor. Sec.—Mrs. L. I. Bidwell.

David L. Rodgers, whose death was noticed in last week's Herald, was born in Holly, Vt., Oct. 29, 1822. He was married Aug. 18, 1844, to Mary Williams. Their wedded life was blessed with four children, the eldest and youngest of whom are dead but two daughters, Adelaide and Emma, with their mother survive to mourn the loss of a kind father and an affectionate husband. The family moved to Michigan and settled at Mt. Clemens in 1865. After a residence of 9 years there, they came to Raisin Center and in 1874 moved to Tecumseh, where on a farm 2 miles northeast of the village they have lived for the past 22 years. Brother Rodgers united with the church in early life and continued an active and useful member of the church of his choice until the close of life. Although his health has been noticeably failing for the past year, yet his death came suddenly with scarce a moments warning on Sunday morning the 29. ult., but death to him was only a translation from earth to Heaven.

The laughable comedy drama, "Joshua Simpkins," will be seen here under a mammoth water-proof pavilion, next Tuesday evening June 14, on the lot in rear of Union school. It is a rural play in four acts, bound together by an interesting plot and produced with a carload of special scenery and effects on a big, portable stage 60 x 40 feet, all carried by the company. In the third act a realistic saw mill scene is introduced, when a real buzz saw is seen cutting through a real log at terrific speed, upon which a human being has been helplessly bound by his enemies, and left to an evident death. This scene could not be produced properly on the average theatre stage. There is an abundance of comedy in the play, while there are many fine singing and dancing specialties incidentally introduced. Admission has been placed at 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for children.

The committee raised $15.60 in money, $11.75 was used to pay express, $1.17 for freight, $2.10 for 7 gallons of pickles, leaving a balance on hand of 58 cents.

A lecturer or a minister who cannot hold the attention of his hearers close enough so but that he has to stop and request that there be less whispering, or finds that nineteen out of an audience of one hundred are asleep, had better quit the platform and turn book agent. We heard a conversation between two church going ladies a short time ago something as follows: "How did you enjoy the service last evening?" "Well the services were good, but really I couldn't hear much of the sermon, the minister talked as though his teeth had dropped down or else he had a mouthful of hot mush." Is it any wonder people are inattentive, and the thought struck us as to whether the mush was all in the mouth.

RAILROAD NEWS.

Notes and Condensations Concerning the Railroads.

A colored freight brakeman of the Illinois Central was lynched at Rivers, Tenn., last Sunday night. His name was Joe Mitchell. The night before he had shoved a white boy tramp off a moving train at Rivers, and the boy fell on the track, having his legs cut off at the knees. He lived long enough to tell who pushed him off. Mitchell was arrested and while being held at the station to be taken to jail at Union City, a crowd gathered and hanged him.—Blade.

We would say in this connection that the filling is far from completed although the work is progressing. The bridge is 40 feet above the river bed and the dirt has been filled in to about half that height. While as the Blade states it has been a great source of annoyance to the road and it has also been a matter of uneasiness to all patrons of the road and passengers will draw a sigh of relief when the trestle is a thing of the past.

The officials of the Lima Northern and D. T. & M. are holding a conference in the office of the latter. Since the separation of the properties, several small misunderstandings have arisen and the purpose of the meeting is to adjust these differences. The Lima officials present were General Superintendent Hawkins, Auditor Allen, Treasurer Roser and Car Accountant Yazell. —Blade.

Those in charge of the D. Y. & A. A. electric road say that the new line would have been in operation but for the fact that the Westinghouse company, which is building the switch board for its power house, was obliged to drop all its regular work and prepare electrical apparatus for the new government war vessels.—A. A. Register.

The D. T. & M. has completed the work of filling the large trestle near Tecumseh. It is about 1,000 yards in length, and has always been a source of trouble to the company. The new management is rapidly building up the physical condition of the property.—Toledo Blade.

HORTICULTURE

TIME FOR SPRAYING.

Begin Immediately After the Petals Fall and Stop Promptly After the Petals Close.

Spraying for the codling moth is now better understood, thanks to experiment station investigations. Prof. Slingerland, of New York, tells why fruit should be sprayed imemdiately after petals fall and stopped after sepals close. The moth lays the egg in the blossom end of the fruit. The egg requires several days to hatch. Directly after the petals fall the sepals are open and extended, as shown at (a); two weeks after the calyx has closed tightly as at (b). If sprayed just after the petals fall the young worm gets the arsenic (spray with one pound paris green to 150 or 200 gallons of water); if unsprayed the worm eats into the little apple and destroys the value of the fruit. After the calyx closes it is too late to spray.—Farm and Home.

GREAT CONVENIENCE.

Why Every Potato Grower and Fruit Grower Should Have an Ample Supply of Bushel Boxes.

In handling apples, potatoes and other vegetables which are usually measured, there is nothing handier than bushel boxes, as they are called, but which are really crates. These may be made by anyone who is handy with a saw and hammer, and cost so little that any farmer can afford to supply himself with them. They are furnished "knocked down" by several firms in the country, but they can be made at home just as well and at less cost.

They are usually made of basswood or elm boards; sawed from one-half to three-eighths of an inch thick by three inches wide, for the sides and bottom, and inch boards are used for the ends.

To make them take an inch board that is a foot wide and cut it into pieces 14 inches long. For the sides and bottom cut the strips 18½ inches long. These, when nailed together, make a box 16½ inches long, 14 inches wide and 12 inches deep, which will hold a bushel of potatoes when level full.

When digging potatoes or gathering apples, tomatoes, turnips or other such things, the boxes can be hauled to the field, filled, set in tiers on the wagon and taken to the house and unloaded in very much less time than it would take to load and unload without them. When hauling to market the boxes come handy and a big load can be put on and unloaded in a very short time, and if they are properly made and filled they give the product a nice appearance that goes a long way toward making a good sale for them.

It will be found on figuring the contents of the box as above given that it holds more than a half-bushel measure twice full. This allows for the customary heaping measure that is required to make 60 pounds, the standard weight for a bushel of potatoes. In some states there is a standard weight for apples also, about 50 pounds to the bushel.

One who begins to use these bushel boxes are rarely willing to dispense with them.—Farmers' Voice.

Borers in Fruit Trees.

When borers get into a tree there is no other remedy than cutting them out with a sharp knife, or killing them in their burrows with a stout wire. But prevention is better than remedy, and the injury from borers can easily be prevented. To do so, wash the trunks and larger branches with a mixture of soft soap reduced to the consistency of thick paint with a solution of washing soda. If just enough carbolic acid is added to give a strong smell it will be all the more repulsive to the beetles. This should be applied during the early part of June and again early in July, when the beetles are most active in laying their eggs.—Western Plowman.

Hens as Insect Destroyers.

A flock of fowls will forage over a large field daily, and if the number of insects destroyed by them could be noticed, it would be a surprise, as they do service in that respect equal to the small birds. Chickens also work industriously for insects, and destroy thousands. The food costs the farmer nothing, and the exercise of foraging keeps the fowls in good laying condition. To make the fowls more effective as insect destroyers, they should receive no food except a light meal at night, as it is better to allow them to start out in the morning somewhat hungry.—American Gardening.

Rust in Carnations.

A writer in an English paper gives this recipe for preventing rust in carnations, which he received from a gardener in Germany, whose plants were unusually fine and in healthy condition. He mixes two pounds of vitriol and four pounds of freshly slaked lime in 27 gallons of water, and stirs well together until it is clear, not blue, and then he adds two pounds of sugar and mixes all again. With this he syringes his plants once a week, early in the day. The syringing should be done quickly, finely and evenly.

FRUIT TREE BORERS.

An Obstacle to Successful Horticulture That Can Be Overcome Only by Constant Vigilance.

Among the many pests with which the horticulturist must contend are the two large families of borers, which are divided in a general way into the round-headed and the flat-headed borers. The latter usually attack only those trees that have been from some cause reduced in vitality, but they are liable to enter the trunk anywhere along its entire length. The round-headed borers, on the other hand, says the Indicator, seem to prefer vigorous trees and enter near the ground only, and they often kill the trees outright in a short time. They are sometimes as much as three years in maturing, and instances have been known where the round-headed borer has emerged from wood after it had been made up into furniture. Borers attack the apple, the peach, the pear, the cherry and other fruit trees, as well as many forest trees, and are difficult to get rid of except by regular hunting to dig out and destroy them. When the borer is working on trees its presence can usually be detected by the casts or sawdust about the tree, and in the peach there is the additional sign which the exudation of gum affords. The deposit of eggs may be in a great measure prevented by applying a coat of soft soap and washing soda to the trunks early in June and again in July, and a deposit of ashes or air-slacked lime around the tree in May is also helpful. To detect those that effect an entrance August is the best time, as it is then that the fresh casting are most plainly visible. At this season the orchardist should arm himself with a piece of flexible wire that is yielding enough to follow the burrowing of the borer, and hunt everyone and destroy it. The grub is not difficult to reach the first and second seasons, but after that, owing to the turns made in the burrows, is harder to get at. Young orchards are in most danger, while the bark is thin, but if care is taken to keep them free of the pest there is not much danger to the trees when they become mature. Nursery stock if neglected is almost sure to be attacked, and buyers of stock should always examine it for borers before planting. The borer may be a very serious obstacle to fruit growing, sapping the vitality of the orchard and entirely destroying many of the trees, but it is an obstacle that vigilance will readily overcome.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Cultivate thoroughly during the early part of the season.

Small trees are less liable to damage in handling and shipping.

No animals but hogs should be allowed to run loose in the orchard.

Plenty of room will give thriftiest and longest-lived trees and better fruit.

In transplanting, do not let the roots remain exposed to cold or storms.

A limb or any part of the foliage should not be removed without good reason.

Grafting wax is one of the best materials to use in covering up wounds made in pruning.

Dwarf pears and grapes are two good fruits that seem especially adapted to small places.

Wood ashes put around strawberry and raspberry plants will be found very beneficial.

A dressing of wood ashes will, in a measure, prevent the ravages of maggots and cut worms.

When it is necessary to cut a limb from a tree, it should be cut as close to the body as possible.

In forcing strawberries they should not be allowed to overbear or the crop of fruit will be small.

Set a strip of cardboard two inches wide around cabbage and tomato plants to head off the cut worms.

While shallow cultivation is usually best in the orchard, care should be taken to make it thorough.

As soon, now, as the condition of the soil will admit, the main planting in the garden should be done.

When the grape vines are set out putting a few old bones in the place prepared for them will be beneficial.

In planting out strawberries stick to the old standard sorts for the main crop. Try new varieties on a small scale.

If manure is applied when the tree is set out be careful that it is thoroughly incorporated with the soil.—St. Louis Republic.

AN ARBOR GATEWAY.

A Design That Can Be Adopted to Advantage for Many Farm and Country Homes.

The sketch herewith gives a suggestion that can be adopted in many situations to advantage both as to utility and beauty. Where there is a path through a farm fence near one's buildings, necessitating a narrow gate, this gateway can be combined with an arbor, as shown in the cut. This gives the ornamental part of the device, or will, when covered with vines. If the vines bear grapes the useful part will be very apparent. When such ornamenting of one's premises can be combined with that which is purely useful, there is small excuse for not having our farm premises more attractive.—Orange Judd Farmer.

SITE IS TO BE RETAINED.

Secretary Alger Decides Not to Move the State Camps from Island Lake.

PROUD OF TROOPS FROM MICHIGAN.

Gov. Pingree Signs the War Bonds—Thirty-Fourth Infantry Leaves for the Front—Michigan Military Tailors Kept Busy Making Uniforms.

Lansing, June 8.—Gov. Pingree has received a letter from Secretary of War Alger which is regarded as a final and absolute refusal to permit the use of Fort Wayne as a camp for Michigan soldiers. It reads:

"My Dear Governor—I have under consideration the moving of the troops from Island Lake to Detroit, and do not think it wise. The space at Fort Wayne is hardly large enough to maneuver a regiment, and, besides, we have not taken volunteer regiments in the regular army posts. There is very much property left there by the regiment, and it should not be disturbed. If you have any special wish that this change be made, I am very sorry indeed to disappoint you. We are very proud of the troops from our state.

"R. A. ALGER,
"Secretary of War."

Gov. Pingree has appointed Dr. Victor C. Vaughan, of Ann Arbor, surgeon of the Thirty-second Michigan volunteer infantry in place of Charles B. Nancrede, promoted.

The governor signed all the Michigan war bonds Tuesday night, and the delivery to purchasers will be made at once. Another issue of at least $50,000 will be offered for sale soon.

The Wyandotte guards, composed of Detroit and Wyandotte volunteers, have received notice through their captain, Bishop, of Wyandotte, that they are to be called into the service of the state militia within the next 48 hours. The company will probably be examined at Wyandotte and go at once to Island Lake. Two other companies, it is said, will also go from here—company C and the Custer guard, of the Detroit guardsmen.

The business of equipping the Michigan volunteers has been almost entirely confined to Michigan houses. The tents, clothing and almost everything pertaining to the field outfit of the men has been made and purchased here at home. Some few articles like belts, etc., came from abroad. It is conceded that no state has sent troops to the front so well equipped in all respects as Michigan. All that the state has expended in equipping the troops will be refunded by the general government. There will be no delay in presenting the accounts. Quartermaster Gen. White has taken the wise business precaution to have bills and vouchers for everything signed by the company and regimental officers and government quartermasters and commissaries. Even the expense of feeding the men here has been booked and acknowledged as correct by the agents of the general government, also the transportation of the men from their homes to Camp Eaton. Consequently there will be no difficulty in establishing the correctness of every claim. It is not expected that the United States will settle the bills immediately, but they will be presented without delay and payment will come in due time. The state will be fully reimbursed.

Officers must pay for their own uniforms. A complete outfit reaches quite a bill of expense. There are dress coats, fatigue coats and overcoats all to be duly decorated with the insignia of rank; caps, hats and helmets; swords and spurs, gloves, belts, shoulder straps, revolvers, boots, leggins, bedding, etc.; also saddles, saddle cloths and equipments, and horses for such as are mounted.

Three firms have monopolized the business of military tailoring and outfitting of the four Michigan regiments—one in Kalamazoo, one in Detroit and one in Grand Rapids. The first two have had the most of the business owing to their exceptional facilities.

Last Regiment is Off.

Island Lake, June 7.—The Thirty-fourth regiment, Michigan volunteer infantry, left Monday for Dunn Loring, Va., where the regiment will encamp adjacent to Camp Alger. The command is composed chiefly of men from the northern peninsula, who are hardy and well equipped. The regiment traveled in three sections, via the Ann Arbor, Chesapeake & Ohio and Southern railroads. This is the fourth and last regiment supplied by Michigan under the first call. The state is proud of the record it has made, as no better equipped or more thoroughly drilled volunteers have been furnished.

The work of organizing the Thirty-fifth regiment to fill Michigan's quota under the second call will be begun immediately, although Gov. Pingree has not yet received official notice of the call from the war department. Adjt. Gen. E. M. Irish, who will be the colonel of the Thirty-fifth, has received information from Senator Burrows that a call for another Michigan regiment will be sent to Gov. Pingree at once.

Peppermint Industry Failing.

Niles, June 6. — The peppermint industry is failing rapidly around Niles and the acreage of the aromatic plant this season is not one-fifth what it formerly was. A few years ago farmers realized $100 per acre. Many stopped raising farm products to grow peppermint and fortunes were made. The price of oil, however, dropped very low and now $20 per acre can hardly be made. This section a few years ago produced one-half the peppermint oil of the country.

TOOK HIS ADVICE.

A Veterinary Surgeon of Battle Creek tells about it.

How many times in life a few words of good advice, coming from a friend we can depend upon, will save us hours, perhaps months of misery. The following which coming from Battle Creek will interest our readers. Dr. Oliver Guiteaux, Veterinary Surgeon of that city, a well-known man there, as well as in Kalamazoo and Marshall, speaks of his experience with the little conqueror and the result of a few timely words of advice he says:—"I was standing in Amberg & Murphy's drug store in Battle Creek one day when a friend of mine came in and asked for a box of kidney pills. After he had made his purchase I said quietly to him, "You have made a mistake in buying those." His reply was "How is that?" I said Doan's Kidney Pills are worth all the others put together. As he wanted my reasons for thinking so I told him that my kidneys had bothered me for years, that I suffered from backache until I could scarcely stand it, that I had nearly every symptom to be found where the kidneys are affected, that I had used remedy after remedy including box after box of the one he just purchased, and that until I used Doan's Kidney Pills I might have taken as many spoonfuls of water, in fact, I think some of them hurt me. A couple of weeks after this I met him on the street, when he said: "Doc., Doan's Kidney Pills are just as you represented. After using the box about which we had a conversation in Amberg & Murphy's drug store I was as bad as ever. I then procured Doan's and stuck to their treatment until they cured me."

The GRAPHOPHONE

The most fascinating invention of the age. Always ready to entertain. It requires no skill to operate it and reproduce the music of bands, orchestras, vocalists or instrumental soloists. There is nothing like it for an evening's entertainment at home or in the social gathering. You can sing or talk to it and it will reproduce immediately and as often as desired, your song or words.

Other so-called talking machines reproduce only records of cut and dried subjects, specially prepared in a laboratory; but the Graphophone is not limited to such performances. On the Graphophone you can easily make and instantly reproduce records of the voice, or any sound. Thus it constantly awakens new interest and its charm is ever fresh. The reproductions are clear and brilliant.

Graphophones are sold for $10 and up

NEW COTILLON FAVORS.

Silk Ribbon and Wood Have Taken the Place of the Crape Paper and Chiffon of Last Winter.

Cotillon favors for the coming spring and summer cotillons, says the New York Herald, have all been arranged by the experts at home and abroad. Crepe paper and chiffon of the last season have "gone out" and silk ribbon and wood have taken their places. Real golf sticks, balls, etc., will be a feature of the cotillon season.

Spangled satin sashes are another novelty in the favor field. Those have the true Parisian touch to them and are made of ribbon of every conceivable evening hue. Double-faced satin ribbon eight to ten inches wide is used, and each sash requires at least two yards and a half. They are tied, for the convenience of the maiden who receives one, in a huge bow, with very long ends, and the proper thing will be for the girl to slip them on her arm while she is dancing.

Two "nouveautes" that will be used are exceedingly grotesque. Both are cotillon dollies of small size.

For the girls there is the powder puff doll. This little manikin is made of beeswax, a nail file and a powder puff.

THE SHOE THREAD DOLL.

A lump of beeswax modeled into a pretty doll's face is used for the head. A tiny cap is put upon it. The head to the waist position is the nail file and below is the powder puff covered with a skirt of flowered calico or cambric.

More amusing by far, however, is the shoethread spool doll the men will get. The head of this doll is the back of the bowl of a pipe with a face painted on it and a cap of calico tied about the face. The stem of the pipe is fitted down into the hole that goes through the center of the spool, which is cut out as much as possible. Over the spool a skirt of calico is fitted and over the pipe stem, just below the bowl, is a kerchief of white. At once there is a jolly-looking old woman in view.

Improving a Relaxed Skin.

When the skin has a tendency to be coarse and greasy, overheated rooms should be avoided and the pleasure of sitting over the fire should not be indulged in. To tighten the skin and close the enlarged pores make a lotion thus and apply it once or twice a day after washing the face: Infuse a quarter of an ounce of dried rose petals (which can be obtained from any large drug store) in two ounces of pure white wine vinegar for twenty-four hours; strain through muslin, squeeze the petals well and add two ounces of rectified spirits of wine and eight ounces of rosewater.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Revival of Coral Jewelry.

Queen Margherita of Italy intends to be seen a good deal this season wearing coral jewelry, in order to encourage an industry which of late years has somewhat fallen upon evil days. It would not be surprising if the fashion were to spread to London, as coral is becoming to almost any complexion, and can, of course, be had in any shade, from a rose pink so delicate as to be almost imperceptible up to a vivid red. If a revival of the dainty old filigree setting should also set in, the outcome should mean some pretty things of a kind that would be quite a novelty to the girls of to-day.

Cooking Fruits for Children.

"Baked apples may be used where they agree with children, and a raw scraped apple may be given," writes Mrs. S. T. Rorer on "Proper Cooking for the Nursery," in the Ladies' Home Journal. "Bananas should always be cooked, unless they are very ripe and the skins quite black. To bake a banana nicely you should have a porcelain or granite baking-dish. Strip the skins from the bananas, place them in a dish, sprinkle over a tablespoonful of sugar; add four or five tablespoonfuls of water, and bake in a quick oven for twenty minutes, basting once or twice. Serve warm. Blackberry jam, if properly made, is quite an important nursery food."

Pacific Lobsters.

On the southern coast of California is found a species of large lobster not furnished with the huge "shearing claw" of the Atlantic lobster, and which is now being shipped to points this side of the Rocky mountains. It is known as the Bermuda lobster because it was formerly common at the Bermuda islands, although now it is said to have become nearly extinct there.—Youth's Companion.

INVENTIVE WOMEN.

Some Useful and Commercially Important Devices Discovered by Members of the Fair Sex.

It is not generally supposed that many of the labor-saving inventions of the world may be credited to women. The Chinese Empress Tao, for example, worked out useful ideas in her busy brain. She invented the spinning of silk, never dreaming of the immense industry that would grow from her creation. A luxurious woman of Asia discovered the attar of roses, and this same woman, Mhearai Misi, invented the ingenious handicraft, the cashmere shawl. History is silent as to her end. The women who are kept from want by the making of pillow lace have reason to bless the name of Barbara Uttmann, of Saxony. Wood engraving was discovered by the Cunio sisters, two Italian women, and it was the widow of Gen. Nathaniel Greene who made the suggestion of the cotton gin, which was perfected by Eli Whitney. The grandmother of Clara Louise Burnham invented an attachment to [illegible] ery in looms in mills, and an [illegible] an's genius worked out a [illegible] for deadening the noise of railway trains. A Miss Knight invented the paper bag, and at once people wondered why so simple a contrivance had never been thought of before.

Mme. De Long invented metal-cutting machinery, which has been used in France for some time. This machinery is worked by steam, and from the solid metal cuts out gates and other architectural work without casting. Mme. De Long has cut plates of brass a foot thick into lattice work at a single operation. She has also made picture frames, crests and lace pins, turning them out of the metal fully finished, every operation being performed by the steam-driven machinery. She first conceived the idea of her remarkable apparatus over 20 years since, when a paralysis of the right arm compelled her to give up her trade of jewel worker. She has received many medals from various Paris expositions. The first laureate crown ever offered to a woman has been bestowed upon Mme. De Long by the Society of French Architects in Paris. Mrs. Barton Parnell, who has worked for over 40 years in the Australian gold mines, has made fame and fortune for herself as an assayist. She discovered the secret of treating ore before roasting it so that as much gold as brown stone could obtained from it. Mrs. Parnell intends to found a college in England for women, where they will be trained to be practical miners. It is stated that there are nearly 5,000,000 self-supporting women in the United States alone, and it is difficult to find a branch of trade in which they are not doing successful work.—N. O. Picayune.

BABY'S DIMITY DRESS.

An Easily Washed and Very Fetching Little Affair for a Youngster Eighteen Months of Age.

Two yards of white dimity figured in small green leaves, will make a dress for an 18-months old boy. For laundry purposes the skirt can be gathered upon a low-necked band of white needlework, front and back. The sleeves, which are gathered at the shoulder and at the hand, can have pucker strings, which can be untied when the little dress is washed.

The yoke is made out of three quarters of a yard of dimity tucking which comes at about a dollar a yard. It can be made separately from the dress and tied with strings around the waist. The little dress is slipped on over the yoke, which can be renewed when soiled.

The only trimming on the skirt is four rows of cording which is easy to wash and iron.

Cane-Bottomed Chairs.

The owner of cane-bottomed chairs which require renovating should provide herself with a ball of strong twine and some varnish, and she can manage to do the work very creditably to herself in the following way: Cut away the old cane, take a large darning needle, thread it, make a knot at the end and loop the string through the holes backward and forward, crosswise from side to side, right and left, filling every hole; then working back again, weaving as you would for cloth. Then varnish the chairs and place them aside to dry. Make small cushions of cretonne or any other material you like and tie them on the seats with ribbon to match.

HE PAID DEARLY.

Fruit Dealer in Detroit Throws a Peach Basket at a Customer and Pays $3,500 Damages.

Detroit, June 4.—A basket of peaches has cost Joseph A. Leiter, a fruit dealer on Cadillac square, this city, just $3,500. Judge Daboll set the price Thursday. In September of 1896 Mrs. Annie M. Prenz purchased in Leiter's store a basket of fine peaches, for which she paid $1.25. The fruit was ordered to be delivered to her residence. On their delivery, Mrs. Prenz refused to accept the peaches. They were small, whereas the peaches she had selected were large and luscious. Mrs. Prenz took the fruit and repaired to Leiter's store. She declared that the fruit was not the same that she had ordered and paid for, but a much inferior article. She pointed out the identical basket she had chosen, and demanded that one or her money. Leiter refused to return the money or exchange baskets, and, picking up the basket she had returned, threw it at her. Mrs. Prenz was struck in the left side and seriously injured. She suffered for many weeks, during which she was attended by four physicians. She finally submitted to an operation, from the effects of which she has not yet recovered.

FREE TEXT-BOOKS.

An Instructive Interpretation of the New Law Is Promulgated by Attorney General Maynard.

Lansing, June 6.—The opinion of the attorney-general on the construction to be given to the free text-book act of 1889 and the uniform text-book act of 1897 has been filed. This is a matter which is to be voted upon this year. He holds that the act of 1897 does not repeal any portion of the act of 1889, the intent being to give both full force and effect. The latest act was to secure uniform text-books and fix a maximum price for the same. These books are to be uniformly used in all schools except in districts which shall vote not to come under the provision, and those which, at the time of the enactment of the law of 1897, were acting, or shall vote to act, under the law of 1889. It is discretionary with school boards to determine which of the two propositions—to come under the text-book act and not to come under the uniform text-book act—should first be submitted. Notices should plainly state the question to be first voted upon. If both propositions fail, the district must use the books selected by the state text-book commission.

RECORD IS BROKEN.

Banks of Michigan Show Resources Which Surpass the Highest Mark in Their History.

Lansing, June 6.—Banking Commissioner Maltz has issued the following statement showing the conditions of the 176 state banks and three trust companies of Michigan: Resources, $101,126,949.17; liabilities, $101,126,949.17. A comparison with the last previous report made February 18, makes a gratifying showing, indicating that more money is being used in business. This is apparent from the fact that the loans and discounts, stocks, bonds and mortgages, increased $3,660,999.11, while the commercial deposits decreased $668,109.59. The savings deposits increased $922,888.44, and the total deposits increased $1,547,913.48. The total resources of the state banks of Michigan have never before reached the $100,000,000 mark.

Local Option Fight.

Niles, June 7.—The local option campaign is waxing warm in this county and every night meetings are being held in every district. Statistics of Van Buren county, the banner prohibition county of the state, are used to prove that taxes are lower without the saloon licenses. Prominent prohibition speakers from other states are hired to come and deliver lectures. The Milwaukee and Chicago brewers are said to have furnished a campaign fund of $16,000. The election will take place June 27.

Will Resume His Duties.

Ann Arbor, June 7.—Professor James B. Angell, before resigning as ambassador to Constantinople, wrote to the members of the board of regents of the university, announcing his return. His resignation created no surprise with the regents. "The professor," said Dr. Herman Kiefer, one of the regents, "will be here in October and resume the presidency of the university as a matter of course. He had leave of absence till October.

Warning to Soda Water Men.

Lansing, June 6. — State Food Commissioner Grosvenor in his monthly bulletin says: "Large quantities of so-called pineapple, banana, strawberry and other extracts are being made by soda fountain proprietors. These extracts are manufactured almost entirely from ether and are not only deleterious to health, but actually poisonous. The commissioner gives notice that he will prosecute all dispensers of such extracts."

Two Drowned While Fishing.

Monroe, June 6. — Two more victims have been added to the River Raisin's long list. Fred Mattes, a married man, 26 years old, and Henry Meyer, aged 18, son of Prof. J. H. C. Meyer, of this city, were drowned. They were fishing, and in some way the boat capsized. Mattes swam to shore, but seeing his companion was drowning, went to his aid, only to get into his dying embrace and go down with him. Both bodies were recovered.

The War Bonds.

Lansing, June 4.—State Treasurer Steele says, in answer to the charge made by the Bond Buyer, of New York, that five individual subscriptions had been made to the recent issue of war bonds, that there were 47 individual allotments, 31 to banks and bankers and one to a fraternal society.

THUNDER AND LIGHTNING.

The Damage Enormous--Only One Safe Way To Live.

Some weeks since a paragraph appeared calling attention to the immense amount of damage which had been done by lightning. We also spoke of the service done in this connection by our veteran lightning rod man, John F. Hicks. As nearly every exchange which comes to our table relates some fresh disaster and as the life and property of nearly every householder seems to be in jeopardy, it is but fair to suppose that our readers would be interested in an investigation into the merits of lightning rods as a protection, since they are the only means which science has yet offered as a safeguard against the omnipotent electric discharge. A little light also on the methods of handling this useful commodity would not come amiss in this connection.

The theory of lightning rod protection is founded on one of the simplest and best known laws of physical science. Every school boy knows that electricity will find and follow the best conductor. The practical part of this business is to always have the rods so adjusted as to make a perfect conductor, and then, and then only, do they afford a perfect protection.

Mr. J. F. Hicks not only erects rods with the best workmanship on scientific principles, but he guarantees to keep them in perfect repair and his guarantee is good. The two principal points in regard to a rod's conductivity are the point of tip and the ground connections. In speaking of points, Mr. Hicks showed a dozen or so which had been struck and rendered useless and which had been replaced by him. These points had been taken from the Union school, Globe Mill and the buildings of Chauncey Cooper and C. W. Greenleaf, of Cambridge, John Seeler, of Brooklyn, and others. One notable instance was the German church at Richville, Tuscola county, this state. Before rodding, the building was damaged by lightning over $1,000 worth. The church was then rodded and it has since sustained three heavy strokes without injury, each time melting the points and ornaments, which have been replaced free of charge. In regard to the ground connections, Mr. Hicks, with the advice of such men as Prof. Kedzie, of the Agricultural College, has devised a battery test by which he can instantly make a perfect and satisfactory test of this most important condition of the rod.

Concerning the experience of Mr. Hicks in this business and his methods of doing it, his integrity and responsibility and the confidence placed in the protection of lightning rods as handled by him among most practical and successful business men, we append the following:

This is to certify that I have known Mr. John F. Hicks, of Tecumseh, Mich., for a number of years, and that several years ago he erected upon my buildings his Improved Lightning Conductors, agreeing at the time to keep them in good repair, without cost to me, which he has done to my entire satisfaction, and this day he has been at my place and tested the conductors with his electric battery, to see if they were in prime order, and also to determine if the ground connections were still perfect. He has found them all in perfect working order, and I am now more satisfied than ever before that lightning rods are a protection to life and property when erected on buildings in a scientific manner and the ground connections made perfect. I have never known of any work Mr. Hicks has done which has not given good satisfaction. Nor have I ever known a building to be damaged by lightning which he has rodded. I am well pleased with the work Mr. Hicks has done for me and do not hesitate to recommend him to everyone wishing lightning conductors placed on their buildings, as perfectly reliable and trustworthy in every respect.

—A certificate from the Tecumseh school board reads as follows:

The undersigned, members of the school board of the village of Tecumseh, certify to the permanency and durability of the rods placed upon our school building by Jno. F. Hicks. Said rods were erected 25 years ago, sometime since receiving a heavy stroke of electricity, melting the points but carrying the electricity to the ground without damage to the building or the inmates. Said points were replaced without cost to the district. We cheerfully recommend Jno. F. Hicks to parties wanting lightning rods. SAMUEL CATLIN,

Beside his business relations in this section, Mr. Hicks is equally well and favorably known in this connection in Northern Michigan. For over twenty-five years he has done rodding in the Saginaw valley and adjacent country with the success which has always attended his work in this section as the following will show:

First National Bank,
East Saginaw, Mich.,
July 13, 1895.

This is to certify that twenty-five years since Mr. J. F. Hicks, of Tecumseh, Mich., rodded my residence and barn in East Saginaw, and agreed to keep it in good order free of expense to me, and that he has this day examined the buildings by testing the same with his battery in my presence and finds the rods and groundings so satisfactory that I have ordered my farm house and barns at Blackmar rodded, as I consider his system of rodding a full protection against the effects of lightning. I have full confidence in his integrity and his system of rodding buildings, and can cheerfully recommend him to any one in need of his services.

E. T. JUDD, President.

It is quite a prevalent idea and one perhaps substantiated by fact, that the lightning rod business has sometimes borne the earmarks of "fake." This may even be true as practiced by some agents. Concerning their methods, we have nothing to say either for or against. In this connection we simply say, that the work of Mr. Hicks as alluded to above, speaks for itself. A few of the points discovered are these: Rods properly put up are a safe protection. Properly taken care of they continue a safe protection. Mr. Hicks does both these things and his guarantee is as good as gold. Again, no business in Michigan is conducted on sounder business principles than the manner in which he does his work. He or his representative can always be found at 51 Union St., Tecumseh, Mich., to do new work or make good that which has already been done by him.

Owing to the fact that Mr. Hicks has been in the lightning rod business for the past forty-five years and for many years was engaged in the manufacture of rods, enables him to do better work and for less money than any other man engaged in the business in the state.

WIN FIRST LAND BATTLE

Marines Under Col. Huntington in a Fierce Conflict with the Spanish Soldiers.

THE DONS FINALLY FORCED TO RETREAT.

The Stars and Stripes Now Float on Cuban Soil—The First Army of Invasion Is on the Way—Sampson Says Entire Spanish Fleet Is at Santiago—Other News.

On Board the Associated Press' Dispatch Boat Dauntless, Off Guantanamo, via Mole St. Nicholas, June 13.—Lieut. Col. R. W. Huntington's battalion of marines, which landed from the transport Panther on Friday and encamped on the hill guarding the abandoned cable station at the entrance of the outer harbor of Guantanamo, has been engaged in heading off a rush attack by Spanish guerrillas and regulars since three o'clock Saturday afternoon. The fighting was almost continuous for 13 hours until six o'clock Sunday morning, when reinforcements were landed from the Marblehead.

Four Americans Killed.

Four of our men were killed and one wounded. The advance pickets under Lieuts. Neville and Shaw are unaccounted for. Among the killed is Assistant Surgeon John Blair Gibbs, son of Maj. Gibbs, of the regular army, who fell in the Custer massacre. His home was at Richmond, Va., but he has lately been practicing medicine in New York city. The others killed are Sergeant Charles H. Smith, of Smallwood; Private William Dumphy, of Gloucester, Mass., and Private James McColgan, of Stoneham, Mass. Corporal Glass was accidentally wounded in the head.

The Spanish loss is unknown, but is probably considerable. The splashes of blood found at daylight at the positions the Spaniards occupied indicate fatalities, but their comrades carried off the killed and wounded.

OUR FLAG IS THERE.

The Stars and Stripes Are Now Floating on Cuban Soil.

Off Guantanamo, Cuba, Friday, June 10, via Port Antonio, Monday, June 13.—The invasion of Cuba by the American forces began Friday. Six hundred marines have pitched their tents about the smoking ruins of the outer fortifications of Guantanamo and the stars and stripes for the first time float on a Spanish flagstaff in Cuba.

The marines will hold the position until the arrival of the expected troops, in the meantime scouting the vicinity, with the Marblehead, Vixen and Dolphin lying by to protect them.

OUR TROOPS AT SEA.

Fleet of Transports with 15,000 Men on the Way to Cuba.

Washington, June 14.—The first army of invasion to Cuba is now well on its way, 32 transport steamships, bearing over 15,000 officers and men, convoyed by battleships, cruisers, gunboats and auxiliary cruisers, 16 in number, having actually sailed from Key West at daybreak Monday morning. An authoritative statement to this effect was made at the war department, setting at rest all reports that the expedition was on its way, or had landed last week. The authorities made the announcement for the reason that the time for secrecy was now past, as the scout boats had made sure that the path was clear before it and that no possible menace could come from the Spanish ships or troops, even should they know our forces were advancing against them.

Surely Bottled Up.

Washington, June 15.—The navy department Tuesday posted the following bulletin:

"Mole St. Nicholas, June 13.—Lieut. Blue just returned after a detour of 70 statute miles of observation of the harbor of Santiago de Cuba. He reports Spanish fleet is all there. The Spanish attacked vigorously the camp at Guantanamo. An outpost of four marines were killed and their bodies mutilated barbarously. Surgeon Gibbs was killed.

"(Signed) SAMPSON."

Bravery Rewarded.

Official recognition has been taken of the valor of the crew who took the Merrimac into the entrance of Santiago harbor when Secretary Long signed orders to Admiral Sampson directing the promotion of all members of the crew. Lieut. Hobson's reward will come later through congress. The men still linger in a Spanish prison, but when they return again to their ships their promotions will be awaiting them. In addition to promotions the crew will be presented with medals.

Havana Not Easy Prey.

Chicago, June 15.—A dispatch to the Tribune Tuesday from its correspondent, Mr. Whigham, recently released from Cabanas, states that Havana is well-nigh impregnable, the defenses having been strengthened by a double rampart of modern guns. He also says that there are 50,000 troops in the city, that two vessels with cargoes of provisions ran the blockade, and there is no danger of famine for months, and little sickness.

New York, June 13.—Edward G. Montesi was arrested as a spy as he was about to sail from this city Saturday. In his trunks were found charts of the harbor defenses of New York.

DEWEY WRITES A LETTER.

First Mail Communication from the Admiral Since His Battle at Manila.

DESCRIBES THE ATTACK ON THE CITY.

Commends Highly His Officers and Crew and Personal Staff for Faithfulness and Bravery—Ambassador Hay Denies Responsibility for Story That Manila Had Fallen.

Washington, June 14.—The navy department Monday made public the following letter received from Admiral Dewey Monday afternoon, being the first mail advices from him since he reached Manila:

"Flagship Olympia, Cavite, May 4, 1898.—The squadron left Mirs bay on April 27. Arrived off Bolinac on the morning of April 30, and, finding no vessels there, proceeded down the coast and arrived off the entrance to Manila bay on the same afternoon. The Boston and Concord were sent to reconnoitre Port Subic. A thorough search of the port was made by the Boston and the Concord, but the Spanish fleet was not found. Entered the South channel at 11:30 p. m., steaming in column at eight knots. After half the squadron had passed, a battery on the south side of the channel opened fire, none of the shots taking effect. The Boston and McCulloch returned the fire. The squadron proceeded across the bay at slow speed and arrived off Manila at daybreak and was fired upon at 5:15 a. m. by three batteries at Manila and two near Cavite, and by the Spanish fleet anchored in an approximately east and west line across the mouth of Baker bay with their gunboats in shoal water in Canacao bay.

Proceed to the Attack.

"The squadron then proceeded to the attack, the flagship Olympia, under my personal direction, leading. At 7:35 a. m. I ceased firing and withdrew the squadron for breakfast. At 11:15 a. m. returned to the attack. By this time the Spanish flagship and almost the entire Spanish fleet were in fleet. At 12:30 p. m. the squadron ceased firing, the batteries being silenced and the ships sunk, burned and deserted. At 12:40 p. m. the squadron returned and anchored off Manila, the Petrel being left behind to complete the destruction of the smaller gunboats, which were behind the point of Cavite. This duty was performed by Commander E. P. Wood in the most expeditious manner possible.

The Spanish Losses.

"The Spanish lost the following vessels: Sunk—Reina Christina, Castilla, Don Antonio de Ulloa. Burnt—Don Juan de Austria, Isla De Luzon, Isla De Cuba, General Lezo, Marquis Del Duero, El Correo, Velasco and Isla de Mindanao (transport). Captured—Rapido and Hercules (tugs), and several small launches. I am unable to obtain complete accounts of the enemy's killed and wounded, but believe their losses to be very heavy. The Reina Christina alone had 150 killed, including the captain, and 90 wounded. I am happy to report that the damage done to the squadron under my command was inconsiderable. There are none killed and only seven men in the squadron very slightly wounded.

Praise for His Crew.

"Several of the vessels were struck and even penetrated, but the damage was of the slightest, and the squadron is in as good condition now as before the battle. I beg to state to the department that I doubt if any commander in chief was ever served by more loyal, efficient and gallant captains than those of the squadron now under my command. Capt. Frank Wildes, commanding the Boston, volunteered to remain in command of his vessel, although his relief arrived before leaving Hong-Kong. Assistant Surgeon Kindleberger, of the Olympia, and Gunner J. C. Evans, of the Boston, also volunteered to remain after orders detaching them had arrived.

Receives Special Mention.

"I desire specially to mention the coolness of Lieut. C. G. Calkins, the navigator of the Olympia, who came under my personal observation, being on the bridge with me throughout the entire action and giving the ranges to the guns with an accuracy that was proven by the excellency of the firing. On May 2, the day following the engagement, the squadron again went to Cavite, where it remains. On the 3d the military forces evacuated Cavite arsenal, which was taken possession of by a landing party. On the same day the Raleigh and Baltimore secured the surrender of the batteries on Corrigidor island, paroling the garrison and destroying the guns. On the morning of May 4 the transport Manila, which had been aground in Baker bay, was towed off and made a prize."

The Manila Report.

London, June 14.—The United States ambassador here, Col. John Hay, says there is no foundation for the statment that he is responsible for the story published in the United States to the effect that Manila has fallen.

Springfield, Ill., June 15.—The republican state convention on Tuesday nominated the following state ticket: State treasurer, Floyd Williams, Springfield; superintendent of public instruction, Alfred Bayliss, Streator; trustees of the University of Illinois, F. L. Hatch, McHenry county; A. F. Nightingale, Chicago; Alice Asbury Abbott, Chicago. The platform approves President McKinley's administration, pledges support for the war with Spain, favors postal savings banks, indorses Gov. Tanner's administration and congratulates the miners of the state upon obtaining an eight-hour day.

The four consecutive years which count for the best in the history of the Grub school, of Franklin, have just come to a close and it is with the deepese regret that we part with the teacher Miss Maude Richardson, who during this time has made herself almost a necessity to us. In her hands the school has developed into an educational system seldom equalled in country districts, all grades working together in perfect harmony of plan and purpose. Her success is best demonstrated perhaps by Commissioner Hensel's statement, that she graduated this year the youngest as well as one of the brightest pupils ever passing the examinations in this county. The Tecumseh School Board has done well in securing Miss Richardson's services for next year.

MARVELOUS RESULTS.

What a Well-known Citizen of Lansing, Mich., says of Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer.

"I have had dyspepsia for eighteen years. My troubles were indigestion, sour stomach, acid fermentation, palpation of the heart, sleeplessness and terrible sick headache, which at times would entirely unfit me for business. I have had special treatment by seven physicians, and it seems as though I have tried nearly every known or supposed remedy, with some little relief, but would soon relapse to the old condition. I commenced using Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer a few weeks ago, have used about two and one-half boxes which have done me more real good than all the treatment and so called remedies I have ever taken. I would advise any person afflicted with stomach troubles, dyspepsia or nerve troubles, to try this treatment.

Respectfully,
EDWARD N. WOOD,
North Lansing, Mich.

March 22, 1898."

Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer is not propped up by ficticious testimonials, but is demonstrating its curative power every day, in stubborn cases of acute, chronic and nervous dyspepsia. A trial will substantiate all that is claimed for it. For sale by John J. Orr, leading druggist of Tecumseh. A book on stomach and nerve troubles their symptoms and cures, given free for the asking at the above store.

From Extreme Nervousness.

THAT no one remedy can contain the elements necessary to cure all diseases, is a fact well known to everyone. Dr. Miles' System of Restorative Remedies consists of seven distinctively different preparations, each for its own purpose.

Mrs. L. C. Bramley, 37 Henry St., St. Catherines, Ontario, writes: "For years I suffered from extreme nervousness and annoying constipation, developing into palpitation and weakness of the heart. I was unable to sleep, suffered much from headache, pain in my left side, palpitation and a constant feeling of weakness and prostration. I began using Dr. Miles' Nervine, Heart Cure and Nerve and Liver Pills and the Anti-Pain Pills to relieve sudden paroxysms of pain and headache. I soon felt much improved and the pains and aches and weariness left me. I then took Dr. Miles' Restorative Tonic and am now restored to my former good health."

Beware of him who hates the laughter of a child.

My husband has suffered with sick headache ever since a little boy and has tried everything he ever heard of, but obtained no relief. We have been using Carter's Cascara Cordial and are very much pleased with it; my husband has been growing steadily better and we feel confident he will entirely recover. We are very thankful and take great pleasure in recommending Carter's Cascara Cordial as a splendid medicine. MRS. MAY SANDERS, Chicago, Ill. S. E. PARRISH.

AN IMPERIAL INVENTOR.

It Is Said Emperor William Will Give the World a New Electrical Car.

The career of American electric street railway apparatus in Germany may be destined to be a short and a merry one, for the news has come very circumstantially of late that the emperor himself proposes to invent a new electrical car for Berlin, and if for Berlin, then Germany. A few years back Prince Henry, the emperor's brother, repeated all the sensational Tesla experiments with currents of high voltage and high frequency, and not many months ago we noted the fact in these columns that the emperor, the prince and some high army officers were taking a special electrical course of study. This all goes to confirm the rumor, says the Electrical Engineer.

We are sure that his majesty can help the electric railway art materially, for it has been said that he has a rolling eye of genius just like Edison's, although we have never seen Mr. Edison roll his eye, unless a wink is included in the expression. But what worries us is that we don't see where the emperor is to get the time; he is so busy. There is Turkey to be patronized; Greece to be snubbed; Russia to be flattered; France to be flouted; England to be insulted, and China to be cut up, all of which he is giving personal attention to conscientiously. But his majesty is also otherwise engaged, in oratory, music, art, the drama, yachting and a few other diversions.

GREAT MEN AND POLITICS.

All of the Foremost Statesmen of America Were Pronounced Partisans.

Somebody says that Lincoln was a partisan. Of course he was a partisan. He was a republican from the party's foundation until his death, and he was a whig previously. Every statesman who accomplishes anything is necessarily a partisan. Popular opinion cannot be ascertained nor the popular will carried out except through the medium of parties, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Ever since the foundation of the government, save for a few years in the so-called "era of good feeling," during Monroe's presidency, there were two great parties in the country, and everybody who counted for anything in politics belonged to one or other of these parties. Every president has been a partisan. Washington was one, though many writers pretend he was not—that he held himself outside and above each of the parties of his day.

Washington belonged to the party of Hamilton, Adams, Morris and the Pinckneys, the party which constructed the framework of American institutions, and which laid down the lines on which the government has been conducted by every party which has controlled it—federalist, democratic, national, republican, whig and republican. He was a federalist. Lincoln was an avowed, courageous and persistent partisan. But he was never a sectionist nor a demagogue.

Washington, June 14.—The war revenue bill was brought to the white house by a house messenger at 2:45 p. m. Monday, and was signed by the president at 3:05 o'clock.

A SERIOUS CHARGE.

Attorney Mains, of Battle Creek, Accused of Plotting to Kill Stephen S. Hulburt.

Battle Creek, June 10. — Charles S. Mains, a well-known Battle Creek lawyer, and Ed Murphy are in jail at Marshall, charged with plotting to kill Stephen S. Hulburt, also a prominent lawyer of this place. The alleged plot was disclosed by an accomplice who weakened. Mains claims that he paid Hulburt $3,025 in settlement of a lawsuit, and Hulburt denies receiving the money. The present charges against Mains are related to the dispute over the money. Mains' bail has been fixed at $20,000. Mains still retains his wonderful nerve. His office desks and safe were opened and searched by officers, and it is said important papers were found. Mains' friends assert that if he is really guilty of the crime charged he is insane.

CROPS ARE ALL RIGHT.

Acreage in This State Is Up to the Standard and Condition Better Than Usual.

Lansing, June 11.—The average condition of Michigan wheat June 1 was 98, better than the average condition at this time of the year. The highest average reported in the preceding ten years is 92 in 1892 and 1894. The acreage to corn fully equals that of averaging years. The average condition in the state is 96. The acreage sowed to oats is 92 per cent. of the average, and the average condition of the crop is 96. About four-fifths of the usual acreage of barley has been sowed, and in condition the crop is 96. The average condition of meadows and pastures is 96 and of clover sowed this year 95. Apples promise 95 per cent. and peaches 89 per cent. of average crops.

Disease Attacks Peach Trees.

Benton Harbor, June 13.—Much damage is being caused throughout the Michigan fruit belt by "curl leaf." The disease is so bad in some instances as to threaten the life of peach trees, as well as the fruit. The earlier varieties are most affected. After the disease manifests itself nothing can be done, so far as known, to save the fruit. It is claimed the disease can be prevented by spraying the trees in March or early spring. When a tree is affected the leaves curl up, change from the natural green to a dead brown and drop from the trees. In some orchards the ground is thickly covered with these dead leaves and the affected trees are bare of foliage.

Want to Go to War.

Lansing, June 14. — Nearly 40 students at the Agricultural college have signified their intention to join the regular army and Lieut. Smoke will be here to muster them in as soon as the commencement exercises are concluded this week. They will be assigned to company I, Nineteenth Infantry.

Sturgis, June 11.—Ray Wells, a well-known young man of Lima, while walking on the Grand Rapids & Indiana railway, south of this city, was struck by a passenger train and instantly killed.

Lansing, June 13.—The state military board has closed a contract for purchasing 2,500 Blake magazine rifles, to be used by the next regiment of volunteers leaving this state. Other Michigan regiments may get some of these guns.

A SUCCESSFUL EVANGELIST

Rev. W. A. Dunnett, a Man Whose Good Work Is Widely Known—He Relates Events in His Career of General Interest.

From the Smith's Falls Record.

Throughout Canada, from the western boundary of Ontario to the Atlantic Ocean, there is no name more widely known in temperance and evangelistic work than that of the Rev. W. A. Dunnett. Mr. Dunnett has been the Grand Vice-Councillor of Ontario and Quebec in the Royal Templars, and so popular is he among the members of the order that in Montreal there is a Royal Templars council named "Dunnett Council" in his honor. For more than ten years Mr. Dunnett has been going from place to place pursuing his good work, sometimes assisting resident ministers, sometimes conducting a series of gospel temperance meetings independently, but always laboring for the good of his fellows. While in Smith's Falls a few months ago in connection with his work he dropped into the Record office for a little visit with the editor. During the conversation the Record ventured to remark that his duties entailed an enormous amount of hard work. To this Mr. Dunnett assented, but added that in his present physical condition he was equal to any amount of hard work. But it was not always so, he said, and then he gave the writer the following little personal history, with permission to make it public. He said that for the past thirteen years he had been greatly troubled with a pain in the region of his heart, from which he was unable to get any relief. At times it was a dull, heavy pain, at others sharp and severe. Oftentimes it rendered him unfit for his engagements, and at all times it made it difficult to move. His trouble was always visible to the public and frequently when conducting service he would give out and doctors had to be called in to attend him. This occurred to him in the Yonge Street Church, Toronto; the Baptist Church, Woodstock, N. B.; the Methodist Church, Carleton Place, Ont. On another occasion while preaching to an audience of 2,500 people in the Franklin Street Congregational Church, at Manchester, N. H. Five doctors had arrived and were in attendance before he regained consciousness. In all these cities and towns the newspapers freely mentioned his affliction at the time. Mr. Dunnett says he had consulted many physicians, though, he said, to be entirely fair, he had never been under great length of time under treatment by any one doctor because of his itinerant mode of life. In the early part of the summer of 1897, while in Brockville assisting the pastor of the Wall Street Methodist Church in evangelistic services, he was speaking of his trouble to a friend who urged him to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and next day presented him with a dozen boxes. "I took the pills," said Mr. Dunnett, "and I declare to you I am a new man to-day. I used to worry a great deal over the pain about my heart, but that is all gone now, and I feel like a new man." In this the reverend gentleman told in a conversational way, and when it was suggested that he let it be known, he demurred, because, as he put it, "I am afraid to say I am cured, and yet the man enjoying better health to-day than he had gone. I cannot say whether it will return, but I can certainly say it has troubled me for months, and I am in better health than I have been for years. I have gained in flesh, hence in weight. I prefer not to say anything about my appetite; like the poor, it is ever with me. I attribute my good health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and you have my consent to the fact."

The union picnic and commencement exercises of three of our districts schools held in the grove near the county line southeast from Britton last Friday was a very enjoyable and pleasant affair. There was a large attendance of parents and friends. The spread of inviting hands was relishingly enjoyed and the scholars under the management of Miss Bool of the "Branch" district gave a very fine exhibition in songs and recitations.

Childrens' Day at the Reformed church last Sunday morning assumed the form of a patriotic rally. The chancel and background were handsomely draped in bunting and flowers while Old Glory in all sizes appeared, even waived in the hands of the speakers, while "On to Victory," "Fling out the Banner," Keep in Line" and "Under Sealed Orders" were some of the titles of songs and addresses. The morning was fine and the church was completely filled with an appreciative audience.

The ninth annual reunion of Co. F. 26th Michigan Volunteer was held here Tuesday and was attended by a large number of members and friends of the company. Jno. Britton's lawn had been prepared with tables, a speaker's stand and cannon with flags and bunting galore. The boys and their families began coming early and by noon the tables were groaning under their weight of eatables. After several selections by the Britton band, the roll was called and 26 members of Co. F. responded. Dinner was served but before all had eaten, a big shower arrived on the scene and the reunion was adjourned to the Exelby Hall where the afternoon was spent in listening to an address by Rev. C. I. Deyo, music by the band and singing by everyone. The boys parted hoping to meet again with no members missing next year. The following answered to their names at roll call:

I have prescribed Carter's Cascara Liver Pills, and pronounce them the best liver pill for all purposes in use; not only as a cathartic, but as a laxative and preventative of indigestion, I have found them equally valuable. If any one will carefully consider the progress of the war up to date it will be seen that nothing of any importance has been accomplished except the work of Dewey at Manilla. From the 10th to the 13th of May Cervera's fleet was supposed to have been at Cadiz. Foreign ships were going in and out of this Spanish port every hour and it would have been as easy to locate this fleet there as at any other port the same distance from Washington had Uncle Sam made a proper arrangement for correspondence and detective service. On May 14th the "Phantom" fleet turned up on the coast of Cuba. In the meantime great preparations had been made to invade Cuba on the strength of the Spanish advices that Cervera had retreated. All thoughts of sending the army to Cuba were then abandoned and for nearly two weeks twenty-seven of our war ships chased Cervera in every direction but the right one and finally allowed him to go into the very harbor he desired to enter. Schley found him and would have no doubt made some way to demolish his fleet but Schoolmaster Sampson was sent down there to take command. He sank the Merrimac, sent eight brave sailors for the Spaniards to capture, bottled himself out of Santiago harbor as well as Cervera in and absolutely is doing nothing. Whether Sampson or the authorities at Washington are to blame 'tis hard to say, but one thing certain, so far the Spaniards have fooled us in every maneuver in Atlantic waters.

RAILROAD NEWS.

Notes and Condensations Concerning the Railroads.

The interlocker at crossing of Ann Arbor and Lima Northern railroads in this place is completed. The machinery is operated by 19 levers, 10 of which are for semaphores, 4 for the crossings of the two roads and balance for switches in Lima Northern yards. There is a great amount of machinery and equipment connected with these devices; and no collisions can occur upon crossings where they are used. The workmen that constructed it have moved to Bellefontaine, Ohio, where they erect a similar one for Lima Northern road.—Dundee Reporter.

An official circular has been received by The Blade announcing that the Lima Northern has opened its new passenger service over the Columbus & Northwestern. The new line will give the company an entrance into several new Ohio towns. It is the only direct route between Detroit, Lima and Bellefontaine, with excellent connections to and from Columbus, Springfield, Dayton, Cincinnati, and all southern and eastern cities. It is the management's intention to maintain good service with strictly up to date equipment.—Blade.

Mrs. Mary Fluhrer brings suit in the circuit court against the Lake Shore road for $10.000 for the death of her husband. It will be remembered that her husband, John M. Fluhrer, a brakeman, was killed at Tecumseh, July 14, 1893. Many witnesses among the railroad men are here. The case is expected to be brought on at the finish of the Higgins trial.—Telegram.

Toledo Bee: Railroad Commissioner R. S. Kaylor has just completed an inspection of the Detroit and Lima Northern railroad, and he says he finds the road in a safe condition to operate, and in the hands of careful, wide awake, progressive officers. He says that all bridge and trestle work on the D. & L. N. is now in good shape.

Wapakoneta, O., June 13.—Work has been resumed on the new Columbus and Northwestern railroad west of St. Jonn's, O., and will be rapidly pushed to completion. Over 200 teams are busy and the road will be completed and trains running in a few months from Columbus to St. Marys.—Blade.

The D. and L. N. have now got their new line between Detroit and Bellefontaine, O., opened, which makes good connection with southern road for all eastern and southern points.

Quite a number from here took in the opening excursion to Belfontaine, Sunday, and report a very enjoyable time.

Mrs. Frank Allen and children visited Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Burns in Tipton last week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Richmond, of Toledo, were calling on friends here Tuesday.

C. D. Mize moved his goods and family to Tecumseh, Monday.

Earle Slayton was a Detroit visitor Wednesday.

Tom Caldwell, of Toledo, was in town yesterday.

Excursions to Washington, D. C.

C. and return at half rates, plus $2, account of meeting of National Educational Association. Graduating Exercises.

CLASS DAY.

On Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock, the graduation week program opened with the class day exercises at the Baptist church. At the hour named the graduates filed into the view of the crowded audience, the dainty light dresses of the girls contrasting vividly with the green background and forming a veritable garden of living flowers.

Of the program it is unnecessary to speak except that the participants one and all did themselves great credit, both in their essays which were well written and in the manner of delivery.

The vocal solos by Will Elliot and Eva Camburn, deserve special mention, both being very entertaining. The church was tastefully decorated with green branches and vines. The ushers were taken from the Junior class and were four in number, the Misses Anna McClure, Adah Beebe, and Floyd Heesen and Claude Crittenden.

Let us hope that now the proceeding has been inaugurated here, it will not be allowed to drop. The parents and friends of the sweet girl or boy graduate naturally like to hear their last essays and seize the chance to give them a little quiet applause not meant for any hired speaker of the evening. Long life to the class of '98 and may all their ways be prosperous.

COMMENCEMENT.

On Thursday evening a large audience gathered at the opera house to hear the final exercises of the Class of '98. The program was opened with a piano solo by Miss Bertha Roberts, which was well received. Rev. W. F. Jones invoked divine blessing. After a chorus by the High School, Lester Heesen introduced the speaker Dr. Geo. Hunting, of Marshall, who addressed the Class of '98 upon Pluck, Patience and Push, giving a very interesting talk, at the close of which the Misses Eva Camburn and Anna McClure rendered a vocal duet. Prof. L. M. Kellogg then made a few remarks in behalf of the school board and presented the diplomas, also referred to the one absent member of the Class, Albert Rector who is a member of Co. C. at the front and gave his certificate to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Rector.

The Class song was next given by a quartet, which was followed by the High School chorus. Rev. W. B. Pope then pronounced the benediction and the school days of the Class of '98 were things of a pleasant past.

THE ALUMNI.

The annual reception and banquet of the Tecumseh High School Association was held at the armory last Friday evening and although the attendance was small the meeting was one of the best. The program was carried out to the letter, each individual number being thoroughly enjoyed. The banquet under the direction of Mrs. Campbell was first class and finely served. It is to be hoped that the next annual meeting will be better attended. Following is the program as carried out:

The X Ray.

The X ray inventions have been written about till it would seem that nothing more could be said, still new uses are found for the machines every day. The latest is in making a test for all diseases of the lungs. Perhaps the most complete X ray apparatus in the West is the one owned by Dr. G. W. Richardson, of Toledo, Ohio. A representative of the HERALD rode to Toledo with the doctor the other day and upon invitation stepped into his office. Here are thousands of dollars worth of the latest apparatus for the diagnosis and cure of human disease, including as before stated the most complete X ray machine in the West. Dr. Richardson went from Dundee to Toledo only three years since and has succeeded in doing a fine business there.

We have received from the Northern Pacific Railway a copy of their new tourists' book entitled "Wonderland '98." It is certainly a literary gem, not only for tourists, but also valuable in the family for its general information and is also a complete geographical and historical compendium. It will be sent to any address for six cents by Chas. S. Fee, general freight and passenger agent of the above road, St. Paul, Minn.

"The business men of the village wish it distinctly understood that hereafter they postively will do no business nor be at their places of business on Sunday. A pledge to this effect has been signed by nearly every man representing a business in Morenci."—Observer. There would be just as many goods sold, people would be just as happy, and the reputation of the town much better if Addison business men would do likewise. One-seventh of the time is none too much for rest and change of occupation.—Clayton Record.

C. A. Slayton is originating a project which will be of incalculable value to the farmers of this section. It is no less than the erection of a grain elevator and cleaner at this station. Mr. Slayton will begin the construction soon and by next week we hope to be able to give the location and probable time of completion. By using a cleaner in the elevator, the farmers will be able to market their grain direct from the thresher without having to go to the trouble of running it through a fanning mill.

Jas. Shurtz Jr., was found dead yesterday in Evans creek just back of his father's place in Brownville. The deceased who was a man nearing middle age, had long been subject to violent fits. Yesterday he left the house in the afternoon and as it was the habit of the family to keep close watch of him, it was only a short time before he was missed and they went to look for him. He was found face down in the creek in about six inches of water, where he had undoubtedly fallen in a fit and drowned. The jury impaneled, brought in a verdict in accordance with the facts. The funeral will be held from the house to-morrow afternoon.

Children's Day was fittingly observed at the Presbyterian church last Sunday morning. Supt. J. T. Boyce had charge of the exercises given by the Sunday school. The church was nicely decorated and about 600 people were present. The little folks acquitted themselves most creditably. The primary class under the charge of Mrs. S. W. Anderson, sang a beautiful motion song. It was a very happy occasion and a pleasing exhibit of the work of the Sunday school. The large offering was devoted to the work of Presbyterian Sunday school missions.

At the M. E. church Sunday, June 12, the entire day was given up to the children. It is remarkable how all ages blend in the common delight of this modern anniversary of the second Sunday in June. The pastor was backed up with a bank of living flowers, happy children who were responsive in song and scripture reading and prayer. The sermon was "The Spider" It illustrated the skill, conscience, perseverance and industrious habits of this "insect that bites" which is not an insect nor does it bite or very rarely. The evening program was very excellent. The part of the program taken by the infant class and junior grade was exceptionally well rendered. The heavy rainstorm of the afternoon continued through the evening and depleted considerably the attendance.

FINE STRUCTURE BURNED.

The Case Power Building at Detroit Is Destroyed with Its Contents.

OTHER BUSINESS HOUSES ARE DAMAGED

The Property Loss Will Reach a Total of $200,000, But Is Insured for Two-Thirds of That Sum—Six Firemen Are Burned and Otherwise Injured.

Detroit, June 12.—Fire early Saturday destroyed the Case Power building, in Congress street, west, with all its contents, and threatened and in some cases damaged some of the finest business structures in this city. The total damage will be upward of $200,000. It is not believed that the insurance will exceed two-thirds of the loss. Six firemen were severely burned and cut by glass. They are:

Sheehan, Lieut. M. J., of engine company 6.
Fisher, Henry, fireman.
Hockaday, Joseph, fireman.
Kennedy, Thomas, fireman.
Kenyon, James T., fireman.
Simmons, Edward, fireman.

The fire was discovered at three o'clock, having originated on the fourth floor, in the drying-room of the Davidson Pipe and Novelty company, around some ovens used for enameling purposes. It spread with extraordinary rapidity and at five o'clock the structure was in ruins. The interior construction of the seven-story building was almost entirely of wood and furnished easy food for the flames. The buildings across the alley in the rear and on the opposite side of Congress street were for a time endangered, but by rapid work were saved, excepting that the spire of old St. Paul's Episcopal church, at Congress and Shelby streets, was partially burned and the front of the Wayne County Savings Bank building slightly damaged.

The main part of the Case building was new, but adjoining, separated by a fire wall, was a four-story annex. Several people were asleep in that side of the building, but all were gotten out quickly and safely. George F. Case valued his building at $100,000. It is insured for something over half that value. The loss on machinery and contents owned by tenants is estimated at about $100,000, the largest being the Wheeler Bicycle Saddle company, $40,000. The occupants were the following: Morrison Printing company, Morgan & Whateley, shirt waist manufacturers; Babbitt & Graham, hosiery; Davidson Pipe and Novelty company, Parish & Brother, Turner & Ralston Printing company, George H. Hall & Son, sponging works; Michigan Farmer Printing office, John F. Eby Printing company, Wing & Staub, printers; Burpee Manufacturing company, Pearl Button Manufacturing company and the American Cash Register company. In the Case building annex were Parrish Brothers, electrical supplies; Frank Walsh, Plumbers' Novelty Manufacturing company, William Sperry company, railroad supplies, and several small offices, besides a number of roomers. T. D. Buhl estimates the loss on his annex building at $16,000, well insured. The main Buhl building was damaged to the extent of $10,000. Occupants of the Buhl offices sustained some losses by water.

Tax Law Attacked.

Lansing, June 15.—The Fort Street Union Depot company, Detroit, on Tuesday attacked the constitutionality of the Merriman law for the taxation of railroad companies, enacted by the last legislature. The company claims that the provision amending the law of 1881, under which it is incorporated, is not covered by the title of the new act. Assuming the new law to be constitutional, Railroad Commissioner Wesselius has taxed the company at the rate of eight per cent. on its gross earnings, whereas the law of 1881 provides for but 2½ per cent. The case will be argued next Monday.

War Bonds on Sale.

Lansing, June 13.—State Treasurer Steel will receive bids until noon June 20 for $100,000 of three per cent. war bonds, at par and accrued interest. Bonds will be dated July 1, interest payable semiannually, due May 1, 1908, but payable at the pleasure of the state after May 1, 1903. They will be issued in denominations of $100 or $1,000 and will be delivered in Lansing or Detroit at option of the purchasers.

Big Fruit Shipments.

Benton Harbor, June 14. — The shipment of fruit out of this port Monday night was the heaviest ever known in the memory of old shippers. President J. H. Graham, of the steamboat line, says the shipment doubled anything he had ever witnessed since he has been in the business, nearly 25 years. Six boats now ply between this port and Chicago and Milwaukee markets.

Railroads Pay More Taxes.

Lansing, June 11.—According to an assessment made by Commissioner Wesselius railroad companies operating in Michigan will pay state taxes aggregating $945,150 this year, as against $203,075 in 1897. The increase in this year's revenue is due to the increase in rates provided by the Merriman law enacted by the last legislature.

Banker Arrested.

CUPID IN A BOTTLE.

The Ohio River Assists a Lonely Young Woman to Find a Husband.

Miss Edna House, of Bromley, near Cincinnati, was an ambitious young woman, who on one September afternoon became tired of single blessedness and resolved to secure herself a husband.

She cast a bottle upon the waves of the Ohio, in which, before sealing, she had placed a note which read:

"The finder of this will please correspond with me at once. I am lonely because the Bromley boys are too slow.

"EDNA HOUSE."

The missive danced along until it was lost to sight, and the young damsel had almost forgotten its existence when one day a month later she received a note from John Eggleston, a farmer of North Bend, Ky., which stated that he had found the bottle and intended to comply with the note found therein. He did so, and an exchange of photographs followed.

Shortly afterward Bromley people were startled by the appearance one Sunday afternoon of a new rig in front of the House homestead, and investigation revealed the fact that Eggleston had come to make the acquaintance of Miss House. Since then frequent visits have been made, and the gossips of the town predicted a speedy union of the two young hearts.

The expectations were realized one day lately when Eggleston arrived in town dressed in his best, and soon the two were seen wending their way toward the office of Squire Anderson, where they were married.

NERVE OF A BOLD DRUMMER.

He Compelled a Railroad to Haul Him in a Private Car to Sioux Falls, S. D.

His bold defiance of a railway corporation procured M. T. McNeil the honor of a special car recently from Fort Dodge, Ia., to Sioux Falls, S. D. McNeil is a Chicago traveling man. A few days ago he bought a ticket over the Illinois Central from Chicago to Sioux Falls and engaged a berth in a sleeper for the entire trip. At Fort Dodge, however, it was decided to turn the train around and run it back to Chicago—a plan occasionally adopted when travel is light. This compels the Sioux Falls passengers to rise early and change cars. McNeil was accordingly aroused, advised as to the situation and peremptorily required to hurry on his clothes and leave the sleeper. But not he. He would ride to Sioux Falls in that sleeper, he declared, or go back to Chicago with it. And then let the Illinois Central look out for a damage suit. The conductor offered to pay his passenger's hotel bill until another sleeper arrived or do anything else in reason to accommodate him. The traveling man stuck for his rights and the officials finally wired to headquarters for instructions. On orders received from there the car was then carried through to Sioux Falls with McNeil its only occupant.

SPARROWS KILL A POLECAT.

The Ferocious Little Birds Riddle the Animal's Hide With Their Bills.

"You have often heard of the ferocity of birds, no doubt," said William Anderson, a hardy old woodsman who lives on the lower Ohio, reports the Louisville Post, "but I doubt if you ever heard of birds attacking and killing an animal that one would imagine could whip three or four fierce curs. While hunting down in the flats near the mouth of Green river several years ago I saw a large and fierce skunk beat an ignominious retreat after trying in vain to best several English sparrows and later, when the skunk has screwed his courage up to the sticking point again, I saw those same insignificant-looking little birds tear the animal to shreds. When my attention was first attracted the sparrows were flying from one side of the thicket to the other, twittering like mad. When I went to learn the cause the skunk, badly frightened, was dodging from one side to the other of a log, trying to escape the savage attacks of the feathered tribe. The birds didn't mind me, but kept dashing their little bills into the skunk's well-punctured hide. When the skunk started across an open space to the cover of nearby driftwood his tormentors pounced upon him and riddled the poor cat's hide."

DENTISTS AND THE KLONDIKE.

Gold Seekers Wisely Have Their Teeth Attended to Before They Start for Alaska.

"Do you know," said a New York dentist, "that this rush to the Klondike has made a perceptible increase in our incomes? And it's all very natural, too. Those who intend to visit the newly discovered gold regions realize that the part of their bodies most likely to be affected if they manage to keep from freezing and starvation will be their teeth. Consequently they rush to us and have them thoroughly examined. The slightest imperfection is attended to. If the teeth are decayed to such an extent that they cannot be filled with gold, why, the prospective tourist promptly has them pulled out. No expense is spared, as they are all anxious to have their teeth in the best possible condition before undertaking the journey, so they can withstand any kind of climate. Now it's not hard to see how much the profession has benefited by this state of affairs. My case is only one instance. Only this morning I had a party of six in here, and from the superficial examination made I estimate about $250 from the crowd."

STATE SOVEREIGNTY.

A Dogma Now as Dead as the Proverbial Door Nail.

How President McKinley Evaded a Difficulty Which Made the War of 1812 Almost a Complete Failure.

[Special Washington Letter.]

WITH marvelous promptitude, engendered by universal patriotic ardor, the plain people of this republic volunteered and have been mustered into service, while the ranks of the regular army have been filled with the strong young men of the republic, and a quarter of a million of our people within one month were prepared for the actual conflict and combat of war.

Few of our people who have witnessed the development of the army of volunteer soldiers have given time and attention to the study of the subject from a constitutional standpoint. In this age it is taken as a matter of course that upon the call of the president the people shall respond without hesitation and without inquiry. This was not always the case in our republic, for it is in the memory of living men that the governors of sovereign states have refused to call their state militia organizations into the federal services at the request of the constitutional commander-in-chief of the army and navy.

The doctrine of state sovereignty was promulgated from the beginning of the history of the republic, and the defenders of that interpretation of the constitution were among the strongest men in the forensic arena of congress. It was the doctrine of state sovereignty that really brought about the civil war. That doctrine was finally interpreted by the supreme court of battle, and upon many fields, in the deadly grapple between the sections, it was decided that the United States government is a national government and not a separable confederacy. It was settled by the civil war that the sovereign states of this republic are all of them subordinate to the general government at Washington; although each of the sovereign states retains its independent characteristics and maintains its independent functions, just as thoroughly as before the civil war, just as completely as though there had been no civil war.

We owe it to the doctrine of state sovereignty that the Dominion of Canada is not an integral portion of this republic. We owe it to the doctrine of state sovereignty that our northern boundary is fixed at the great lakes and the St. Lawrence instead of at the north pole. It was because of the doctrine of state sovereignty that the governors of the New England states refused to respond to the call of President Madison, when, on June 19, 1812, he declared this country to be at war with Great Britain and her dependencies.

It will be news to the younger readers, probably, that the doctrine of state sovereignty was carried to this extent by the New England states so early in the history of the republic, because the prevailing impression seems to be that the doctrine of state sovereignty was put forth and maintained by the people of the southern states, who finally fought for that doctrine during four years of a most bloody war; a war carried on, on both sides, by brave American soldiers. Such, however, is the case, and, instead of considering the confederates as the first rebels against the government at Washington, we must know and remember that Roger Griswold, governor of Connecticut, was the first rebel, and that his defiance of federal supremacy was sustained by the people of his state.

If it had not been for the recalcitrancy of the New England men the war of 1812 would have been concluded with the loss of Canada by England and the annexation of that territory by the United States; because the young republic achieved ultimate victory in that war and was able to dictate terms of peace. The philosophers of history have often speculated upon the possibilities which might have resulted if the doctrine of state sovereignty had not been sprung upon the republic at that time. It is fairly assumed that, by this time, the republic of the United States would have extended from the frozen fields of the arctic regions unto the Isthmus of Panama.

When President James Madison declared war the republic was as unprepared for that event as it was when war was declared against Spain. There was ample cause for the war and the commander-in-chief never doubted for a moment that all of the people of this republic would promptly and enthusiastically sustain him. There was an enormous extent of frontier on the northern and northwestern lines to be defended against British regulars, Canadian militia and the Indians. The region northwest of the Mississippi was a wilderness. The Atlantic seaboard was almost defenseless. Against the greatest of all naval powers the young American republic presented 16 frigates, ships and armed brigs, 165 gunboats, and hastily constructed forts thrown up during the Indian wars and the otherwise exciting times between 1798 and 1807.

The United States army was mainly on paper. It is described by the historian McMaster as consisting "of the ten old regiments with ranks half filled and scattered all over the country on garrison duty; that on paper consisted of 13 new regiments of regulars to be enlisted for the conquest of Canada, the 50,000 volunteers yet to be raised, and the 100,000 militia to be detached from the states and mustered into the service of the United States. Enlistments for the regular army began in March. Every man who enlisted for five years was given a bounty of $16 down and was promised food, clothing and five dollars per month; and at the end of the time of service $15 and 160 acres of land. Yet when June came, though no full returns had been made, it was well known that 4,000 soldiers had not been secured."

The same historian shows that the first secession was not in the south, but in the shadow of Bunker Hill. The historian records that from Massachusetts were asked 41 companies, to be scattered along the coast from Newport, in Rhode Island, to Castine and Machias. From Connecticut five companies were required, some to do duty at New London and some to man the battery on New Haven bay. But Roger Griswold, then governor of Connecticut, declared that the call was unconstitutional, and he did not heed it. The federal constitution, he held, named three purposes, and but three, for which the president could call on the states to furnish militia. These three were "to repel invasion, to put down insurrection and to execute the laws of the United States." No state was invaded; no insurrection was going on; no laws were being defied. The call could not, therefore, legally and constitutionally be made. Had any of these conditions existed, the action of the president would still have been unlawful, for while the constitution provided that militia should be commanded by officers chosen by the states, those now wanted were to be commanded by United States officers at Fort Trumbull. Holding such views, Griswold at once summoned his council of state, laid the whole matter before them, and asked what to do. The council, consisting of the lieutenant governor and 12 assistants, was the upper house of the state legislature, and voted that the governor's views were correct, and urged him not to comply with the requisition of the secretary of war.

The governors of Rhode Island and Massachusetts did likewise. They stood upon the doctrine of state sovereignty and refused to permit their state militia to serve under the command of United States army officers. Their conduct today seems unaccountable. By their refusal to aid the federal government they minimized the results of the war. Canada remained a British possession. They also gave such strength to the doctrine of state sovereignty that 50 years elapsed before the extreme interpretation of that doctrine was surrendered, at the close of a dreadful civil war.

Although there is no danger of opposition from any source at this time, President McKinley wisely solved the doctrine of state sovereignty; and did it so quietly that public attention was not called to that subject. He did not leave it to the governors of the states to decide the matter. He did not ask for the aid of the state militia to carry on a national war. He asked for volunteers, to be mustered into the service of the United States, for the plain purpose of going to war with Spain. The support of the volunteers was not accepted until they were sworn in as volunteers of the United States army. If President Madison had pursued that course there could have been no discussion of the constitution and no question raised concerning the presidential prerogative in time of war.

The people who read the proclamation of the president, the governors of the several states, and the men who volunteered, never stopped to think of the doctrine of state sovereignty. They came from the north, the south, the east and the west, responding to their country's call. They have formed into columns, battalions, regiments, brigades and army corps, all under the flag with a common patriotic purpose. There has been no controversy whatever. This fact is worthy of emphasis, for it demonstrates forever that the dogma which so long caused infernal dissensions in this country is as dead as a door nail. We have reached that point of history of which Webster dreamed and declaimed, where we have "Liberty and union; now and forever; one and inseparable."

HOW IT SPREADS.

People all ovar Michigan Talking about it.

How it spreads.
Can't keep a "good thing" down.
Ever notice how "good things" are imitated?
Better the article, more imitators.
Fortunately the public has a safe guard.
Praise can't be imitated.
And true praise takes root and spreads.
Claim is one thing, proof is another.
Claim is what the manufacturer says.
Proof is what the people say.
Everywhere in Michigan people say Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys.
Cure all kidney ills.

W. S. Kilmer, Passenger Engineer on the M. C. Ry. residing at No. 214 Orange St., Jackson, Mich., says: "In 1895 I had considerable trouble with my kidneys from the result of a severe cold which settled there and though I tried every means at hand and treated with doctors the pains through the small of my back became more persistent and severe. To add to my troubles the kidney secretions were unnatural and irregular. At last I was obliged to lay off work. When at home getting no better under the treatment I was then taking, some one advised me to use Doan's Kidney Pills and I procured a box more out of curiosity than from any expectation that they might help me. Now I want this thoroughly understood, when I finished the box I went back to work without a pain or an ache. But to make matters doubly certain I took a second box. Since that time, and that is three years ago, I have neither had an ache nor a pain. Is it any wonder that at this date, 1898, I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

The GRAPHOPHONE

The most fascinating invention of the age. Always ready to entertain. It requires no skill to operate it and reproduce the music of bands, orchestras, vocalists or instrumental soloists. There is nothing like it for an evening's entertainment at home or in the social gathering. You can sing or talk to it and it will reproduce immediately and as often as desired, your song or words.

Other so-called talking machines reproduce only records of cut and dried subjects, specially prepared in a laboratory; but the Graphophone is not limited to such performances. On the Graphophone you can easily make and instantly reproduce records of the voice, or any sound. This it constantly awakens new interest and its charm is ever fresh. The reproductions are clear and brilliant.

Graphophones are sold for $10 and up
